LAKE ONTARIO APPLES CARRY OFF BIG SHARE OF "EX" PRIZES

Showing of Fruit Best in Years, But Mostly From Port Hope Area.

LIST OF WINNERS.

Apples from orchards along Lake Ontario between Cobourg and Port Hope bulked the fruit exhibit to unusually large proportions. Fred Dixon, Wm. J. Oke, A. P. Pollard, Edward Rowe and H. W. Wilson carried off the most of the prize money in this department, presenting a display of apples and pears that has not been equalled here in many years. They combed the whole class, and the only outstanding local grower was Clifford Hancock of Smith township, who won first prize for the best collections of dessert and cooking apples. Rice Lake apples generally prominent and numerous on the show tables of the Peterboro Fair seem rather scarce this year.

Walter Oke after posting the prize winners said the display was exceptionally good for this district, but he expressed a regret that more fruit was not grown on local farms. The provincial department of agriculture and the farmers of this county had for many years neglected fruit growing, and apparently few were willing to take it up as a branch of farm production.

A. E. PREST'S GLADIOLI AWARDED FIRST FOR FINEST COLLECTION

Also Won First Prize For Best Ten or More Varieties.

JUDGE'S COMMENT.

"A splendid collection of flowers for this time of the year" was the tribute paid to the flower show at the Exhibition by Mr. George Baldwin, F.R.H.S. of Toronto, who completed the judging of the exhibits in this department Wednesday afternoon. And those who know Mr. Baldwin's reticences will testify that praise from him is praise indeed. This was his third visit to Peterboro almost within a month, first to judge the lawns, and again as arbiter at the Horticultural Society's recent show.

Mr. Baldwin compliments the citizens of Peterboro and its district upon the interest they take in flowers, especially the practical interest of growing them and thereby helping to beautify their homes and their lives.

Mr. Baldwin was particularly pleased with the display of gladioli, and incidentally remarked that Peterboro should realize the importance from a horticultural viewpoint of the Canadian Gladiolus Society's exhibition here next year. One of the spikes which he singled out yesterday for special mention was the light canary yellow "Souvenir" in the exhibit of the Cedar Nurseries of Whitby. He also commented on the floral designs in the professional section, explaining why he set Jos. Grierson's entry down to third place, behind the Peterboro Floral company's first prize wreath and W. H. Young's second prize anchor. He commended Mr. Grierson's design in its general outline, but pointed out that in its detail of flowers there was a clash of colors which spoiled the general effect of the harp displayed on a pedestal.

Another spike which appealed to the arbiter and to the directors was the richly shaded spike named "Olive May" in A. E. Prest's collection. The color of this "glad" baffles description, but it seems a light bluish shade with a purple touch, and a splash of rich red that would be crimson except that it appears washed by both the major colors of purple and blue. It is understood that Mr. Prest grew this spike from a seedling and named it himself.

W. H. Young's anchor is fashioned of pure white phlox with pink roses near the tips and light veins of forget-me-nots showing through the ivory phlox. Its simplicity was its highest charm. The judge's awards follow:

GOLDEN WEDDING

years ago. It is a comfortable home, fitted up with andirons and old-fashioned fireplace, which were in operation on Monday evening as they had been of yore. On the floor in front of the fireplace, in brass letters, counter-sunk in the stone, are the words, "Home, Sweet Home." This was the second house of that material built in Brighton Township, and the bricks used in its construction were made on the spot from the clay excavated from the cellar. The successful rival to the Orser home was erected one mile east of Brighton by Clinton Lawson, but has long since fallen into ruins.

For over seventy years the Methodist Episcopal Church, a modest log structure, stood on the Orser homestead, while the Wesleyans had their meeting house a short distance to the west.

Mr. Orser inherited the musical talents of his forbears. It is said of him that he could play the melodian fairly well by ear when he was so small that he had to be lifted by his elders upon the stool. Later in life he made a thorough study of music, and was an expert performer on both organ and piano, until a few years ago, when his hands became partially crippled with rheumatism.

Mrs. Orser, whose maiden name was Eneta Newcombe, is a daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. James Newcombe, who at the time of her marriage ran the mill at Orland. She was born on July 30, 1857.

Mr. and Mrs. Orser were married at the bride's home on September 14, 1875, by Rev. James M. Simpson, of Brighton, who was a particular friend of Mr. Orser's father.

Mr. Orser played and Mrs. Orser sang for over thirty years in both the churches spoken of above. In the morning in one, and in the evening in the other, and remained in that capacity for years after the two congregations were united. The wedding cake at the jubilee was served in a silver cake basket presented to Mrs. Orser 47 years ago by the congregation of the Wesleyan Church as an expression of appreciation of her friendly helpfulness.

Hon. G. N. Gordon of Peterboro is a nephew of Mrs. Orser's, and while unable to attend the jubilee, tendered his regrets and sent his aunt a ten-dollar gold piece. Mrs. Orser also received five dollars in gold from Mr. Gordon's mother, Mrs. J. W. Gordon of Toonto. Ten dollars in gold from Mrs. William Riesberry, of Winnipeg. A ten-dollar piece from the Codrington Women's Institute, and a purse of money from the people of the neighborhood, containing twenty dollars in gold. Mr. and Mrs. Munroe Dudley, Dundonall, five dollars in gold.

Mr. and Mrs. Orser are still well and active and able to attend to their farm duties, and while they are optimistic and naturally cheerful, have not been altogether free from shadows and sorrow. To them were born about thirty years ago one son, James Hulbert, who passed away at a little over two years, and one daughter, Eneta Alberta, who lived only thirteen days.

During the evening Mr. and Mrs. Orser sang "When you and I were young, Maggie." Short addresses were given by Munro Dudley, Aaron Clark, Rev. J. F. Everson, Benjamin Buchanan and Maurice Ames, while music was furnished by Mrs. Eldred Cameron and Miss Louise Goodfellow.

Those present from a distance were: Mrs. Clarence Dudley and family, Colborne; Mr. and Mrs. Munro Dudley, Dundonall; Mr. and Mrs. Clinton Terril and Mr. and Mrs. Aaron Clarke, Wooler; Mr. and Mrs. William Jordan and Miss Maggie, Campbellford; Miss Annie Haight, Picton; Mr. and Mrs. Ben. Buchanan, Mrs. James Armstrong, Mrs. Bert Armstrong, Mr. and Mrs. W. J. Harper, Mr. and Mrs. Barringer, Warkworth.

Following is the address, which was read by Mrs. Aubrey Woof:

Dear Mr. and Mrs. Orser, — We, the members of the Codrington Women's Institute, the Orser neighborhood and your many friends and relatives, wish to congratulate you, on this the eve of your Golden Wedding day. We wish you all the good things that were showered upon you fifty years ago. May the remainder of your married life contain double the joy of the years you have already spent together.

Mrs. Orser, we Institute members find this an excellent opportunity to remind those present of the great help and encouragement you have given and still are to our organization. In the work of the Institute you have done your share. When this local branch was organized nearly fifteen years ago, you were honored by being made the first president. You became district president, and held that office for a number of years, and you are now an honorary and life member of the institution. To show our appreciation of your work and never-failing enthusiasm, we ask you to accept this gift with our most sincere thanks and good wishes.

We your neighbors and friends have also assembled to-night to warmly and sincerely thank you both, for the benefit you have been in building up and maintaining the ideals of our neighborhood. The Orser's were the first settlers here, and hence the name given to our community.

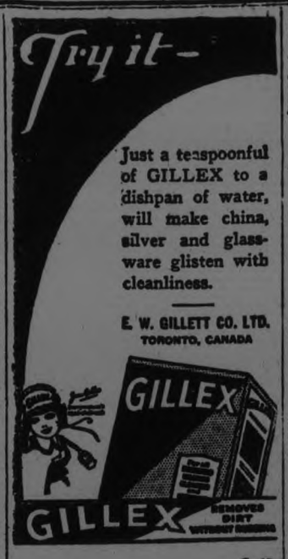
For a great many years you both sang in our church choir, being responsible for leadership as well as for helping. Your voices indeed have been heard far and wide, and your songs have reached many hearts, and will be remembered long after they are heard no more.

Kindly accept this token from us as an expression of thanks for your helpfulness and the kindly spirit you have shown through the many years you have labored with us.

It is our sincerest hope that we may be present ten years from now to help you celebrate your 60th anniversary.

Hoping that God will see fit to bestow upon you his richest blessings in health happiness and love.

Signed,
Codrington Women's Institute.
Your Many Neighbors and Friends.



CHILDREN'S EXHIBITION

novelty acrobat act, were clever, quick performers in a series of balancing stunts; Fiem and his Pal, the pal being a whimsical-minded donkey, aroused great merriment between them; the Salones had a ladder act, with a thrilling ride on a revolving bar, and the Three Athletes were an interesting trio, with a skilful balancing turn.

Another gentleman who was not on the official programme, but who added greatly to the fun of the afternoon and evening entertainment was the clown policeman, an energetic applauder of the various acts and a real mirth-making attraction in himself.

Mental Telepathy.

The wind-up of this afternoon's programme was the appearance of the Great Francois, doing his blindfolded drive around the track. The driver, as in his last Saturday's demonstration on the city streets, depended solely for guidance of his machine on the mental impressions received from his passengers, all of whom had been enjoined to strict silence. No instructions or words were spoken by them to the driver, who made his way at a high rate of speed around the track, heavy from last night's rain, while blindfolded. Mr. Webber Turner pinned the cotton and the thick bandages securely around Francois' head and over his eyes, fastening it with adhesive tape and pins, and he made the turns with skilful ease, dodging mud puddles and negotiating curves just as his passengers thought of them, his mind appearing to be only a slight jump behind that of his quartette of silent riders. As an example of mental telepathy, carried to a high degree, it was thrilling. With Francois in the car were an Examiner representative, and Messrs. R. W. Cameron, Thomas Brown and Reg. H. Turner.

Children's Races.

The programme of children's races and sports for senior members, competing for trophies, were under supervision of Mr. G. H. Roper and Mr. D. Loomis, assisted by a corps of willing helpers, including W. H. Dicken, who kept the score. The children entered into the various events with much enthusiasm, every race being well contested, the different heats of the balloon races calling forth a great deal of mind power and fierce determination. The girls' nail-driving contest, an extremely interesting affair, was carried out to the accompaniment of the merry strains of "Honest and Truly" and "Katherina," played by the Al Sweet Band, whose music had a staccato accompaniment in the hammers which seemed to keep time to the swift movements.

The following were prize-winners:

Girls, 7-10 years, 25-yard dash—1 Jean Wilson, 2 Ilene Bowler, 3 Louise Hefferman.

Boys, 12 years, 50-yards dash—1 Jack Wolstenholm, 2 Roland Asquith, 3 Jack Gardner.

Boys, 15 years, 50-yard dash — 1 Ted Dormer, 2 Chas. Dorrington, 3 Alistair Adams.

Girls' nail-driving contest—King George School.

Boys' balloon race, 10 years — 1 Frank Spencely, 2 Robert Darcey, 3 Harry Marsh.

NEW EXHIBITS IN BUILDINGS AT THE FAIR

VARIED DISPLAY.

Manufacturers' and Main Buildings Have Exceptional Interest This Season.

In the Manufacturers' Building are displays that reflect credit on their designers and on the firms they represent. Every section is filled and evedy one is attractive in the extreme.

At one entrance, on the right, is the Canadian Packing Company's display, simple but very effective; a corner section done in black and white latticed design, with a border of red roses outlining the archesin the upper background. Behind this are pails of the famous "Rose Brand" lard and hams and rolls of bacon. Just below, in the place of honor, all alone on a sawdust flooring, is a fat porker, life like in a coating of pinkish wax, with an apple in his mouth.

Next door is the "Gyproc" showing of the Peterboro Lumber Company with their slogan, "Why build to burn?" the walls showing panels of this fireproof wallboard, and farther on, the De Laval Company has a section, showing their milkers and cream separators, with booth decorations of flags and ferns.

The Canada Starch Company, Limited, has a demonstrator to display the excellencies of their Mazola oils and mayonnaised dressings, with a well-arranged background of molasses and syrups and starches.

The Heintzman Company, in a luxurious section done with flags and rugs and easy chairs, show various types of their pianos, in a baby grand and upright model, also player pianos and Victrolas and Sonoras. Miss Agnes Logan and Mr. Chas. Peaker will play at this booth during the coming days of the Fair.

The Nu-Art Kera Tile Company of New Toronto have an especially artistic exhibit, showing their new thirty inch papers in various designs, with bordered panels resembling rugs. Trebilcock Brothers are local agents for these papers.

A Cosy Kitchen.

A cosy interior is that of the "Economy electric kitchen", a portion of the double-booth display of the Utilities Commission. Here is a lady to demonstrate the fine cooking properties of McClary's electric range, and there are also on view electric washers, a flat rate electric water heater, a Hurley washing machine and a "baby grand" ironer.

The A. McDonald Lumber Company shows samples of Brantford roofings, wooden doors and sashes and bruce-oak flooring, and next to them is the big exhibit by the Quaker Oats Company, with a puffed rice machine in operation, and a full display of the company's output in the way of rolled oats, health bran, macaroni, and poultry feeds and mashes.

The Bell Telephone Company has something new in the way of telephone convenience, in a demonstration of the "telephone repeater," a device for relaying sound waves in long distance calls, in such a fashion as to carry the voice on clearly over very long distances.

The Grafton Company have their usual attractively arranged display of mens' and youths' clothing of various types, including the "blue beauty suit," against a green and black checkered background.

The central section is fronted by the long portion devoted to a showing of the Peterboro Canoe Company's goods, in slender canoes and skiffs equipped with outboard motors, also skiis and toboggans. The Maple Leaf Milling Company shows poultry feeds and flours, in the Monarch and Silver Moon brands, with three wonderfully frosted cakes, executed by Messrs. Potvin, Coleman and French respectively, whose correctly guessed weight will bestow them on lucky citizens.

Messrs. Wm. Lech and Sons have a display of beautiful, rich furs, in coats and neckpieces, silver fox chokers, ermine scarves and novelties in the brown and mauve tints of the Thibetine pieces.

The Brinton Carpet Company displays beautiful rugs of various types in a rich interior decorated with gladioli, and the Post Office Department has a double section, one portion devoted to lantern slides of an educational nature, illustrative of postal activities, and the second fitted up with various devices in use in a postal station, such as sorting racks, letters boxes, stamping machines and post boxes. It is the intention of the local office to bring the seven o'clock collection to their booth here to be sorted and made ready for delivery. Messrs. C. Stewart and C. Richardson are in charge.

Outside the main entrance of the Manufacturers' Building is the small tent where the Easy Washing Machine Company shows samples of its wares.

Main Building

The Main Building is without an Annex this year, but the exhibits on view are particularly good, impressing the observer with their careful attention to richness in color and design.

At the right of the main entrance, Grant and Thorpe have "everything electrical," in a bright lighted corner where an electric grate a washer and dryer, an electric stove, and a radiophone are on view. Next door is the F. L. Roy Studio display, with a novelty in an exclusive new series of aerial photographs of Peterboro and the Lake district, effective overhead views in black and white photograph. There are also some splendid heads, bride pictures, lovely colored photographs of the babies' pictures in which Mr. Roy excels, and a varied assortment of out of the way things; a marine railway, enlarged snapshots of Camp Ahmek in Algonquin Park, a big fishing catch, etc.

Many Fine Exhibits.

The Cressman Company have a very attractive section done in Oriental design, with a Moorish interior of roof and ceiling rugs, the display interspersed with floor lamps, brazen urns and odd china plates. Messrs. R. Hall and Son, across the way have a bedroom interior, with a lady in pretty lingerie reclining in a rose-draped couch, its companion done in blue. Draped windows, ferns and a model in green coat with black fur trimming complete a pretty interior.

A corner sale of fancy jewellery hobnobs with the Boy Scouts' exhibit, with the Scout motto, "Our Law is the Scout Law," descriptive posters, and a number of fine little models of scout bridges and huts, a little scout camp, complete from evergreen foliage to tiny white tent, a picture of Mayor Turner, drawn by a Scout member, a clay log cabin, executed by the Wolf Patrol, a Scout camp kitchen, by the Raven Patrol of Ashburnham, and some interesting examples of different hitches and knots in ropes. The scouts, who endeavor to find lost children on the grounds, or lost and stolen articles, also have a red and white tent, with Scout literature, just behind the Main Building on the grounds.

The Turnbull Company have confined their exhibit this year to a very fine display of rugs, displayed artistically with lengths of rose and blue material and ferns. The Barrie Store, its blue walls panelled with mirrors, shows furs. An overhead border of pelts decorates the wall and there are some luxurious garments, including a number of coats, in caracul, mole grey squirrel and leopard skin. A showcase holds silver fox skin.

The exhibit by J. R. Brownlee, the blind worker, is as interesting as usual, and shows his fine handiwork in reed and cane baskets and trays and work boxes. Mr. Brownlee is a very generous contributor to the prize list this year, contributing no less than eleven pieces for prizes in the ladies' section.

Across the way from Mr. Brownlee is the Singer Machine exhibit, with wall decoration of happy family posters and several electrically-equipped sewing machine on view.

Near the stairs is a new departure in the section in charge of the Canadian National Railways, who have put in a complete telegraph equipment, with facilities for sending messages and messenger boys to deliver them.

Ladies' Section.

Upstairs in the Main Building is the Art Display and Ladies' work section, with stairway and walls decorated with the very attractive posters illustrative of Y.W.C.A. activities. There are preserved fruits and jellies and some very nice-looking bread on view here, and a wonderful collection of fancy work, with some very interesting work done by ladies over seventy-five years of age. Inlaid trays and fruit comportes, the work of returned soldiers, are another interesting item in the display.

Fine work in linen for bedroom and dining room in tatted and crocheted effects and in dainty silks; charming things for the baby; hooked rugs and spreads, the latter featuring the appliqued natural linen type; quilts in patchwork of gay colors; trays and tea cloths and table mats and coseys, are all in evidence. One especially pretty cloth is in natural linen, with filet lace edge, while another has a raised design in woollen flowers of mauve and yellow and white. A novelty in this section is a stand, the work of Mrs. W. T. Arnott, R.R. No. 5, Otonabee, composed entirely of broken pieces of china, held in cement, gilded over, the corners topped by ornamental colored glass marbles.

The art section does not seem as large as usual this year. There are pretty things in crayons and in oils and water colors, with a pretty plaque of pansies, a bunch of carnations against a green background, and a richly-colored spray of gladioli blossoms.

An exhibit of much interest is that of the schools of the city, also located in this upper room. The household Science Departments of the various schools and of the Peterboro Collegiate Institute is on view, in fine needlework that illustrates admirably the attention paid to this excellent section of the school curriculum. The girls have done some splendid work in their carefully-wrought little dresses and aprons and blouses, both plain and embroidered, and the boys are not far behind in their showing of Manual Training class work; with wooden models of animals and useful things like lamp standards and jardiniere holders. There is a miniature of a dinghy, with sails spread and a model of Mr. Jiggs in a happy mood. Here also are graphs of shelf brackets and picture frames and work of the juniors, in pencil and crayon drawings and silhouettes.

LAKEFIELD, Sept. 15. — On Friday night about 12.30 a severe electric storm burst over the village, and while not as violent as Wednesday night's storm, did some damage to the electric wires and caused a lack of power for a couple of hours. Old inhabitants say that Wednesday night's storm was the worst in their experience.

MOUNT JULIAN, Sept. 17. — Word has recently been received here of the death of two sisters of Mr. Charles Lauder. On Aug. 13 Kate Lauder, widow of the late William Robertson of Montreal, died suddenly at the home of her son at "Creelman Farm," Waterloo, Que. She was 82 years of age. She is survived by two sons, David of Waterloo and William of Duluth.

On Sept. 6 Belle Lauder, widow of the late James Laurie of Montreal, passed away at the home of her daughter, Mrs. Robert Simpson, Montreal, after a long and protracted illness, at the advanced age of 95.

Mrs. Robertson and Mrs. Laurie were born and lived for several years a tRockburn, about fifty miles from Montreal. Since their marriage they resided in Montreal.

They had upon several occasions spent the summer months at the home of their brother, Mr. Charles Lauder, near Mt. Julian, and while here had won the respect and esteem of all who came in contact with them and gathered a large circle of friends.

One sister, Mrs. Creelman of Seattle, survives. The deepest sympathy of the community is extended to Mr. Lauder in his double bereavement.

THURSDAY, SEPT. 17, 1925.

CHILDREN'S DAY.

Over four thousand happy children yesterday enjoyed the Peterboro Industrial Exhibition, thanks to the action of the Directors in making it possible for the youngsters to see the big fair at a nominal admission price.

It was the most successful Children's Day since this policy was adopted, for although the weather was threatening in the early part of the day, the conditions were better than last year, and cloudy skies failed to keep the little folks away.

The spectacle of the grandstand crowded with happy, excited, bright-faced children, watching every event with eyes that threatened to pop out of their heads, was one of the features of the day.

It was a well-behaved, well-dressed army of youngsters that gave the impression that Peterboro must be a pretty good place in which to live, a city of homes where slum conditions are unknown and everyone has a fair chance to enjoy the comforts of life.

Children's Day has come to stay at the Peterboro Industrial, and the Directors are to be congratulated upon providing this opportunity for young Peterboro to enjoy itself.

1,000 MEMBERS WANTED.

Are there one thousand people in Peterboro and district who are willing to help the Peterboro Industrial Exhibition by becoming members for next year?

President Roland Denne believes that there are, and the Examiner is inclined to have the same opinion.

The moral and financial assistance of a membership of one thousand can readily be grasped.

It would facilitate the securing of Government grants, give the Directors the support of a large body of interested people, and result in a still more improved fair next year.

The annual membership fee is $2.00, and right now is the best possible time to join.

Tickets can be obtained at the Secretary's office at the Exhibition Grounds, and it would be a wonderful encouragement to President Denne and his hard-working Directors if between now and Saturday night the present membership of the Exhibition were to be augmented by a large number of enthusiastic recruits.

The Exhibition Board give freely of their time, money and energy to make this annual event a success, and it is scarcely fair that they should have to carry the whole burden.

Make it a membership of 1,000 for next year.

JAIL THE ONLY PLACE FOR THIS MAN.

There is one motorist, at least, at large in Ontario whose place is behind prison bars, and not at the wheel of an automobile.

The driver whose car crashed into a cyclist near Cornwall on Tuesday night, and who drove callously away, leaving his victim fatally injured on the highway, is little short of a murderer.

The accident itself might have been unavoidable—the facts are not known—but the man in the driver's seat of the automobile must have known that he had hit a fellow-being, yet he deliberately sped on his way with no thought of summoning assistance for the man he had struck down.

The public will sincerely hope that the guilty motorist will be apprehended, and that he be given the severest penalty that the law prescribes for such cases.

There is always sympathy for a driver who gets into an accident through circumstances that are beyond his control, but there can be nothing but censure for the cowardice and callousness displayed by the man responsible for this Cornwall tragedy who refused even to stop and see if he had killed somebody.

People of that calibre are certainly not fit to be at large on the highways of this Province.

ON THE WAY TO A RECORD.

Yesterday started the move to the highest mark on record—nearly 6,000 paid admissions being registered in the afternoon alone.

If the people of Peterboro do their part tomorrow and Saturday, the objective will be triumphantly exceeded.

And it should be exceeded, for this year's Exhibition has left its predecessors far in the rear as regards the merit and extent of exhibits and the multiplicity of entertainment features.

Money has been spent lavishly to secure these attractions, more money than ever before, because the Directors felt that the people of Peterboro and the district were entitled to the best entertainment that could be secured and were willing to support the Exhibition accordingly.

The huge midway carnival, the engagement of Al. Sweet's fine band, and the excellence of the vaudeville acts are proof of their desire to give Exhibition visitors something to remember.

That no mistake was made in deciding upon this policy the universal chorus of praise from yesterday's visitors left no doubt.

They were delighted with the Exhibition, and were not slow in saying so—and their satisfaction will undoubtedly be reflected in the attendance for the balance of the week.

ONTARIO STILL THE LEADER.

Hon. John Martin, Ontario's Minister of Agriculture, speaking at the Directors' luncheon at Western Fair, had no gloomy picture to paint of agricultural conditions in Ontario today, says the London Advertiser. In spite of all the publicity given to Western production, and it does run into impressive figures, Ontario remains the banner Province of the Dominion when it comes to rolling up grand totals, and the figure for this year the Minister gave as $500,000,000 for this Province.

Looking to the future, Mr. Martin is of the opinion that Ontario's marketing problem will find its solution to the south. This is not a hurried guess, but arrived at by reviewing the manner in which United States is approaching the point where it is ceasing to be an exporter of beef cattle, beef and wheat. Production has not kept pace with consumption. Even before the war this position was becoming apparent; in war years there was a great campaign for more production, and the result was there was a temporary check of the movement. Since the war the trend has been back to where it was in pre-war days.

Mr. Martin did not explain how the United States market would be made available to Ontario farm products, whether by a lessening or tariff obstruction to the natural flow of trade, or by placing certain lines on the free list. It would be too much to expect that he would go into detail on these points, but a fair inference from his remarks is that he considers the time fast approaching when the supply of and demand for food products in United States will be the dominating factor in determining Washington's tariff policy on these items.

The Minister of Agriculture had a word of warning for Ontario agriculturists in his open admission that his department viewed with serious regard the continued inroad of the corn borer, especially in Kent and Essex, and in some of the adjacent sections. There has never been a time when the man on the land was beset with more injurious insect life than now. Mr. Martin can be sure of support in every effort he makes to bring deliverance. It is a problem for the entomologist, backed by the determined effort of the Government and county and township officials. Ontario's corn crop is worth $4,000,000 a year, and if the corn borer is not driven out entirely, that figure is going to be seriously decreased. Mr. Martin has a serious task ahead of him, but he can go at it knowing that the only opponents he will have will be the corn borers themselves.

PROGRESS IN TURKEY.

Our energetic friend, President Mustapha Kemal, at once exemplifies and preaches progress. Hats for Turkish men, no veils for Turkish women; such is the path of civilization which he invites or commands his countrymen and countrywomen to take. Apparently they meekly did so. Revisiting Castambol, where he had preached the clothes gospel of progress, he was welcomed by crowds of women, for the first time in their lives unveiled of face in public; by crowds of men, all of whom had "shot" the fez, kalpak or turban of the days of unenlightenment before he had delivered his message to them, their heads now a solid block of straw hats. Standardized "headgear"; a barren sea of "straws"! Such is the price of progress.

Are the progressive Turks permitted to wear this badge of civilization after Sept. 15? The President enumerated among other crimes of the fez that it is not even indigenous but borrowed from the Greeks. He wore or waved a Panama. That is not national, but international. The hat is "international headgear." How about caps? The hat in Turkey is a protest against fundamentalism. The old objection to it was religious. A hat brim or a cap peak would prevent the worshipper from touching the ground. Besides, to doff one's pate protector in a mosque was blasphemy, and even in a private house a gross breach of good manners and an act of disrespect. So the fez, the peakless, brimless kalpak, the turban, prevailed. The best turbans were those of distant outlanders. The Turkish peasant has or had a sort of dirty handkerchief awkwardly tied around his head. The Kurds used to be copiously turbaned. Do they wear stovepipes now?

Gone is the dervish with his skyscraping brown sugar-loaf, rimless hat and flaming cloak. The fakir—but him, however garbed, the torrent of civilization won't wash away. For climatic reasons the hat, if it be a sensible hat, is desirable in Turkey, and perhaps it is no more uncomely than the fez. Official Turkey long ago donned European garb, except for the fez. Somebody has said that Turkish officials, bound to be "correct," used to look like English curates. Easier clothes have followed as civilization has spread. Neither for use nor for beauty can they compare with the old "picturesque costume." Those Anatolian peasants in blue and brown and white, how will they look in a soiled shirt and a pair of aged "pants"? There are several parts of London where Mustapha Kemal might study advantageously the relation between costume and civilization.

But all this is the business of the Turks, not ours. If they choose to uglify themselves in the Western manner, all right. There is one solid advantage of standardization of costume. It saves the West a great deal of money that otherwise would be spent on travel. The old national and provincial costumes have pretty well faded in Europe. Why should Asia be expected to keep up the color show? As for the Turkish women, persuaded to take off the veil, their own wish must have done the persuading. Unveiling their beauties to the mob, they show themselves progressive, Western, civilized. They are in the movement. They have emancipated their faces. It would be ungallant to say that this shows defective judgment on the part of some. Veiled, they were all mysterious and potentially lovely. Now the street knows the facts.—New York Times.

EDITORIAL NOTES AND COMMENT.

Let us make it 30,000 in 1925.

The attack on the attendance record is making rapid progress. Keep it moving tonight.

With both leaders down by the sea, the people in the Maritimes will not have much chance of hearing what the wild waves are saying.

The Exhibition opened with the bagpipes. And many a triumphal attack has started in the same way.

The old parties notwithstanding, the Western Progressives are declaring themselves right in the hunt by deciding to nominate candidates not only in the rural ridings but in the Western cities as well.

Agnes MacPhail, re-nominated for the Federal House, says she will take her full salary next session instead of taking $2,500 as in the past. Her first estimate of the value of her services will appeal to many people as more accurate than her present valuation.

MacMillan reports that birds of the northern wilds are heading south for the winter. The flight of the birds and the flight of coal prices are sure signs.—Detroit Free Press.

Henry Ford has taken a sudden interest in dancing. Well, it would make him more of a benefactor to the human race than ever if he would do something to standardize the steps.—New York Sun.

FLAMES BURST OUT AROUND MOTOR CAR

Considerable Excitement at Welcome When Gasoline Caught Fire.

WELCOME, Sept. 17.—There was considerable excitement for a short time on Monday afternoon when a truck that was being filled with gasoline at Mr. Martin's tank took fire around the engine.

In removing the nozzle of the gas tank gasoline was spilt freely on the clothes of the driver and Mr. Martin's verandah. This ignited and for a few seconds the scene was spectacular. Through prompt action of those around the flames were extinguished without any serious damage to any one.

School Fair Successful.

A very successful School Fair was held on Welcome School grounds. Three schools entered the parade—Welcome, Bunker Hill and Dale. Each wore distinctive costumes and carried a decorative banner.

Welcome had a small schoolhouse built and carried by the leaders. The drills were exceptionally well done. Welcome School won first place.

Morish School entered the competition for physical drill, and other schools entered on the other displays.

The Women's Institute of Morish had a booth on the grounds.

A THOUGHT.

SENTIMENT IN BUSINESS.

Sometime ago in one of the suburbs of Baltimore a man had a mockingbird killed because it disturbed his rest. This so aroused public sentiment throughout several Southern states that many newspapers commented on the act, denouncing it as shameful.

There is no power like that of public sentiment to correct any evil in a community; or to make that same community obey a certain law. Most success of all our laws depends on public sentiment and approval.

Sentiment also has its place in business. If you have a feeling of interest in the form of sentiment toward your job, you will get along. You will also learn to respect and esteem your employer; and when the manager begins to notice this, he will develop a similar feeling toward you.

It is this harmonious understanding between employer and employee (call it sentiment if you will) that tends to make a more successful organization.

MONTREAL GRAIN

MONTREAL, Sept. 17 (Canadian Press).—The export trade in Canadian grain on the Montreal market today with the United Kingdom and the Continent showed no improvement, there being few firm bids in the market and according to cable advices received, buyers show little disposition to operate to any extent. There has been a fairly good demand of late from British West Indies and Newfoundland buyers for Ontario and Quebec oats, and sales of a number of cars were made. The trade in cash grain on spot was also reported very quiet, but the tone of the market for oats was steady. Ontario and Quebec No. 2 white oats were quoted at 51 1-4, and No. 3 white at 48 1-2 cents per bushel, extrack. Ontario No. 3 malting barley was quoted at 83 cents per bushel, ex-track.

There has been a good steady demand for ocean grain room from this port of late and the bulk of the room available to Liverpool and London for October loading has been engaged and a good percentage of the offerings to other ports. The tone of the market has remained firm and rates with a few exceptions show little change. Engagements of heavy grain to Glasgow, Manchester, Leith, Newcastle, Hull and Dublin for October loading have been made at 3s 3d per quarter; Avonmouth at 3s 1 1-2d to 3c 3d; Cardiff at 3c, and Belfast at 2s 9d for September. There has also been a good demand for room to the Continent and rates are higher at 14 1-2c to 15c per 100 lbs. for wheat for October shipment.

There were no further developments in the local flour situation, prices being generally steady. A moderate amount of business was transacted in both spring and winter wheat grades.

The tone of the market for all lines of millfeed remains firm under a good demand. There was no change in prices for standard grades of rolled oats.

Prices were well maintained for all grades of butter under a good enquiry from local and country sources.

The feature of the cheese trade was stronger feeling that developed and prices were advanced 1-4 cent per pound.

Beans were steady at $2.50 per bushel.

EGG PRICES

OTTAWA, Sept. 17 (Canadian Press).—The egg market is firm and advancing under good consumptive demand and lighter receipts. Some buyers are considering importing some united States fresh, but it is understood that satisfactory quality could not be obtained in Chicago at a cost comparative with prevailing prices.

Toronto—Egg market very firm for best grades. Montreal offering extras 41, firsts 37, f.o.b. Ontario points, cases returned. Jobbing, specials 44, extras 42, firsts 38, seconds 34.

Montreal—Egg market firm with good demand. Extras 42, firsts 37 1-2, seconds 30 1-2, Ontario points.

Edmonton — Egg market firm. Jobbing, extras 40, firsts 35, seconds 30.

Chicago—Spot 32 1-2; December refrigrators 32 3-8.

GRAIN AND PRODUCE.

CHICAGO, Sept. 17 (Canadian Press).—Wheat scored gains today largely as a result of buying on the part of speculators who had been on the selling side of the market and who were in a position to collect profits. Chicago closing quotations on wheat were firm, 1-4 to 3-4c net higher, December $1.50 7-8 to $1.51; and May $1.53 7-8 to $1.54, with corn unchanged to 5-8c lower; oats unchanged to 1-8c off, and provisions 10 to 12 to 27 cents lower.

In connection with reports that wheat purchasing for millers showed unusual energy, the fact was emphasized that premiums for cash wheat at Minneapolis were 1 to 3 cents a bushel higher, and had gained 2 to 5 cents since Saturday. Furthermore, a decrease of arrivals of wheat at domestic primary centres was apparent, both as compared with last week and a year ago. op prices for the day in the wheat market were reached just before the finish and after word came telling of snow in Alberta province, Canada, likely to delay threshing. On the final upward rush of quotations, offerings were scarce, and the close was within a quarter cent of the day's highest level.

Corn and oats were eased by reports that the bulk of the corn crop is safe from frost. On the other hand, wet weather is retarding the curing of corn in the fields.

Packers' selling of lard made the provision market weak.

STERLING RATES

Sterling demand $4.84 1-8.

Sterling cables $4.84 5-8.

ExhibitionNotes

"You have one of the finest fair grounds in the province here" is the opinion of Mr. Linderman, of the Boyd and Linderman shows.

The Ladies' Aid Society of St. James' Church are in charge of a large dining tent on the grounds, and the Co-Workers' Bible Class of George Street church haev a refreshment tent.

A real convenience on the grounds this year is the little rest room and emergency hospital conducted by the Metropolitan Life Assurance Company, with their nurse, Miss L. Simons, in attendance. The company also have a welfare exhibit in a nicely-decorated small interior, where lantern slides show some of the health work carried on by the company, in support of their slogan, "Keep up. Keep Fit."

Excellent order was kept on the grounds and at the grand stand during yesterday's influx of children, by Acting Police Chief Reid and his assistants of the force, supplemented by a number of special constables.

The Salvation Army's Junior Band played yesterday during the afternoon at the small band stand at the main entrance, while the Senior Band of the Army, played during the evening.

Fred Jopling challenges any team in the city to meet his bunch in the tug of war for the Denne cup, to be waged at the Exhibition Grounds at four o'clock on Saturday afternoon.

The Directors have provided a convenience for the press this year, in the shape of a small tent where they may retire with pencil and paper and think up proper adjectives to adequately describe their Fair impressions.

Secretary F. J. A. Hall is equal to any emergency. Last night his busy office afforded a safe and evidently comfortable refuge for a trio of slumbering infants, tucked into their perambulators and parked in the small interior by absent mothers, who were presumably taking in the fun of the Midway, while their children were well looked after.

You can post a letter or send a telegram with equal despatch at the Fair grounds this year. The Post Office exhibit is in the Manufacturers' Building, while the Canadian National Telegraph equipment is in the Main Building.

OPEN LETTER NO. 7

RT. HON. W. L. MACKENZIE KING,
Prime Minister and President of the Privy Council,
Ottawa.

Dear Sir:

Low tariff advocates are fond of referring to our manufacturers—rather scornfully it would seem—as the "Beneficiaries of Protection," as though they were the only class to benefit from protection, and as though they enjoyed benefits at the expense of other classes.

Now the real purpose of a protective tariff is not to enable the Canadian manufacturer to charge a higher price, but to enable him to supply a larger market. A protective tariff is absolutely without justification unless it results in imported goods being replaced in the home market by domestic goods. And when that is achieved it means that Canadian manufacturers have purchased more material, much of it Canadian and employed more labor, all of it Canadian.

Bearing these facts in mind, where, in your opinion, do the following classes come in—are they "Beneficiaries of Protection," or "Sufferers from Protection"?:—

1. The 630,000 men and women who earn their livlihood by working in Canadian factories?
2. The scores of thousands of retailers, who number the factory workers among their best customers?
3. The hundreds of thousands of farmers, whose total production is, at the very least, sixty-three per cent. consumed in Canada?
4. The railway and steamship companies and their employees, who carry materials to, and distribute products from, Canadian factories?
5. The bankers, brokers, bond dealers and their employees, who help finance Canadian industries?
6. The innumerable small investors, who own stock in Canadian manufacturing concerns, but who are in no sense manufacturers?
7. The professional classes—doctors, lawyers, engineers, architects, dentists, teachers, clergymen, etc.,—civil servants, insurance agents, real estate agents, builders, publishers, restaurant keepers, laundrymen, and all others who make their living indirectly from the production of others?

Isn't it worse than silly, isn't it wilful misrepresentation, to speak of any one class as the "Beneficiaries of Protection"?

Yours respectfully,

J. J. GIBBONS,
President.

SIR HENRY DRAYTON DEVOTES THOUGHT TO RAILWAY PROBLEM

Says Canadian Pacific Has Never Burdened the Public Purse.

LARGEST TAXPAYER.

Charges Liberal Government With Reduplication By Other Lines.

NEWMARKET, Sept. 17 (Canadian Press).—At the outset of his speech, Sir Henry said that the Liberals in this campaign were charging all their difficulty to the Conservatives. There were two main charges: the heavy war debts incurred under Conservative administration and the railway situation, with which they also charge the Consevatives. The charges made in connection with the war debt, said Sir Henry, were too absurd to require consideration. He proceeded at once to deal with the railway situation.

"I admit the country's most serious problem consists of the railways—o f railway duplication—of lines built f in advance of the requirements of the country," declared Sir Henry. "It is ridiculous to blame the Liberal-Conservative party for the present situation. That party did not authorize the wasteful and unnecessary construction that has taken place; did not give the guarantees that made the country liable for the widest railway exploitation the world has ever seen.

"The Liberal-Conservative party was responsible for the construction of the Canadian Pacific. That line has been and is a great success. Not only has it not been, and is not now, a charge on the public, but it has been and still is the largest Canadian taxpayer.

"The former Liberal administration built the National Transcontinental and guaranteed the bonds of the Grand Trunk Pacific. Not content with this grandiose ndertaking, the Liberal administration brought into being a third transContinental, the Canadian Northern, and guaranteed the bonds for its construction with the exception of the line in British Columbia, which was guaranteed by that province. The railway duplication was expensive, criminal, stupid in the extreme. Certain sections of the country found themselves with three lines with only enough business for one, and other sections were left largely unprovided. The most expensive railway construction is in mountain districts with the many necessary bridges, tunnels, fills and cuts, but nevertheless under the former Liberal administration at great expense the Grand Trunk Pacific and Canadian Northern Railway were built practically side by side through the mountain ranges of Alberta and British Columbia.

"The country went on a wild spree of railway exploitation, of railway construction made without the slightest regard whether the lines were necessary or not, whether they could pay or not and without the slightest regard to the resultant burdens on the country. The country today is paying for it.

"This era of exploitation is referred to by Liberals as the golden era of prosperity and expansion. Well gold flowed all right, but it was not our own. The millions of railway bonds endorsed by the government were sold all right. The liability for it all was never considered. Perhaps the most extraordinary thing, however, is to find the King Government doing the same thing today as that government, by endorsing the bonds of the country's railways in the fiscal years ending March 31st, 1924 and 1925, for railway purposes other than the payment of former obligations to the extent of $118,000,000 without recognizing the liability and showing it in the debt.

SCORES RAILWAYS.

SIR HENRY DRAYTON, Finance Minister, who condemned duplication in lines as "expensive, criminal and stupid in the extreme."

GOLDEN WEDDING ANNIVERSARY OCCASION FOR CONGRATULATIONS

Mr and Mrs. David H. Orser Entertain Host of Friends On Jubilee Day.

LOYALIST STOCK.

Grandfather Was Prosperous New York Farmer When States Revolted.

NORHAM, Sept. 17.—On Monday evening, Sept. 14, about one hundred and fifty relatives, neighbors, old friends and associates of Mr. and Mrs. David Hulbert Orser, of Mount Olivet, Brighton Township, from Campbellford, Warkworth, Colborne, Wooler and Norham, gathered at their home to extend congratulations and tender them many happy returns upon the occasion of the golden jubilee of their wedding anniversary. Supper, under the auspices of the Codrington Women's Institute, was served at 7.30 p.m., after which there was a programme of music and speeches, and during which Mr. and Mrs. Orser were presented with two addresses and fifty dollars in gold.

Mr. Orser is a son of the late David Orser, and was born in Prince Edward County on November 21, 1854. He is of United Empire Loyalist stock. His grandfather was a prosperous farmer in New York State when the American revolution broke out, and rather than surrender his allegiance to the British Crown, he abandoned his property and took up pioneer life with his family in Canada, settling at Beach Creek, near Kingston. A part of the land which he owned in New York now forms the site of Sing-Sing, the famous penitentiary of that State. To make the transfer of the title legal another member of the Orser family, who had elected to remain an American, came to Canada after the Revolution, and induced his relative to sign away his title to the property. The Orsers of those days were so noted for their musical talents that they were known far and wide in New York State as the "Sing-Sing" family, and it is recorded that this is the reason why that term was used as a designation for the prison built on the site of their former home.

David Orser, father of David Hulbert, was born near Kingston, and later moved to Prince Edward County, and while there obtained the Crown deed to 400 acres of bush land, now among the most productive and highly improved in Brighton Township.

Over one hundred years ago the primeval log cabin was replaced by the commodious brick house in which Mr. and Mrs. Orser have resided ever since their marriage fifty

FEMININE OWNER OF RUM RUNNER HAS NEW WORRY

DIDN'T PAY FOR GOWN

Incident Halted Proceedings to Regain Control of Vessel.

LONDON, Sept. 17 (Canadian Press).—The controversy which has raged around the now famous rum schooner General Serrett and the beautiful woman who is its owner, Madame Gloria De Vere Casares, reached an unexpected climax today when Madame Casares was arrested on a charge unconnected with the battle over the General Serrett or with the enterprise for running liquor through the dry fleet of the United States.

Madame Casares was charged with obtaining goods under false pretences, a large department store alleging that she secured a gown valued at fourteen guineas (about $71.40) for which she has not paid.

The arrest broke into the beautiful ship owner's battle to resume control of her schooner, for it came when she was in conference with her solicitors over proposed legal action to get the ship out of control of its captain, who has refused Madame Casares access to it. She accompanied the detectives to a police station and was arraigned, remanded and released on bail.

CAMPAIGN OPEN.

Campbellford Town Is Pivotal Point in Riding—Candidates Busy.

CAMPBELLFORD, Sept. 17. — Judging by the activity shown by the candidates, this town seems to be regarded as the pivotal point in the coming election. The other day Milton E. Maybee, M. P., and Fred J. Slade, the latter the nominee of the Liberals, were in town, Mr. Maybee being supported in his canvass by Major J. F. B. Belford, M.L.A., of the riding. Mr. Slade continued his work here yesterday. Both candidates express confidence in the general and local outcome, although both are apparently deeply interested in the question as to whether there will be a Progressive candidate in the field. Nothing has been heard of the intentions of the members of the latter party since their convention at Castleton a few weeks ago.

The vote in Campbellford having such an important bearing on the result there promises to be a warm campaign here, as both parties are likely to bring in some of their best speakers.

THE DANISH PLAN OF CONCILIATION BOARD OPPOSED

As Propounded, the Board Would Be An Adjunct to World Court.

4 NATIONS OBJECT.

Holland Representative Stated Court is Law—Other is Politics.

GENEVA, Sept. 17 (Canadian Press).—The desire not to impair the prestige of the world court of international justice, or in any way to risk causing the United States to hesitate to adhere to that body, impelled the juridical committee of the Assembly of the League of Nations tonight to refer to a subsequent assembly the Danish proposal that a board of conciliation be created and attached to the world court.

The representatives of Great Britain, France, Holland and Brazil lay strees on the unwisdom of such action, particularly at a time when the court's influence was just beginning to be felt.

The case against the Danish project was succinctly stated by M. Limbourge, of Holland—"The court is the law, while concilation is politics. If the Danish lead were followed there would be politics in the election of the world court judges."

M. Loucheur of France said: "It is extremely important for the court's vitality that other nations not belonging to it may adhere to it. Some countries are on the point of joining it. This psychological moment must not be allowed to slip by."

GOOD WORK SHOWN IN SCHOOL EXHIBITS

Advance Shown Over Former Years in Quality of Pupils' Products.

WESTWOOD, Sept. 17. — On Tuesday afternoon the annual Westwood school fair was held. The weather prospects were fine in the morning, but in the afternoon a gentle rain set in. Despite the inclement weather there was a good attendance and a great interest was taken by everyone in the various proceedings.

The exhibits were shown in the town hall and were considered by the judges to exceed those of former years. Those which were the workmanship of the pupils displayed much care, labour and time well spent.

The public speaking and singing contests showed careful preparation and practice and revealed the different talents in the rising generation.

Several contestants in the boys' and girls' driving contests made them very interesting.

Judges—F. J. A. HALL, Sec. Ex. R. M. GLOVER, Mgr. Examiner

In talking to those four people up the river, after they told me about helping that big moose to free its leg from the dead waterlogged tree crotch, I learned almost as much about the heart of man, as they learned about the troubles of wild folks.

Neither of the men, nor their wives, had ever owned a camera. What a pity. There was a real live moose, willing to be petted and anything else short of murder, and not a camera in the camp. These folks talked moose all night. Their campfire was on a flat rock at the river edge, to avoid danger of forest fire (a very real danger to people as well as to woods), and we sat there, until late into the night, talking wild life.

They said that they stroked the animal's nose, talked baby talk to him, gave him leaves of trees, which he refused at first and later seemed glad to get.

They wanted to know why men hunt the moose and such like, with guns, when they might hunt with a camera, getting their shot in and yet leaving the creature for someone else to enjoy. All I could do was to say, "Well, my friends, these are questions which I myself would like answered. I suppose you do not set the woods on fire, because you know something about that matter. Now that you have looked into the eyes of a living wild thing, and have had it look back into yours, in a searching, sad, wondering gaze, you wish others might enjoy these things, so you want to save them. Isn't that a fair summing up of the whole thing?"

And they agreed with me.

It is not often that a naturalist comes upon an audience all ready to listen to him talk about birds when they never knew any other bird than the English sparrow, so to speak. But, get a moose when he is down, and he welcomes you. Get four city folks, when their hearts are singing with gladness for the freedom of one sad-eyed moose, and they will plead for more and more and more nature stories. "Where have you nature men been all my life?" asked one of the men. "And where are you going now?" asked the other.

"I am going back to my cabin, to tell the world that you were blind, but that one look into the eyes of a wild moose, has made you to see."

YOUR HEALTH

By ROYAL S. COPELAND, M.D.,
Former Commissioner of Health, New York City.

SOME CAUSES BEHIND SEVERE HEADACHES.

Many a beautiful, sunshiny day has been spoiled for you because you have a splitting headache. Your ability to perform your daily task may be impaired by a dull, nagging, distracting ache in the forehead or the back of the neck.

There are many varieties of headache. It may be a general pain, appearing to cover the whole head. It may feel as if a nail were driven into the skull.

Sometimes there is a sensation as if the skull were being squeezed and even crushed in the jaws of a vise. There may be stabbing pains, throbbing, beating or burning.

It may be one-sided or on top of the head. It may be constant or intermittent. It may be periodical or occasional. But no matter what its variety, a headache is an unhappy experience.

There are many causes for this ailment. It may come from a disordered stomach. Overeating or the consumption of contaminated food has set up a fermentation, with gas formation and abdominal distress. Pretty soon the head begins to ache.

Constipation is another factor to be considered in this connection. The waste material is absorbed and some of the poisons appear to have a direct effect upon the circulation and well-being of the brain tissues. In consequence your poor head throbs and pains you dreadfully.

If the kidneys fail to function as they should, there may be retention in the system of waste materials which may be productive of headache.

Lack of fresh air, lack of cleanliness of the skin, as well as failure of the proper disposal of body wastes are other causes for headache.

Pus absorption from bad gums, teeth, tonsils, nasal sinuses, or any other pus center may be the cause of disturbance of the system. Or this disturbance, headache may be the chief symptom.

Perhaps the one thing most productive of this uncomfortable ailment, is eye-strain. It must not be overlooked as the possible cause of headache.

There is a foolish prejudice against glasses. If your eyes are not as they should be, or the eye muscles are not properly balanced, there may be no sign in the eyes themselves. The only evidence of trouble may be a persistent headache, perhaps with dizziness and sickness of the stomach.

If you are the victim of headache, do not trust to pills and powders. Find out what is wrong and get rid of the cause. There is no other safe and certain means of relief.

ANSWERS TO HEALTH QUERIES.

R. L. M. Q.—What would you advise for a bunion or enlarged joint?

A.—Wearing broad-toed shoes should relieve this condition. In some instances placing a pad of cotton between the great toe and the second toe to keep the great toe straight will bring about results.

MRS. T. I. Q.—What is the cause and cure for pimples and blackheads?

A.—The diet may be at fault for this condition. For full particulars send a stamped, self-addressed envelope and repeat your question.

A.—This condition may be due to poor circulation. For full particulars send a stamped, self-addressed envelope and repeat your question.

MRS. J. F. Q.—What is the cause and cure for eczema?

A.—There are many conditions which could cause eczema, including the teeth, tonsils and intestinal tract. For full particulars send a stamped, self-addressed envelope and repeat your question.

D. E. B. Q—What causes mucus to gather in my throat? My head is often stuffy and my eyes ache?

A.—Your symptoms would seem to suggest a general catarrhal condition. For full particulars send a self-addressed, stamped envelope and repeat your question.

FAMOUS JEWELS

By Barbara Bayne

SOME PRICELESS GEMS OF THE ORIENT.

There is something at once regal and fantastic in the tribute paid to dazzling stones. Think for a moment of all the diamonds from the mines of Asia, South America and Africa; pearls from the Orient; topaz from the mines of the Pharaohs; turquoises from the pits which Isaac Ben-Abram dug; the rubies, emeralds, sapphires and opals that pour daily into the lap of London or New York.

Fashioned into a throne they would dwarf into insignificance the famous Peacock Throne of Shah Jehan.

It is no fanciful conjecture that many gems which shone in King Solomon's treasure house or glittered in the dark tresses of the Queen of Sheba, or about the lovely throat of Cleopatra, are still in existence, their history lost in the money marts of the world.

There is the great thirty-two carat diamond, known as the "Cumberland" for which the City of London paid 10,000 pounds and presented to the Duke of Cumberland after the battle of Culloden. It was claimed by the crown of Hanover and about 1876 it was restored by Queen Victoria.

The "Prince Edward of York," another famous gem of unknown history, is a white, pear-shaped diamond, weighing 60¼ carats, which had been a pendant to a necklace. It was imported in 1901 and sold to an American banker.

In the Persian collection of jewels are two large first-water diamonds which undoubtedly are of Indian origin and which, it is said, were secured at the sack of Delhi when the Persians invaded India from the North.

One stone is known as the "Dary-i-nur" or Sea of Light and weighs 186 carats; the other is known as "Tajemah" or Crown of Moon and weighs 146 carats.

The present Shah, it is said, wears the Dary-i-nur as an armlet and the Taj-e-mah at the knee. Both stones are skilfully "rose" cut after the Hindustan fashion of cutting diamonds. The "rose" cut has few facets and was discovered by a Venetian jeweler, Hortensio Borgis, who introduced it into India.

The gems are magnificent, faultless, with brilliancy and "fire." The "Taj-e-mah" is generally considered the finest diamond in the Persian collection, Streeter, the London diamond dealers, says that it is supposed to have come originally from Sumbhulpore, a district noted in days long gone for the splendor of its gems.

The "Dary-i-nur" is a large, flat, oval-shaped diamond. In 1911, they were valued together at 20,000,000 marks. At the present purchasing power of the mark it would require a flock of freight cars to carry enough to the Shah to buy his diamonds.

Some of the most famous gems in history originally shone as the adornment of the images of deities which were robbed by conquering captains of alien faith. Among them is the celebrated "Nassac" which tradition says originally came from a temple at Nassak, on the upper Godavery, India. The last independent prince of Peischeva lost it at the conquest of the Deccan, in 1818. The conqueror, the Marquis of Hastings—more generally known as Warren Hastings, sold it to the British East India Company.

It then weighed 89¾ carats, but it was badly cut. It came into the possession of Messrs. Randell and Bridge, diamond dealers, and when they retired from business it was sold by auction. For reasons best known to dealers in precious stones, its purchaser desirek to keep its whereabouts unknown.

Feature Exhibits at Exhibition

QUAKER OATS

As boldly arresting as their big mills on the banks of the Otonabee River, the Quaker Oats Company's outstanding exhibit in the Manufacturers' Building at the Fair will not be denied. At their spacious section visitors see in attention-compelling display, samples of this mammoth local concerns wholesome and healt-promoting cereals and other foods, which find a market in so many corners of the civilized world.

Millions of discriminating men, women and children included some one or other of Quaker products in their daily menus, and thousands of visitors at the Exhibition are finding interest in the extent of the company's operations as indicated by their exhibit. They learn that this manufactory produces, among other commodities, corn flakes, puffed wheat, puffed rice, rolled oats, macaroni and spaghetti; all articles of diet in universal favor; Tilson's health bran of curative properties and Quaker farina, a wheat product especially nourishing for invalids and little folks; Quaker flour, so popular with legions of users for bread making, and Saxon flour, unexcelled for pastry. Then one must not forget their Quaker feed for poultry, guaranteed to fill hens with increased nep and make them lay, whether they want to or not.

A striking feature of this exhibit is rice being puffed within a glass tower and distributed free among the visitors, together with a generous quota of delightfuly crisp corn flakes.

One of the largest cereal factories west of the Atlantic, the Quaker Oats Co. find an ever-growing market for their varied products at home and abroad on both hemispheres. Their plant in Peterborough is the last word in modern and scientific equipment, and their mills unsurpassed in construction and adaptability.

Operating on the principle that "the best is none too good," it's no wonder that the products of the Quaker Oats Company are so widely popular and so universally commended for their body-building qualities.

DOMINATING PIGGY.

A real pig, one year old, and frozen stiff in the Canadian Packing Co.'s mammoth freezer, dominates with irresistible attraction this big local industry's arresting exhibit in the Manufacturers' Building at the Exhibition. Immaculately clean, and in its cleanliness fittingly typical of the purity of all this company's far-famed food products, piggy stands, apple in mouth and tail acurl, on a spotlessly white-draped pedestal in an otherwise empty sawdust pen. Quiet, but forlefully impressive, this display in its unique simplicity, is undoubtedly one of the outstanding features of this year's exhibits. The general color scheme is just black and white, with a background of pure white alcoves surmounted by festoons of deep red roses. In these alcoves one sees, in tasteful array, tempting samples of Rose Brand ready-to-eat and smoked meats, together with Rose Brand lard, so popular with thousands of discriminating housewives.

The Canadian Packing Co. are pardonably proud of their Rose Brand products, which include altogether deletable bacon, ham, pork, sausage and eggs; and it is generally conceded that their trade mark, "Rose Brand," is synonymous with all round goodness.

The Canadian Packing Co. likewise enjoy an enviable reputation for the splendid quality of their delicious baked spiced ham, roast shoulder and roast ham, meat cheese and appetizing macaroni loaf. They also handle "Anchor Brand" viands, such as head cheese, bologna and jellied tongue, all of which stand high in public approval. Then they are exclusive dealers on the American continent in clarified cheese, a product of only one other country in the world, and that is New Zealand.

This company's big local plant is a veritable model of cleanliness, for the highest standard of modern sanitation obtains throughout the whole premises. From Peterboro County's resources unexcelled food stanles peculiar to such an important industry are manufactured under the scrutinizing eyes of government inspectors, who guarantee one hundred per cent. purity and wholesomeness in every product which leaves the building.

The Canadian Packing Co., Ltd., operate three local retail stores—at 356 George Street, corner of Brock and George Streets, and 243 Park Street. At each store a growing patronage testifies to the excelling quality of their products.

HEINTZMAN & CO., LTD.

Once again visitors find at Heitzman & Co.'s section in the Manufacturers' Building at the Fair an attraction which strongly appeals to all music lovers, and their name is legion. The splendid pianos there displayed, both in structural beauty and tone, reflect the universal reputation Heintzman & Co. enjoy for building instruments of an excelling nature for high class concert work and family use.

They are showing to advantage a style E Grand Piano of Colonial design and rich mahogany case; a mahogany Jacobean upright, an altogether charming instrument both in build and finish, a lovely ornament for any tastefully furnished room, and a piano which has stood the test for its responsiveness and tonal beauty; a handsome Style O Miniature Upright in walnut; and the popular Ionic, which, with its rich mahogany exterior structure invites the most discriminating inspection. But their Style A Player Piano, in fumed oak and with all aluminum action, has of course a special appeal to all who, without knowing a single note of music can by its simple operation bring to their homes the finest classics and favoriate song and dance music of the day. Anyone can play a Heintzman & Co. Player.

Of Phonographs, this firm's display comprises a perfectly lovely upright Sonora, with all wood tone arm, which assures matchless mellowness in tone and marvellous naturalness in reproduction, whether of voice or instrument; an appealing Console Model Victrola of Queen Ann period design; and an interesth'ding McLagan in American walnut. For clarity of tone and attractive finish these three instruments have a quality all their own and figure beyond question in the premier class.

The success of Heintzman & Co. Ltd. as piano builders of world-wide recognition is emphasibed by the fact that their drawing room instruments have been used by the world's greatest artists, including Mesdames Melba and Tetrazinni (voice), and DePachmann (instrumental), not forgetting Paderewski and Caruso, both of whom highly recommended this company's grand pianos for concert work.

Established over 75 years ago, these leading piano builders, familiarly known as "Ye Olde Firme" of Heintzman & Co., have branches in every important community in the Dominion. Their Peterborough show rooms are at Heintzman Hall, Royal Bank Building, at the corner of George and Hunter Streets. Visitors are cordially invited to call either at this address or at the company's exhibit section and learn what service and courtesy really are.

Mr. C. S. Searle is the energetic local manager of eleven months' standing, and he reports business good.

MILKERS AND SEPARATORS.

Both farmers and urban citizens are finding interest and instruction in the DeLaval Company's striking display at the exhibition of Milkers and Separators. The exhibit is in the Manufacturers' Building, and reveals that spirit of progress characterising all the DeLaval products, which enjoy world-wide reputation for efficiency and economy in operation. Visitors readily recognize that these machines afford the most economical system of milking and separating cream, and are quick to appreciate why so many thousands of users cheerfully recommend them as practically superior to all others.

The Separators stand unquestionably without a peer, while the milkers are unqualifiedly endorsed for producing milk to such an increased extent that the additional flow alone pays for the machine. In their Separators, with a capacity of 175 to 900 lbs. per hour, and their companion Milkers, the company are featuring at the Exhibition dairy appliances which for efficiency and time and money saving service, are incomparable. The motive power for each machine can be either gasoline or electricity, and every farmer and dairyman should avail himself of the numerous advantages that they offer.

For their superior quality, standard and value to any farming community, the DeLaval Company's products have won universal endorsation in the fact that their machines are milking cows and separating cream in Cana, da, the United States, South America, Europe, Africa, Asia, Australia, Japan and the Pacific Islands.

'DO BETTER BY ELECTRICITY.'

The above, together with "Why work, let Hydro do it," constitute two forceful slogans adopted by the Peterboro Utilities Commission, and find prominent places at their section in the Manufacturers' Building, where they are exhibiting wonderfully interesting electric stoves, machines and appliances.

By this timely exhibit, Peterboro Utilities are demonstrating a practical solution of the fuel problem, both for cooking, heating and other domestic purposes, for they convincingly exemplify that electricity gives better results and saves its users money.

A strikingly commendable feature of their display is quite a fair-sized kitchen electrically equipped through out. It is the cynosure for all eyes, and therein one sees a lady cook baking tasty dainties for free distribution. Busy at an attractively complete kitchen cabinet she uses a standard McClary electric cooking range, wherein its Tor-Red element in cooking surface is thoroughly protected and can be taken out for cleaning. Besides its removable element another new feature of this desirable range of standard working height is a seamless oven, with fully enamelled interior.

The illumination for this model kitchen comes from ceiling lamps with shades that cast no shadows, a system approved by the American Housewife as the real lighting principle for kitchen purposes.

The local Utilities Commission is also showing a notable automatic electric fireless cooker, appropriately named the "Cook-Rite," and which operates from an ordinary lamp socket: also a Hot Point electric immersion water heater, guaranteed to keep a household supplied with hot water continuously day and night for 52 cents a week of seven days. Can you imagine any medium for enjoying this advantage cheaper, cleaner and more dependable with less trouble than electricity? Just think it over.

Then one sees a Hurley oscillating all-metal washing machine, with reversible wringer, which will do the family wash for 2 cents, and a Baby Grand ironer for ironing the clothes from said wash at the small cost of 5 cents, both machines being operated by electricity.

Before leaving this question of economy by using white coal—better known as electricity—it is emphasized that cooking by electricity reduces to a minimum the shrinkage in foods experienced when cooking with other fuel.

At this exhibit a spacious showcase reveals other electric appliances, such as toasters, percolators, irons and grills. All the electric equipment here on view is Canadian made, and may be seen demonstrated any day after the Exhibition at the Utilities Commission's store on Simcoe Street, without obligation to the visitor.

GOOD NIGHT STORIES

By Blanche Silver

DAVID SEES A QUEER LITTLE TENEMENT HOUSE.

One day while David was on a visit with his aunt in the southern part of Africa he discovered a queer-looking, umbrella-like thing swung under the branches of a trte.

"Isn't that funny?" he mused. "I wish ——"

"Well, it's about time you were beginning to wish," laughed a merry voice, and Squeedee, the wee elfin from Joyland, hopped down beside David.

"Oh, Squeedee," David cried, shaking the little elfin's hands, "I'm sure glad to see you. Tell me, what in the world is that growth on that tree and what in the world are those things hanging up under it?"

"Why, don't you know, David? That's nothing but a Bird Tenement House," laughed Squeedee.

"Bird Tenement House!" exclaimed David. "Why, Squeedee, what bird builds such a funny nest as that? He must be as big as a cow. Why, that nest would cover at least ten men the size of my daddy!"

"True, the shelter would cover that many men," laughed Squeedee, "but the little couple that first started that tenement were no larger than six inches from the ends of their tails to the tip of their beaks. Mr. and Mrs. Sociable Weaver Bird started this place. They built a wee little shelter, just large enough to cover their nests. If you look closely you'll see a great many little nests swung up under that wide shelter.

"That's a Bird Tenement."

The children that hatched from their eggs soon grew up and brought their mates back to the old home place. They built more shelter and swung their nests up beside the parents' nests. Year after year the same birds and their families return to this place and the old place is remodeled to suit the size of the family. New nests are swung up under its shelter until now it's a regular tenement house."

"But with so many of them close together I should think they'd fuss with each other and their neighbors," suggested David.

"They do," laughed Squeedee, "But they always settle their fusses, all right, and the next year they all come home again. Would you believe it, that shelter is made from the strongest of strong grasses? The natives use the same grasses to weave into rugs and mats."

"Do they move back into the same nests each year?" David asked, glancing at the rows and rows of tiny nests up under the shelter.

"No, indeed," replied Squeedee. "They always build new nests but the old nests are just left. Sometimes bats, insects and reptiles use the old ones. That shelter does one good thing besides keep out the rain—it keeps away bird thieves and egg-eating snakes and monkeys. It is formed in such a way that their enemies have a hard time getting up to the nests. Well, s we'd better be going on. Maybe we'll find some new adventure," and Squeedee took David's hand and away they ran toward the woods.

Judge Describes Crime as an Abominable and Hideous One.

WAS MERCIFUL.

KINGSTON, Sept. 17 (Canadian Press).—Charles Powless, who was tried yesterday at the sittings of the Supreme Court on a charge of committing an abortion on the late Jean Snider, was found guilty and sentenced by Mr. Justice Logie to fifteen years in the pnitentiary. The jury recommended mercy, and the judge, in passing sentence, said he had taken the recommendation into consideration, intimating that otherwise the sentence would have been for life. He described the crime as an abominable and hideous one.

TOMORROW'S HOROSCOPE

By Genevieve Kemble

FRIDAY, SEPTEMBER 18.

A rather critical state of affairs is presaged from the ruling lunar and mutual aspects. All manner of difficulties may accrue unless extreme precaution be taken in the management of business lest quarrels and rash acts lead to losses and litigation. Change and travel should be postponed and the physical safety should be looked out for. A general program of caution and conservatism may defeat stellar forces of hostility and menace.

Those whose birthday it is may best reap advantages during the year by remaining quiet and self-contained, deferring change and travel and guarding against quarrels and accident. A child born on this day may be inclined to be rash and quarrelsome, thereby inviting many forms of disaster. It may be restless and unsettled and reckless of its safety. It should receive early training and discipline through precept and example.

State out by filling in the words of which you feel reasonably sure. These will give you a clue to other words crossing them, and they in turn to still others. A letter belongs in each white space, words starting at the numbered squares and running either horisontally or vertically or both.

The solution will appear in to-m orrow's paper.

STIRLING FAIR BETTER THAN EVER BUT ATTENDANCE WAS VERY POOR

Threatening Weather Kept Many Away Despite Added Attractions.

RACES WERE KEEN

Exhibits of Flowers and Farm Produce Were Exceptionally Good

(By a Staff Reporter).

STIRLING, Sept. 17.—The directors of the Stirling Agricultural Society staged the best exhibition that they have ever put on, with better buildings to house the stock and other exhibits, and with more novelty features and special prizes on the programme, and still the attendance fell off owing to the threatening weather that prevailed until the late afternoon. It is estimated that the gross receipts will be $120 less than those of last year, the amount taken at the gate being only $487. The directors yesterday, generally favored for years with good weather, shared in the misfortune that so often overtakes fall shows. But those who did attend were entertained from the beginning to the end of the programme, the horse rings, as usual, proving the star attraction.

The Free-For-All.

Clayton Tucker of Harold, who has been president of the society for the past five years, acted as starter for the races, of which there were four on the bill, and though the track was muddy, the horses in every event were driven to win. In the free-for-all the favorite at the start was Mack R., the game little pacer owned by Charles Armstrong, of Havelock, and driven by Jim Sutherland of Peterboro. Mack R took the first heat easily, but in the second finished fourth, and trailed the field in the third. In the fourth he recovered his form and went under the wire in the lead.

That perennial performer on the race track, South Dakotah Maid, winner of many a hard fought turf battle, was first in one heat and second in two. This mare is now owned by L. B. Stinson, of Trenton.

South Dakotah Maid's former owner, R. Turley, of Frankford, was in the race, driving Vola Belle, and this entry tied the Maid by taking first place in one and second in two heats.

At the end of the fourth heat the race was still undecided, no horse having taken first place three times, and by the rules, the three horses mentioned should have gone over the course again, but rather than drive them any more on a heavy track the racers agreed to quit. Mack R. was given first money South Dakotah Maid second, Vola Belle taking the small end of the purse.

In this race, Cy Winger, owned by S. Blewett, of Peterboro, was fourth, finishing third in three heats and fourth in one while Cy Mack, C. Goorman of Frankford, was fifth. Best time—2.29 1-4.

Charlie Armstrong has a new horse, Rex Hal, with an aristocratic lineage, a horse that has not yet started in a race in this district, and there is much curiosity on the part of horsemen to see him perform. Rex Hall would have raced yesterday but while training the other day he was badly burned by his hobbler and has been retired for a few days. His owner says that the horse will soon be able to work again.

The 2.35 Race

Bertha Todd owned by J. McNaught of Tweed, won the 2.35 race in straight heats, with Lulu Brooks (J. Vasseau, Trenton) second and Butcher Girl (W. J. Stacey, Wooler) third. Best time, 2.37.

Three Minute Race

H. C. Coveney of Campbellford drove his own horse, Harry C, in this race, taking second money after a run of hard luck. He won the first heat without being pushed but in the second Harry C threw a shoe on the back stretch and made the rest of the distance with this handicap. Mr. Coveney says the shoe was not properly set and his horse acted badly. He complained to the Judges that the driver of Jack Moore yelled like a Comanche Indian when away from the stand causing Harry C to break and for this the driver complained of was cautioned.

This race went to four heats; George Wellman of Marmora with Tom Alert winning the last three. Jack Moore, owned by A. Wellman of Bonar Law, was third. Best time—2.49 1-4.

Two Colts Race.

A matched race, half a mile, between two colts that had never before started, was won by Hall Direct, owned by M. Sharp, of Wooler, in three straight heats, his opponent being Elizabeth Hal, the property of Fred Johnston, Marmora. Best time for the half-mile, 1.30.

Other Equine Events.

In the half-mile trial of speed, for horses hitched to ordinary buggies, Charles Vance, of near Stirling, was an easy winner, with S. P. Hagerman of Belleville second. The latter and his beautiful black driver are familiar figures at the Fairs in this district and at the Cobourg Horse Show. Mrs. Hagerman is as expert with the reins as her husband, winning first prize for lady drivers. This horse, driven by Mr. Hagerman, was first for the best gentleman's turnout.

Mrs. Charles Vance took second prize for lady drivers, and her husband with the same outfit won second for gentlemen's turnout.

Charlie Hanna's Special.

Charlie Hanna, M.P. for South Hastings, known far and wide as the man who beat Gus Porter in a by-election, offered a silver cup to the best lady driver. This brought out three contestants: Mrs. Hagerman, Mrs. Vance and Mrs. J. Johnston, of Frankford. Mrs. Hagerman was again the winner, so that the handsome silver trophy goes to Belleville, where both donor and winner reside.

In The Main Building.

There was a beautiful display of exhibits in the main building, and everything was tastefully arranged. The floral show was something out of the ordinary, but this is only to be expected in a village like Stirling where flowers can be gathered in nearly every yard. Roots and grain and domestic articles were of a high quality.

There were on display sheaves of corn stalks the tops of which brushed the ceiling of the building. There was no tape line with which to make correct measurement, but the longest could not have been less than 15 feet. Some of the stalks should be entered in the competition now being conducted by a Toronto paper all that is needed to place them ahead of anything so far reported being a certificate from the Reeve of the Township as to their length. There were no names and these exhibits and no one seemed to know to whom they belonged, but all were grown in Rawdon Township.

Mrs. Emmerson of Springbrook and Mesdames Mills, Richardson and Ketcheson of Stirling had entries in the baby show, and were awarded prizes in the order named.

The New Barn.

The new barn for horses and cattle recently erected by the society is a decided acquisition and put the property on a par with any of the smaller fairs in Central Ontario. The entries of stock were not numerous, but the unfavorable weather accounts for this.

WEDDING BELLS.

HEFFERNAN—McKEEVER

DOURO, Sept. 17.—An exceptionally pretty wedding took place at St. Joseph's Church, Douro, on Wednesday morning last at 9 o'clock when Ella, elder daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Michael McKeever, was united in marriage to Mr. Thomas Heffernan, second son of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Heffernan. The ceremony was performed and the nuptial Mass celebrated by the pastor, Rev. M. J. McGuire, in the presence of many friends and relatives.

The bride wore a gown of white satin-faced crepe, with silk veil and wreath of orange blossoms, and carrying a bouquet of white and pink asters. She also wore the groom's gift, a rope of pearls. The bridesmaid, Miss Christina McKeever, sister of the bride, wore peach georgette with silk and velvet hat to match, and wore the groom's gift a white gold bar pin, and also carried asters. Little Miss Dorothy O'Brien, neice of the groom, made a lovely flower-girl, in her white silk dress with wreath and veil. The groom was supported by his brother, Mr. Francis Heffernan.

After the ceremony, a reception was held at the home of the bride's parents, only immediate relatives being present. The young couple left for Niagara, Buffalo and White Plains, N.Y., where the honeymoon will be spent. The bride travelled in navy satin dress, with navy coat. On their return they will reside on their farm here.

Those from a distance who attended the wedding were Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Freer, Mr. and Mrs. Geo. Dolan and son, Mr. and Mrs. Jeremiah Sullivan and three daughters, Mr. Thomas Rusaw and Mr. Geo. McKever, all of White Plains, N.Y.

ANGLICANS KEPT FOUNDATION DAY

Harvest Festival Was Also Observed at St Paul's, Marmora.

FLAG DEDICATED.

MARMORA, Sept. 17.—Under wretched weather conditions, the Anglicans of Marmora observed on Sept. 13 what they now term "Foundation Sunday." It was the Sunday set apart by them to mark fifty-one years of parochial work under the Anglican cause in what is now the pretentious little village of Marmora. Thanksgiving for the harvest was combined with thanksgiving for the God-given success that has marked over half a century's labours. St. Paul's Church was nicely decorated with flowers, vegetables and fruits for the two bright services of the day. At 11 a.m. there was a celebration of Holy Communion at which the Rev. C. J. Young, B.A., of Brighton, was the celebrant. The choir received valued support from Mrs. S. B. Wright and Mr. Ross Hunter of Deloro, also Mr. F. S. Pearce of town. The anthem was "O Lord, How Manifold Are Thy Works," by Caleb Simper. The special preacher was the Rev. T. S. Boyle, M.A., D.D., D.C.L., of St. Peter's, of Cobourg, who delivered a very interesting sermon upon I. Kings, 22-39.

At the conclusion of the Sacrament, Dr. Boyle dedicated the Union Jack, which, with a steel flagpole of 26 1-2 feet in height, is now presented to St. Paul's Church by Mr. S. B. Wright of Deloro. After the dedication, with the Wardens, Messrs. S. B. Wright and H. R. Pearce, bearing the flag and the clergy following, the congregation proceeded to the church-yard, where despite the drenching rain, the Union Jack was hoisted by the donor.

Evensong was conducted at 7.30 p.m. by the rector. The preacher at this service was the Rev. C. J. Young. Taking as his text, "The Lord loveth the gates of Zion more than all the dwellings of Jacob," he remarked how comforting and adaptable the Psalms were to every age of life.

The choir, assisted by Mr. F. S. Pearce, rendered the anthem, "Holy Father, Cheer Our Way." The offertories of the day were devoted to the new rectory fund.

GOOD MEETING OF WOMEN'S INSTITUTE

Omemee Branch Had Good Attendance and Fine Programme.

OMEMEE, Sept. 15.—The Omemee branch of the East Victoria Women's Institute met at the home of Mrs. Albert Sloan on Thursday afternoon. The attendance numbered about twenty-five, including members and visitors, which no doubt was decreased by the Conservative picnic at Bethany on the same day.

The president, Mrs. Sloan, occupied the chair, and after the secretary's and treasurer's reports had been given by Mrs. R. J. Cornwall, a splendid programme followed.

Mrs. S. T. Wilson read a paper on "Christian Charity," followed by an interesting and appropriate reading entitled, "Living a Useful Life," by Mrs. J. Widdess.

A selection on the gramaphone followed, after which Mrs. Adams, of Coboconk, the district superintendent, who was an unexpected but is always a welcome visitor, gave a short talk, during the course of which she gave many hints to Institute workers. She divided the Institute members into three classes, namely, the objectors-agreers, meaning those who agree and do nothing, and the doers, which might be applied to almost any organization.

It was decided to quilt a pretty print quilt at the October meeting at the home of Mrs. Widdess, with the intention of disposing of it later to increase the funds in the treasury.

A sumptuous lunch was served at the close of the meeting by the hostesses, Mrs. H. Hall and Mrs. Sloan.

A meeting, attended by several enthusiastic citizens, was held in the sample room of the Commercial House on Friday evening to appoint delegates to attend the Liberal-Conservative convention in Lindsay on Wednesday.

The Wednesday half holidays are over, the merchants having reached a decision to remain open during the month of September.

LADIES' AID HEARS ORIENTAL LECTURE

Chinese Conditions, Manners and Customs Subject of Instructive Talk.

LAKEFIELD, Sept. 17.—In spite of very inclement weather a good crowd turned out to the entertainment given by the members of the Woolen committee of the Ladies' Aid in the basement of the (Methodist) United Church on Tuesday evening.

Rev. S. A. Kemp occupied the chair and filled the position in a very pleasing manner and making a very favorable impression on this his first appearance in the village as an affair of this kind.

The following high class programme was rendered:

Hymn—"All Hail the Power."
Prayer—Rev. P. L. Jull.
Chairman's address— Rev. S. A. Kemp.
Chorus — "Oh Canada," Mesdames McMillan, Purdy, McConkey, Millage, Hull, Webster, Hamblin and Burrows.
Piano duet— Misses Ruth Jull and Evelyn Grant.
Vocal duet—Miss Eva and Master Jack Hendren.
Piano duet— Misses Helen Porter and Dorothy Sutton.
Duet—Mrs. D. H. Webster and Mrs. McMillan.
Piano solo—Miss Gwen Simpson.
Solo—Mrs. W. Millage.
Solo—Mrs. J. R. Hull.
Quartette, "Moonlight on the Lake"— Mesdames McMillan and Webster and Messrs. Burrows and R. Payne.
Illustrated address—Miss Northcott, late of Swatow, China.
Solo—Mrs. A. B. Burrows.
National anthem.

Mrs. H. E. Moore, Miss Simpson and Mr. K. S. Madill filled acceptably the roles of accompanist to the singers.

Miss Northcott gave a very interesting talk on her work in the medical missions in South China, especially in Swatow. Mrs. A. B. Burrows operated the lantern.

China, Miss Northcott says, is a large country and without railways or other methods of easy transportation, is little known. Even among the various provinces there is little intercourse owing to the differences in dialect, they can read the language but can't speak the different dialects. In the South China Mission there were two hospitals, one at Swatow, and the other at Kit Yang, under the mission board under which Miss Northcott worked Canton, a large city, is not far distant and is a centre of unrest. The Chinese soldiers go about looting murdering and burning and are a distinct menace. The hospital in Swatow is a large, three-storey building with full balconies and well equipped, and attached is a fine dispensary, at which numbers are treated daily. Chinese women are taking to nursing, which was formerly a degraded and despised work, though very necessary, as the utter lack of sanitation causes a great deal of illness. Eye trouble is exceedingly common and many go blind through lack of treatment at the critical time.

There are three crops a year in South China sometimes all of rice and sometimes two crops of rice and one of sweet potatoes or peanuts. The rice fields are flooded and the coolies work in water over their knees very often and as a consequence practically all have hook worm. The fields are kept flooded to a depth of a few inches till the crops ripen. There are many rivers in South China and one can hire a boat easily for trips to other parts of the country and when the wind goes down many of the rivers are so shallow that one coolie pulls and another pushes the boat along. The roads are so narrow and poorly kept up that one travels by road either on foot or in a sedan chair, the latter carried at a dog trot by coolies.

Swatow is a busy centre and from the mission house verandah one can see forty two villages on the other side of the river. These people all do their trading in Swatow.

The medicine room in the hospital is an interesting and very important feature and is in charge of a graduate nurse and a pupil nurse who compound medicines and make up prescriptions, all which forms a part of the nurse's training.

At New Year's the custom is that the feast shall be spent in the ancestral home and at these times the mission sends out evangelistic parties who speak to these groups and tell them the gospel story.

Wayside shrines to heathen gods are very common in China and are seen under the banyan tree or in places out of the ordinary. In China the men leave to the women the greater part of the worship. The anti-Christian, anti-foreign propaganda is spread by the soldiers and is not general in China but the present is a critical time in the history of the country and we should pray for China that that great country may be led to Christ.

Mr. Kemp thanked all who took part and all who by their presence assisted in making the entertainment a success. More than $24 was realized.

The Woolen Committee, under whose auspices the affair was given are: Mrs. John Charlton (convenor) Mrs. Grant, Mrs. Gordon Scriver, Mrs. Blewett, Mrs. Robert Bullock, Mrs. R. H. Little, Mrs. W. J. Dunford, Mrs. F. Darling, Mrs. Murphy, Mrs. Jory, Mrs. Ingram, and Mrs. W. J. Northey.

Miss Northcort had some interesting curios, brought from China which were on exhibition after the entertainment.

The last few days the weather has been bad for finishing harvest and getting fall wheat sown.

There are still a few fields of oats, buckwheat, alfalfa and peas out. In some cases these have been turned more than once, which will cause a loss of the grain.

A few have some fall wheat sown, others were just ready before the heavy rains, but in most cases the ground is too wet to work now.

The car that put the War in Warren

JIM WARREN bought a car—the "Ginger-bread Six."

Never heard of it before, but he happened to be walking along Automobile Row and during a lapse moment his foot slipped—he stepped inside.

"Nifty boat," said the salesman.

"Not bad," said Jim, as paint and doo-dabs got in their hypnotic work.

"But why isn't it advertised?" asked Jim.

"Don't need to advertise a job like that," was the forearmed reply. Sounded logical. But—

Six months later Jim had a collection of bolts and grease-cups and broken springs and disjointed steering mechanism and a motor that almost ran.

"Never again!" said Jim. "The car that's little known and never advertised hasn't much responsibility; little to live up to. Before I buy another car—or another anything—I'm going to get the facts. I'm going to read the advertisements about automobiles—or whatever I'm buying."

Advertisements are an invaluable guide to intelligent buying. Read them regularly

MEIGHEN SPEAKS AT STELLARTON

Opposition Leader Charges That Premier Has No Real Policy.

SPOKE TO FARMERS.

STELLARTON, Sept. 17 (Canadian Press).—Rt. Hon. Arthur Meighen, Conservative leader, held a meeting here yesterday, speaking to the farming community in the athletic field.

"Mr. King has had fourteen different policies on immigration, but no immigrants," Mr. Meighen said. He charged that on transportation, immigration and senate reform, Mr. King had no real policy.

Mr. Meighen said he had never seen the West Indies treaty, but he had heard that it contained nothing of benefit to the Maritime Provinces. Mr. King wanted the people to send him back to power to ratify something they had never seen, the opposition leader asserted.

PRIZES ALLOTTED.

Campbellford Fair to Use Examiner Special as Baby Show Award.

CAMPBELLFORD, Sept. 17. — Following the policy which it has adopted for a number of years, The Examiner awards this season special prizes at the Campbellford and Warkworth Fairs. Each prize is a cash donation of $5.00, and these will be offered for competition in the same departments as last year.

At the Campbellford Fair the directors will award The Examiner's special in a baby contest, $3 to the best and $2 to the second best child, 12 months old or under. This contest has always proved a popular feature at the Fall Fair, and has brought out a large number of entries. The baby show will be held in the ladies' rest room.

The directors of the Warkworth Fair will award The Examiner special to the best heavy team of horses on the grounds.

GOOD LOCAL MARKET.

Farmers Bag Their Grain and Truck Calls to Take It Away.

CAMPBELLFORD, Sept. 17. — The farmers of this district do not lack a good local market for their heavy yield of grain, on account of recent changes in business that have taken place here since last season. A. J. Meyers is purchasing wheat and shipping it to outside points every day. In fact, the farmers have a market at their own barn doors, as all they are required to do is to bag their wheat, when a truck will call for it and carries it to the depot. Next day the farmer receives his cheque and is saved the cost of time and labor that would be incurred if he did his own hauling. The farmers say that they are getting a square deal in grading, weighing and in the price paid.

Gives Up Business.

John A. Meiklejohn, who was for some years in partnership with the late W. S. Russell, who died recently, conducting a flour and feed business and a chopping mill, has decided to retire on October 1. It is likely that the business will be continued under new management.

Lancaster, the present pastor of the church and Rev. R. M. Fee, of the Continuing Presbyterians, will occupy the pulpit on alternate Sundays, with Rev. Mr. Fee conducting the service on Sunday next.

LESS MONEY LOANED MORE BORROWERS

Agricultural Development Board's Report Has Just Been Issued.

TORONTO, Sept. 17 (Canadian Press).—The Agricultural Development Board of Ontario granted $3,582,150 in loans to farmers in the province during 1924, according to the report of the board issued today. This amount, slightly less than that granted in the previous year, went to more borrowers than in 1923 however. Almost one thousand applications were granted compared with 953 in 1923. To date $9,352,105 has been loaned to 2,401 borrowers who have provided security computed at $21,249,496.

The reports show an administrative surplus of the board for 1924 amounting to $26,705.

EXHIBITION SHATTERS

Angus entered, and C. M. Playter has Shorthorns. The Jas. Seymour Holsteins are as conspicuous as ever, and Ross Wood of Keene is back again after a noticeable absence. Isaac Hethrington's Jerseys were also as conspicuous as in former years, and other exhibitors were all ready for the judging which began today.

Luncheon Tomorrow.

Not only will officials of the C.P.R. be guests at the Kiwanis Luncheon with the Exhibition Directors tomorrow, but the Ontario Deputy-Minister of Agriculture, Mr. Rodehouse, will also be present, Mr. R. Denne announced this morning.

"He heard about the Fair we have this year, and simply couldn't stay away," said the "Ex." president, who is anxious that the keynote of the luncheon will stress the importance of the agricultural industry in this country, and especially in this district, and that a new bond of cooperation and goodwill between the urban and rural components of this community will be welded.

And The Bands.

The Salvation Army's musicians occupied the Midway Bandstand yesterday; the Junior Band, conducted by Commandant Smith, playing in the afternoon, and the Senior Temple Band of 36 pieces, under Mr. Frank Robinson's baton, furnishinng the evening programme. Beside them the Merry-go-Round carrouselled to its own almost continuous programme of yesterday's popular music from the uncomplaining organ. To compete with that monotonous competition taxed the concentration of the bandsmen, whose music was manifestly appreciated by the crowds in that part of the grounds.

Fireworks Display.

The fireworks display is excellent this year, and holds something entirely new in the way of a fiery aerobat making a circular way about a revolving wheel. There is the usual interesting programme of stars and Roman candles and sky rockets and a spectacular effect in the Niagara Falls cascade.

SOMETHING ABOUT OLD MOTHER GOOSE

Choice of Children Remains Unchanged Throughout the Years.

There are very many interesting books in the Children's Library, but it is extremely doubtful if any of them exceed in popularity the tales of Mother Goose. In this day of outcry for the newest literature it is a great thing, for in their devotion to it they are taking the best way of preserving their freshness and their clean outlook on life. There are certain authors of an older day than ours that we may hope may never lose their appeal to men and women, such for instance as Dickens, but mankind has an appetite that is for ever seeking for something new and in that search he is apt to lose sight of and to forget tales of an older generation that made our fathers and mothers what they were, helping to shape their lives in a mould that our present day thoughts are not quite able to duplicate in excellence.

One of the most enduring, probably the most enduring of tales that rejoice the heart of childhood are the tales of Mother Goose. An effort was made some sixty years ago to identify her as a Boston woman of the name of Elizabeth Goose, mother-in-law of Thomas Fleet a well-known Boston printer who had issued a collection of Melodies in 1719. Boston has, in a sense, a claim on Mother Goose as it was first published on this side of the water by two Boston printers in 1824. But it belongs to French folklore and Charles Perrault, born in Paris in 1628, was the first person to collect, reduce to writing and publish the "Contes de ma mere l'Oye." It is probable that her fame first reached England in 1729 when Mother Goose Fairy Tales were translated by Robert Samber. The original "Mother Goose Melodies" was not issued until 1760, when it was brought out by John Newbury of London. Although Mother Goose is of French origin many of the melodies are purely English, some of them dating back to Shakespeare's time and earlier. Of one thing we may be sure and that is that great writers of prose and verse will flourish and their names pass into the limbo of forgetfulness, but that generation after generation will continue to rejoice in the Tales, and that when Macaulay's New Zealander is seen viewing the ruins of a monarchy from some broken arch of London Bridge (may that day be remote indeed!) children will still be chanting the melodies and reading the stories embodied in this great classic for children. EL BIBANE RIDGE VERY IMPORTANT

GREATEST SUCCESS.

PARIS, September 17 Canadian Press. — The capture of the El Bibane ridge in the Morocco operations by the French troops yesterday, is regarded as not only the greatest military success since the offensive started, but also as one of the most considerable political gains achieved through French arms.

The French from El Bibane command a large expanse of country, including positions at Acqudor and Achirkane, and the occupation of the ridge brings the French line definitely north of the Ouergha, rendering possible the organization of an uninterrupted chain of strongholds on the right bank of the river.

Arrangements Made Whereby Italian Princess Will Not Renounce Catholic Faith.

RACCONIGI, Italy, Sept. 17 (Canadian Press).—With the marriage of Princess Mafalda, second daughter of King Victor Emmanuel and Queen Helena to Prince Philip of Hesse only a week away, preparations for the event are being pushed forward with alacrity. It is learned that negotiations with the Vatican over the fact that the Italian Princess is a Catholic and her intended husband a Protestant have smoothed away all difficulties and that the ceremony is to be carried out along the lines laid down for "mixed marriages." Princess Mafalda will be one of the first Catholic princesses since the Protestant Reformation to be married to a Prince of the House of Hesse without renouncing her Catholic faith.

MORE BURDEN FOR LAYMEN IN CHURCH

Missionary Secretary Advises Giving Them More Work in Mission Department.

OTTAWA, Sept. 17 (Canadian Press).—The board of management of the Missionary Society of the Church of England in Canada, today listened to the report of the general secretary, Rev. Canon Gould, of Toronto, who stressed the need for placing of an increased burden on the laymen of the church from coast to coast.

Emphasizing the marked development in strength in the indigenous churches throughout the period covered, the report stated the latest figures gave 8,340,000 native Christians as compared with 3,600,000 in the mission field 25 years ago.

The gifts of native churches had more than doubled since 1911. The total Anglican contributions throughout the world were in excess of $5,000,000 last year.

Was Forced To Pay Duty Because Of Cat's Whiskers

LONDON, September 17. — United Press. — The cat's whiskers are dutiable, under the English Customs Act.

A foreign manufacturer found this out when he tried to ship into England several dozen handkerchiefs embellished in the corner with a smiling needlework portrait of Felix the Cat. Each Felix had six whiskers. Each whisker was of silk.

"Dutiable on account of the whiskers," said the Customs office.

"You're crazy," reported the shipper," as crazy as Felix."

But the home office backed its customs official up—and the importer had to dig down into his pocket to the extent of a 2 per cent ad valorum duty on the whole shipment all on account of Felix's silk whiskers.

Let's Talk It Over

If I had the secret of "how to be popular" I'd be the most sought-after woman in the world—also the richest! But if I could tell all these girls and women who wrote, asking how to make this one or that one like them, it wouldn't do any good, anyway—for they'd never believe me.

The secret of popularity, if secret there be, must be a simple, homely thing, for simple, homely folks so often have it. To every Cleopatra there are ten thousand plain Mary Janes, going their gingham way through school and high school, finding the "nicest boy," marrying and being happy.

Haven't you seen it happen time after time—the "ugly duckling" sister landing the matrimonial prize packet while the one whom everyone has been expecting to do something fancy in the way of plucking a husband sits on the shelf?

Nearly every family has an Aunt Mrytilda or a Great Aunt Millicent who was the village belle, but kinda lost out in the final shuffle. I don't know why it is, but I have a hunch that a big bump of conceit has something to do with it. Your unpopular girl and stranded maiden aunt are always choosy about their company. They are always sure they ought to be cast for the prima donna, and if Fate seems uninclined to hand 'em the stellar role they go and sulk in the wings instead of singing out with the rest of the chorus.

We can't all be "popular"—we can't all occupy the center of the stage and win the handsome tenor. But, migosh, there are lots of other good jobs for girls. If you can't charm the sheiks by your light foot and merry laughter in the dance, let some other dame do her stuff on the dance floor and try your luck on the tennis court or the kitchen stove. All the husbands aren't won by the Shebas. And it's only when a natural-born cook refuses to demonstrate her own talents and tries to horn in on the light fandango stunts that she loses out.

Find your own game and play it.

That's my advice to Lolita—and all the other girls who aren't succeeding at somebody else's.

Oh, please, dear Pal, help me—give me the advice that will show me the way to be popular. I don't mean that I haven't any friends—I have a lot, but they are all girls. I am twenty and have hardly ever gone out with a boy. What is wrong?

You've answered other such letters as this one and told the girls to be natural and forget all about being self-conscious. Well, Elsie, I don't think I am any more. I used to be tongue-tied in conversation with boys, but now I'm very much more at ease with them.

At dances or parties I'm never a wallflower, and my programmes are nearly always filled, so I could be worse off here. But the parties I do go to are always given by girls and I never hear from any of the boys afterward. Just what should I do so they will want to see me again?

I am not a beauty by any means, but I am prettier than lots of the girls I know who go out. My clothes are as good as theirs, too. Yes, I know men don't like to take girls out if they aren't nicely dressed. Clothes do make a difference, but that isn't the main thing—what is it?

I have two cousins. One is thirty-five and the other twenty-six. The thirty-five-year-old one is by far the prettier and has dressed better and seems just as nice as the twenty-six-year-old one. But she can count the number of times she has been out with me, it has been so seldom. The other one has been going since she was sixteen and is going to be married. What is the difference? Do I have to make up my mind to the fact that I'll never be popular with the opposite sex?

I've been raised with younger children, so maybe I'm young for my age. I wouldn't mind waiting for a while, but if I wait much longer I'll be too old to enjoy the things I like now. Please tell me what to do, deal Pal. —Lolita.

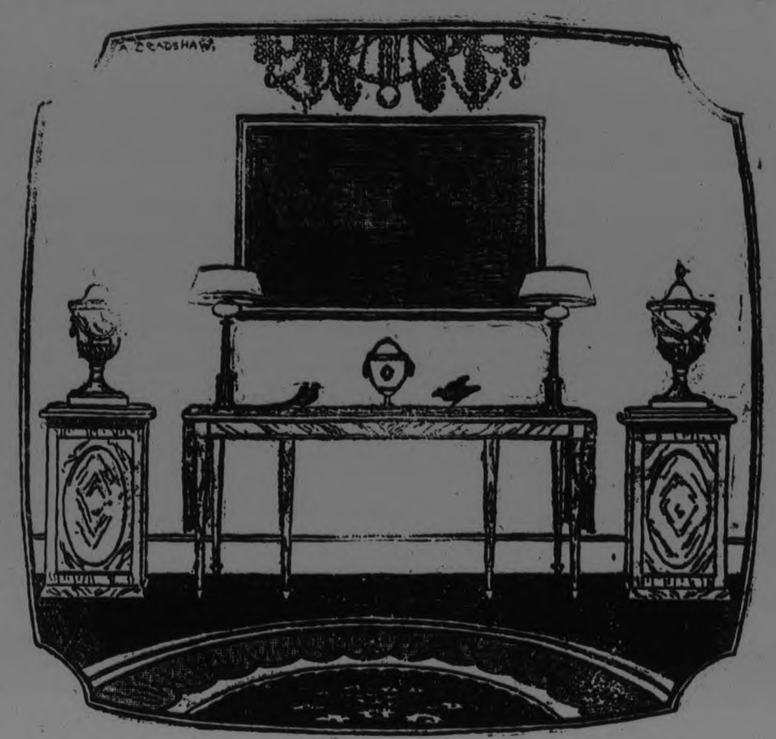
DINING ROOM DECORATIO N — By Annette Bradshaw



The formal dining room is again coming to the fore, after years of a pleasant informality which to most of us seems more homelike.

The Adam console, flat against the wall, flanked on either side by mahogany pedestals and hand carved urns, gave the room an almost austere appearance.

The pedestals, be it known, were just as useful as ornamental, for on opening them, they were found to be plush-lined silver cases.

The only decorations used on the console, were two sliver pheasants and an old-fashioned silver turgen. The lamps at either end of the table were of silver, with shades of plain parchment, banded with brown to match the furnishings. The scarf is of brocade matching the curtains with deep brown rat-tail fringe in brown.

The painting over the console was a landscape in rich colors with the dull greens and browns predominating which blended marvelously with the room.

The arrangement was one which immediately took the eye on entering the room, and is easily copied.

Tall lantern-lamps can be used in place of the pedestals, in which case silver candlesticks, or candelabra can be substituted for the lamps on the console. The simpler the arrangement, the more artistic the effect.

ADVICE TO GIRLS — By Annie Laurie

DEAR ANNIE LAURIE:

I am a girl in my teens and am in love with a young man a few months younger than I. My parents object to his coming to see me, although he doesn't come often. Should we continue our friendship?

BROWN EYES.

BROWN EYES: If this young man is worthy of your friendship you must convince your parents that his character is above reproach, Miss Brown Eyes. I am sure they want you to entertain your friends at home, and if you talk the situation over frankly with them they will not stand in the way of your happiness. Give them an opportunity to meet all your friends and judge of their merits and they will undoubtedly enjoy having them call on you.

DEAR ANNIE LAURIE:

Is it considered proper for a girl of sixteen to kiss a young man of the same age? TROUBLED.

TROUBLED: Most decidedly not! Demonstrations of affections between people who are not engaged to be married are never proper, m ydear. And they are most certainly unwise. No young man values the friendship of a girl who defies the conventions, regardless of what he may say. You will gain more friends through personal charm and sincerity of manner than through the defiance of social laws.

DEAR ANNIE LAURIE:

I am a young girl of seventeen and I am very attractive among young and old folks. I have been keeping company with a young man for some months, and like him very much. Now there is another young man and every place I go he is trailing up and I would like to know how I can get rid of him, as I don't want anything to do with him. I never went any place with him and refuse him every time. He asks me to go places.

FARMERETTE.

FARMERETTE: I wouldn't worry too much about this unwanted admirer, Farmerette. If you continue snubbing him and refusing to go out with him, it is quite likely that, as time rolls along, he will perceive that you do not wish his attentions, and will fade into the background. At seventeen this sort of thing is bound to occur. As time passes, you will probably not be pestered with so much attention.

SECRETS OF CHARM — By Lucrezia Bori

THE DIET AID TO BEAUTY.

"Do you think I'm getting fatter?" This is a question which so many women ask imploringly of their friends, at the same time implying by their tone of voice, "Don't say I am. I want you to say I'm not."

This, my dears, is no way to go about keeping your body in the best trim and your lines at their loveliest.

You can easily find out for yourself if you are growing fatter. Don't ask your friends about it. Rely on yourself for information, and when you find that you are gaining more than you wish, go about losing the extra pounds quietly and consistently. I have often noticed that the woman who talks much about dieting is the most inconsistent person in the world when it comes to really dieting. She overdoes the starving one day and overeats the next.

Now, I am going to outline briefly a course of diet which a friend of mine pursues whenever she finds that her scales are creeping upward in what they register. This takes off the extra weight rather quickly, as quickly as she considers safe, and then she eats regularly but sparingly to keep her weight where she has gotten it.

Too drastic a diet is hard on the system. This one I am going to tell you about should be safe enough if you are strong and normal. If you have any doubt about its advisability for your case you should consult your physician before you take it up.

The person in question allows herself only one solid meal a day while she is dieting. This meal she takes either for lunch or dinner. The other two meals should be liquid. Of these liquids she allows herself to have buttermilk, orangeade with out sugar, or any of the following soups:

Celery, tomato (not crema of tomato, but the clear soup), vegetable.

Cornstarch, puddings, figs, dates, carrots, beans, spaghetti, fried foods, bread (except 100 per cent whole wheat), turnips, beets, eggs (except soft boiled or poached), chow-mein, butter, cream, all sweets.

To help you in this course I will give you a sample of a reducing luncheon or dinner:

Salad without Dressing.
Spinach or Stewed Tomatoes.
One slice of toast or whole wheat bread.

You should not take water with your meals, nor any liquids such as coffee or tea. If you seem to require coffee for breakfast, you may have one cup of black coffee, unsweetened. You may not like your coffee this way at first, but you can easily become accustomed to it. You should wait at least one hour after eating before you drink water. Water with meals is fattening.

PETERBOROUGH FANCIES — By Jeannette.

WOOL IS POPULAR.

The first showing of Autumn fabrics shows a leaning toward woollen goods, in suede finishes and colors of bird plumage, with kashas, broadcloths, charmeens, flannels and balbriggans in the modish list. Silk velvet and metallic fabrics are prominent, also crepes and satins in wide widths, and metal brocades are especially good for evening wear.

For color the woollen fabrics have gone to bird's plumage, to rusty brown of the cuckoo, the deep blue of the grackle-head's topknot, the royal purple of the queen bird's breast, the dark green of the toucan, the soft shade of the brown dove, the warm brick tone of the tanager, the smoky grey of the falcon, the golden sand of the plover.

In woollen fabrics, the tendency is for a soft suede finish, with French Suedora, alucurious coating, Mokine, Suede Coating, and Carmina, all as variations of the suede theme. The new kashas show clever patterns, in diagonals, squares, stripes and triangles. Broadcloth in an exquisitely soft, supple finish has returned to favor, charmeen has added a wonderful satin sheen, balbriggan has a tremendous popularity for the two-piece sports frocks, and bordered flannels are very smart.

Glinting metal and vivid color is promised for the season's evening background in social affairs. Chiffon velvets are prominent, in browns, blues, greens and the new red shades, and cut velvets on transparent grounds show an amazing variety of color and pattern. Metal brocades are the supreme top note of fashion, and come in innumerable patterns and colors.

Rayon (fibre silk) and printed cotton and silk materials, will be much used, and flat crepes and crepe satins retain their prestige, partly by merit of the new 54-inch width in which they are woven. Flat crepe comes in the fashionable Oriental rug colors, and crepe satin in either plain or self-striped effects.

TRY THESE DESERTS

Orange Custard (serves 7).

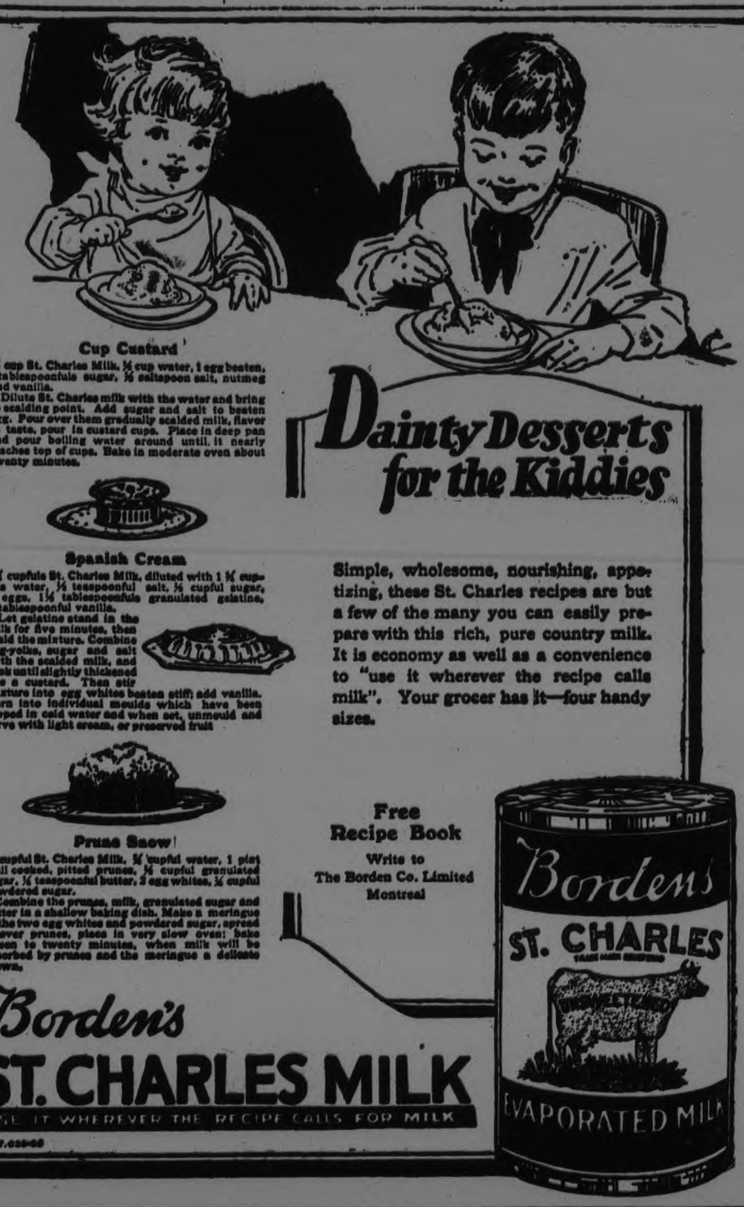
2 cups Borden's St. Charles Milk.
1 cup hot water.
8 tablespoons cornstarch.
3 eggs.
1-4 teaspoon salt.
1-4 cupful cold water.
3-4 cup orange juice.
2 tablespoons lemon juice.
Grated rind of one orange.
1 cup sugar.

Mix cornstarch, sugar and salt, dilute with cold water. Add to scalded milk and hot water, stirring constantly until mixture thickens, afterwards occasionally; cook fifteen minutes. Add orange juice and slightly beaten eggs that have previously been mixed; mix thoroughly and lastly, add the lemon juice and orange rind. Cool and serve.

Caramel Custard (serves 6).

1 tall can Borden's St. Charles Milk with enough water to make 1 quart.
5 eggs.
1-2 teaspoon salt.
1 teaspoon vanilla.
1-2 cup sugar.
1-4 teaspoon nutmeg.

Gradually sift sugar into a hot skillet, shaking the skillet vigorously all the time to prevent burning. The sugar should melt about as fast as it is sifted into the pan. When it turns to an amber color (a light resin color) set on back of stove and add milk, being careful that milk does not bubble over, as is liable on account of the high temperature of sugar. As soon as the sugar is melted in the milk, add mixture gradually to eggs slightly beaten. Add the salt and flavoring to egg and milk mixture. Bake in custard cups in a moderate oven.



A FASHION MODEL'S DIARY — By Grace Thorncliffe

CHIC STREET DRESS OF NAVY REP FOR FALL.

"It seems that we mankins no sooner get through with our Summer things and feel that our Summer wardrobes are quite complete, before we must begin making things for Fall," Pam remarked to-day with a sigh.

"One reason we make Summer clothes all Summer is that we can't afford to order half a dozen frocks at a time, as so many of Madame's smart clients can do," I reminded Pam.

"Of course we can't," Pam agreed. "But I do think we have a lot of fun sewing on our things."

"Sure we do," I admitted, readily enough. Then I said:

"Let's plan your Fall street frock Pammie."

"I had thought I'd rather have a navy blue rep than anything," Pam said, so that was settled.

Then Pam insisted on drawing a sketch of a frock she had evolved in her mind.

I offered her the back of a menu I found on the tea-room table, and Pam pulled her ever-ready pencil from her bag.

With a few deft strokes, she outlined a graceful frock, and then set about to put in the finishing touches.

"The dress will be a simple, straight affair," Pam explained as she drew.

"Looks like kimona sleeves," I commented.

"They are cut in one with the frock, and they are long and tight, Pam informed me.

"There is a set-on section at the front of the skirt, to give more fullness.

This Slim Navy Rep Is Made with a Satin Inset at the Front.

She added tiny folds of black satin for cuffs, and the drawing was complete.

DELORO ENTERS PROTEST ABOUT BROCKVILLE WIN

Losers Charge That Hare, Visiting Hurler, Was Playing Under Assumed Name.

SCORE WAS 5-4.

Game at Deloro Was Close and Hard Fought From Start to Finish.

MARMORA, Sept. 17.—Yesterday afternoon Brockville won the first game of the O.B.A.A. semi-final series by beating Deloro 5-4 in a close game which has been protested, Deloro charging that Hare, who pitched the first seven innings for Brockville, was playing under an assumed name.

The game was a battle right through. It was the fastest game played on the Deloro field this year and was witnessed by a large crowd. Both teams hit and fielded well.

Deloro opened the scoring with one run in the fifth. The visitors came right back in the sixth with four. Deloro scored three in the last half of the inning, tieing up the score to the great delight of the crowd. The seventh was scoreless, but in the eighth the visitors managed to put over the winning run. Valiant efforts by Deloro in the eight and ninth were unavailing and the visitors went away victorious, although their right to the win is in dispute.

Both pitchers were good. Shea went the whole distance for the home team. Hare, whose identity is disputed, pitched seven innings and then gave way to Murray, who held the threatening homesters from scoring. The score by innings:

BOB ARMSTRONG CIRCUIT WINNER

Straight Heat Victory Won Over Boggy Track in Great Finish.

SYRACUSE, N.Y., Sept. 17—Norman Tallman, of Memphis, Tenn., piloted his chestnut horse, Bob Armstrong, to a thrilling straight heat victory yesterday over Tommy Murphy's Crawford and six other leading Grand Circuit trotters in the twenty-first renewal of the rich $10,000 Empire State stake at the New York State Fair Grounds.

Racing over the cinder track after rain had made a quagmire of the large clay oval, Tallman brought his speedy son of the famous Chestnut Peter up from the rear in both heats to win by means of a driving finish.

BRADFORD WIN FROM COMBINES

Havelock-Norwood Tied Up Round in First Period But Faded.

SCORE WAS 13-2.

(Special to The Examiner)

BRADFORD, Sept. 17. — The Havelock-Norwood combines were defeated here yesterday by 13-2, Bradford winning the semi-final intermediate O.A.L.A. round by 20 goals to 7. The Easterners started yesterday at a fast clip before the biggest local crowd of the season and in a little more than ten minutes had tied up the round 7 to 7. Harry Baker got through the Bradford defense for the first and Doug Brennan repeated. The locals appeared over-confident or indifferent all through the peroid which ended 2-0 for the visitors. In the second session Bradford took the lead Reeves getting two goals and Robinson one. Then in the third they increased their lead. They backed Havelock-Norwood in on their goal in a defensive game that failed to stem the Bradford tide. Reeves and Harmon notched one each, and Sutherland two, for a total of seven to 2. The visitors tried hard in the final quarter but could not make an impression on the Bradford defense, while six goals were registered against them. Armstrong scored one, Harmon three, Turan one and Doonan one.

The visitors played a better game than at Norwood but they lacked experience in attacking. Armstrong played a fine game in goal. It was clean lacrosse with only three penalties, Bradford drawing two. The locals will meet the winners of Hamilton vs Wallaceburg in the final round, Hamilton having eliminated Fergus by 20 to 9.

THEY DO COME BACK.

SALT SECRET OF AMATIS

BERLIN, Sept. 16.—The extraordinary resonance of the famous Amati violins is due to the fact that they were stained with lime salts, German violin makers believe. The cause of the remarkable tone of the instruments has been a secret, but it is now claimed to come from the salts remaining imbedded in the pores of the wood.

MIDGET LEAGUE WON BY ROYALS IN CLOSE GAME

Score of Final Game of the Series Was 3-2 For Royals.

FAST FIELDING.

Both Teams Had Many Chances to Score, But Didn't Hit.

Royals are Midget City Baseball Champions. They won the honor by beating the Kiwanis Midgets 3-2 in a close game yesterday afternoon at the Riverside Park In the first game of the play-offs the Royals won 8-7.

The teams were very evenly matched and most of their games this year have been lost and won by the odd run. Yesterday each team made seven hits and had six errors. The Royals put more men on the sack but had a great many (12 in fact) left stranded. The Kiwanis put fewer men on but at that were several times in such a position that a hit would have made all the difference between a win and a loss.

The feature plays of the game were catches by Wolfe and Beavis in the outfield, and the snappy double play in the sixth that stopped a Kiwanis rally. Both teams cut loose with some terrible throwing, usually making a wild peg when a good one would have been too late anyhow. When a play was possible the toss was always good. Throws maed to the wrong place were also instrumental in putting men on.

At bat, Hatton, Carrol, McDuffee and McGee, all obtained two hits in four times up. McGee had the edge as he collected the only base hit of the game, a double on a drive into right. At that he was nearly nipped at second, as Beavis made a fast play, chasing the ball and throwing to second while on the dead run.

Both teams scored in the second. For the winners, Reynolds beat out a tap to third. He moved up on Spry's roller to the box. Carroll struck out and Wilson walked. Goodson tapped in front of the plate, and Reynolds scored when McGee threw far into the right field. Hope struck out.

The count was soon even again. Terry Hall singled He held first on Deforge's high fly, which Hollingsworth dropped but threw to Hope in time for the forcecut. Deforge took second on a wild pitch and third on Walfe's tap to the box. Making a hurried throw across to third to complete a double play when the runner was already at the base, Reynolds threw wild, and the runner scored.

The score remained even until the fourth, when what was to prove the winning run was scored. Spry was safe on McDuffee's error. Carroll singled, sending Spry to third, and stole second, Wilson hit to Terry Hall and Spry was cut down at the plate. T. Hall threw to the stand on Goodson's tap, and Carroll and Wilson both scored. Hope and Beavis struck out.

Kiwanis cut the lead in half in the sixth. McGee doubled and stole third. He was out at the plate on Dormer's tap to the box, but Hatton dropped the ball. A fast double play, Goodson to Hollingsworth to Reynolds, on Jones' roller, cut off any further runs.

From that time on both teams had men on but the necessary hits were not forthcoming. In the eighth the Royals had the bases full with two out, but Hollingsworth forced Beavis. In the last half of the same frame. McDuffee led off with a hit. Manager McFadden used good strategy at this point, taking out his little lefthander and substituting Routley, a speedball right hand artist. The change was justified. Jack Hall struck out. McGee singled and stole second. Dormer's bunt didn't go far enough and McDuffee, who slipped when he tried to run, was tagged by Hatton. Jones struck out and the game was over, and the last series of the city league was wound up.

The game was called at the end of the eighth on account of darkness.

BOROTRA BEAT WHEN WILLIAMS MADE RECOVERY

3 Straight Sets Accomplish Downfall of French Cup Here

JAPANESE OUT.

Lacoste Advanced at Expense of Norton's Loss—Anderson Downed By Johnston.

FOREST HILLS, N.Y., Sept. 17—Jean Borotra, hero of France's gallant Davis Cup fight this year, faded from the competitive picture for this season when he met crushing defeat yesterday at the hands of R. Norris Williams, veteran captain of the United States Davis Cup forces.

Williams, staging a comeback which lifts him to contending position in the national singles championship, out-generalled and outplayed Borotra to score the outstanding triumph of the day by the decisive margin of 6-2, 6-2, 6-2.

Altogether, it was a bad day for the foreign contingent as a whole in the third round of the national tournament. The last two Japanese representatives, S. Onda and T. Harada, were put out along with James O. Anderson, Australian captain, who fell a victim to Wallace Johnson's chop strokes. On the other hand, Rene Lacoste, France's Wimbledon champion, was forced to five sensational sets before he downed Brian Norton, the former South African, now a resident of St. Louis, by scores of 6-4, 2-6, 8-6, 3-6, 9-6, in the most thrilling encounter of the afternoon.

Meanwhile, the forces of the United States, headed by the defending titleholder, William T. Tilden, dominated their matches in decisive fashion. In addition to Williams' victory, William M. Johnston and Vincent Richards, two outstanding native contenders for the crown, advanced without serious opposition.

Tilden, playing as he pleased, disposed of the Japanese, Onda, in sweeping fashion, by scores of 6-3, 6-3, 6-2, while Johnston's withering drives spelled the downfall of the plucky Chicago youngster, George Lott, at 6-1, 6-3, 6-3. Richards was not seriously threatened to down Harada, 6-3, 6-0, 8-6.

The trouncing administered to Borotra by Williams was the most starting upset of the day, but it was not as hard fought as the tussle in which Johnson put out Anderson by scores of 6-1, 1-6, 8-6, 6-4. Anderson played erratically, except in the second set, but he found Johnson's steadiness baffling. The Philadelphia veteran had the tall Anzac running from side to side after cleverly placed chopped drives. In each of the last two sets Anderson faltered under this tireless attack after gaining leads of 4-2 on games in each chapter.

Manuel Alonso, the Spaniard, advanced at the expense of Alfred H. Chapin, Jr., of Springfield, Mass., in straight sets, 6-0, 8-6, 6-3, while Howard Kinsey, San Francisco, brushed aside the stubborn opposition of Jerome Lang, of Columbia University, to win by 6-4, 4-6, 6-0, 6-0.

INSIDE GOLF.

Maker of 81 Golf Champions. "Golf's most successful teacher," says "Chick" Evans

By CHESTER HORTON

The average golfer understands what is meant by the arcs described by the clubhead in its backward and forward swings. Presumably the forward arc is the same as the backward one — possibly it varies slightly. There is another arc in the swing, however, and that is the arc described by the hands. This parallels the arc of the clubhead, but is on a much smaller scale. This arc of the hands is what does the trick though, and while the player will do well to forget, in a sense, the arcs of the clubhead, he can add something worth while to his game by studying the arc of the hands and learning where and how they come into the swing and for what effect. I shall discuss this in subsequent articles.

LIBERAL-CONSERVATIVE MEETING HELD

'We want to maintain the principle of Protection," said Mr. Guthrie. "We do not want the King tariff. Mr. Meighen's platform is to protect the farmers as well as the manufacturers, but nobody is advertising high protection. All we ask is reasonable protection. Protection will not increase the price to the consumer. The infernal tariff arrangement of Mr. King has brought ruin to the country."

Mr. Guthrie held that an effort should be made to offset the competitors from the United States. They would not have us in their markets if they could help it. If Mr. Meighen were returned to power the first thing he would do would be to protect the agricultural interests, particularly in Eastern Canada and Ontario. Mr. Guthrie referred to the exodus across the line, and claimed that the country was not going ahead, but drifting. The country was borrowing money in the United States, which was glad to get our securities. They were getting our raw materials and would soon have a stranglehold on us. Meighen would stop the export of natural products.

Tribute was paid Mr. Meighen's statesmanship. He was the man, said Mr. Guthrie, to bring Canada back on its own feet to prosperity for the farmer, the laborer and the manufacturer.

Mr. T. H. Stinson, the candidate, predicted that the riding of Victoria and Haliburton would be redeemed. He had no hard feelings against those of his friends who voted against him in the last election, but after they had seen the fiasco made of things in Ontario, he felt that they would be with him in the present fight. The issue was whether the people wanted in Canada a nation of their own, or to be a party to annexation to the United State. Canada must not stand for a lowering of the tariff. They could not get wider markets when all the other markets of the world were against them. Yet the Progressives cry for a wider market. The pay roll in the Town of Lindsay is more than $500,000 less than in 1921. The town lost the Dominion Arsenal and its pay roll, and other industries have been crippled. What the country needed was a tariff that would give protection to our own people and give them work. The Conservative party has backed public ownership, and Mr. Meighen was prepared to stand behind the Canadian National Railways, but there must be some management. It cannot be made a paying concern by adding to capital investment. Waste must also be eliminated.

Mrs. Howard Fallis of Peterboro was given a very cordial reception. She remarked that fifty-one per cent. of the women in Ontario had the franchise, and she was proud of the fact. She pointed out how the tariff of the present government effected the farm woman and the city woman. Mr. King advocated low prices for foodstuffs, but that would not make for progress. What the farmers wanted was the markets of Canada for their produce without any outside competition. The farmers near the City of Peterboro were hard hit by the tariff while in the city men were out of employment and their families were in want. The laborers in Peterboro applauded and voted for a man who declared for a full and untied dinner pail before the last election.

Mrs. Fallis referred to the honor conferred on the City of Peterboro in the appointment of Hon. Mr. Gordon as Minister of Immigration. She congratulated him on his appointment. She had nothing to say against Mr. Gordon as a man, but differed with him on many public issues. He had published a manifesto in The Peterboro Examiner shortly after his appointment in which he declared his intention of trying to bring back those Canadians who had gone to the United States. His leader, Premier King, had stated that there had been no wholesale exodus across the line. "Is Mr. Meighen right," said Mrs. Fallis, "when he says that 60,000 Canadians crossed the border because they were out of work, or is Mr. King right when he says they did not go? If they did not go, how is Hon. Mr. Gordon going to bring them back If we had the right kind of a tariff policy, we would not want an immigration policy, for people in the United States would be coming to this country."

The attack came too suddenly and too unexpectedly for any of the onlookers to interfere. Bob's own wariness was all that saved him; he caught the terrible arm when its razorlike tip was so close that it pricked a drop of blood from his throat. An instant later Spike went flat and cold from a smashing right fist which Bolts Morran had unleashed almost simultaneously with Spike's murderous thrust. Handcuffs were clamped on Spike while he was still unconscious, and the detectives bore him away to temporary confinement in the headquarters building until he could be turned over to the local authorities.

"You're a cool customer," sputtered Bolts. Jim had told him, during their short walk from the roundhouse before meeting the detectives, that Bob sought work; so, inspired by Spike's mistake in the connection of Bob with the arrest, Bolts now proposed abruptly, "There's always a chance for bright, cool guys with the Road's detective staff. I can fix it for you. What say?"

Bob tried to look pleased and thoughtful, though inward convulsions—whether of fear or of merriment—sucked in the corners of his mouth. Him—a detective! Presently regaining control of himself, albeit there was a curious timbry nervousness in his voice, he answered, "No, thanks! I want to fire—and then to drive."

Although Jim kept silent his pleasure in Bob's decision was reflected in his face. Morran, too, looked pleased. "You're turnin' down something easy for something hard and dirty," he warned. "Have you had any drivin' experience?"

"Can drive a flivver!" Bob boasted, innocently....

"Hell," exploded Bolts, "I don't mean a lousey gas buggy—I mean a real, steam engine! A good old poundin,' sweatin', lurchin', coal-swillin' Mallet or Baldwin or Cook or American!"

"No!" stammered Bob in a drowned voice.

"What's your education been, son—and by that I mean pistons, not poetry—mechanics, not music? Can you tell the business end of a Stilson?"

Bob thought remotely of his B.S. from Princeton; his M.E. from Carnegie Tech; his post-graduate work at Massachusetts, during hich he had invented a new type cylinder head vacuum with which these very same Mallet thoroughbreds that Morran's men fussed over and groomed like racetrack pets were equipped. But circumspection's white lies ruled Bob's tongue.

"Three years high school, worked in a machine shop, fired in the boiler-room of a city utility company back east and took lessons in 'Railroad Shop Practise' and 'How to Be an Engineer' from the Interocean Correspondence Schools of Scrambleton," he bragged vain-gloriously.

"Report for work seven o'clock Monday morning," he condescended, "and I'll shove a callous-stick into your fists, son. And now, so long—there goes a guy what's developed the hobo habit an' I got a few remarks to make to him!" Eyes flaming, he bolted after a passing yardman.

"Congratulations, Bob! You lie beautifully," chuckled Jim, wondering what Bob's education and training really had been. But Bob vouchsafed no information—his enigmatic smile indicated plainly his wish to consider that avenue of discussion now closed; his firm unwillingness to reveal any of his secret past even to Jim, whom he had accepted as his best and closest friend.

The offices of the Transrockian System's Mountain Division headquarters occupied the yard-end of the spindly, roach colored, blindlooking wooden building with long platform sheds—like insect antenna, perpetually feeling and searching before it for the shunting trains—that was ostentatiously spoken of in Crater City as "The Depot." Toward these offices, where Jim wanted to establish some facts regarding his coming resumption of duty, the friends leisurely strolled.

Bob, sitting down on an unused baggage truck outside to wait for Jim, drowsed into easy reflections; the sleepy warmth of the late afternoon, the reaction from moments of excitement, the clatter and bustle of the Yard leavened by distance into a soothing confusion of sounds, all conspired to encourage a reverie. A measure of mental peace had come to him with his decision to start life and a modest career anew here, untormented by worldly purposes and involvements, unknown and unlikely to be hunted out. Roaming always, the slate of his life would have been ever smudgy; now it was cleaned, and the writing thereon from this day forward would be his will—not the wind's will, not a sham society's will.

Then, with a stomach chilling suddenness that brought him cursing to his feet, he became aware that staring him in the face, ironically belying his comfortable feeling of security, was his own photograph on a handbill—tacked to one of the nearby pillars of the trainshed—that gave particulars as to his age and physical descriptions, and offered a large reward for information concerning him, dead or alive.

Gone, the present! An unending past was snapping at his heels! Bob felt sodden and airless, like a punctured bladder; his ears rang from the tumbling of his cardhouse about them.

If Jim came out now and read that brand—yet, it came to Bob as he scanned the poster with a detachment local to his eyes and not felt in his heart, that there was a chance he might not be recognized from the photographed resemblance. He had been soft, flabby, listless faced with the weight of a harassed mind when the picture was made; he was lean, hard, finely-drawn now. Still, the chance was too great. Jim must not see that handbill! Bob's eyes searched out what walls and pillars of the station were within his view, but no duplicate poster was to be seen. Perhaps only one had been sent to the local authorities in the usual police mail broadcasting. Bob fervently hoped so, as with grim energy, after a glance up and down the platform to make sure he was unobserved, he tore down the handbill and ripped it into bits which he crammed into his pocket for future surreptitious discarding.

A hoarse, slimy laugh rasped on the lazy air. Bob whirled in the direction whence it came and was shocked to see Spike indolently watching him from the small, barred window—the only window in that blind end of the depot—of a room in which he had evidently been put for safekeeping. Spike bore the archly wise air of a man who had been observing for a long time and with huge enjoyment. Bob, confounded by his discovery, non-plussed by the assurance of his tormentor, rushed at the window with hands extended to reach through and throttle Spike.

"You devil—you—you—oh, hullo, Jim—back already—"

Jim, pausing as he rounded the platform corner, looked at his excited friend in curious surprise; then, catching sight of Spike, he shrugged and came forward again.

"Oh, I wouldn't blame you if you did choke him, Bob," he sympathized, "but it's too hot to get excited at his like. Besides, he's got plenty coming to him. The men inside say they've got the goods on him for many things—breaking box car seals, among other things. He'll get fifteen years if he gets a day. Come, let's go home."

Sick at heart for reasons he could not confide, his outlook clouded with morbid speculation as to how much Spike had seen of the handbill, or knew, Bob stumbled away in silence beside Jim.

After him, a gleeful shout from the window—"I've got your number, 'bo!" After him, too, a derisive, mocking, knowing laugh that was to haunt and disturb Bob on many a day when otherwise surety and peace would have been his.

A family of women without fingernails or toe-nails was discovered in Italy recently by a scientist. For three generations no woman in the family had had a full-fledged finger or toe nail. In every other way the women are normal and healthy.

In Buenos Aires the women and girls enjoy a far greater measure of freedom than is the case in any other Latin-American city. They go shopping or to the theatre unaccompanied play golf or tennis at the club, and are allowed in general to lead the ordinary normal life of the typical English girl.

EXPECT POPE TO CONVOKE COUNCIL

Vatican Circles Say It Is Certain To Be Called Some Time in 1928.

LAST WAS IN 1869.

ROME, September 17. — Canadian Press. — In Vatican circles it is now considered certain that the Pope will convoke an Ecumenical Council, or world conference of the Catholic Church, during 1928, which is expected to be the largest in history.

The last Ecumenical Council was held in 1869, under Pope Pius IX.

There have been only 19 Ecumenical Councils in the history of the Catholic Church, the first being at Nicaea, in Asia Minor, in 325.

CHICAGO, September 17.—Canadian Press. — Joseph Holmes and Jack Woods, two of the five robbers, who a few weeks ago invaded the Drake Hotel and staged a pistol battle, in an attempted hold-up, were convicted early to-day by a jury of the murder of Frank B. Rodkey, the hotel cashier, and given the death penalty.

AT THE CAPITOL

"A SON OF HIS FATHER" BEST "WESTERN" TO DATE

Latest Harold Bell Wright Novel Victor Fleming-Paramount Production, with Bessie Love, Warner Baxter, Raymon Hatton.

A story based upon fact and photographed upon the scene of its actual happening with many of the real characters taking part, is Harold Bell Wrights "A Son of His Father," a Victor Fleming Paramount production, which will be shown at the Capitol to-day.

In Harold Bell Wright's country, near Tucson, Arizona, it is said that several years ago an incident similar to the plot of the story actually took place. From this Mr. Wright obtained the theme for his novel.

To film the story in keeping with its atmosphere, Paramount dispatched an entire company of almost two hundred persons to a location seventy miles from Tuscon, Arizona, and but a few miles from the Mexican border. Not far from this location the real incident occurred.

The story of "A Son of His Father" is the fascinating one of a changing west and concerns a desperate uphill battle against invading smugglers who attempt to gain possession of a ranch. Many of the extra players engaged on the location actually took part in the real encounter between the ranchmen and the smugglers.

Featured players in the production are Bessie Love, Warner Baxter and Raymond Hatton. The story was adapted for the screen by Anthony Coldewey. Walter McGrail heads the supporting cast which includes Chas. Stevens, Carl Stockdale, Billy Eugene James Farley, Valentina Zemina, and George Kuwa.

There's heart interest and comedy mixed with the thrills in this greatest "western" of them all—the first Harold Bell Wright story made into a Paramount picture. And it's done in real Paramount style!

AT THE ROYAL.

COMMUNITY SINGING AND AMATEURS' NIGHT.

Local amateurs and community singing will be added to the programme at the Royal to-night. The late song hits from the Leo Feist catalogue, including "Let Me Linger Longer in Your Arms," "Eukuella Lady," etc. This is in addition to the greatest dog picture that ever left the studios, Strongheart in Jack London's "White Fang."

JACK LONDON'S STORY, WHITE FANG, WITH STRONGHEART, HERE TO-DAY.

Witness the eclipse of the so-called "sex" pictures; and the ascendency of the Dog Show in motion picture heavens! For "Strongheart," the One and Only "dog star" is appearing in "White Fang," the picturization of the famous novel by Jack London at the Royal Theatre to-day. Lawrence Trimble and Jane Murfin have combined in directing and adapting this great story, which has been transferred to the Silver Sheet exactly as London wrote it; with a few deletions. Theodore von Eltz, as Weadon Scott, is a fine, upstanding and convincing hero, Mathew Betz is as good as he always is as a villainfil while Ruth Dwyer is a simple and attractive heroine. But the outstanding actor, even in this cast of excellent talent is "Strongheart." He gives a magnificent performance in the title role and proves anew his claim to fame as a "thinking" animal. The beauty of the Alaskan settings give a wonderful pictorial background to the tense, rugged drama of the whitened wastes.

AT THE GRAND

The Young-Adams Company arrived in Peterboro this morning from Kingston, where they just finished a highly successful engagement. Capacity houses greeted this popular company at every performance. It is by far the best stock organization that has visited Kingston in many years, and the theatre-goers of Peterboro are assured a rare treat when H. Wilmot Young, Marjie Adams and their big company of 20 people open a six days' engagement at the Grand Opera House to-night. In addition to the acting company, seven high-class vaudeville acts will be given. These features alone are more than worth the price of admission. It is beyond doubt the greatest entertainment ever offered in this city for the money. There has been a large demand for seats, and standing room will be at a premium when the performance starts to-night. If you have not secured your tickets, do it now — a word to the wise is sufficient. The offering to-night will beb the big New York sensational hit, "The Road to Ruin," a play once seen, never to be forgotten. The prices are within the reach of everyone—35, 35, 50 cents. A bargain matinee on Saturday — adults 25 cents, children 15 cents, for any seat in the theatre. Don't miss it.

EMIGRATION IS NOT SOLUTION

Can't Solve Unemployment Problem By Migration, Says Lawyer.

TRADE DEPRESSION.

TORONTO, Sept. 17 (Canadian Press)—Emigration from the British Isles to Canada is no solution of the unemployment problem in England, Lord Buckmaster, prominent British jurist, said in an interview here today, discussing unemployment in the Old Country which he said was "terrific."

The cause of our present difficulty," Lord Buckmaster said, "is depresion in trade. That depression is accentuated by world wide unrest."

MR. BURNHAM'S IDEA.

Mr. Burnham says he hopes that Conservatives will not think him impertinent if he suggests that candidates promise to give their whole time to the work of parliament. It is utterly useless, he says, to talk of improving the business of parliament unless the well-paid members devote their whole time to it and stay on the job.

ExhibitionNotes

No sweet peas in the flower show; an unusual default.

The Utilities Commission is supplying 250 h.p. of electricity, 75 h.p. more than last year, Ross Dobbin calculated.

Thirteen entries in the Northern Spy group of the fruit section, and twelve in the Wealthies, indicate the extent of that department.

With twelve firsts and probably another, also 5 seconds, and 2 thirds, George Downer made his highest score since he began exhibiting flowers at the Fair.

Whisper it not on Lansdowne Street, but the display of vegetables fell a little short of the accommodation provided, so Frank Kitney hustled home for enough choice vegetables to complete the scenery after the judging was ended.

Take a look at the tallest corn in the vegetable tent. You can't mistake it. Melville Johnston of North Monaghan, near Springville, grew it and the variety is The Pride of Nishna," and W. S. Merril estimated its weight at 300 pounds. The stalks are so tall they leave something of the effect upon city dwellers that the giraffe did upon the circus spectator who exclaimed: "There ain't no such animal."

The Metropolitan tent at the door of the Manufacturers' Building is equipped to care for lost children. There is a trained nurse in charge.

The Peterboro Fair goes far afield for its entries. Possibly the longest distance was covered by the embroidered pillow slips all the way from Halifax, Nova Scotia, which took first prize in their class, and are the work of Mrs. R. F. Merlin, mother of Mrs. Lawrence L. Maguire of this city.

SOCIETY

Mr. and Mrs. Gerald B. Cunningham of Sault Ste. Marie, Ont., are the guests of the former's mother, Mrs. Margaret Cunningham, 227 Perry street.

To-morrow (Friday) evening the Peterboro Lawn Bowling Club will hold another fruit competition. Rinks will be drawn at 7.30 sharp. As the season is nearing a close, it is hoped that a large number will be present. Be on time so that an early start can be made.

Strong Tone Displayed By Heavy Mine Trading

TORONTO, Sept. 17.—(Canadian Press).—A generally strong tone was displayed on the Standard Mining Exchange this morning, with trading reaching the heaviest volume of a single session for some time. Hunton and Lorraine were prominent, but while the former advanced 1½ at 6, Lorraine eased down a half. Tough Oakes strengthened 1¼, Castle Trethewey two, Keeley five and Bidgood a half.

Steamships Led In Advance On Toronto Exchange To-day

TORONTO, Sept. 17.—(Canadian Press). — The Toronto Stock Exchange this morning showed a unanimously strong tone, despite a change in the character of trading which took in a wider list. Canada Steamships Preferred registered the largest advance, 1 5-8 at 54 1-8, but Canadian Canners Preferred, the leader in volume of transactions, improved a quarter at 58.

Dominion Stores improved by a point and a quarter its jump of 7 points yesterday, and Stores Preferred strengthened a point at 108. Bell Telephone gained three-quarters of a point and Brazilian held unchanged at 73 3-4. British Columbia Fishing was reactionary, being marked down to 46, a loss of 1¼.

Anglo-Turkish Quarrel Has Influence On Wheat

CHICAGO, September 17. — Canadian Press. — Reports of strained relations between Great Britain and Turkey, gave an upward early trend to-day to wheat prices here. The fact that Liverpool quotations showed something of an advance, was taken as significant of the Anglo-Turkish situation, and as reflecting the smallness of immediate supplies destined for European countries. Reports of threshing delays in Canada were also given attention.

Chicago opening prices 3-8c lower to 1-8c higher; December 150⅝ to 151, and May 153 7-8 to 154 1-8 were followed by material gains all around —lifting the market to 152 1-8 for December and 155 1-8 for May.

Corn and oats sympathized with the action of wheat. Besides, there was talk of a better demand for corn to be shipped east. After opening at ½c off to 1-8 up December 82 7-8, the corn market scored a slight general advance. Oats started at 1-8 to 1-8 and ¼c higher, December 41 3-4 reacted a trifle, and then rose to above the initial range.

In the absence of any aggressive buying the provision market was weak.

Wide Range Of Stocks Is In Upward Movement

NEW YORK, Sept. 17 (Canadian Press)—Buoyancy of high priced industrial specialties featured the resumption of a broad upward movement of prices in today's stock market. Further easing of money rates stimulated pool activity in low priced industrial shares, more than a score of which were lifted to new peak prices for the year, bear traders feeling for the top of the market, indulged in some experimental short cutting after mid-day but offerings were generally well absorbed. Rumors of extra and increased dividends were brought forward to explain rise in some of motors, while railroad equipment shares responded to reports of increased buying and stock split ups. Rails again lagged behind the rest of the list. Extreme gains of five or more points were recorded before the end of the third hour by American Car and Foundry, American Can, General Baking, General Electric, Kelsey Wheel, Railway Steel Spring and Pullman. Oils showed somewhat firmer undertone on reports of decrease in crude production last week.

RAPID EXPANSION OF POULTRY SHOW AND IMPROVED QUALITY OF BIRDS IMPRESSED JUDGES

Voluntary Tributes to the Progress Achieved in This Department of Fair

PRAISE FOR PAXMAN

Efficient Service of Directors and Clerk Receives Special Compliment.

No department of the Peterboro Exhibition has advanced so rapidly as the poultry show. In fact, if all other branches were keeping pace with this one or even closely following it in its annual expansion, there would be no room or cause for directoral misgiving as to the general accomplishment of the objects of the Fair in promoting keener rivalry among the agriculturists of this district.

The poultry show has been setting the pace for the entire Exhibition without missing any steps in its remarkable growth.

The two judges, G. J. Lawrie of Maple, Ontario, and J. H. Warrington of Cornwall, paid unmeasured praise to the directors in charge of the poultry exhibits.

"This year's show is head and shoulders above last year's," declared Mr. Lawrie. "We started judging on Wednesday and we did not get through until Thursday at 4 in the afternoon, and we wasted no time. That alone will give an idea of the number of exhibits. Most of the birds were fitted for showing better than before, and that indicates greater interest by the breeders. It also makes for closer competition, and prize-winners at this Fair may be proud of their birds. Many of the birds were fit for any show and the classes were well filled. The Light Brahmas were as good as any I have judged in a long time. The Barred and White Rocks and the White Wyandottes were big classes and the quality was excellent."

And here's a little personal boost. Mr. Lawrie volunteered: "We never before got the service we got here, and that goes for the Toronto and Guelph shows. Your directors and clerk gave us the very best of assistance. George Paxman deserves a great deal of credit for the progress the Poultry Show has made. All exhibitors are alike to him. He is friendly and accommodating, and exhibitors must like the way they are treated here. And I have yet to hear a word of complaint from any exhibitor. In fact, some of them came to me afterward and said they were well satisfied with the awards."

Mr. Warrington seconded Mr. Laurie's tribute. "This was my first time at the Fair. Peterboro has a splendid plant and this poultry show is not far behind its winter poultry show. There was outstanding quality among the birds shown here. The building is not big enough, but in spite of that, the birds were well arranged and cared for."

The poultry judges, in brief, placed the Peterboro Exhibition's poultry show away up among the best in the country, and as specialists they were plainly delighted with the progress of the show and of the quality of the fowls, and also with the cordial and efficient help they had received from "Paxey" and his obliging staff."

WEATHER

There was a display of heavenly fireworks last night, or rather early this morning, that rivalled Roland Denne's display of pyrotechnics at the fair grounds earlier in the evening. It was accompanied by thunder clashes that made the noise-producing efforts of man seem feeble. And the rain! While this summer has furnished some heavy downpours that of last night was the heaviest. Over one and a half inches fell. To be exact it was 1.56. There should be no complaints this fall of dry wells or non-flowing streams, as the earth should now be at the fully saturated point.—W. P.

HON. G. N. GORDON TAKES STEPS TO PROTECT SOLDIER SETTLERS

Orders That None Are To Be Dispossessed Without His Knowledge.

TO PROBE CASES.

Finds That Some Would Suffer Undeserved Hardships and Losses.

TORONTO, September 18. Canadian Press. — Hon. George N. Gordon, Minister of Immigration and Colonization in the Federal government ,had not been long in charge before he was confronted with a problem of considerable magnitude, which he tackled with his characteristic energy, says a Toronto report of an interview with the new Minister.

He found that a large number of returned men, who have taken up land both in the West and in Ontario under the Soldiers' Settlement plan, are in arrears in their payments, and were likely to be dispossessed, and lose their farms.

"I went into the matter thoroughly," he said, "and came to the conclusion that if these men were to be held to the letter of the contract great and undeserved hardship would be the result in many cases.

"Accordingly I have just issued an order that in no case shall a man be dispossessed of his farm and equipment until the case has been fully probed by me personally."

Paint manufacturers are now scenting their product with lavender to meet the objections of the many people who find the odor of fresh paint exceedingly disagreeable.

STRANGE, BUT TRUE

Strange as it may seem, there are people who think that the Peterborough Industrial Exhibition is a "Country Fair." The following telephone conversation tells all about it.

Somebody calling The Examiner: "Will the Dog Show be open this afternoon?"

"Why, certainly."

"I though that at these country fairs the first day was for placing the exhibits and the second for viewing them."

"This isn't the first day of the fair. This is the fourth."

SPIREA IN BLOOM IN CITY GARDEN

June Flowering Plant is Befuddled by Fine Exhibition Weather.

Some blooms of spirea were brought to the Examiner today by a gentleman who reported that a bush in his garden was in full bloom. This is somewhat unusual as spirea is a June flowering plant and the sight of a bush covered with flowers in September has attracted considerable attention.

OFFER MASSEY NOMINATION IN DURHAM RIDING

NOT YET ACCEPTED.

Mr. Massey ,Asks For Time to Think Matter Over Before Replying.

ORONO, Sept. 18. — (Canadian Press).—Hon. Charles Vincent Massey, president of the Massey-Harris Company of Toronto, and newly appointed Minister in the King Cabinet, was unanimously requested to offer himself as Liberal candidate for Durham County in the coming Federal election at the Liberal convention here yesterday.

W. J. B. Davison, of Port Hope, president of the Durham Liberal Association, who presided at the convention, stated that Major Robert Gill, of Durham County, had previously consented to let his name go before the delegates, but upon the entrance of Mr. Massey into the fray, Major Gill gave way. President Davison reminded those present that Vincent Massey was a part-time resident of Durham County, and has a summer home near Port Hope. He is a man of very high ideals, who knows the agricultural situation from beginning to end, and whose appointment to the Cabinet was a knockout blow to the Opposition forces.

He related that on various occasion Durham has had notable men representing it in the Liberal fold. In bygone years Durham County turned down Sir Allen Aylesworth by a few votes, and again in the last election defeated W. T. R. Preston, but once again opportunity is knocking at the door and the president appealed to the people to support Vincent Massey.

Major Gill, in a short speech, explained that he understood the situation clearly and knew none more fit for the position than Mr. Massey. Major Gill said he had known Mr. Massey personally for several years, and has the utmost confidence in him.

Mr. Massey, in acknowledging the honor, stated that he wished to be allowed until Monday next to consider the matter, but it is regarded as practically certain he will accept the nomination.

Duncan Matshall, Liberal organizer, dealt with national expenditure, railroad and tariff questions. He recalled how Mr. Meighen had advocated the purchase of one thousand light tractors for distribution among the farmers, but instead of patronizing home industries he said the trucks were bought from Henry Ford's factory in Detroit.

STORM CAUSED LITTLE TROUBLE AT FAIR GROUND

Some of Concessionaires Had Wet Couches Inside Their Tents

SOON DRIED UP.

Last night's storm left surprisingly few evidences of its passing at the Exhibition Park this morning. The race track was muddy, but was rapidly drying under the combined mopping of wind and sun. A few of the concessionaires who slept in their tents in charge of their stock hung up dampened blankets, and some of the young men to whom the experience was all in their day's or rather night's luck frankly admitted that they had been thoroughly drenched.

The directors were congratulating themselves that old J. P. Probabilities chose the middle of the night and not the middle of the day for that downpour. It began to sprinkle around midnight, and towards two in the morning turned on all the sluices with an aerial cannonading that reverberated with magnified echo the brilliant fireworks display and explosions included in the evening programme of the Fair.

This morning the Dog Show opened with a swelling tumult as the dogs were benched. Terriers and spaniels and hounds yelped in unison either at their unaccustomed surroundings or at traditional enemies they sighted on neighboring benches.

DOG LOVERS CROWD BIG TENTS WHICH HOUSE CANINE EXHIBITS

Hounds Form Largest Class of Dogs Entered in Show.

SOME FAMOUS DOGS.

Champion at Toronto Ex. is Among Those Shown Here.

The Dog Show at the Exhibition, which opened at ten o'clock this morning, promises to be one of the major attractions for the final two days. Dog lovers, young and old, were crowding into the two big tents to-day to see the entries which have come from far and near. The success of the showing, with nearly four hundred entries as against last season's total of about two hundred and fifty, is already assured, and the energetic committee, with Messrs. W. S. Merrell, L. L. Maguire and H. S. Routley, is to be congratulated on the splendid showing in this, the second year that such an event has been put on at the Peterboro Fair.

The majority of people are interested in the dog, the most faithful friend, next to the horse, of mankind and they have plenty of opportunity to observe the best of many species, at this year's Fair, where breeds of every type are passing under the eye of the judge, F. H. Addyman, of Ardsley, New York. From the tiny brown Pekingese, a few inches in length, reposing daintily on a small cushion, like Curleylocks in the old nursery rhyme, to the majestic Newfoundlands with their coal-black coats, and the aristocratic and showy Russian Borzois, looking out on the world from cold agate eyes, there is something to admire.

The heat of to-day made the dogs more uneasy than usual. They yelp and bark in many keys. The little querulous yap of the tiny lap dog chimes in with the odd note of the bloodhound. In some of the boxes, the dogs sleep calmly, unmindful of the racket and clatter made by their more nervous companions.

The hounds form the largest class on view, and are described as being exceptionally good. There is a big showing also of the popular Boston bull terrier, and of Alsatian shepherd dogs.

"Highball Just It," the best of any entry, male or female, at the Toronto Exhibition, is shown by Earl Brown of Toronto; International Champions Kingsway Man o' War and My Reverie are two bull dogs all the way from Vancouver, B.C.,

Weaver's Long Fast Nears Biblical Length Of 40 Days

UNION CITY, N.Y., Sept. 28 (United Press).—The long fast of Emund B. Wuensche, a weaver, to cure himself of catarrah has taken on a Biblical aspect, at least in duration. Not satisfied that his ailment has been cured at the end of the thirty-sixth day of the fast, its scheduled termination, he plans to continue to next Sunday when he will have fasted 40 days and 40 nights. Wuensche continued working yesterday, although he admitted that his vitality was considerably weakened. He drinks two glasses of water daily.

STRANGE RESULTS FROM SEVERE STORM REPORTED FROM TORONTO

A HUGE TORCH.

TORONTO, Sept. 18.— (Canadian Press.)—This city and district was the scene of an unexpected deluge between 5 and 7 a.m. to-day. Accompanied by rudely awakening electrical effects, torrential rains descended on the city, flooding streets and cellars and smashing limbs and branches of trees by the weight of water. Lightning hit some part of the hydro power transmission system and placed portions of the city and many residences in darkness. Telegraph and telephone companies' lines were seriously affected.

The storm is believed to have been indirectly responsible for the death of Edwin Willers, aged 57, who was stricken with a heart attack just after hurrying for a street car while the storm was at its height. He died in an ambulance on the way to a hospital.

The gas was ignited in a gas main when lightning struck a hollow iron street car pole and grounded. The flames immediately issued from the two apertures at the top of the pole and continued for four hours until the gas flow was switched off.

Blue Ruin Shut Out From Fair Luncheon By Deputy Minister

W. B. Roadhouse, of Provincial Department, Tells Canada's Present Prosperity and Future Hopes—Biggest Crop Value in History — Lindsay Visitors.

KIWANIS AND DIRECTORS JOIN FORCES.

To the optimism engendered by the outstanding success of the Peterborough Industrial Exhibition was added today the optimism exuded by Hon. W. B. Roadhouse, Deputy Minister of Agriculture in the Province of Ontario, who was the principal speaker at the Kiwanis' and Directors' luncheon on the grounds. Canada, like the Peterborough Exhibition, is going over the top this year to new triumphs, according to figures given by the Deputy Minister, and while, like the Exhibition, the country has many years of depression to make good, it is his opinion that the splendid crops now being harvested, with the good prices prevailing, will make for financial stability, farm prosperity, and business revival in all parts of the Dominion. From first to last his address breathed the spirit of progress and achievement, bringing to the Exhibition Directors a wider view of the general prosperity of which their phenomenal success is but a part.

Some Competition

Mr. Roadhouse, in common with the other speakers, was compelled to enter competition with the vociferous barking of three hundred dogs in the next tent. He remarked that at fall fairs he had been in frequent juxtaposition to merry-go-rounds, brass bands, and chicken shows, all with their varying noises to be overcome, but this was his first experience with the din of a good, active, wide-awake dog kennel. In spite of the handicap, he professed himself happy to be present to join in the success of the Peterborough Exhibition. He lauded President Roland Denne for his painstaking efforts in connection with the Fair, complimented him on the gathering around him of so many energetic workers, and remarked favorably on the presence of the Kiwanis Club, showing the members' interest in the civic welfare. This spirit of good-fellowship, Mr. Roadhouse said, is needed to better the understanding of all people in city and country.

Encourages Prosperity.

Speaking of the estimated crop of the current year, and what it will mean if up to the present expectations, Mr. Roadhouse pointed out that he spoke without political significance. There are some, he remarked, who think that the government is entitled to credit for all the prosperity enjoyed by the country, while the Opposition is blamed for all the bad times.

Wheat is Canada's most important crop, the speaker said, important to the farmers and important to the industries of which the city is the centre. Then a large proportion of the

WAGE DISPUTE ARISES AGAIN

CUTTING WAGES.

LONDON, Sept. 18. — (Canadian Press).—The wage dispute between the coal mine operators and the miners, which only a few weeks ago threatened to culminate in a nation-wide strike, again has been referred to Downing Street for meditation.

During the last crisis Premier Baldwin averted trouble by guaranteeing a subsidy to the mine owners to enable them to continue paying the present wage for another nine months.

It is understood that the miners allege that the owners are infringing on their agreement not to cut the wages of the men.

ExhibitionNotes

A colony of bees swarmed at noon to-day in a rfershment booth on the midway and virtually closed it up for business while several beekeepers tried to lure the swarm from the "main pike."

Among the Exhibition visitors on Thursday were Thos. White of Chicago who, it is stated, had come all the way to see Peterborough's Fair. He visited the grounds with Mr. C. S. Stapleton.

Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Graham, of Kingston, also came up for the Fair.

Harry Keslick, in charge of the Imperial Tobacco booth, put in a busy week supplying many of the booths with tobacco, a convenience that indicates the completeness of the organization of the Exhibition service.

Best Gladioli Collection.

The prize winners for the best collection of gladioli in the flower show were: 1, A. E. Prest; 2, W. J. Kennedy; 3, Harry Carter.

One of the interesting entries today in the Dog Show, in the Borzoi Class, which has a large list, is the seven months' old Russian wolfhound belonging to Miss Marjorie Adams, of the Young-Adams Stock Company, now playing at the Grand Opera House. This dog, "Alexis Barzoa," took first and special prizes in its class at the Kingston Fair.

Elric H. White, Charlotte Street, who has a splendid showing of Barred Rocks in the poultry exhibit, suffered a slight diminution of his heart beats the other day, when he was arranging his display and some youthful wag made off temporarily with the long line of prize ribbons that Mr. White has accumulated during previous showings.

ON THE MIDWAY.

VIRGINIA MINSTRELS.

Reminiscent of plantation melodies and dances, are the songs and action of the Virginia Minstrels, a talented troupe of colored artists, who provide a smart, snappy entertainment. Some of the men of this company seem to be endowed with limbs of rubber, which certainly gets tied into various very complicated knots. Humorous numbers and negro cross talk kept the crowd in excellent humor last night and the appearance on the stage of the tiny son of one of the performers who mimicked the elder people while he "got outside' a large slice of bread, diverted everyone with in the tent.

A discussion between two of the company as to their comparative dancing abilities brought to light some strange unheard of dances and some amusing thrusts and repartee. Mr. "String Beans" Edwards, the trombone player, proved his versatility by getting on to the stage and initiating the closing scene of the performance.

THE CAIRO SHOW.

Musicians and dancers gave of their art outside the tent that houses the Cairo show where perfc mances were staged at varying intervals throughout the afternoon and evening. Within, Syd Pasha, gave an entertainment, consisting of sleight of hand and conjuring, while dancers gave expositions of Hula and Hawaiian dancing. Posturing and a Harem dance, were also included in the programme.

PITTSBURGH, Pa., Canadian Press. — Thomas Trimble claims the title of "Champion Bricklayer of the World." He recently established a record of 49,000 bricks in ten hours. The previous reported record, credited to James Brown, an Indian, of Kansas City, was 36,000 in the ten-hour stretch.

If you lose or find anything put a small ad. in the Examiner. They bring results.

BARNS BURNED DURING STORM

Two Fires Close Together Near Omemee, With Heavy Loss to Farmers

FIRE NEAR STIRLING

OMEMEE, Sept. 18—Two barns within two miles of each other were burnt this morning, being set on fire by lightning during the heavy storm which passed over the district.

Morgan O'Niell, who lives about four miles northeast of the village, lost his barn, containing the season's crop, one horse, about forty hens, a fanning mill, scales, harness and other implements. The insurance was not enough to cover the loss. .

Jesse Rix, living on the same line, one and a half miles east of Mr. O'Neill, also lost his barn and season's crop. Insurance was carried on the barn but not on the contents.

The barn of James Turner was struck by lightning and badly shattered but no fire occurred.

One Near Stirling

STIRLING, Sept. 18—Lightning struck the barn belonging to Clifford Hubbell, Rawdon Township, about five miles west of here, and the resulting fire completely destroyed the building and contents. The blaze broke out at about five o'clock. Some animals were saved.

MANY TOURISTS AT HEALEY FALLS

Estimated That 525 American Visitors Were Registered at Hotels and Cottages.

CAMPBELLFORD, Sept. 18.—A careful estimate shows that during the past season 525 American tourists have registered at the various resorts at Healey Falls, these places including Fred Keller's "Rest-a-While," and the summer cottages owned by George Dunham, Mrs. A. Aulthouse and Lee Bingham Norton. These tourists belong to the class that spend from two to four weeks at the Falls, enjoying the fishing and other attractions and as all are possessed of ample means it is figured that they have spent a total of at least $50,000 in the district.

Healey Falls is on Rural Route No. 4 which is covered by Charles Cochrane of Campbellford. During the summer season his work is more than doubled handling the mail of the American visitors so that the Post Office Department at Ottawa must share in the prosperity which these tourists bring to Canada.

HONESDALE, Pa., Sept. 18. — (Canadian Press.)—Many valuable historical relics from Canada are included in the collection of the late John E. Richmond, of this town, which has been presented to the Wayne County Historical Society.

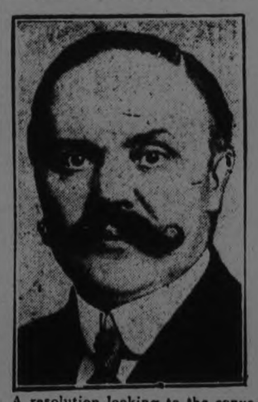
SPEAKS FOR FRANCE



A resolution looking to the convocation of an international economic conference was introduced in the assembly of the League of Nations by Louis Loucheur, speaking for France.

PRESENTATION TO PARTING FRIENDS

Young People's League Meeting Scene of Special Programme.

The Young People's League of the United Church of Canada opened on Monday evening with a rally service. The programme was divided in two parts. After the devotional exercises Misses Carrie and Ona Doxsee played a piano duet, Mrs. A. M. Brooks gave a reading entitled "The New Church Organ," an instrumental trio was given by Miss Joyce Richardson, Messrs. James and Wilfrid Knight, Miss Bessie gave a humorous reading "Ups and Downs in Married Life," and a hymn sang in unison closed the first part of the programme.

In the second half of the programme Dr. J. H. Hess acted as chairman. In a brief address the chairman explained the second part of the programme which was a presentation and farewell to Mr. and Mrs. C. E. Jones and Roland, who leave shortly for their new home in Kitchener.

A selection by the orchestra was called for first, Mr. Neil McDonald sang a solo, Miss Carrie Doxsee gave a piano solo . At this point Mr. Jones and Roland were invited to the platform and the following address was read:

Dear Mr. and Mrs. Jones and Roland,—We, your many friends of the Hastings United Church, Sunday School and Young People's League join tonight in this gathering in a formal way to say good-bye.

We can assure you that we will miss you as the days pass for we have found you ever willing to take your part in the work in every line of church work and citizenship.

As superintendent of the Sunday School, Mr. Jones, you have done faithful and efficient service. We will not soon forget how well you have served and what patience you have manifested during the years of your work. In every branch of the church's activities you have been a willing and an agreeable helper. We know that Mrs. Jones, before her illness, was willing to do her part in helping in all the departments of the work of the church Her faithfulness in her attendance in prayer meeting is not forgotten, nor her love for the Mission Band.

Since you find it necessary to leave us for your new field of service we wish you to accept these gifts which in the days to come may remind you of the friends with whom you were in association for nearly thirteen years.

We wish you every success and the richest blessing of our Heavenly Father in your journey through life.

Signed on behalf of the Church, Sunday School and Young People's League—Dr. J. H. Hess, Neil McDonald, R. C. Doxsee, J. M. Baker.

The gifts presented were two beautiful wicker chairs, and were presented by Mr. Ormand Cruickshank and Miss Hazel McDonald while Dr. Hess read the address.

Another address and presentation was made, Bryant Scriven reading the address and Walter Dodd making the presentation. This was to Roland from the members of the Hustlers' Class of boys of which he was a member..

Dear Roland—We, the members of the Hustlers' Young Men's Bible class of the Hastings United Church desire tonight to join in our sincere regrets that it is necessary for you to leave us.

As former president and a member of our class for years, we will miss you in the activities of our church life.

We sincerely trust you will find in the days to come a larger place to use our youthful and energetic spirit.

We wish you to accept this little gift as a slight token of our regard for you.

Assuring you of the love of the boys and their teacher, — Walter Dodd, president; Ormond Cruickshank, treasurer; Clifford Baker, secretary.

The gift was a set of ebony military brushes.

Mr. R. C. Doxsee and Mr. E. Briethrupt made a few remarks. Miss Jessie Wilcox sang a solo. Lunch was served at the close of the meeting..

PITTSBURGH, Pa., Sept. 18. — (Canadian Press.)— After having been graduated from the Harvard University summer school at Cambridge, Mass., Mrs. Grace C. Haworth, 69, has returned to her home here to resume her profession of teaching. She was the oldest of 2,500 pupils at the Harvard course. For 49 years she has taught in the same class room here.

CONSERVATIVE NOMINEE

Hon. R. B. Bennett, K.C., who was Minister of Justice in the Meighen cabinet, has been nominated in the West Calgary Conservative convention as candidate in the federal election.

CAMPAIGN NOTES

ESTABLISH HEADQUARTERS

CAMPBELLFORD, Sept. 18—The Campbellford Liberals have established their campaign headquarters in a room in the Ferris block. Vice President D. W. Douglas has issued a call to the members of the party to attend a meeting at headquarters on Friday evening when plans for organization will be proposed and discussed.

A VETERAN COMES BACK.

Sam Clarke, M.L.A., of Cobourg, who has recently recovered from a serious illness was in town yesterday and looks as well and apparently is as active as he was before being taken ill early in the spring when he survived two operations and an attack of pneumonia. Mr. Clarke is physically fit to take an active part in the present campaign and as a fair and effective political worker he has few equals. He has represented his riding in the Legislature as the choice of the Liberal party for the past 26 years.

CONSERVATIVES ACTIVE

The Conservatives are active and declare that they will be able to roll up a majority in Campbellford sufficiently large to offset any gains the Liberals may be able to make in the southern part of the riding.

REPORT INDICATES DENMARK PROSPERS

Has Been Steady Improvement in Value of Krone—Trade Better.

MONTREAL, Sept. 18 (Canadian Press).—The following report on economic conditions in Denmark during July, 1925, has been received by the Danish consul-general here:

After a steady improvement in the value of the Danish kronen during the first part of 1925, this upward movement of the Danish exchange became very accentuated during July, the average quotations during this month being 21.19 dollars for 100 krone, as against 19.08 dollars in June. This is a result of the cautious credit policy of the Danish National Bank, and at the same time an indication of increased confidence abroad as to Denmark's economic position.

The import surplus in June amounted to 12 million kroner as against 51 millioin in 1924. The value of the Danish foreign trade (imports and exports) during the first six months of the year as compared with the same period in 1924 is shown below:

January-June.	1925	1924
Imports million kr.)	1112	1150
Exports (million kr.	1041	1002
Surplus of Imports (million kr.)	71	148

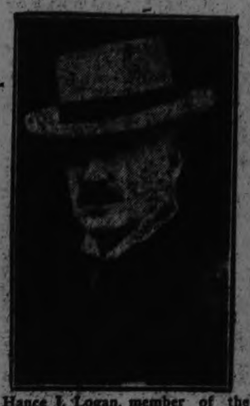
	July.	June.
Butter (tons)	2,549.8	2,853.3
Eggs (dozen)	1,701,000	1,185,167
Bacon and Live Hogs	3,770.3	3,656.8
Meat and Live Cattle	676.2	1,391.7

IN SEVENTH CONTEST



Hance J. Logan, member of the House of Commons for Cumberland county, N.S., has been chosen to again contest the consituency in the interests of the Liberal party in the forthcoming general elections. This is his seventh contest.

WEDDING BELLS.

HAVELOCK, September 18—The home of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Wood—beautifully decorated with asters and gladoli—was the scene of a very pretty September wedding on Wednesday, when their daughter Leona A., became the bride of Mr. Gordon G. Ames of Morriston. The ceremony was performed at high noon by Rev. E. O. Seymour of the United Church. Miss Beatrice Williams played the wedding march and during the signing of the register Miss Josephine McMaster sang "At Dawning."

The bride, who was given in marriage by her father, looked charming in a gown of white canton crepe with lace and pearl trimming. Her veil was caught up with orange blossoms, and she carried a shower bouquet of ophelia roses and lily of the valley. Her bridesmaid was Miss Beatrice Wood, attired in an attractive dress of jade green duchess satin with white trimming. The groom was attended by Mr. William Beckitt of Norwood, Ont.

After the wedding dinner the happy couple left on the afternoon train, on a honeymoon trip to Toronto, Hamilton, Guelph, Niagara Falls and Morriston, the bride travelling in an ensemble suit of grey with sand trimming, with hat to match, and a fox fur, gift of the groom. The groom's gift to the bridesmaid was a bracelet, to the groomsman a tie pin, and a string of pearls to the pianist. The out of town guests were Mr. and Mrs Walter Wood, and Miss Alice Brown of Toronto; Mr. and Mrs. R. Ball of Lakefield; Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Beckett of Norwood, Mrs. Ames, of Morriston.

McMULLEN—McDONALD.

The marriage took place at the parsonage of the Hastings United church on Tuesday afternoon of Bessie Evelyn McDonald of Percy and Donald Charles McMullen of Toronto.

The bride was attended by Edith M. Stillman of Seymour and Mr. John Samuel McDonald of Percy supported the groom.

Rev. M. L. Hinton performed the ceremony.

Mr. and Mrs. McDonald will reside in Toronto.

KERR—GREER.

COBOURG, Sept. 18:—The marriage took place on Wednesday at one o'clock at the residence of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. George Greer, George street, of their only daughter, Marjorie Isobel, to Mr. William T. Kerr, Toronto, son of Mrs. Rachel Kerr, Fergus. Rev. Dr. Daley, Port Hope, a friend of the family, officiated. A bank of ferns, palms and flowers the color scheme being pink and white, made a pretty setting for the bridal party. Miss Floyd played the wedding march as the bride entered the room with her father. She wore a lovely gown of beige georgette with insets of velvet in pastel shades, velvet hat in harmonizing colors, and carried sunburst roses and heather. She was unattended. A buffet luncheon was served, the dining room being decorated with roses. Guests were present from Toronto, Oshawa, Peterborough, Fergus, as well as Cobourg and Coldsprings.

Mr. and Mrs. Kerr left later for Muskoka ,the bride wearing an ensemble suit of wall-flower Vicuna cloth, trimmed with fox fur, and hat to match. Mr. and Mrs. Kerr will reside on Rosemont avenue, Toronto.

ROBINSON—KETCHESON.

THOMASBURG, Sept. 18. — A very pretty wedding took place on Monday evening at "Birchnook," the summer home of Mr. and Mrs. Lawrison Ketcheson, on Stoco Lake, when Mr. Ketcheson's sister, Miss Helen Elizabeth Ketcheson, only daughter of Mrs. Emma Jane Ketcheson and the late Samuel Ketcheson, of Belleville, was united in marriage with Mr. Wm. E. Robinson, B.A.S., D.L.S., Montreal, son of the last Mr. and Mrs. Luke Robinson, Oshawa.

The ceremony was performed under an arch of evergreens by the Rev. Mr. Duke of Toronto in the presence of a large number of friends and relatives of the contracting parties.

The bride, who was dressed in white, was attended by Miss Smith, of Nova Scotia, and Miss Stella Lumb, of Bancroft.

The wedding march was played by Miss Woodhall of Calgary. The flower girl was little Miss Lois Ketcheson.

Mr. and Mrs. Robinson are spending their honeymoon in the east.

RE-ENTRY IS EVENT

"Hon. Mr. Patenaude's re-entry into the Federal arena is an event of great importance to the entire Dominion," said Rt. Hon. Arthur Meighen, Conservative leader, when he received word of it.

CHAPTER V.

Dust from the measured footsteps of five trudging years sifted over sleepy Crater City, every season adding a square to the quilt of time that tucked the little town more and more snugly each twelvemonth in the isolated importance of its remote hill-country bed. Though professionally aiding and abetting the ceaseless pulsation of traffic blood through the railroad artery on which it was a parasite, it was virtually stagnant itself. For every baby born, someone died or left town; for every restless journeyman member of the Big Four Brotherhoods who rolled up his store of the world's good in greasy overalls and fared on, some half-baked recruit put in an intimidated first day under Bolts Morran.

And yet. excitement was endemic in Crater City like measles in an orphian asylum or barber's itch in Italy; a public trait it had in common with other central spheres of brawny industrial activities such as colliery villages, steel-mill towns and fishing hamlets. There was always the Damoclean threat of those Sierra twins of perversity, Granite Gorge and the Old Witch, to raise this latent infection into an epidemic. Indeed, the town had known many a night's travail when blizzard or freshet were amuck in the mountains. Then its womenfolk waited and wept at the despatcher's bulletin board—like their storied sisters on beach and quay when waves roll high, or at colliery pit mouth when rescuers brave the gas damp below.

As headquarters of the most danger-fraught division of transcontinental railroading Crater City was in effect, therefore, somewhat of a vermiform appendix on the country's steel entest nes in which every foreign body that stopped set up community inflammation; and aside from the sporadic ragings of strange dramatic pain in their workaday lives, the good citizenry were subjected to acute epidemics of less tragic, if not less interesting, excitement. There was, for instance, the thrilling advent into the town's ken of the handsome, mysterious hobo, Bob Wilson, on that storm-racked night already a half decade gone. And the draped day when a crepe-hemmed Special bearing a dead President's body to Washington rolled mournfully through. Days of other sorts, too; when Bolts Morran, hilariously behoochted over the arrival of a junior Bolt, broke open a cage door in the menagerie car of a circus train in the Yard and allowed a tiger to escape into the streets; when the town Magdalene crept timidly and obscurely into church, and upon being singled out and patronizingly welcomed in an impromptu lost sheep text by the minister spat at him and departed in a huff; when Morran's Yard gang won their third successive blue ribbon for having the best kept Division on the Road; when the Paymaster's car was robbed; when the Widow O'Leary had her goitre removed; when Bob Wilson thumped the Yard bully who sneeringly called him a tramp.

But all these manifestations were mild compared with the sudden onslaught of brash carmp that, without a forewarning symptom, kinked Crater City's inwards one feverish summer morning when a certain taffy-colored head flamed and sizzled through the dry masculine hearts of the town like a virginal comet in a heap of dead worlds.

Bob Wilson, on his way downtown to breakfast early that morning, found himself conscious of an unwonted something in the air. Not that many visible evidences suggested this; although, true enough, there seemed to be a sabbatical repression in the dusty flow of Main Street, while Feeney's Pool Emporium was barren of its usual handful of oily-handed idlers and the several groups of gossiping off-duty men whom Bob passed were perky and animated quite beyond their accustomed stolidity. Bob wondered mildly, almost subconsciously, at these signs; but the most acute and significant testimony emanated from a premonitory tingling in his chest—a sort of pleasant uneasiness.

Bob was on call to take out a local freight at seven-thirty. It was already five minutes past seven when he elbowed briskly into the Ned Larvey lunchroom in the Depot, so he did not have any too much time in which to down his breakfast and glance through the morning paper. His general sensibility to an atmosphere of expectation and surprise was heightened at sight of the extraordinary number of trainmen in the place considering the time of day. Men coming off the night runs lingered, bright-eyed and sleepless; day crews ate unhurried by the inexorable tale of the clock. Bramley, the English ex-butler manager of Crater City's branch of the famous Larvey chain of Transrockian Railroad restaurants and lunchrooms, was already on the job— this, in itself, a phenomenon of rare note.

Bob nodded in his genially silent way to acquaintances, saw with chagrin that his favorite table was occupied, then found himself an untenanted table in a secluded corner. Here he sat down in hasty peace, confident of the service of Minnie, the fat waitress, whose consistent and especial stewardly attentions he made sure of by generous tips.

"What the deuce is up?" he speculated without much real curiosity, looking around as he propped against the sugar bowl with practised deftness his copy of the Salt Lake City morning newspaper, a batch of which were dropped off in Crater City at five a.m. each day by an eastbound through express. His eyes discovered no answer to his question, and a moment later the newspaper headlines had taken his whole attention and interest far out of the influence of his immediate surroundings. So he did not realize that it was fully ten minutes before there came at his elbow a shy voice.

"What will you have sir, please?"

Bob's eyes were wistfully scanning the society column, which, with the financial pages, he searched each morning.

Lost in his own reflections and reading he neither noticed that the voice was new and unfamiliar nor looked up when he said

"Good morning, Minnie. Ham and eggs, turned up—toast and coffee—and bring me grapefruit first, please."

The menfolk of Crater City had long since accepted Bob on the strength of his knowledge and his fists; the children and dogs for his character. But grapefruit for breakfast and addiction to the only parts of the morning newspaper that nobody else in Crater City ever thought of reading were habits—duly broadcasted by the lunch-room's loud speaker, Anemone Miss Trisk, the arid cashier—that kept fresh in the romance scenting noses of the town's fairest creatures a tantalizing aroma of secrecy and an unplumbed past safeguarded behind the unassailable twin brown forts of his smiling yet sad eyes.

An unpractised shoving of dishes und and against his paper came only as a signal to Bob, not as an annoying distraction. He mechanically picked up a spoon without having noticed the unsureness of the service, and in absentmindedness, born of a greater hunger for the news upon which his eyes were feasting, scooped up a spoonful of—waffles!

He was actually on the second bite before it came to him that the "grapefruit" had a most peculiar taste indeed.

"What the devil! Say, where did these leather flaps come from—Minnie, you're getting dumber by the—I—I—I—beg your pardon, Miss!—"

He had been vocally castigating the waitress without really seeing her, had taken her sameness for granted, and though his eyes were upon her yet they were vacant with the lingering mental warmth of line upon line of printed words. He was conscious of an uncommon error in the order, not of an uncommon personality involved. The period of transition in his mind from reading to seeing was not rapid; he had been talking and staring with a frown full into the girl's face for perhaps ten seconds before the phenomenon that was the cause of Crater City's latest epidemic struck him. Then the face seemed to rush into dazzling nearness and clearness before his tardily focusing eyes. The naked surface of his brain was burned by a flooding light of raw beauty, unintercepted and undiluted by the too feeble and inadequate lenses of his eyes. He was suddenly blinded to all else but a lustrous picture of blanched ivory and old gold. A pelluced crystallization of the exquisite mould ing the classic refinement, the delicate coloring of a rare cameo.

"I'm sorry — so sorry — Miss. I thought you were Minnie, the usual waitress here."

But the sting of his original criticism had made the first and deepest impression upon the girl, who was flustered and on edge from the experience of a trying morning of unaccustomed work; her cheeks were stained by a nervous flush.

"Oh, I remember what you wanted—it was stupid of me." She wearily reached for the waffles, to rectify her mistake.

Over the girl's confusion Bob bridged his own return to self-possession.

"I'm glad you brought the waffles—I meant to order them. Doctor told me I ought to eat waffles three times a day. Please leave them—and don't worry about it—" he smiled contritely.

"You're only saying that!" she charged, defensively suspicious. "I'd much prefer to take them back and fetch what you ordered."

Bob playfully stuck a fork through the nest of flat cakes. "They're mine!" he insisted firmly, adding a white lie in the eternal masculine martyrdom to bungling but pretty womankind, "and they're just what I wanted!"

OBITUARY.

WILLIAM HOGG.

HARWOOD, Sept. 18.—William Hogg entered into rest at his home at Harwood on Monday at the age of 75 years. He had not been in good health for some time. Mr. Hogg was well known in this district and of late had been engaged quite a bit, guiding on the lake. He was well esteemed. He married Miss Eppie Mitchell, who with two daughters, Mrs. Killenbeck of Peterborough and Mrs. Tuck of Harwood and one son Eldone at Harwood, survives him. The funeral took place on Wednesday afternoon from the family home at Harwood to the Bethesda cemetery.

MISS ADA M. CROSSEN

WARSAW, Sept. 18.—The funeral of the late Miss. Ada M. Crossen was very largely attended. Rev. Walter Cox of Lakefield and Warsaw offered a short prayer at the house. The service was conducted at the Anglican church. Mr Cox preached an eloquent and helpful sermon, in which he stressed the belief that what lay there in the casket was only the body, but that the one who was gone still lived, that the body would be raised again, purified. He also explained why the casket once closed and brought into the church was not re-opened.

The pall-bearers were Messrs John Rose, Bruce Douglas, Hamilton, Richardson, E. R. Hamblin and David Payne.

There were several beautiful wreaths. The interment took place in Warsaw Cemetery.

The late Miss Crossen had no near relatives. She had lived since early childhood in Dummer, and was most highly respected by all who knew her. She was a faithful member of the Anglican Church.

FRIDAY, SEPT. 18, 1925.

THE FINAL RALLY.

The city and district have responded nobly to the appeal to support the Peterboro Industrial Exhibition, and the half-way mark last night found the objective more than half attained.

The attendance on Wednesday when the record crowd in the history of the Exhibition passed through the turnstiles and yesterday when the fourth biggest attendance was registered, must have been gratifying to the Exhibition Board, who in the face of discouraging handicaps and bad weather conditions in other years have never relaxed their efforts to give Peterboro a bigger and better fair and their confidence in their fellow-citizens.

All that is necessary now is a continuance of the patronage of the first two days at tonight's performance and tomorrow and all records will have gone by the boards.

Special features of interest have been retained until tomorrow, including the free-for-all trot or pace and the drawing contest, and the final day of the Exhibition should be marked by a record attendance not only from the city but from the surrounding district.

One last rally tomorrow and that 30,000 objective will be triumphantly passed.

Next year the Directors can aim at 35,000 with every confidence that, with no bad weather handicaps, their expectations can be realized.

BUT NOBODY WILL DO IT.

The political parties are losing an opportunity to gain votes when all of them fail to include a plank in their platform promising a more expeditious transaction of public business and less wasted time in the proceedings of the House.

Surely the leader who would promise never to speak longer than 40 minutes, except when introducing a matter of the gravest importance, and to keep the rank and file from talking more than 20 minutes at a stretch would find himself in favour with a large proportion of the electorate.

The length of the parliamentary session in this country and the weeks that are given up to useless debate suggest that we can profitably take a lesson from the Mother of Parliaments where, in spite of the delusion often held by Canadians that the Britisher plods along and doesn't know the meaning of speed, a vast volume of business is handled in a quarter of the time the Canadian Parliament considers it necessary to devote to a discussion of the Speech from the Throne.

And the worst of it all is that the offenders are not satisfied with making their long harangues in Parliament, but needs must be given them all over again from the stump when an election campaign is to the fore.

THE 21ST BATTALION.

Peterboro is not too interested in its Industrial Exhibition to cordially welcome the fighting men who are assembled here today—the members of the 21st Eastern Ontario Battalion—who will tonight hold their annual re-union dinner here.

Citizens are glad to have the members of this famous unit here, both because of the glorious record made in France and Flanders by the 21st Battalion and because of the close connection that battalion has had with Peterboro.

This city contributed a fine quota of men to the original battalion, and all through the war drafts of Peterboro men were from time to time added to the strength, so there has always been a peculiar interest in the Eastern Ontario battalion of the 2nd Canadian Division.

Tonight's reunion is timely, inasmuch as it comes just a few days after the anniversary of one of the engagements in which the 21st most particularly distinguished itself.

In the fighting which commenced near Courcelete on the Somme on September 15th, 1916, the battalion won, at a heavy price in casualties, great glory for itself and for the district it which it was recruited, and many of the men who took part in the capture of the sugar refinery will be assembled around the banquet board tonight.

They will have the good wishes of the community for a most successful and enjoyable re-union.

JUDGES AND POLITICS.

The Wall Street Journal raises the pertinent question whether the Supreme Court judges of United States are as unbiased as they should be in their interpretation of law as applied to the cases coming before them. It quotes Prof. Hall of the University of Wisconsin, who has for a period of twenty years analyzed the findings of the Supreme Court where there has been a division of opinion, and has carefully tabulated the findings of the judges, especially where the cases referred to disputes between employer and their employees.

Prof. Hall found, says the London Advertiser, that in every case one member of the court decided on the side of labor, that another member voted for labor every time but one, and that another voted against labor every time.

If such a thing is true of the Supreme Court of United States, whose members are appointed for life, and are supposed to be free from political influence, what can be said of the judges in the lower courts, where their appointment to office and their continuance in it depends on political influence and party victory?

It is not possible that a judge should vote one way every time. An employer's contention could not possibly be right every time, neither could that of the employee, but, according to the decisions of these three judges under review, they had voted with a precision that indicates that they might have made up their mind before hearing the evidence.

United States has always prided herself on the calibre of her Supreme Court judges, and they represent the highest type of judicial competence in the Republic. The inference from Prof. Hall's analysis is that it is not possible to have the whole system steeped in politics, and then at the top have a select few supposedly removed from such an atmosphere, working and living in the pure air of unbiased judgment. The top branches of any tree are very apt to be of the same kind of wood as the roots and the trunk.

TRANSITION PERIOD.

John Bull has need of all his coolness and fortitude to endure the succession of industrial crises through which he has been passing since the close of the Great war. The present period of depression and unemployment, together with the alarming activity of communists, is perhaps the worst of them all, and it is evident that things cannot continue in this way indefinitely. Bolshevism at home and at Russian headquarters is openly exultant over prevailing difficulties and is doing its utmost to increase them. In desperation industrialists are beseeching the Government to do something to improve the position; but the Government seems impotent to act with the necessary initiative and vigor. What, in fact, can be done more than has been done and is being done to cope with the "sea of troubles" by which British industry is beset? Those who claim that salvation lies in a reduction in costs of production, with special emphasis on wages, are particularly aggressive. But the Premier, a staunch Conservative who cannot be suspected of playing into the hands of the extremists, is wisely reluctant to recommend that expedient. It would not only be bad politics, but it would also, in all probability, be bad economics. By reason of her low costs of production, Germany is able to underbid her industrial rivals in the markets of the world. It is an obvious remedy to suggest that Great Britain follow suit and reduce her wage scales to a level comparable to those prevailing in the competing European countries. What seems to be in the mind of the Government and all who are concerned in finding a solution of the perplexing problems is to avoid provocative measures and to institute a searching investigation of causes with a view to an overhauling of the industrial system, if such be found necessary.

It is a reassuring circumstance that many prominent men of business are urging this investigation, and are willing to conform to any changes thought desirable. It is recognized that prosperity, under modern conditions, depends upon the general well-being of the community; that it is not possible to promote the real welfare of a nation by impoverishing the majority of its citizens. What are regarded as concessions to the "reds" are not always so; they are the just recognition of the workers' rights in any new deal which may be made. The question of wages and costs of production is ably discussed in an article on British Industry and the Future, appearing in the current number of the Round table. "An underfed working population means an unhealthy, discontented and inefficient working population," it is asserted. Mr. Henry Ford's methods of quantity production, with the highest efficiency of management, coupled with good pay for the workers, is commended and various extracts are quoted from Mr. Filene's book, The Way Out, as providing a possible solution of Britain's industrial problems. One such quotation reads: "In the future a really big business success on the basis of mass production and mass distribution will be impossible except as it makes for both high wages and low prices. . . . Low wages and high prices manifestly cut down that widespread and sustained buying power of the masses without which mass production sooner or later defeats itself." "The Americans are our principal competitors in the struggle for trade," remarks the Round Table. "If they can evolve methods which can produce cheaper goods, more goods of equal quality and at the same time maintain a higher standard of living for their workers, our defeat is certain. They have immense initial advantages in the shape of great natural resources, an enormous home market and lower taxation. If, in addition, they obtain a lead in the application of science to industry and in the improvement of the relations between capital and labor, it is difficult to see how we can hope to compete with them. It is worth while, then, to look at some of the recent ideas which are gaining currency in the United States, with a view to asking whether they might not be usefully subjected to far more thorough and general examination than they have yet received in this country."—Hamilton Spectator.

EDITORIAL NOTES AND COMMENT.

Make sure of that 30,000.

Peterboro citizens can help materially toward a new record by attending the Exhibition tonight.

The local attendance figures are authentic box-office statistics—not somebody's guess. And they make interesting reading today.

The city and district are putting the Peterboro Industrial Exhibition over the top.

And the saddest part of it, from Miss MacPhail's standpoint, is that she may never have a chance now to receive her full $4,000 indemnity.

Instead of Peterboro's Exhibition going to the dogs, the dogs have come to the Exhibition. The Dog Show will be a big feature today and tomorrow.

CANAL SYSTEMS.

To the Editor,
Examiner, Peterborough.
Sir:

The electors of Central Ontario on the route of the Trent Valley Canal, the writer as one, have altered their opinion as to the necessity for the canal as a barge route for the transportation of grain from the Georgian Bay to Montreal. It is now clear to the parties, who in the past so persistently importuned the several administrations to build and complete the canal for the purpose above mentioned, that the canal has now ceased to be a factor in this part of our transportation problem. As time changes all things, we find one of the large engines now used on the C.P.R. and C.N.R. can haul 33 cars of grain or 2,700 tons dead weight from Midland to Montreal or from Port McNichol to Montreal in 36 hours. This being so new work on the canal is a waste of money except in so far as it is necessary to complete the western outlet where the Marine Railway is now necessary. This brings us to consider the necessity for spending a large sum, $175,000 or $200,000, on a new lock at Young's Point.

From the writer's knowledge of the conditions at this point and from opinions freely expressed by those in close touch with navigation, a new lock at Young's Point is a waste of public funds and should not be considered under the present financial condition of this country. For a few thousand dollars this lock can be made safe and will answer every requirement for the next fifty years as, is it not a fact that owing to competition from motor traffic lockages are on the decrease?

Yours, and etc.,
J. F. LILLICRAP.

A THOUGHT.

THE FIRES THAT DESTROY.

No living person can be happy with hate in his heart, and I doubt if any individual can be well with the poison of hate in body or brain. Hate is a torch that mean men carry around, not to light their way, but to light the fires that destroy.

MONTREAL, Sept. 18—The foreign demand for Manitoba spring wheat here continues to be of an indifferent character according to exporters which they attribute to the liberal offerings being made for shipment in all positions and no business of importance was reported. There was some enquiry for oats and barley and as the prices bid for the latter were satisfactory sales of a few odd loads were made for November shipment.

Trade on spot cash grain was slow and the market quiet. Sales of odd loads of No. 3 Barley were made early in the day at 77 cents per bushel. The tone of the market for Ontario and Quebec Oats was firm owing to the much smaller offerings from the country and sales of odd cars of No. 2 White were made at 51 to 51 1-4 cents, and No. 3 White at 48 1-2 to 49 cents per bushel, ex-track. Ontario Malting Barley was dull and changed at 83 cents per bushel, ex-track.

While the foreign demand for spring wheat grades of flour was quiet, the local and country demand was moderate and a fair volume of business was transacted. Prices were steady.

The market for winter wheat flour was without any new feature to note. The tone was steady under a moderate demand.

There was no change in the condition of the market for millfeed, prices being well maintained on account of the somewhat limited supplies available at present for which there continues to be a steady demand. The market for standard grades of rolled oats was quiet and firm.

Prices for all grades of eggs were fully maintained under a good steady demand. The tone of the market for butter remains firm. The cheese situation was unchanged.

Beans were selling at $2.40 to $2.50 per bushel.

WHEAT.

CHICAGO, September 18. Canadian Press. — Owing more or less to reports of strained relations between Great Britain and Turkey, and as a result of Minneapolis advices telling of the good demand for flour, the wheat market yesterday finished at a moderate net advance. The close for wheat was unsettled, with gain of ¼c to 1 1-8c; December $1.51 3-8 to $1.51½ and May $1.54¼ to $1.54 3-8. Corn finished at ½ to 1¼c decline, oats 1-8c down to 1-8c up, and provisions varied from 45c off to .. rise of 22 to 25c.

Rapid changes in price were the rule throughout the day in the wheat market, but except during the early dealings the fluctuations were all above yesterday's finish. Reports of threshing delays in Canada were given attention but were later more than offset by word of increased marketing of wheat by the Canadian farmers.

It was announced that more than 40,000,000 bushels of wheat already been delivered from farms in Canada, as against less than 5,000,000 bushels a year ago. This news, as well as the absence of export business was in some degree responsible for late reactions here from the day's top prices. On the other hand Minneapolis mills were said to have more flour sold for shipment between now and December than was sold through the entire season last year.

Improved weather conditions put the corn market on the downgrade. County offerings both of old and new corn to arrive, were large. Oats were steadied by the smallness of receipts.

In provisions, the market was rallied by buying on the part of the packers. Earlier, the chief feature was selling out by holders of September and October lard.

EGGS.

OTTAWA, September 18. Canadian Press. — The egg market continues firm, with the better grades showing a further strengthening under good demand.

Reports from Montreal are to the effect that one firm there received yesterday 400 cases of very good fresh eggs for domestic use.

The Toronto egg market is unchanged with a strong tone for the better grades. Sales were reported made: Extras 41; firsts 38 f.o.b. Ontario country points, cases returned. A mixed car of all fresh was bought at firsts 35; seconds 31 f.o.b. Winnipeg, cases free.

Edmonton: Egg market continues firm with the receipts light; dealers quoting jobbing extras 40; firsts 35; seconds 30.

Calgary: The tone of the egg market is unchanged with the supply short. Dealers quoting country points extras 32, firsts 28, seconds 24.

Vancouver: Egg market continues strong with the dealers paying county points extras 42, firsts 40. The live poultry market is steady and unchanged.

Saint John: Prices remain unchanged under steady demand; fair supplies are on hand and no storage stock is offered yet. Fresh killed chickens are quoted wholesale 40, fowl 30. The market is well supplied.

Future Meetings To Be Held in Homes in the Evenings.

HAVELOCK, Sept. 18. — The Rally Meeting of the Women's Missionary Society of the United Church was held at the home of Mrs. Edward Fennell on Tuesday evening. After the usual devotional exercises the business of the year was discussed, and it was decided to hold the meetings in the evening instead of the afternoon and at the homes instead of the church, as has been the custom. Owing to the inclement weather, there were only twenty of the members present. After the business of the evening had been disposed of, a very pleasant social time was spent and a dainty lunch served.

Odd Sequence Of Game In Warsaw Man's Trap

WARSAW, Sept. 18.—Trapping has some funny results. Mr. Fred Parcel's sons set a snare for rabbits. In the morning a partially eaten rabbit was in the trap. Mr. Parcels set the trap with the rabbit as a bait. Next morning a hawk was caught and partially eaten. Again the trap was set, this time with the hawk as bait, and next morning a large owl was entrapped.

LADIES' AID MEETING

Warsaw United Church Ladies Met at Parsonage on Wednesday.

WARSAW, Sept. 18.—The first meeting of the organized Ladies' Aid of the United church was held recently at the parsonage. The damp ground and cool day spoiled the picnic. The work of the Aid was explained as local, to keep the church and parsonage in repair. The dilapidated condition of the blinds in the parsonage and more especially in the church basement was pointed out. Some other immediate repairs are needed for the church. The parsonage must be re-roofed. It is up to the ladies to help. One method is to hold a fowl supper in connection with the anniversary services which will be held shortly.

SHAPURGI SAKLATVALA PROTESTS KELLOG'S REFUSAL TO ADMIT HIM

Will Leave Matters in the Hands of the American Public.

ACTION ARBITRARY.

Says Mr. Kellogg's Interpretation of His Speech Was Contrary to Truth.

LONDON, Sept. 18 — (Canadian Press) —Shapurji Saklatvala, Communist member of Parliament, and one of the delegates to the Inter-Parliamentary Union which is to meet at Washington next month, learned Thursday that he had been refused permission to enter the United States. He was notified by the United States Consular officials in London, by order of Secretary of State Kellogg, that his visa to visit Washington had been revoked. He thereupon wrote to the United States Consul-General, complaining of the "arbitrariness" of Secretary Kellogg's action, and gave out a number of statements on the injustice of his treatment. Nothing was said, however, as to whether or not he will journey to Canada to attend the Union's congress when it sits in Ottawa.

Mr. Saklatvala is being urged by his Communist friends to defy the Kellogg ban, but he appears to have no such intention. Discussing the matter last night, he maintained that the correct attitude for the United States would have been to appeal to the Central Board of the Inter-Parliamentary Union. He declared himself positive that "British Tory influence" was behind the whole thing and characterized Secretary Kellogg's argument as "stupid."

"But," he added, "I shall not go to America now. In fact, I have cancelled my cabin on the boat."

In effect, Mr. Saklatvala says he will place himself at the disposal of the United States people, if they care to invite him, expressing it thus:

"I believe the whole issue requires to be thought out more by the Inter-Parliamentary Union itself than by me. I decline to believe that America is full of Kellogg; therefore, I must give the American public a chance to assert itself."

Mr. Saklatvala has sent protests to Secretary Kellogg and Senator William B. McKinley of Illinois, chairman of the United States group in the Inter-Parliamentary Union. In his letter to the United States Consul-General he says:

"I note from your letter that America, after assuming responsibility of host to the Inter-Parliamentary conference, and thereby agreeing to respect and abide by its regulations, now claims the arbitrary right of interference regarding the character of the delegates of other countries purely from an American internal standpoint."

He denies any intention of violent utterances, saying: "There is not fidence and unshakeable faith in them I await their invitation to go to your country after all."

The action of Secretary Kellogg in Mr. Saslatvala's case appears to meet with commendation from almost all sections of the press, and some of the papers, such as the Daily Mail, seize upon the occasion to blame the British Government for failure to anticipate the United States Secretary of State.

The Mail says: "The Foreign Office ought never to have granted Saklatvala a passport, and the American State Department has shown sense and decision in its attitude."

Sir Robert Stevenson Horne, who has held the posts of Chancellor of the Exchequer, Minister of Labor and President of the Board of Trade and who is head of the British delegation, characterizes it as "the best possible solution of the difficulty."

"Now," he added, "everything is cleared up by the only power that had the requisite authority to intervene."

Mr. Saklatvala, in announcing his resignation from the firm of Tata Limited, Eastern Indian traders, admitted that the firm was suffering heavily on account of his activities. "But," he said, "I must stand by my convictions."

a word of truth in the suggestion that I intend to preach anarchy in your country," and continues: "Secretary Kellogg's interpretation of a few picked words from my parliamentary speech on India is contrary to the truth. The speech exposes the notorious fact that the British Imperialist rulers claim extraordinary dictatorial privileges in other people's countries and threateningly term as sedition, conspiracy and revolt the same conduct of citizens, which in their own country they describe as the advance of democracy.

"Mister Secretary Kellogg will be deceiving the American public by not fully quoting numerous sentences in that speech.

"Your Government might, by its arbitrary use of power and its submission to political intrigues from the outside, stand momentarily triumphant and the humble worker momentarily baffled and disappointed. Yet I have undying faith in the conscience of people who are free from the trammels of wealth and social influence. I am sure that just as America has her diplomats she has her robust freedom-loving men and women, and with calm con-

NO ANSWER YET FROM MISSOURI

SEVERAL READY.

CAMPBELLFORD, Sept. 18.—"Missouri" who had a letter in The Examiner recently asking for a race with some of the sprinters of Campbellford, the match to be held on the day of the Fair here, has not yet sent his name and address to this town, although requested to do so. A promise that he would be accommodated accompanying the request. "Missouri" can rest assured that if he is pining for a race, there are plenty of young fellows here who are ready to take him on. If a race is arranged for Fair day, the directors will offer a substantial cash prize to the winner.

T. Ibey, the baseball pitcher; James Newsom, and J. Johnston, all students of the High School, are practising with the hope of getting a match with "Missouri." Other light-footed young men who have gone into training with the same objective in view are J. Gay, F. De Carol and Leo Bush.

The transfer of the matured silk worms to the cocoon beds of the royal cocoonery will be made shortly and it is estimated that the cocoon yield this year will be not less than 50 bushels. By order of her Majesty the cocoons will be taken to the Tokyo Silk Reeling school to be converted into silk thread. When this is done the silk skeins will be sent to the Higher Technological school at Kyoto to be carefully woven into Habutae It is said that the Emperor now wears a kimono woven from this Habutae cloth which came from her Majesty's cocoonery.

ATTRACTIONS FOR CAMPBELLFORD FAIR

CAMPBELLFORD, Sept. 18.—For the past two years there has been some dissatisfaction expressed because the directors failed to provide a Midway for the Fall Fair. This omission was due to causes over which the directors had no control, as it was impossible to secure a Midway on either occasion.

This year there will be no reason for complaint. The Maple Leaf Show of St. Catharines has signed a contract to be here for the Fair. This is the same company that conducted a week's show here, under the auspieces of the Fair Board, during the summer of 1924, and which proved an attraction for the residents and a paying investment for both parties to the contract.

LABOR DISPUTES COST MILLIONS

709 STRIKES

LONDON, Sept. 18.—(Associated Press).—Over 8,000,000 working days were lost during 1924 in England owing to labor disputes, which numbered 709 and involved 612,000 work people, says the Ministry of Labor Gazette. The annual loss of working time owing to industrial disputes during 32 years averaged 12,400,000 days, equivalent to less than one day per head of the whole employed population. During 1919-22 the figures were much above the average, but in 1923 and 1924, as well as the first six months of 1925, they have fallen to considerably less than an annual average of one day per head of the employed population.

In 1921 nearly 86,000,000 days were lost through disputes mostly in the coal trade.

COMMUNIST ARREST REVEALS REBEL PLOT

Police Discover Hundred Weights of Propaganda Literature.

FLORENCE, Italy, Sept. 18 (Canadian Press).—With the arrest of one hundred or more professed Communists, the police believe they have discovered a widespread and systematic plot for a general insurrection throughout Italy. Documents and literature of various kinds, which have been seized by the police, reveal that this plan had gone considerably beyond the embryonic stage, although an actual outbreak was not imminent. The plan was, the police report states, to call an uprising "at the moment when Fascism begins to waver."

Among those taken into custody was Fosco Frizzi, a 24-year-old student, whom the police believe was the leader of the Florentine movement. He is head of the Communist Federation of Youths, whose organization had minute ramifications, with a definitely prepared plan.

Many women were included among the alleged plotters.

The meetings of the conspirators usually were held at night in pre-established places, which the police discovered by following two street car conductors, members of the organization. The police seized several hundredweight of propaganda literature, some of which contained vulgar insults against the king.

EMIGRANTS DUPED.

People Arrested For Issuing Fraudulent Certificates to Bulgarians.

SOFIA, Sept. 17.—A number of arrests were made recently in which the persons were charged with issuing fraudulent certificates of emigration for Bulgarians to enter the United States.

The Bulgarian emigrants, numbering 42, were stranded in Bremen where they were cared for by the Bulgarian Legation in Berlin. The legation has sent a request to Sofia for 600,000 leva for the care of the victims.

BRITONS REFUSE TO EMIGRATE; OFFICIALS FRET

WANT TO STAY HOME

Number Going to Colonies Far Less Than Natural Increase.

LONDON, Sept 17 (Associated Press).—Emigration from England and Scotland to less crowed parts of the empire is less than half as great as before the war, despite the fact that the home country is overcrowded and opportunities for workers seem to grow scarcer. Last year, despite the growth of unemployment and the encouragement given to emigrants through government financial assistance, only 88,683 people left to take up residence in the dominions and colonies. In 1913, when no financial help was offered by the state, the number was 223,581.

The natural increase of population on this island averages about 300,000 persons a year at present. Unless more people depart, overcrowding and perhaps unemployment will steadily become more severe.

In 1913, statistics given by the Colonial Secretary, show 164,566 people emigrated from this country to Canada and Newfoundland, but last year the total was only 47,194. For the same years the number going to Australia dwindled from 44,500 to 30,300; to New Zealand, from 11,800 to 8,740 and for other parts of the empire, from 2,340 to 2,000. Only South Africa showed on increased magnetism for migrants, but the figures are insignificant—375 emigrants in 1913 and 649 last year.

These facts are causing serious ponderings among many who feel that trade will never wax large enough to absorb all the idlers in England and Scotland unless their numbers are vastly lowered by wholesale migrations to those parts of the empire which are under-populated. There are some who feel that emigration never can be made properly attractive so long as persons can stay at home and make a living doing nothing. That is what the dole amounts to, in their eyes, and there are about 1,300,000 persons on the dole, receiving their hand-out from the state each week they are without work. The unemployed, it is contended, prefer to stay where they are, rather than wrench themselves away from this island and gamble on a little more glittering future in pastures new.

There have been many efforts to organize parties of emigrants from villages and townships, but few have met with success. The people simply won't budge. The Morning Post says the most disquieting reflection which this experience suggests is the "decay of the spirit of adventure in our people—and the spirit by virtue of which our whole empire has been founded and peo-

WESTWOOD NEWS

WESTWOOD, Sept. 17.—Owing to the wet weather and bad roads the service in the United Church was postponed on Sunday.

Rev. R. T. Richards of Mark St. Church, Peterborough, will exchange pulpits with Rev. J. Archibald of Keene on Sunday next, conducting the afternoon service here and also a special evening service.

Mrs. Wigmore of Hamilton is visiting her sister-in-law, Mrs. William Hutchinson.

Mr. Daniel Taylor of Birdsall suffered severe paralytic stroke on Saturday. His condition is very serious.

See Celestial Fires

On Monday evening, about eight o'clock, many of the villagers were fortunate in seeing the wonderful Northern Lights, which for about 15 minutes, practically illuminated the whole sky. They commenced like ordinary Northern Lights, close of the horizon in the north, but continued to spread both upwards and to the east and west, until they appeared, from all directions, to focus in the centre of the heavens. The majority of the stars seemed to be blotted from vision under the flickering and dazzling brilliancy of the shifting lights.

WOMAN KILLED; FAMILY INJURED

Glaring Lights Send Car Over Bridge Embankment at Brantford.

TURNED OVER.

BRANTFORD, Sept. 18.—(Canadian Press).—Glaring lights and turning out of the road to allow an approaching car more room on the narrow roadway brought death last night to Mrs. Harry Lowe, South Street, and sent Harry Lowe and his four children to the hospital. George, the 20-year-old son, who was driving the touring car, and an invalid girl are badly hurt, while the father and two other children not so seriously.

The car went over the concrete base of Cockshutt Bridge, just outside the limits of the city, on the road to Port Dover. It turned in the air, landing on its top.

DOWNEYVILLE NEWS

DOWNEYVILLE, Sept. 18.—A very successful social was held in the hall here Friday evening and a large crowd was present. Progressive euchre was played till about 11 o'clock when a dainty lunch was served by the ladies, after which dancing was indulged in for a few hours to the excellent music furnished by Brown's Orchestra of Lindsay. The ladies' prize for cards was won by Miss Grace Harrington, while Mr. Fergus O'Neill won the gentlemen's prize.

Scarlet fever and whooping cough have broken out in the village. The fever is in three families and whooping cough in one. The two schools are closed for the time being.

The Misses Marguerite and Loretto Hoolihan, Rita Harrington and Marjory Murray, all of Toronto, spent the week-end at their homes here.

Miss Ida Murray left on Monday for Brantford, where she has been engaged as teacher for the coming year.

Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Merron and family, all of Rochester, N.Y., have returned home after a pleasant visit with Mrs. Merron's brothers and sisters here.

Miss Isobel Clancy has gone to resume her teaching at Head Lake after spending the summer at her home here.

Mr. Michael D. Harrington is at present visiting friends in Rochester and Clarance Centre, N. Y.

Mr. and Mrs. Simon Perdue of Peterboro were the guests of relatives in the village on Monday.

Mrs. John Skuse and son, Sherman, Mrs. T. Driscoll, of Rochester, N. Y., also Mrs. Peter Murtha of Lindsay, were Sunday guests of Mrs. Thos. Carroll.

Miss Edna Scully of Rochester, N. Y., is at present the guest of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. John Scully.

Mr. Dennis C. Scully, who a few years ago sold his farm and moved to Lindsay, has purchased the old Daniel Winn farm on the 8th Concession and intends moving back in the spring. He has already commenced ploughing.

Messrs. Austin Herlihey and Philip Carroll of Rochester, N. Y., motored from that city and spent the week-end at their homes.

Mr. Austin Scully returned to St. Michael's College, Toronto, Monday after spending the summer months with his parents here.

Mrs. Patrick N. Winn and children have returned home from St. Catharines, where they spent the summer.

Phelan-Mathews.

On Wednesday morning at 8 o'clock, St. Joseph's Church, Toronto, was the scene of a smart autumn wedding when Norma, second daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Henry Mathews, Toronto, became the bride of Mr. Basil Phelan, son of Mr. and Mrs. J. J. Phelan of Ottawa. The ceremony was performed by Rev. Father John Collins of Lindsay, cousin of the bride. The church was prettily decorated by the girl friends of the bride with roses and autumn blooms.

The bride, who was given in marriage by her father, wore her travelling suit of pansy purple satin-faced Canton, a small hat to match, a white fox fur and corsage bouquet of sweetheart roses, illy-of-the-valley and orchids. Miss Harriet was her sister's bridesmaid and wore pencil blue Canton crepe, with grey fur hat, shoes and stockings to match, and corsage bouquet of pink roses. The groom was supported by his brother, Cyril of Ottawa. Mrs. Fitzhenery sang, "Ave Marie," at the signing of the register, and the Wedding March was played by Miss Gertrude Howath.

Mrs. Phelan was a former resident of Downeyville, where the family resided until some eight years ago, when they moved to Toronto. A host of friends in this parish where she was so well known wish them every happiness.

TWO BARNS BURN AT CAMPBELLFORD

Terrible Lightning Storm Wreaks Havoc During Night—Crops Lost.

CAMPBELLFORD, Sept. 18.—One of the worst electrical storms of the season passed over this district last night, and considerable damage is reported in its wake. A large barn belonging to Harry Southworth, about a mile north of town, in East Seymour, was struck by lightning and burned to the ground, with the contents, the entire season's crop. The loss, which is covered partly by insurance, will be heavy.

A barn belonging to Clifford Hubble, one mile from Hoard's Stations, was also struck by lightning and completely destroyed with the seasons crop of hay and grain.

At Douro.

DOURO, Sept. 18.—The only damage reported in this district from last night's severe storm was the knocking down by lightning of Mr. Robt. Allen's chimney. Mr. Allen, who resides on the 5th Line, had his telephone also put out of commission.

Of seventy-three young women attending a county teachers' institute at Achison, Kas., sixty-seven had bobbed hair.

MADOC NEWS

MADOC, Sept. 18.—Mr. Chas. Allen of London, who has been visiting his father, Mr. W. T. Allen, acted as organist at the services in the United Church on Sunday last. At the close of the evening service Mr. Allen gave a very enjoyable recital, during which Mrs. P. J. Alexander sang a beautiful setting of "Lead, Kindly Light."

On Tuesday afternoon the Ladies' Guild of St. John's Church held an afternoon tea at the home of Mrs. Chas. Hart. Despite inclement weather, a fair number were present. Dainty refreshments were served, and a cheery grate-fire made up for the lack of sunshine.

Many people in Madoc were disappointed when the new motor bus running from Tweed to Peterboro stopped after two trial trips. A number had planned for a day's pleasure in Peterboro.

Miss Marguerite Feeney of the Dominion Bank staff is spending her holidays with friends in New York.

Rev. C. J. Young of Brighton was renewing acquaintances in town this week.

THE HALL STORE

It is either plain human cussedness, or a subconscious sense of humour working on our curiosity, that makes us proceed, in spite of the directions, not by them.

It seems to be human nature to buy a camera, expose half a dozen films, then read the directions to see what should have been done, then develop the films to see how rotten the results are, with the hope that we have at last proved that we, at least, have enough brains to proceed without reading the directions.

Here are some directions about attracting birds. I hate directions. But I like birds about the garden in winter. They are such a relief to a poor tired human being, getting out of a nice warm bed on a gloomy day. We put off getting up, just about as long as I have put off starting these directions, and there, in the garden, on a snow sprinkled something-or-other, sits a perky this-or-that kind of a bird—maybe it's a nuthatch—looking the exact opposite of how we feel. They do a fellow good!

Woodpeckers like thick suet, which stays in the piece, so they can peck at it. They do not like the crumbly kind.

To anyone wanting a complete table of bird foods, Nature Lore will be glad to supply it, through the editor, but this list is sufficient to begin on, at this season of the year.

Juncos like crumbs and bird seed. So do goldfinches, purple finches and many other birds. Chickadees like pork rinds, so buy your bacon with the rind on, then hang out the strips. The foods not spoiled by the warm days, will suit best for now. Some dog biscuit, broken into big, and very crumby, pieces does fine.

Walnut meats, chopped up fine, sunflower seeds, hemp seed, doughnut crumbs; all these attract the birds in autumn, especially in bad weather. They come for the food more and more, as the days get colder and food harder to find, so, when food is plentiful in the fields, just remember that your food store is a reserve stock and let it go at that. The birds know it is there. It is their bank account for a rainy day.

The garden that displays untouched charms in very fine weather, is likely to have many visitors when the birds take the notion to look up the bank accounts and take a holiday.

YOUR HEALTH

By ROYAL S. COPELAND, M.D.,
Former Commissioner of Health, New York City.

A PICTURE OF HEALTH IS HARD TO "READ"

Can you tell by the looks that a person is healthy?

Just now I heard a man say to a handsome woman: "You will live to be a hundred. You are the picture of health."

Except to a trained observer it is difficult to determine by mere inspection whether sound health exists or not. You can't tell by the case of the watch whether or not the works are in proper order.

Observation extended over a considerable period of time will tell the story usually. If you happen to be well acquainted with the moods and proclivities, you can tell pretty accurately how the person in question feels to-day. But passing things have so much to do with the appearance that inspection alone is not dependable.

Redness of cheek and lip means a lot, but here you may be misled. Watch a young woman who has hurried to catch the bus or street car. Her cheeks are aglow and for a time she looks the picture of health. In ten or fifteen minutes, when her heart slows down and the reaction comes, she is pale and wan. The lip color has faded and the waxy and sallow skin gives an entirely different impression.

There are persons who have enlarged superficial blood vessels. No matter how they feel, there is color in the cheeks almost as prominent as if it had been painted there.

There is still another type to consider. Some persons seem possessed of what a doctor friend of mine calls the "preservative stuff." They are emaciated, flat-chested, hollow-cheeked and washed-out in appearance, but their muscles are hard, their nerves are like iron, and they outlive all the rest of the community.

The fact is, it is very difficult by observation alone to know what may be expected in the way of health and long life. Careful examination of the heart and other organs gives more exact information, but by the looks alone you may be deceived.

However, by right living there are produced certain characteristics which are very likely to show themselves in the appearance of the face and in the carriage. There are certain signs which are good signs.

The skin is clear of blemish, and in the cheeks, ears and lips there is pinkness, if not redness. The lips particularly show redness and the inside of the lower eyelids is bright pink, certainly not white.

The teeth are good or well kept. The gums are good color and hug the base of the teeth. The whites of the eyes are really white and the lids are not drooping.

There is a firmness to the skin and muscles. The walk is springy and the movements are briskly madd.

There is a pinkness of the finger-nails. They are not broken and irregular because of undue brittleness. The hands are cool and slightly moist.

The mouth is closed and the lower lip is held against the teeth. There is no sagging at the corners of the mouth and no drooling of saliva or undue dryness of the lips.

The tongue is clear and the breath sweet. The handkerchief is rarely used and expectoration is absent.

You see, there are a lot of signs of good health. Yet many of them may be absent and long life had after all. But it is a charming thing to look healthy. Try to get this appearance by normal living and right thinking.

Facts About Your Gas Meter

Any Gas Meter is much like a pint or quart measure for water or flour.

When the covers are off, you can see two leather pockets—or bellows. Those bellows draw in the gas from the street mains and discharge it into your house piping.

Attached to the bellows are some simple little cog wheels which move the hands on the clock-like face of the meter dial as the gas passes through. Your meter actually measures the gas by taking it in and pouring it out. It cannot register the same gas twice. And, when your burner cocks are all closed, it cannot move unless there is a leak in the piping inside your house.

Gas Meters are not made by the companies that supply gas to the homes. They are manufactured by well-known firms, of high reputation, who specialize on the building of mechanical devices that are as accurate as human skill can make them.

A Gas Meter may get out of order and need fixing—just like your watch. An old watch is more apt to run too slow than too fast. This is also true of a Gas Meter or of any other device made of iron or copper or leather that will wear out in time.

Close all your burners once in awhile and watch the small test dial at the top of the meter. If the hand moves, your pipes or appliances are leaking. Call the Gas Department at once. Gas leaks are dangerous. If there are no house leaks, but you still think the meter is not working right, report the trouble to our Service Department for prompt investigation.

Three-Minute Journeys

By Temple Manning

WHERE VIRTUE IS OPENLY REWARDED.

On a certain Sunday in May or June a three days' festival called "Fete de la Rosiere" begins in many villages of France.

It is somewhat surprising to learn that originally the honoree of the occasion was the sweet young thing who was pronounced the most virtuous girl in the community.

The custom is said to date back to the sixth century, when St. Medard at Salency established a fund to be used in annual awards to the most virtuous girl in his village and specifying that she should be further honored by a crown of white roses. Curiously enough the first honoree, selected by the unanimous vote of the village folks was St. Medard's own sister.

Along in the Eighteenth Century when virtue was considered passe, Rousseau began his campaign for a return to nature and, simplicity. Through the influence of his teaching, about fifty wealthy persons established endowments for rosiere prizes in their own neighborhoods. Virtue among the common folks was thus placed on a pedestal but as the years went by, beauty and popularity entered into the selection of the Queen of Roses.

Below are given excerpts from an article published by "Every Saturday" in the year 1873, describing the celebration at Sanssouci-des-Fleurettes:

"A Sunday sun sheds its gilding over the village and brightens a double row of spectators packed close as corn and forming a lane between the rosiere's house and the church.

"Twelve o'clock is pealed musically from the church belfry; the bell-pullers ring out the chimes; the corps of communal firemen with brass helmets gleaming in the sun draw up as a guard of honor outside the rosiere's door. The mayor glorious in a white cravat, his sash and a pair of new white cotton gloves is descried, coming in the distance with the gards chametre and all the councillors come trooping behind.

"The band of the firemen takes up its position, the fireman captain unsheaths his sword and now the mayor, who has gone into the rosiere's house, emerges with her leaning on his hand. The band struts off filling the air with martial music. Then follows the rosiere in white and with a veil of white muslin; the rosiere of last year walks by her side to the left and nothing can exceed the enthusiasm of the onlookers as they wave hats or handkerchiefs, shower flowers on the road and then rush off to try and jam themselves in the church."

Never trust the man who won't trust others.

TOMORROW'S HOROSCOPE

By Genevieve Kemble

SATURDAY, SEPTEMBER 19.

A lively day may be expected from the sidereal operation dominant, but probably one on which it may be difficult to gain much headway owing to the important opposition of Saturn, which is sustained by the lunar square to Jupiter and the parallel of Mars and Uranus. There may be sudden turns in financial affairs and speculation may prove hazardous. Yet new contracts may be arranged and there may be the happy breaking up of a congested condition.

Those whose birthday it is may have a year of some opposition to progress and at the same time find certain crystallized conditions break away. Speculation should be avoided, but new contracts may be entertained. Care for the health. A child born on this day may have a degree of versatility and a mind given to study and profound thought. It should make its best success in the employment of others.

GOOD NIGHT STORIES

By Blanche Silvar

DONALD AND DEE MEET A DEAR LITTLE COUPLE.

One day while Donald and Dee were on a visit in Africa, they wandered down the path toward the woods. Something scooted across the path in front of them, and went skimming over the ground so fast that neither Donald nor Dee had time to see what it was.

"I'll bet you anything, that was a bird," suggested Donald.

"I'll bet it wasn't, said Dee. "If it was a bird, it would have sailed in the air."

"I'll bet my ball and bat and even my gloves, it was a bird," snapped Donald. "You girls don't know anything."

"No," piped up a strange squeaky voice and both Donald and Dee jumped up as something stirred the grasses at their feet. There, sitting up on his long hind legs, was the cutest, little, greyish colored creature they had ever seen. "But this time Dee was right, that wasn't a bird, so save your ball and bat, Donald. That was my wife. She is rather fidgety these days and jumps at any noise. We were just looking over the ground for a new home."

"Well, well," laughed Dee softly, "You are certainly a neat, clean little fellow. May we ask who you and your wife are? You see Donald and I live in America, this is our first trip to Africa and every day we meet something new."

"Right now you're talking to Mr. Jerboa, at your service," and the little greyish fellow bowed very politely. "I believe they say my body measures from the tip of my pointed nose to where my tail begins, about six inches, and that my tail is at least eight inches long with the white tuft."

"May We Ask Who You Are?"

"And may I ask where you live, Mr. Jerboa?" asked Donald who couldn't help but admire the neat, little fellow.

"Certainly you may," chuckled Mr. Jerboa. But, better still, follow me and I'll show you where we are living now," and he ran ahead of the children stepping first on one hind foot then the other. His hind legs were so long they looked funny and Dee couldn't help but laugh.

"I'll bet I do look funny walking this way," he chuckled, "but when I'm in a hurry, I hope like a Kangaroo. I wouldn't take anything for my long hind legs. Here we are," and he led Donald and Dee into a tunnel in the ground.

From this main hall several halls ran out in different directions and finally they came to a cozy little nest where Mrs. Jerboa was cuddled down with her five little babies.

She was glad to see Donald and Dee and laughed merrily when her husband told her it was they who had startled her.

"Well, I'm glad you feel friendly toward us," she said politely. "You see we have to be careful on account of our family," and she flipped her pretty long tail until the white "Will you stay and have dinner with "Will you say and have dinner with us?"

Donald and Dee would have been delighted, only just when Dee heard her aunt calling, and bidding their new friends goodbye, Donald and Dee hurried back to the house. My! how Aunt Angie did laugh when they told her where they had been.

BAILIEBORO PERSONALS.

BAILIEBORO, Sept. 18—On Monday evening commencing at eight o'clock the Cavan and South Monaghan U.F.O. club and shipping board held a joint meeting in the club rooms at Centreville. There were about twenty five members present, and the meeting was a wide awake meeting throughout despite the unusually small attendance.

The president, Fred Wood was in charge and conducted the business of the meeting, as Mr. Wood is president of both the club and shipping board, and Willard Waterman secretary treasurer of both organizations.

Possibly the most interesting business of the club meeting was to appoint committees and arrange for a social function to commence activities in the club again after the lull during the summer months. This was thought the most suitable way to get the members of the club interested in its activities again as the busy times of the summer months are now almost past. It was unanimously decided to endeavour to get Mr. J. J. Morrison, Secretary of the Ontario United Farmers Association to come down to address the gathering and the following committee was appointed to arrange a social evening Messrs F. Wood, W. Waterman, A. Wood, A. Huggins.

The report of the shipping board was also very favorable, although the actual business transacted was slightly below that of last year, still the shipping board with all of the e a expenses of ther past year came out with a fairly good balance in the bank. During the past year a set of new scales has been installed at the U.F.O. stock yards at Fraserville which cost the board about three hundred and fifty dillars.

The shipper W A Wood, proved a very catisfactory. shipper as he has for a number of years He states that this season there was not as large an amount of business transacted this past year as there was the previous year was due to the fact that there are fewer cattle being raised in South Monaghan and Cavan, while hogs are about the same this year as they were last.

Despite the heavy opposition that the shipping board is up against from all sides they are transacting a big business. There are great numbers of the farmers who are staying true to their united organization despite all the tempting offers that they are receiving for their hogs and cattle, and general farm produce. There are still many who realize that it is the opposition that the farmers have put up against the drovers that is still keeping the prices of farm produce up where they are today.

As this was the annual meeting of the shipping board the following officers were elected for the ensueing year: Messrs F. Wood, W Waterman, Wm. McElroy, H. McFee, Wm. Belch, Geo. Anderson, W. Wood shipper.

The offices for the past year were: F. Wood, Pres.; W. Waterman Sec. Tres.; H. Dawson; H. McFee, Wm. McElroy, Geo. Bebee, W. Wood, shipper.

King George is meeting with success on the turf this year. So far this season six horses in His Majesty's stable have won among them 11 races. Only three victories were recorded during the whole of last season.

SOLUTION OF CROSS-WORD PUZZLE IN LAST ISSUE.

"Here's How I'm Fixed"--

"If I live to old age I'll be able to enjoy a well-earned rest.

"If I should die earlier my good wife will have an income for life.

"If accident or disease lays me aside permanently before I'm sixty or even for a period of three months or more, I get a monthly cheque until I get better.

"If, later on, I urgently need cash, The London Life will lend me money.

"If my circumstances change I can adjust my policy to suit, without even medical examination.

"How's that for real life insurance protection?

"The cost? Why, it actually works out at less than 2%, because the premium is only $202.00 a year for $10,000 protection and the annual dividends reduce this considerably.

"It certainly is different and I'm glad I've got it!"

THIRTY-THREE YOUNG FARMERS COMPETE IN STOCK JUDGING FOR PRESIDENT DENNE'S TORONTO TRIP

C. W. Seymour and Alphonse Heffernan Scored Highest in Five Classes.

OTHER WINNERS

Farmers' Sons Are Told the Exhibition is Intended for Them.

C. W. Seymour, of Cavan, and Alphonse Heffernan of Asphodel, winners of the stock judging contest at the Exhibition Thursday, will attend the Royal Winter Fair at Toronto with all expenses paid by President Roland Denne. Their aggregate scores in five classes of judging live stock were the highest of the thirty-three young farmers from all parts of the district, who matched their knowledge of live stock in this competition, which began at 9.30 a.m. and continued until beyond the noon hour, giving their judges an intricate task of awarding the group and aggregate prizes.

The judging contest was in beef and dairy cattle, hroses, sheep and swine, and the group winners of the prize money of $4, $3, $2 and $1 were as follows:

Swine—1 C. W. Seymour, Cavan; 2 D. Forsythe, Douro; 3 H. Manley, Otonabee; 4 M. Blakley, Dummer.

Sheep—1 C. W. Seymour, Cavan; 2 Peter Mather, Otonabee; 3 G. Calder, Dummer; 4. WW. Forsythe, Douro.

The thirty-three contestants were divided into two groups of those who had experience in stock judging work, and almost an equal number of those who were competing for the first time, and were regarded as "green men." They were a bright representative company of farmer's sons, appraising the qualities of the stock with an alertness of attention and an interest and apparent knowledge that augurs favorably for the future of Ontario agriculture if these young men were typical of rural youth.

President Denne warmly welcomed them to the Exhibition. "You will be the farmers and the Fair Directors of to-morrow," he told them, "and our Board wants you to feel that this is your fair. We feel that by carefully studying your farm problems and the breeding of good live stock you will become intelligent, progressive farmers, prosperous in your work and interested in your industry which you must realize is an essential one and should be put on as high a plane as possible. If you have any suggestions, or even any complaints we want to have them, and especially we want you to feel at home here."

Mr. F. C. McRea, of Norwood, district representative of the Department of Agriculture, was in charge of the class, and the judges of the young men's work were A. A. Knight of Linlsay, in beef cattle, F. C. Patterson of Port Hope, sheep, W. H. Smith of Brighton, horses, all three district representatives of the Department, Mr. McKinnon of the Canadian Packing Company, judge of the reports on swine. J. A. MacMillan, who is assisting Mr. McRae in the district school fairs, judged the dairy cattle reports.

Mr. McRea said the class acquitted themselves splendidly and most of the contestants turned in high scores. Not only had these young farmers to judge the stock, but afterwards they were required to state their reasons for their rating of the animals.

The competition was one of the most practical features of the Exhibition. It has the encouragement of every director, to whom the entry of so many young men was in itself an ample return for their Exhibition efforts, even if all other departments had failed. And this year's success was accepted as a warrant for establishing the cmopetition on the soundest and broadest possible basis for the future.

CLAUSES SUGGESTED BY GENERAL TURNER WILL BE DISCUSSED AT MEETING OF RETURNED SOLDIERS

Delegates From All Over Canada Are to Meet to Draw Up Constitution.

FOR VETERANS' UNION

Local Committee Considered Draft and Decided to Let Men Study It.

At a meeting of the Special Committee appointed by the returned men of this district at the open meeting held in the G.W.V.A. Hall on the 22nd of July, 1925, a general discussion took place regarding the matter of the unity of all ex-service men. A meeting will be held in Ottawa sometime in October when a constitution will be drafted for the new organization. Below are given some of the points that may be embodied in the constitution which will be drawn up at this meeting:

1.—Principles.

To be democratic, non-sectarian and entirely non-political and in no way affiliated or connected, directly or indirectly, with any political party.

2.—Aims and Objects.

(a)—To bring about the unity of all who served.

(b)—To create and maintain the spirit of comradeship and mutual help.

(c)—To foster the spirit of loyalty.

(d)—To safeguard the interests of the ex-service community.

3.—Membership.

Membership to be open to all men and women resident in the Dominion of Canada who have, at any time, served in the Imperial or Canadian Navy, Army or Air Force

4.—Machinery.

1.—The branch.

2.—District conference with its Council.

3.—Provincial conference with its Council.

4.—Dominion Executive Council.

5.—Dominion convention.

The branch would elect delegates to a district conference, which conference would elect a district council.

The Provincial conference would also elect three representatives to the Dominion Executive Council.

5.—Officers.

Each branch would have its own officers, such as President, Chairman, Vice-Chairman, Honorary Treasurer and Honorary Secretary.

Each district would have its own officers, such as President, Chairman, Vice-Chairman, Honorary Treasurer and Honorary Secretary.

Each Province would have a President, Chairman, Vice-Chairman and Honorary Treasurer.

The Dominion would have a President, Vice-Presidents (say one from each Province), Chairman, Vice-Chairman and Honorary Treasurer.

For branches and districts it is assumed that an Honorary Secretary would be able to undertake the secretarial work.

In regard to the Provincial and Dominion machinery, in neither of these cases would an honorary secretary be appointed, but each Province would have a Provincial office with a paid secretary and staff, and the Dominion office would have a paid secretary with staff.

6.—Executive Powers.

The supreme executive power in the organization would be vested in the Dominion convention, consisting of delegates from each branch of the organization.

Between meetings of the Dominion convention the executive power would be vested in the Dominion Executive Council and the Provincial conferences and councils, the district conferences and councils and branches would all be subordinate to the Dominion Executive Council.

7.—General Points.

The appointment of the Provincial secretaries with their staffs would be vested in the appropriate Provincial Council under the supervision of the Dominion Executive Council. The appointment of the Dominion Secretary and staff would be vested in the Dominion Executive Council.

A minimum subscription to the general organization should be laid down so that in no part of the Dominion would the subscription for the membership be less than the minimum determined in the constitution.

Provision would have to be made for satisfactory procedure to deal with the question of expulsion of a member or branch if this were necessary.

Detailed provision would also have to be made in the constitution for the method by which the Dominion convention would be called.

By not referring to the paid secretaries and staffs of the Provincial and Dominion offices, it would be recognized that none of these offices are the subject of popular vote but entirely matters within the executive power of the particular councils dealing with them.

It should be laid down in the constitution as a safeguard that no person holding office in any political party should be eligible for any office or post in the new organization, and alternatively no persons holding office in the new organization shall continue to hold office if holding or appointed to an office in a political party.

Only ordinary members would be eligible to hold office in the new organization or vote upon any matters concerning its policy or work.

SPECIAL DIFFICULTIES.

1.—Clubs.

It must be recognized that the policy side of the movement should be distinct from the purely social side. It is assumed that the social side of the ex-service men's movement in the Dominion is centred in the various clubs.

In the new united organization it is suggested that a special clubs department should be established for the purpose of assisting and advising clubs as to their organization and membership and the clubs as separate entities in particular localities should continue to exist and would maintain their own identity as social centres, while the individual members of the club would, in addition, become ordinary members of a branch of the united organization.

2.—Social Departments.

A number of organizations have been formed and in the past have performed excellent work for the protection of a particular section of ex-service men who had special difficulties to contend with.

In order, however, to bring the full force of all ex-service men to the support of the claims made by special sections, it is necessary to have one united organization, and in this organization steps would have to be taken to establish special departments of the Dominion headquarters for the purpose of dealing with any particular question such as:

(c)—Men who suffer from special disabilities.

It is suggested that the Dominion Executive Council would appoint various sub-committees whose special duty would be to look after these departments; such sub-committees would have limited power to co-opt people with expert knowledge of the question that the special department was intended to deal with.

3.—Organizations with Chapters.

A difficulty similar to that mentioned in (2) might exist with the few organizations which have been incorporated under a charter in order to protect the special work they have undertaken. It is suggested that procedure to be followed in these cases be that the organization would be absorbed by the united organization and become a department within the administrative machinery of the united organization

4.—Old Comrades Association.

Old comrades associations and similar organizations existing for the purpose of maintaining a particular tradition and fellowship would, it is suggested, be affiliated with the new organization by payment of a small affiliation fee. Members of these organizations would retain their membership, and in addition, for all matters of policy they would become individually, through a local branch, ordinary members of the united organization.

STEPS TOWARD UNITY.

1.—Action would have to be taken to set up:

(a)—A Dominion provisional unity committee.

(c)—Local provisional unity committees.

Each committee referred to above would be composed of equal representation from each of the existing organizations in the Dominion for (a), in the particular Province for (b) and in the particular locality for (c), and in addition, such ex-officers or ex-service men as may be selected to represent ex-service people at present not belonging to any organization.

2.—The work of the Provincial and local unity committees would be confirmed to the bringing together of the organizations within their territory upon all matters upon which it is at present possible to co-operate.

3.—The first duty of the Dominion provisional unity committee would be to draft a constitution for the united organization and consider the question of, say half a dozen alternative names for the same.

4.—Immediately upon completion of a draft constitution, steps would be taken by each of the existing organizations to call a national convention for the purpose of:

(a)—Passing a resolution approving of unity.

(b)—Passing a resolution agreeing to the dissolution of the existing organizations upon the establishment of the one united organization.

(Note.—In some cases this has already been done.)

5.—Meanwhile steps would also be taken to call in each locality for which a local provisional unity committee had been established an open and general meeting of ex-service officers and men for the purpose of electing a delegate or delegates to the Dominion unity convention

6.—It would be the duty of the Dominion provisional unity committee to take steps to call the Dominion unity convention as early as possible and in any case not later than the 31st of October. The Dominion unity convention would:

(a)—Consider and finally approve the constitution of the united organization.

(b)—Determine upon the name of the said organization.

(c)—Pass a resolution bringing into existence the organization set up by the constitution which had been passed.

(d)—Pass a general resolution requesting the existing organizations to take immediate steps to dissolve.

(e)—Elect the honorary officials for the Dominion, viz.: Dominion President, Dominion VicePresidents, Dominion Chairman, Dominion Vice-Chairman, Dominion Honorary Treasurer.

7.—In connection with the first Dominion Executive Council, it is suggested that the general terms of the constitution in connection with the appointment of such a Council should, for the first year of the operation of the organization, be waived and that a general resolution should be passed constituting the Dominion provisional unity committee as the first Dominion Executive Council of the new organization.

If considered desirable the same procedure might be adopted in regard to the Provincial Councils.

ADVICE TO GIRLS

By Annie Laurie

DEAR ANNIE LAURIE:

I am eighteen years eof age, and have been keeping "steady company" with a young man for a short time. I like him very much, and I think he likes me, but I am not sure.

I have given up another friend whom I have known for four years. Do you think this unwise? J. S.

J. S.: Yes, my dear, I do think it was unwise for you to give up your other friends. The only time it is necessary for you to limit your friendships is when you are engaged to be married. Before that time meet all your friends, accept their invitations and have a jolly good time. I suggest that to make up for your "neglect" you invite this old friend of yours down to see you. If you do this he will know that you are still interested in him and still enjoy his company. Then go right on meeting your other friends.

About Ourselves And Other People

By Winifred Black

WHY WOMEN CAN BE BUSINESS EXECUTIVES

Well, girls, we'll have to do something about it now—we just simply will, and that's that.

Here's President Chaplin of the La Salle University Extension saying that the vast majority of women in business work without ambition and that their real object is—"matrimony."

"Only one business college student in 20," says Mr. Chaplin, "takes an administrative course which would qualify her for an executive position—so that shows that only one in 20 really expects to keep on with her work."

Does it really, Mr. Chaplin?

Well, now, do you know I don't agree with you about the "executive business."

Seems to me the "excutive" woman grows up in the business.

She'll never go into an executive position right snap out of business school. What she'll do is to begin at the beginning and work up. I've known hundreds of women to do that very thing and it seems to me it's not only the easist but it's the most sensible thing in the world to do.

The big man in business got his training right in the office where he began—nine times out of ten.

Why shouldn't women work forward in exactly the same way?

To begin with, it's only the unusual woman who will ever get to be a big executive, and it's only the unusual office or the unsual business that will give a woman a chance to be a big exective.

Some men are very jealous of women, who are successful in business.

Big men had no such prejudice.

Some of the biggest men in American hand over business of great importance to women executives to handle.

And one good result of such actions is, so they tell me, that they thereby automatically lost a lot of worthless men.

"Do you want to know who the small calibre people in the office are?" said a big insurance man in my presence the other day.

"Put a good smart, bright woman at the head of the office force, and watch all the little fellows—resign."

And in the second place—this object "matrimony" idea. Now, of course we all know that every normal woman wants to be married, and she wants to have a home of her own and a family — I don't believe that one woman in a thousand likes the idea of working in somebody else's office all her life—but she marrying by giving her an executive position, Mr. Chaplin, you just naturally cannot—can he, girls?

LEGION OF HONOR

President Doumergue has instructed Ambassador Dauchener to confer the Order of the Legion of Honor upon Gertrude Atherton, American novelist. The award is made for "literary merits, and the wonderful activities displayed by that brilliant American writer for France and her wounded sons during the world war, when she organized drives, obtaining large funds to alleviate the sufferings of soldiers in hospitals."

FOR ARM BEAUTY AND VIGOR.

By Lucrezia Bori

To possess perfect physical beauty you must see that your body is symmetrically developed.

If you are very observing, and aware of what is really meant by symmetrical physical development, you will perhaps be surprised to notice how few people really possess this claim to great beauty.

For instance, the girl who wins a beauty contest may not always appear to the casual observer to be the most beautiful girl among those competing. The casual observer may have picked a girl whose face seemed much prettier as the probable winner.

But the point this observer may have overlooked is that the judges in a beauty contest are nearly always artists, either painters or sculptors or illustrators, who know perfectly the finer points of physical beauty.

Therefore, before a girl is judged the winner of the contest, she is examined by the most critical eyes. The shapliness and symmetry of her limbs, the countour of her face and the shapeliness of her neck are points on which she may score over the comelier face of her rival competitor. More than this, even her ears are judged according to size and shape and the way they are placed against her head.

So you see there are many things taken into account when artists foregather to sit as beauty judges.

In reading this I wonder if your mind has changed to wander over your own physical makeup, and if you have begun to judge yourself with a more or less impartial eye.

Now I can only take one good exercise at a time, but if you keep in mind the various ones I give you, you will find yourself equipped with a goodly stock of them.

Do This a Few Times Daily and Flabby Arms Will Disappear.

You will know exercises for developing and reducing various parts of your body according to your particular needs.

The one I am going to give you here may be a bit difficult for you to master at first but which is splendid work for your entire body. It is especially good to strengthen your arms and I have noticed that so many women have weak, flabby arms.

Begin by sitting on the floor, with your legs straight out along the floor in front of you.

Let your legs slant outward slightly, and place your hands flat on the floor, between your legs.

Now slowly raise yourself, supporting the weight of your body on your hands alone.

You will doubtless find, at first, that our arms give way under the strain. Do not be discouraged at this, but persist in the exercise until you can not only raise your body but until you can hold it up for a time, letting it slowly down again.

CAPES MA Y BE DETACHABLE OR SE MI-DETACHED.

A Smart Coat and Frock Illustrate Two Popular Variations of the Cape Model.

By Annette Bradshaw

We have already heard so much of the capes in the advance fashion notes from the smart openings that we would be inclined to cease regarding them as novelties, were it not that new capes seem capable of such endless variations of treatment.

The simplest form of the shoulder cape is, of course, the short jaunty cape affair that is attached to the garments, whether it be dress or coat, just beneath the tailored collar.

The rust colored kasha coat sketched here at the left follows this simple form, except that it gains variety from the fact that the cape is detachable. It is fastened to the coat by ties laced through slits in the collar, and may be removed, so the coat can be worn plain.

The very smart frock shown at the right is of soft woollen material in a delightful tint of blue-green. The back is cut so that it has a straight seam slanting up one side, with the other side flaring out into a jaunty circular cape treatment.

A delightful color touch is added in the wool braid of soft blue, which slants down one side at the back and extends across to outline the upper edge of the little cape.

The cape influence is also noted in ensembles. A very pretty homespun costume consists of a simple straight frock, trimmed with colorful embroidery. The wrap which matches it is a short circular capelet, made with three-quarter length kimona sleeves.

Beef Tea.

Take one pound of lean beef and cut it fine. Cover it with a pint of cold water, add a saltspoon of salt and let stand twenty minutes. Turn into a saucepan and heat very slowly, stirring until the liquid turns a rich red brown and the meat looks white, keeping below the simmering point all the time. Strain through a fine sieve and remove all particles of grease with white blotting paper. Keep warm over hot water and serve a little at a time.

Mutton Broth.

Take one pound of neck of mutton remove all fat, cut in small pieces and put into a saucepan with a quart of cold water, a saltspoonful of salt and bring to boiling point slowly. Skim carefully and simmer for two and a half hours. Strain, remove any grease with blotting paper, add a tablespoonful of freshly boiled or steamed rice and a teaspoonful of chopped parsley. Add a little more seasoning if required and reheat over hot water as needed.

Steamed Chicken Fillet.

Remove carefully the bones from a plump breast of chicken. Dust with a little salt and pepper, lay in an enamel saucer that has been buttered place another saucer on top, and put into a steamer. Keep the water boiling steadily and cook for one hour. Serve hot in its gravy.

SCIENCE SCHOOL TO CELEBRATE BI - CENTENNIAL

TO LAST TWO WEEKS

Great Scientists of World Have Been Invited to be Present.

MOSCOW, Sept. 18.—The Russian Academy of Science at Leningrad is preparing for the forthcoming celebration of its 200th anniversary to take place in September. Organized on an extensive scale, the celebration will last for nearly a fortnight, the first week of which wil be devoted to festivities in Leningrad and the second week to festivities in Moscow. Invitations to attend the celebrations have been addressed to representatives of scientific institutions of every country and already 103 foreign scientists of various countries have accepted. The Soviet Government is preparing for them an appropriate welcome and free traveling tickets will await the scientists at the Soviet missions abroad which will be handed to them smultaneously with the granting of visas to enter Russia.

In Leningrad and Moscow the museums are being arranged to furnish a more telling display of all the scientific materials accumulated there during the past two centuries. At the same time there will be an exhibition of the specific activities of the different institutions which form part of the academy.

All institutions of the academy will issue memorial art publications devoted to their past and present activities. Three special large jubilee publications will be issued by the academy, including the unpublished works of Academician Liapunoff on mathematics and physics, the Ossetian dictionary of Miller and the works of Academician Shakhmatoff.

Among the exhibits which will be specially arranged in connection with the bicentenary celebrations will be three special exhibits of the Asiatic Museum, devoted to miniatures, literature and autographs. The archives of the academy will hold an exhibition of documents illustrating the history of the academy and the life and labors of its prominent members, beginning with Lomonossoff, "the father of Russian science."

The Russian Academy of Science embraces 46 scientific institutions with 462 members. It has on its list 144 Russian and 169 foreign correspondents.

Nearly all museums belonging to the academy have greatly enlarged since the revolution. The library of the academy includes 4,000,000 books and manuscripts.

Information has been received that a number of American scientists will participate in the celebration. Among those who promised to attend the jubilee from other countries are Prof. Einstein, William Ramsey, Samuel Levy and Mme. Curie.

"I Love to Dance but—OH! MY FEET!"

Try this and forget all your aches, pains, strains, corns, callouses or other foot troubles.

A foot bath in hot saltrated water is all you need to stop any foot pains instantly. Phyllis Monkman says the saltrated water is wonderful for tired, tender, aching feet or any other foot troubles. As for corns—it does not affect sound healthy skin in the slightest degree, but acts only on the dead, hardened skin composing corns and callouses, which it softens just as water softens soap. Then pick the corn right out—root and all—like the hull out of a strawberry. Merely cutting the top off with a razor or burning it off with caustic liquids, plasters, etc., is about as logical as cutting the top off an aching tooth, and is simply a waste of time. Also it hurts, and is dangerous. Millions of packages of Reudel Bath Saltrates (for the preparation of saltrated water) have been sold, and the sale is increasing daily. This means something, as you will understand when you see for yourself the wonderful effects it produces. In packages of convenient size and at low price, from all druggists. Ask them about it.

TAX CUBAN AUTO BY NEW METHOD

Passenger Cars Charged by Wheelbase—Trucks by Capacity.

HAVANA, Sept. 18.—(Associated Press.)—Cuba's new transportation tax, basing carges for passenger vehicles on wheel base and trucks by capacity, went into effect on August 1.

There are five classes for the passenger vehicles, as follows: Under 105 inches wheel base, $40 a year; to 120 inches, $50; 128 inches, $60; 135 inches, $75; and over 135 inches, $75; and over 135 inches $90.

Trucks with a carrying capacity larger than seven tons are prohibited. The yearly charge for the four classes range from $25 for a three-quarter ton vehicle to $400 for seven tons capacity.

Taxicabs are given a special concession, their tax being one-half the amounts assessed privately owned machines. Small American cars are in taxi service throughout the island and far outnumber those in privtae use. Latest figures in Havana give the taxis about a two to one ratio over private cars.

SARGENT'S WORK WON'T DEPRECIATE

Pigments Used Now Are as Durable as Those of Old Masters.

LONDON, Sept. 18.—(Associated Press).—It is sheer nonsense to suggest that the late John Singer Sargent's pictures will be worth less in a hundred years than they are today, Sir William Orpen declared when told of a rumor that some of the pictures which fetched such high prices recently already showed signs of deterioration on account of the inferior quality of modern pigments.

"Modern pigments are just as good, and certainly as durable, as those used by any of the old masters," continued Sir John. "A great deal of nonsense has been talked about those Sargent prices," he added. "Six thousand pounds is none too much to pay for a copy of a masterpiece, if Sargent was the copyist. I should have paid it myself if I had the money.

"After all, it is Sargent's interpretation of a great work, and it has a tremendous artistic interest on that account. It is not merely slavish imitation. I have not seen this particular work myself, but he has surely breathed something of his own spirit into it.

"He was not, however, like Manet, another great copyist. Manet used original works in the same way that a great pianist uses a theme on which to improvise. Sargent did not improvise. He merely interpreted. And I should like to see the same work copied by other masters, just as I would like to hear a dozen pianists play the same Beethoven sonata.

"As far as I know, this is the first sale at which a copy has fetched a high price. It will not be the last.

FAMINE VICTIMS EAT PALM BARK

Scarcity of Food is Acute on Loochoo Islands. Japan.

FISH CATCH POOR

TOKYO, Sept 17 (Associated Press).—A commission which recently returned from the Loochoo Islands, which lie between Japan and Formosa, reported that the inhabitants have been reduced to abject misery because of the scarcity of food this year. Many of them it was stated, are eating the bark of banana palms ground into powder It is now proposed that the unfortunate residents be permitted to use the sugar and sake taxes, amounting to about 3,000,000 yen, for the purchase of food.

During the war boom the Loo-Choo Islanders waxed prosperous and were able to buy rice. Their usual diet is sweet potatoes, part of which they import from Satsuma. The sugar price this year, however, was such that the inhabitants could make no profit whatever and were unable to import their usual sweet potato rations. In addition the bonito catch was also very poor. Consequently the Japanese commission reported a serious food shortage and recommended that steps be taken by the government to ameliorate the condition of the islanders.

COSTS MONEY TO OPERATE AIRSHIPS

One Charge of Hydrogen Gas for R33 Costs Five Thousand.

LONDON, Sept. 18 (Associated Press).—Operation of airships is an expensive hobby for any country. The cost of reconditioning the dirigible R33 by the British Government prior to April last was $140,000 and the outlay for one charge of hydrogen gas $5,000. It cost $965 to get R33 into her hangar at Pulham on April 17 after her enforced voyage over the North Sea when she broke from her mooring mast.

The approximate cost of the R33 (flown 800 hours) and R36 flown 97 hours) was $1,750,000 each. Up to the present $375,000 has been spent on R35 and $1,625,000 on R37, both airships being yet in an uncompleted state.

The cost of R38 (70 hours), chargeable in part to the American government, is roughly $2,500,000. This information was given by Sir Samuel Hoare in a written answer to S. B. Viant, parliamentary member for West Willesden.

SHELL WARFARE IS BARBAROUS

Surgeon Says Use of Gas is Extremely Mild Method.

LITTLE DAMAGE

PARIS, Sept. 17 (Associated Press).—The war in Morocco—for it must be recognized as war now that Marshal Petain, who is really the commander-in-chief of the French army, has been sent to visit the scene of action—has revived discussion in the Paris press whether gas ought to be used in warfare.

There seems to be no question of the state's right to use gas against individual disturbers of the peace, as the police have recently employed or prepared to employ gas to arrest criminals, locked in their rooms, without any protest being raised.

A prominent surgeon Jean Louis Faure who saw much service during the World War writing to The Figaro says that the use of poison gas is extremely mild "if anything can be called mild in warfare It alone allows a military object to be gained without excessive massacres and bloodshed Men will hold a position to the last against explosive shells but a few well-placed gas shells will oblige them to evacuate before the losses are heavy

"Gas does but little damage The famous flood of gas at Prosnes the most fatal case of its use during the war hardly made more than 200 victims less than a few well placed explosive bombs would have made.

"Men who have been gassed however sad their fate, were not, in general, greater objects of pity than those who had been permanently maimed, trepanned or blinded.

"War is a terrible thing, but if we have to draw a distinction between two forms of barbarity, gas barbarism is less than shell barbarism. It is less deadly and yet more efficient."

Saxon Nationalists Kick Over Traces in Security Pact Matter.

BERLIN, Sept. 18 (Canadian Press).—Statesemen responsible for Germany's foreign policies were obviously somewhat troubled yesterday by the report that the German Nationalists of Eastern Saxony had knicked over the traces in the security pact matter. At the meeting, a resolution was adopted expressing sentiments voiced in the speech by Oskar H. Ergt, former leader of the party, who declared Germany must on no account surrender any portion of German land—naturally meaning Alsace-Lorraine—and that there could also be no question of joining the League of Nations "in its present form."

German People Have Fabric Made From Wood Pulp—Maker Tours Plants.

NEW YORK, September 18.—(Canadian Press.)—Barthold Deutscht (German manufacturer of wood pulp) described a new process of the conversion of wood pulp into fibre silk, on his arrival here yesterday on the United American liner 'Resolute.'

He said the people of Germany and Italy are too poor to wear anything but silk made by the new process.

"It is a very satisfactory process," he asserted. "Most of the artificial silk so manuactured is sold in Germany and Italy."

MEIGHEN TELLS OF TARIFF AND RAILS

Opposition Leader Visits Chatham—Unveils Bonar Law Memorial.

CHATHAM, N. B., Sept. 18.—(Canadian Press).—"Without a strong definite fiscal policy this country will be a mere adjunct, a mere hanger on, a mere feeding ground for the United States," Rt. Hon. Arthur Meighen, Conservative leader, informed a large audience in the Opera House here last night. The Conservative leader had motored 40 miles from Rexton, where he spoke at the unveiling of the Bonar Law Memorial in the afternoon.

Mr. Meighen stated positively that he was not an advocate of amalgamation of the two great Canadian railway systems, but he was equally definite in his declaration that the Canadian National must not be plunged deeper into debt by further capital investments. On the tariff he declared that a policy must be adopted which would give work to the Canadian people.

A spectacular feature was the rescue of Mr. Davis who lived above the garage. He had one thousand dollars in cash in his room and he entered the burning premises in a frenzied effort to save the money. He was overcome by heat and smoke and had to be rescued by firemen.

KING DENIES TRUTH OF MEIGHEN SPEECH

Premier at Halifax Challenges Conservative Leader to Repeat Statement.

HALIFAX, Sept. 18.—(Canadian Press).—Premier King last night once again charged the leader of the Opposition with twisting facts. "Mr. Meighen," declared the Premier, "seems to have a perfect genius for twisting and perverting the truth. I do not want to make this election a matter of exchanging compliments backward and forward, but I do say that the electors have the right to have the truth put before them in the fairest and clearest manner possible."

Mr. King at the time was referring to the statement, reported to have been made by Mr. Meighen, at Halifax a couple of days ago, that the Government had spent $3,800,000 to bring 110,000 people into the country, of whom about one-half had since gone out of the country. "I have already pointed out publicly to Mr. Meighen that in that figure of $3,800,000 is included $1,000,000 spent on Wembley Exhibition. I have already pointed out to Mr. Meighen that his statement was untrue. Yet he comes here and repeats it to you. I ask you, is that fair to you?"

"Now," sharply added Mr. King, "I challenge Mr. Meighen to repeat that statement again."

SCHOOL FAIR IS MARRED BY RAIN

North Manvers People Came to Janetville in Large Numbers, However.

EXHIBITS GOOD.

MILLBROOK, Sept. 17.—A day of continuous rain, unbroken by a single gleam of sunshine, did a great deal to mar the success of the North Manvers Rural School Fair, which was held at Janetville on Tuesday, September 15, the teachers and pupils, with parents and friends, turning out in larger numbers than had been looked for under the unfavorable circumstances.

The North Manvers Fair is usually one of the best in the district and the quality of the exhibits on Tuesday was quite up to the average, though they were lacking in quantity owing to the state of roads and weather.

In spite of the heavy rain the parade was held on the fair grounds, but for the other events adjournment was made to the town hall, which was filled to capacity, a keen interest in the various competitions being manifested.

There are seven schools in the North Manvers section, the list including Yelverton, S.S. No. 1, Miss Margaret McCamus, teacher; Lifford, S.S. No. 5, Mr. Gerald Staples, teacher; Fleetwood, S.S. No. 6, Mr. Douglas Deyell, teacher; Janetville, S.S. No. 7, Miss Gladys Gray, teacher; Bethel, S.S. No. 10, Mr. John Cawood, teacher; Franklin, S.S. No. 11, Miss Florence Graham, teacher; North Janetville, S.S. No. 16, Miss Jois Richardson, teacher.

Major E. E. Snyder and Mr. Clarence Allen were judges for the school parade in which all the schools participated, the winners being: 1, North Janetville; 2, South Janetville; 3, Fleetwood.

The physical culture exercises were given on the stage in the hall, and resulted as follows: 1, Bethel; 2, Fleetwood; 3, Janetville.

Major Snyder made a strong plea that more schools should take part in the school chorus singing, a feature of the annual fairs which he has emphasized throughout his inspectorate. Five schools were in the competition on Tuesday, and all made a creditable showing, Yelverton, which was awarded first place, doing particularly well. The others, in order of merit, were: North Janetville, and Janetville.

"A Description of Our Farm," was the subject set by the Department for the public speaking contest throughout the whole list of school fairs this season, the winners at Janetville being: 1, Jane Mills; 2, Lena Mulligan and the school chorus singing. On behalf of the school fair staff, Mr. F. C. Paterson thanked the donors for their generosity which would give added impetus to competition along the two lines another year.

Owing to the wet weather the poultry judging competition, which has been a popular feature of the fairs this season, had to be abandoned. The races were run off as well as the state of the ground, and the heavy downpour would permit.

The prize list was as follows:

Mr. Greene has been making photographs and Mr. Hilton has painted pictures of all the interesting points along the way.

The Yvonne, a forty foot cruising motor boat drawing three and a half feet of water, is the home of the party and few larger boats can surpass it in comfort. Under all the bunks are commodious lockers, the kitchen equipment is nested into tiny cupboards in a way that would make an apartment housewife envious, there is an ice box, and last, but far from least, an electric generator which supplies lights for the cabins and riding lights. Most of the fittings, including the canopy over the deck, are the work of Mr. Hilton, who also assembled a small motor and generator to form the lighting plant.

Speaking to the Examiner yesterday, Mr. Green waxed enthusiastic about the Trent canal system. The scenery along the route had been wonderful, and the courtesy of the canal employes had impressed him. The way in which the course through all the lakes and islands had been buoyed was commended by Mr. Greene.

Prices which he paid along the route were low in comparison to what he had been accustomed to pay in Chicago, he said. Honey was cited as an instance. In Chicago he had paid 40 cents a pound, while from farmers along the route he had been getting nature's sweet for 15 cents. At only one place on the route, and that was not on the Trent canal, had he found that tourists were charged exorbitant prices.

The party left to-day to continue the trip. From here the route lies down the Otonabee and Trent rivers, across the end of Lake Ontario to the New York state barge canal, through Lake Oneida and the Erie canal to the Hudson. From there they will go across New Jersey by canal to the Delaware, and from near the south of the Delaware will proceed by canal to Chesapeake Bay. At the mouth of the bay, nearly half way down the coast they will come out into the Atlantic Ocean for the first itme.

CITY KIWANIANS GOING TO OTTAWA

Twenty Members of Peterborough Club Leave For Capital.

All roads lead to Ottawa for the Kiwanis Convention, beginning next Monday, and about twenty members of the Peterboro Kiwanis Club, most of them burdened with their wives and other baggage, will be on the road. Some are going to motor—some are going by railway, and one or two have talked of flying.

There will be between thirty and forty Peterboro people at the convention, enough certainly to let them know that Peterborough is represented.

Premier King says that during the Convention the Parliament Buildings belong to Kiwanis. The Mayor of Ottawa has donated the City, and the President of the Ottawa Kiwanis Club advises that the ladies will be welcome. The banquet on Tuesday night will be held in the Chateau. The dance following will be held in the auditorium, which has a floor space allowing over a thousand couples to dance in absolute comfort not in absolute silence. The orchestra engaged for the occasion will be one of the finest ever heard in Canada. Kiwanis Clubs of Ontario, Quebec and the Maritime provinces will all be represented at Ottawa, and preparations are bing made to entertain about a thousand Kiwanians.

Mrs. Mary Layton, a 73-year-old resident of Santa Monica, Calif., celebrated her golden wedding anniversary by having her hair bobbed.

COUNCIL OF WOMEN IS TOLD FACTS ABOUT POLLING DATE

Question of Change to December 1 is Discussed at Meeting.

MUNICIPAL MATTERS.

Mayor Turner and City Clerk Armstrong at First Gathering.

The first meeting for the fall season of the Local Council of Women, held in the green room of the Young Women's Christian Association yesterday afternoon, was featured by the presence of City Clerk S. R. Armstrong, who was accompanied by Mayor Turner, and was present on the ladies' invitation, to give them some information with regard to various matters of municipal interest.

The president, Mrs. Arthur Stevenson, occupied the chair. The ladies discussed the question of holding a theatre night to raise funds for their society, and appointed the following committee to make arrangements: Mesdames Arthur Stevenson, N. D. Seaton, F. A. Hodgson, G. Helson, A. Mowat and Miss A. Walton.

Re Municipal Elections.

Mr. Armstrong first outlined to the ladies various reasons for and against their contention that the present polling day in municipal elections should be changed to another date. He said the law provides three dates which may be used for municipal elections: the regular day of the first Monday in January, or two alternatives in New Year's Day or the first Monday in December. Elections for many years in Peterboro were held on the first Monday in January and then the change was made to New Year's Day. The most feasible change at the present time, therefore, would be to the first Monday in December.

Speaking of the constant urging to voters to get out and register their choice in municipal as well as in other elections, Mr. Armstrong wondered if such votes, when cast, would be of much value.

Commenting on the advantages of holding the polling on New Year's Day, rather than on another occasion, Mr. Armstrong said that a large number of people, notably commercial travellers, were at home on the holiday. When the polls are opened on a regular working day, it is found that congestion, with consequent careless work on the part of hurried officials, takes place at the noon hour and evening period, and that many voters go away without marking their ballots. It is also much easier to procure polling stations on New Year's Day, and the system of most councils is to use the same stations year after year, to cause the voters to become acquainted with them. If the recent ruling, that schools may be used as polling stations, is adopted generally, these also would not be available on such a date as the first Monday in December.

The return of the assessment roll, completed, on the first of October, and the consequent holding of Appeal Courts which follows it, would preclude the holding of an election on the first Monday in December, unless provision were made to change existing regulations and have the roll made up and returned at an earlier date.

The Main Objection.

One of the main objections to holding the vote on the first Monday in December, according to Mr. Armstrong, was the fact that, after the voting was done, the Council, some of whom would be defeated and not eligible for return during the following year, would continue to do business for a whole month thereafter, unless considerable revisions were made in the present municipal Legislative machinery, to permit of the year being sub-divided to allow of two Councils holding office during the twelvemonth, or a new municipal year established, beginning on the first of December.

Enquiries of several cities that had tried the change to the first Monday in December, the majority of which were more or less in the experimental stage, elicited varying answers, which were read by Mr. Armstrong. St. Thomas reported liking the change; Kingston and Belleville found an increased interest taken in the polling because of the change; Brantford recorded the largest vote in its record polled since it had made the change, while Hamilton and St. Catharines saw no more interest taken in elections, and said the number voting had not been increased.

Various questions were then asked by ladies present. Mrs. Stevenson thought the "don't care" attitude which might be adopted by men going out of office and still continuing to function as a Council for an extra month was not just in line with the expressed declarations of most candidates when seeking election, that they would allow nothing to interfere with their duty to the public.

Sundry Matters Discussed.

Mrs. Mowat thought that if a holiday were so necessary for the holding of municipal elections, it was strange that other elections were kept away from holiday dates, as much as possible.

An enquiry elicited the fact that the municipalities that have made the change have not bothered changing their legislative machinery, but have gone on in the old way, the month of December creating a hiatus in the Council's year which is bridged over as well as possible. Mrs. Stevenson wondered if the majority of the aldermen did what they thought was right in most cases, or just what they wished to do. Mr. Armstrong was of the opinion, after a long experience, that the majority were governed by righteous views, although they "do not always think that the few who say the most represent the majority of the citizens."

Going on to other matters, Mr. Armstrong was asked the real reason as to the virtual closing of the bathing beaches on Sunday, and replied that, in his opinion, it was for the reason that the majority of the aldermen did not wish to employ men on the Sabbath to do work that was not an absolute necessity or a charity.

The question of daylight saving, in the opinion of both visitors, should be submitted to the electors for decision. Mr. Armstrong, in response to a query regarding the farmers' objections and their validity, stated that he knew of several instances where farmers had started sending to the mail order houses for supplies when the system was in use before, and had continued the practice ever since.

With regard to the pollution of the river from various sources, with consequent danger at the bathing beaches, the new sewage disposal plant was referred to as a solution of this difficulty.

Mayor Turner added a few words of commendation of the quiet, thoughtful attention accorded Mr. Armstrong, and assured the ladies of willingness at any time by himself or any member of the Council to give information along any line.

A hearty vote of thanks was accorded both gentlemen by the ladies.

IRISH REPUBLICANS MOB GEN. MULCAHY

Former Commander-in-Chief of the Irish Free State Army Egged.

HOBOKEN, N.J., Sept. 18—(Canadian Press).—A crowd of Irish Republican sympathizers, most of whom were women, egged General Richard Mulcahy, formerly Commander-in-Chief of the Irish Free State Army, and his escort as they landed on the pier here last night from the steamer President Roosevelt. The General was rescued by police reserves after a riot call had been sent in.

Several of the eggs struck the Irish soldier, and although General Mulcahy was not injured physically, one of his three attendants was struck on the forehead over the eye with a block of wood.

Many of the women had banners and black flags, which they waved at the party of visitors. Shouts and jeers accompanied each volley of eggs.

Two women and a man were arrested.

DOG LOVERS CROWD

There are three smooth fox terriers, one from Lindsay and two from Toronto, and an entirely new breed of dog in the Kerry blue terrier, with the only pair in Canada shown here, Castleton Roche Paulus is a real beauty in this type, one of those "ugly beautiful" dogs, like the real broad-faced bulldog, that excites the admiration of the judge and the pity of the man who doesn't know just when a dog is a real breedy type. Paulus has bluish grey wire hair and a nose like a Houdan chicken, with a tuft of sprouting hairs across its bridge. The pair belong to W. H. Lytle of Toronto.

Mrs. Travers of London, formerly of Peterboro, is showing "Invernesk Cadet," the property of her brother, Captain Smith of London, and winner of first awards at Toronto and London.

In the long white Russian wolfhound class are some exceptional entries, the seven months' old pup of Romanoff Rasputin, property of Miss Marjorie Adams, the International Champion "Galaroff O'Valley Farm," of the Vaski Kennels at Lambeth, and a super dog of this breed.

Mr. A. J. Reynolds' "Pal," a friendly English setter, is in his stall, next to a couple of good-looking Irish setters.

There is a special compartment of wire cages where tiny lap dogs, terriers and Pekingese and Poms are on view, in black and white and brown, there is a nice showing of cocker spaniels and field spaniels, and a large showing of the competent looking beagles. Boston terriers occupy a large space, and so do the Alsatian shepherd dogs, fierce and pointed-eared. There are a couple of Dalmatians, the spotted coach dogs, coal black retrievers with brown eyes, and a trio of Irish water spaniels, with their rakish appearance.

Included in the Alsatian list is a beauty, large and capable, all the way from Germany, shown by the owners in Toronto, and listed as "Dodo of Ardbern."

One of the most interesting classes is the collie entry. Here K. M. Sine has his 'Lassie Invincible,' with her five little bronze and white pups, and their parent, "Commanding Style," long-nosed and fine-looking. These are the real, breedy Scotch collie of the best type and won firsts in last year's show. Along the line are a pair all the way from Timmins, and "Duke," Louis Anthony's collie, which refused to stay inside a dog collar last year, and has been tied up, like the other entries, this season.

Airedale terriers are covered with blankets, even in this weather. There are bull dogs, pointers, a white Sealyham terrier, and Scotch terriers in black and brown. A black and white Eskimo, the latter an odd-looking dog, are next to the "Samoyedes," the white Poms, with one little pure white beauty standing up to say its prayers with clasped paws to the passing crowd.

An unpretentious little entry is the brindle Scotch terrier of A. Buchanan, of Toronto, unbeatable as yet, who completes his championship at this show, with ten points to his credit, having been awarded first prizes at London and Toronto. He is Canadian bred, "Ellwyn Prince," with a cheerful upstanding little tail.

Reg. Turner's "Nigger," black-coated and red-ribboned, looks out at the throng from beneath pictures of his community activities, depicting him carrying greeting cards of different types. The cheerful small dog looked up at his own likeness this afternoon with great affection.

W. Thompson, proprietor of the Brownton Kennels, shows beagles, and H. S. Routley has a large collection of springer spaniels from the Trent Valley Kennels.

There are French bulls on view, black, with pointed ears; a couple of lean, cream colored greyhounds; a Great Dane, and half a dozen mild, big Newfoundlands.

All the way from the Pacific seaboard, from England and Germany, from Hull and Ottawa and Quebec, from Detroit and London and Toronto, with many entries from the city and district, have come the dogs to the Peterboro Dog Show, and they are one and all, well worth a long visit.

In the Dog Show tent are corner sections devoted to the display of F. H. Dawson's dog biscuits and feeds, with brushes and dog cakes and various things of interest to dog owners, also W. H. Roberts' display of leather goods and dog collars.

Free State Army Chief Given Boisterous Welcome Greeted With Rotten Eggs As He Lands At Hoboken

HOBOKEN, N.J., Sept. 18 (United Press).—A mob of 100 persons, including many women, bombarded Gen. Richard Mulcahy, commander of the Irish Free State army with rotten eggs and other missiles, as he emerged from the pier after disembarking from the United States line stamer President Roosevelt, Thursday night.

Mulcahy was not injured, but one of his aids was struck over the eye by a stick.

More than a dozen policemen answered a riot call, which was sent in when three policemen who were on duty in the vicinity were unable to control the situation. Under a convoy of three motor cycle policemen, Mulcahey and his aides were hurried from the scene, whereupon the mob dispersed.

Feature Exhibits at Exhibition

GRAFTON & CO., LTD.

Again a Part of the Big Fair—Up-to-date Showing of Men's and Boys' Clothing.

After an absence of several years, the Grafton Company are again present with a splendid exhibit, not in the familiar, old-time tent with the flaring signs, but in a conspicuous space in the Manufacturers' Building. First exhibit to the left as you enter the front door, the tastefully arranged showing of men's new fall attire, in which the brighter colors that are to be worn are used to good effect to set off the more sombre shades that mere man is allowed to wear, is sure to attract more than passing attention.

Every new thing in men's and boys' clothing is shown, and in a nice open style of arrangement that allows easy examination of the garment.

The Grafton policy of selling direct to the consumer, from manufacturer to wearer, is featured in the advertising matter used, and a talk with the man in charge reveals the advantage this policy is to their customers.

Half a century manufacturing men's and boys' clothing, each year keeping up with all that was newest in men's attire, or later on leading with the models produced by their own designer, has made Grafton Clothing famous, and the name Grafton to practically stand for sterling quality and moderate price in men's clothing.

If you are interested in the kind of clothes that "make the man," visit the Grafton exhibit at the Exhibition.

BRINTON CARPET CO.

Visitors at the Exhibition are impressed by the fact that rugs with real artistic charm are being manufactured in Peterboro. This is evidenced by the display in the Manufacturers' Building of the Brinton Carpet Co. of Peterboro. The exhibit has such an appeal that many enquiries were made yesterday as to price and stores where retailed. The exhibit includes a medium grade of Wilton known as the Brinton Windsor; a Brinton bread loom fabric seamless rug with pattern going through to the back; a medallion style seamed Sarouk in Persian effect together with several drums of rugs, some plain and others in mat effect. All the rugs are samples of the company's every-day manufacture, and reflect that excelling quality in weave, design and coloring for which this industry is so widely reputed. Their products are sold in all the leading local stores dealing in housefurnishings, and are highly recommended as giving the utmost value for the price at which they sell.

THREE PRIZE CAKES

Three perfectly tempting wedding cakes made from the Maple Leaf Milling Co.'s super-quality Monarch Flour constitute an irresistible attraction to hundreds of visitors at this company's exhibit in the Manufacturers' Building these days. Of course, interest is quickened by the announcement that they are to be given away in a drawing contest which is proving exceedingly popular. Numbered tickets are distributed daily—one only to each person — and coupons bearing the same numbers as on the tickets will be drawn after the Exhibition closes. The three persons holding numbers corresponding to those drawn will each get on of the cakes. The winners' names will be announced in The Examiner on Saturday, September 26. These are cake dainties worth while winning, for their excelling quality and all-round goodness is guaranteed by the fact that they were made by such expert local confectioners as L. Potvin, Coleman Bros., and R. French from Maple Leaf Monarch Flour.

This company makes no attempt at a colorful or artstic display, but one sees on every hand an abundant showing of those milling products for which they enjoy an enviable reputation far and near. The section is replete with sacks upon sacks of Monarch, Silver Moon and Jenny Wren flour for pastry, and Cream of the West and Maple Leaf flour for bread, each of which sets a high standard for purity and wholesomeness. This exhibit also features Monarch Poultry Feed, upon which hens thrive and increase their egg supply.

AN ORIGINAL EXHIBIT

One of the most original of exhibits in the Main Building is that of the Cressman Company, Limited, designed entirely on Oriental lines, with a Moorish interior to the big section. Rugs of luxurious Oriental weaves are shown here exclusively, in Persian and Indian patterns, with small prayer rugs of the genuine Persian variety and a large Indian rug on the floor. The estimated value of the rugs is $3,000.

The effect is particularly luxurious, and is carried out with electric fixtures showing dull orange and green and white globes, colored candles in bronze wall holders, and decorations of old Moorecroft china in dark designs. Curious floor lamps with ornamental standards and Oriental shades in rose and gold, are another note in the arrangement and two Oriental figures in dull green are at the rear.

The only modern note in the ensemble is the demonstration of the Hoover vacuum cleaner by two special representatives of the company.

MADE IN CANADA RUGS.

The Turnbull Company, Limited, have confined their exhibit in the Main Building this year to an entire showing of "Made in Canada" rugs, which compare favorably with the beautiful specimens of Oriental weaves. Arranged in splendid fashion are Wilton and Axminster and Sarouk rugs, products of the local Brinton Carpet factory, and showing the latest designs in rich and artistic patterns.

As high lights for the rugs, a skillful use of drapery has been made, in lengths of rich blue and rose materials, arranged in careful fashion so as to harmonize with the soft, subdued colorings of the floor coverings.

It is an outstanding example of the excellence of "Made in Peterborough" goods of this type.

A MODEL BEDROOM.

A lighted fire is in the little grate beneath a mantelpiece decorated with gladioli in black vases, there are dainty little pictures on the walls, windows draped with net and cretonne in harmonizing shades, and a yellow-shaded lamp on the bedside table. Ferns and a display of rich-looking motor robes complete an interesting interior.

ORGANISTS' REPRESENTATIVE

Edwin Arthur Kraft, fellow of the American Guild of Organists, representing the National Association of Organists at the organists' convention held in Toronto this week.

In Germany, a man of 72, named Stubbe, has won a three hundred yards race against a horse. It is true that the horse was twenty years old, but it was still in good condition.

SHELTER KIDDIES WILL BE GUESTS

Fair Board and Midway Owners Will Entertain Children of Two Orphanages.

K. OF C. IN CHARGE.

All the shows and rides on the Midway will be free to the children of the Shelter and St. Vincent's Orphanage on Saturday afternoon as guests of President Denne and the Fair Directors, and of Messrs. Boyd and Linderman, proprietors of the carnival. This outing for the children was arranged by the Knights of Columbus, who are looking after their transportation to the Exhibition Grounds and their care there. The hospitality of Messrs. Boyd and Linderman will be appreciated not only by the children, but by the public generally, who will share in the youngsters' day of unwonted thrills.

The Midway managers gladly accepted the proposal for the visit of the children from the two institutions, and it was learned that in practically every city of their summer itinerary they do not forget the little ones, whom cirrcumstances have entrusted to the public for their care and their occasional entertainment. Incidentally the Fair Board has been well pleased with the harmonious relations which have prevailed between them and Messrs. Boyd and Linderman and their assistants.

BLUE RUIN SHUT OUT

wheat crop is exported, keeping up the flow of trade and business to the value of all enterprises.

The latest figures place the estimated yield in Canada this year at 391,819,000 bushels. These large figures for other years, last years wheat until they are compared with the figures for other years, ast year's wheat yield was 262,000,000, nearly 130,000,000 bushels less than this year. Canada's 1925 crop of wheat is the third largest the Dominion has ever produced. In 1915 there was a yield of 393,000,000 bushels; in 1923 the yield was 474,000,000 bushels; both years surpassing in volume of yield the present estimate.

But the story of bushels is not the whole story, remarked the speaker. In 1915 the large crop sold for an average price of 91c a bushel, with a yield in cash of $356,000,000. In 1923, the average price was 67c a bushel, yielding $316,000,000. The price in 1924 was $1.22 a bushel, and the present price is around $1.30 a bushel. "If we are safe in assuming, as I think we are, that the price will not recede greatly, then the crop will bring into the country this year in the neighborhood of $500,000,000, the most valuable crop of wheat Canada has ever produced, either in peace or in war. During the war years, when the price went up, we had crops that brought in $400,000,000, but the larger crop this year will surpass this."

Picture of Growth

Mr. Roadhouse read an extract from a note made by Rev. J. McDougall, in which he said that in 1866 there were many human beings in Canada's great west who had never seen flour or bread. Rev. Mr. McDougall and his party had not bread as a steady article of food from 1862 to 1872.

This shows that the growing of wheat in Western Canada is the development of enterprise in the last fifty years. "When we place this picture of half a century ago beside the report we have today we see the contribution Western Canada has made to our national development, and to the commerce of the Empire and of the world," Mr. Roadhouse said.

The increases this year are not confined to wheat, but extend to oats and barley, dairy products, bacon, and a host of other products of the farm. "If we had the temerity at this early date to venture an estimate of the meaning of this increase in yield and price we would be forced to say over $300,000,000 in addition to last year. This," the speaker said, "is a splendid testimony to the progress of the country."

Ontario's Share.

Ontario has shared in the prosperity that has come with the good crops of 1925. There is a variation over the different sections of the province, but Ontario is a province of varied crops, and there is hardly ever a year of failure. This year there are very few crops down, and most are up. Ontario will contribute about one third, or nearly $500,000,000 to the agricultural revenue of Canada for 1925.

Mr. Roadhouse remarked that the depression of former years must be counted off the prosperity of this year. In after-the-war deflation the farmer was harder hit than any other worker, and over $750,000,000 was wiped off the agricultural revenue of the country. "It is necessary before you draw hasty conclusions as to agricultural prosperity that you keep in mind that in the last few years there has been a big gap that must be made up from the revenue of this and succeeding years. But th improvement is marked, and we seem justified in coming to the conclusion that there will be a greater inflow of money from our natural products to speed the wheels of industry and over t ke the debts incurred in previous years. It is an important contribution to the business development of the country."

More Purchasing Power

The purchasing power of the dollar earned for agricultural products in 1921 was 20 per cent lower than the purchasing power of the dollar in all other productions. In 1922 the same disparity obtained, the farm dollar only purchasing 80 cents' worth of city goods. In 1925 the lines meet, so that today there is more of a parity between the farm dollar and the city dollar, and the purchasing power of all sections of the country is on a more equitable basis. The stable point is 60 per cent higher than in 1913, and the days of two dozen eggs for 25 cents are gone forever. Conditions are better and more stable all around than in the days before the war.

In closing, the Deputy Minister emphasized the confidence of the people in Canada saying their confidence in the national and natural resources of the country is justified.

Mayor Turner moved the vote of thanks to the speaker and his eulogy was cheered to the echo, competing successfully with the din from the tent of dogs.

Many Visitors

The luncheon was marked by the presence of many visitors, some from United States, and a contingent of the Lindsay Fair Board Directors. Charles Cook, president of the Kiwanis Club, presided.

President Denne was greeted with a burst of applause upon rising to respond to Chairman Cook's introduction. In a brief speech he thanked the Kiwanis for this new demonstration of their interest in the Exhibition, cordially welcomed the representatives of the C.P.R. and the large deputation from the Lindsay Fair Board, including Mayor Graham and ex-President Frank Carew.

Mr. Denne appealed to the public, citizens and farmers alike, to identify themselves more closely with the Exhibition by becoming members. "If we could get two thousand new members from this district, it would be the greatest boost imaginable. The membership fee is only two dollars, and the aggregate receipts from that source alone would enable the Board to put up the buildings we need. Our plant would then be a credit to us all. The Examiner referred to this idea last night, and recommended it to the public. We thank them for their support, and we hope that the public will generously respond. Our mail this morning brought one handsome response, an application for membership from Joe Duffus, his two dollar bill, and besides that a cheque for $25. Co-operation like that is a stimulant to the directors and a guarantee that the people are with us and want us to keep on pushing ahead from year to year. Another day of fine weather and we hope to have receipts enough to reduce our personal note which the directors gave for new buildings. Once we get that all paid off we will be seeing daylight, and the rest will be smooth sailing."

Other speakers were Mayor Graham of Lindsay, who invited the Kiwanians and Directors to be guests of Lindsay Fair; Reg. Turner; several of the C.P.R. officials who were present as guests, and W. H. Bradburn, M.P.P., who introduced the speaker of the day.

The deputation from the Lindsay Exhibition Board were: Mayor W. G. Graham; John Carew, past president; H. B. Black, secretary; G. B. Brown, Wm. Carlisle, Wm. Payne, Isaac Fee, H. Simons, H. Trotter, T. R. Trotter, Dr. Irwine, Robt. Stinson and Frank Graham.

He was remanded to jail until Monday for sentence.

He was held without bail, until the Bank inspectors made an investigation of the bank accounts. THREE CANUCKS IN SEMI-FINALS

One Lone American Remains —Hopes Bright for Finals.

LAST WON 1919

OTTAWA, Sept. 17 (Canadian Press) — As a result of the third round matches of the twentieth Canadian Ladies' Open Golf Championship today Canada is in a better position to secure the title than since it was last won by a Canadian in 1919 by Miss Ada Mackenzie of Mississauga. Before today's play commenced Canada and the United States were on even terms, as far as numerical strength was concerned, with four representatives each, but when the smoke of battle cleared away late this afternoon—and the third round produced battles—Canada had three players in the semi-finals to a lone American. Judging from the previous form of the survivors Canada should occupy both places in the final on Saturday.

That the United States and Canada would each have at least one player in the semi-final was assured by the fact that in one of today's matches Americans were paired while in another two Canadians, both members of the Royal Ottawa Club, were opposed to one another but in the other two matches Americans of high rating were bracketed with Canadians and it was in both of these matches that the Dominion's representatives came through, but not until after stirring struggles.

STATES QUARTET EMERGE VICTORS OF TENNIS MEET

Tilden Seeking Sixth Crown Meets Richards Today.

MET LAST YEAR

Johnston Will Clash With Williams in Semi-Final.

FOREST HILLS, N.Y., Sept. 17 (Canadian Press)—The "Big Four" of United States, the quartet which has kept this country at the top of the international heap for six successive years, will fight it out for the national singles title of 1925. This was determined yesterday when the four United States Davis Cup aces—William T. Tilden, William M. Johnston, R. Norris Williams and Vincent Richards — emerged as sole survivors of the international field which started battling on the courts of the West Side Tennis Club this week in the 44th annual championship tournament.

Johnston and Richards, in today's outstanding matches, removed the last two foreign threats from the tournament ,the latter taking the measure of Rene Lacoste, French holder of the Wimbledon title, 6-4, 6-3, 6-3, while Johnston was extended to four sets to down Manuel Alonso, Spanish Davis Cup ace, 6-3, 6-8, 6-1, 6-2, in the most brilliantly fought encounter of the afternoon.

Tilden, stroking with all his old mastery, had no difficulty eliminating his fellow-townsman-, Wallace F. Johnson, 6-4, 6-0, 6-4, while Williams, flashing the greatest game he has shown since he last captured the national title in 1916, followed up his sensational victory over Jean Borotra, yesterday, by downing Howard Kinsey, of San Francisco, 7-5, 6-4, 6-3.

Today Tilden, seeking his sixth straight crown, will face his great young rival, Richards, in one of the semi-finals, the same spot in which they met last year, while Johnston and Williams, each of whom has held the championship twice in the course of their long and brilliant careers, will be opponents in the other.

Johnston was the only victor extended in any serious measure today and "Little Bill" was forced to call on all his resources to repel the hurricane attack of Alonso. The Spanish star set a tremendous pace from the start and though he tired eventually as a result of it, he fought for every point down to the finish, sustaining the most sensational sort of rallies even when Johnston had him on the run.

Tilden and Richards, on their pal today, both seemed on edge for their clash tomorrow. The champion was master of every stroke in his bag today, outchopping Johnson at the latter's own game.

Lacoste found Richards almost impenetrable on defense and resistless on attack; and the Frenchmen's best efforts went for naught in the face of Richards' dazzling volleys and drives. He was outplayed at every turn.

INSIDE Ggolf.

Maker of 61 Golf Champions. "Golf's most successful teacher," says "Chick" Evans

By CHESTER HORTON

The hands act—definitely, consciously and decisively—at two points in the golf swing. Their first action with the club has a tendency to lead to the proper secondary hand action, automatically. The hands act at the instant the club is started backward from the ball, since the club should be started very definitely with the hands. Then the hands act, quickly, crisply and effectively just as the clubhead nears the ball on its forward swing. Here the hands put the punch into the blow—commonly called wrist action. This action describes the work done by the hands while they travel, or move, in their arcs during the swing. Except at the start of the back swing and at the moment of impact the hands require no attention or thought on the part of the player.

PARKING QUESTION.

HAVELOCK, September 18.—The September meeting of the Village Council was held on Wednesday evening in the Council Chamber, with all the members present.

After the minutes of the previous meeting had been read and adopted, the council proceeded to deal with a petition signed by a number of ratepayers requesting them to pass a bylaw to prevent the erection of a blacksmith shop on what is known as the old Fuller property on the corner of Quebec and Matheson Streets.

A number of the ratepayers who have p roperty in that vicinity, and whose names were on the petition, were present at the meeting and very strongly objected to having a blacksmith shop in a residential section, believing that it would depreciate the value of their property, raise their fire insurance rate, and be a public nuisance as well as be undesirable from a sanitary point of view.

Bylaw 194 as passed in 1904 governing the erection of buildings in the fire zone, was read by the reeve, and also the amendment extending the territory in the fire limits.

Reeve Curtis was of the opinion that a residential section of the village was not the proper place for a blacksmith shop and expected to have legal advice as to whether villages have the same right as towns and cities to prohibit the erection of business places in residential sections. At present all the council had the authority to do was to pass the amendment, placing it in the fire zone.

On motion of Councillors Campbell and Spencer section 5 of Bylaw 194 was repealed and the amendment substituted.

A communication was received by the reeve from Mr. Peck regarding Motor Traffic Bylaw No. 291 of 1917, stating that it is still in force so far as it was not inconsistent with the statutes.

A discussion followed with reference to parking cars on the main streets.

The following accounts were passed:

School Board, $300; D. Vansickle, work on streets, $24.75, Jos. Lewis. work on streets, $16.50; George Jones work on streets, $12; J. Ketchen, 20 feet of cedar, $3.60, Frank Post, work on streets, $9; Frank Post, tile, $1; Frank Post, attendance at town hall, $2; S. T. Medd, services on appeal, $15; total $383.85.

THEATRES

AT THE GRAND

THE YOUNG-ADAMS CO.

The Young-Adams Stock Company, headed by Mr. H. Wilmot-Young and Miss Marjie Adams, opened a six-days' engagement at the Grand last evening, with a very effective production of "The Road to Ruin." This organization of entertainer which visited Peterboro three seasons ago, is a well-balanced aggregation of players and vaudeville artists and their repertoire for their local run promises to provide some most interesting evenings for local play-goers. The company has just finished an engagement at Kingston and the following wire from the Grand in that city shows that a splendid impression was made by the Young-Adams players there:

"Just closed a very successful three days' engagement of Young-Adams Stock Company. One of the bst companies to visit Kingston in three years. Receipts doubled each evening."

The opening vehicle, "The Road to Ruin" as produced at the Grand last night gave the members of the company a fine opportunity to demonstrate their ability. A stirring story of a woman's revenge, full of dramatic situations the play never flagged in interest. Miss Adams' performance in the role of the avenging Clara Ramsay, was most effective, and Mr. Young gave a masterly interpretation of the part of Haddon McLean. Miss Marguerite Young scored heavily as the slangy "Lottie"; Edgar Jason was convincing as Bob McLean, and Edward H. Stauffer contributed a fine part as Inspector Foley.

The vaudeville numbers were all excellent. Miss Teddy Leggatt was seen first in a series of Irish jigs and reels, and later did the Highland Fling and the Sword Dance, and his dancing throughout was most effective. Miss Nina Bruns offered an unusual paper tearing act. Tom Redway, a comedy juggler, well above the standard in his methods and execution gave the audience an interesting ten minutes. George Carruth, Scotch comedian, sang several Harry Lauder songs in fine style. Miss Peaches Henderson, the possessor of a fine soprano voice and the ability to use it effectively, contributed a series of songs, each one of which was a gem. The De Haven Sisters, toe dancers, were above the average, gave a sensational exhibition that earned them round after round of applause.

The Young-Adams Company offer a most generous assortment of popular plays and vaudeville and will undoubtedly draw big audiences for the balance of their run.

To-night the attraction will be "Dangerous Innocence."—F.D.C.

"DANGEROUS INNOCENCE."

Another big night tonight at the Grand when the Young-Adams Company will present that big play of thrills, heart interest and laughable situations, "Dangerous Innocence", a play that has made as big a sensation as "The Bat" and "The Cat and Canary". Marjie Adams will be seen in one of her best acting parts, one that calls for every ounce of her acting ability. 'Dangerous Innocence' is a favorite play of Miss Adams and she takes great delight in seeing the audience enjoy the performance and applaud the many thrilling situations and startling climaxes. It is one of the few plays in which all the parts are good. It requires a clever company to portray the different characters. The Young-Adams Company are especialy fitted for the parts assigned them. And there will be nothing lacking in a finished performance of "Dangerous Innocence." That big mystery play, "The Veiled Woman" will be produced during the engagement. No person under 18 years of age will be admitted. A bargain matinee will be given Saturday. Adults 25 cents, children 15 cents, for any seat in the theatre.

AT THE CAPITOL

"A SON OF HIS FATHER."

If Horace Greeley had lived in the twentieth century, his famous bit of advice might have been heeded by twice as many youths. If Horace had seen a western picture like "A Son of His Father," which opened at the Capitol Theatre last night, he might have "gone west" himself. Such beauty of scenery has never been seen before.

The story, written by Harold Bell Wright, was photographed on the actual locale the author mentions in his book. Arizona with its rolling plains of arid wastes, the grand canyon and the majestic Colorad flowing through it—all these are shown. Just seeing them would make your evening at the movies a success.

But when this gorgeous wild country serves as a background for one of the most interesting stories that has ever been photographed, one's cup of joy should be filled to overfolwing. " Son of His Father" is Wright at his best. Real men, not the cowboys of imagination, are shown.

A scene showing a troop of United States cavalry coming to the rescue of the hero and heroine will make you want to rise right out of your seat and cheer. The stampede of a hundred horses from the smuggler's corral puts over a thrill. The swooping down of the smugglers on a victim's cattle crams some more action into a picture already jammed full of rip-roaring pep.

"When Paramount makes a 'Western' it becomes a 'Western' in the real sense of the word."

And what a cast! Remember Warner Baxter ,the good looking hero of "Rugged Water?" This puts him in the first western role he's ever had, and maybe he doesn't make good. Bessie Love the heroine of "The Lost World" is little Nora O'Shea, a girl from "the old sod." Raymond Hatton, as Charlie Grey, an invalid from the East, trying to get well on a diet of eggs and milk, has one of the best comedy character roles of his career. All three are featured. Walter McGrail, heading the supporting cast, is the kind of a villain one thinks is undeserving of the hard knocks he gets.

Victor Fleming, producer of "Code of the Sea," "To the Last Man" and other dramas of outdoor life, put everything into making this one stand above them all.

Anthony Coldewey adapted the story to the screen.

AT THE ROYAL.

"Strongheart" in "White Fang."

These are two names to conjure with! The greatest dog actor in pictures, and the greatest dog story—the masterpiece, according to many critics, of that master author, the late Jack London! And the combination, as shown yesterday on the screen at the Royal Theatre for the first time in this locality, proves well night invincible entertainment.

"White Fang" is the work of Jane Murfin and Lawrence Trimble, adaptor and director. It is bound to be a big feather in their caps; for it is screened with all of the atmosphere and power of Jack London intact. There has been no distortion of the story, no changing about of the powerful motives and implacable locales through which this tremendous tale moves. This is immensely to the credit of those who had it in their power to make or mar the fine original product.

"Strongheart" is superb in the title role. He puts over facial emotions as easily as if he understood everything that was transpiring; and indeed it is very easy to believe that he did know exactly what was going on. From the vicious, man-killer, half-wolf and half-husky, he bcomes under the tender care of Weadon Scott, a faithful, big hearted, courageous friend who not only saves Weadon but the girl he loves before the story concludes. Theodore von Eltz, as Weadon Scott, Ruth Dwyer as the heroine and Matthew Betts as the heavy are all excellent.

Even the "wolf pack" incidents with which London's dramatic tale opens have been retained. It must have been a task taking infinite patience to film these shots of wolves, circling through the snow, stalking their prey and attacking the trappers' camp. But it has been done; with a vividness that is amazing.

Powerful drama has been relieved with enough comedy to leavne the picture, and the magnificent backgrounds against which much of the action takes place are in themselves breath-taking and awe-inspiring.

SUCCESSFUL NOVELTY NIGHT AT ROYAL.

Last night at the Royal another combination of community singing and amateurs was an added attraction to the programme.

The singing this time included the newest of the Leo Feist catalogue, "Let Me Linger Longer in Your Arms," "Eukelela Lady," "When You and I Were Seventeen," etc.

The local talent included the Foster sisters in Ah Ha and "Isn't She the Cutest Thing." Earl Waterman, "Since Ma's Gone Crazy Over Cross Word Puzzles." Mr. McPherson, buck dancer, the big hit being made by Eluric Brioux and Jerry Collins, harmonica and violin. These boys were forced to respond to four encores. Mr. Harris officiated and sang an old timer, "In the Baggage Coach Ahead," by special request.

RIFFS PROVE TO BE CRACK SHOTS

Have Brought Down 20 French Aviators With Rifle Fire.

SPANISH LANDING.

SPOKANE, Wash., Sept. 18 (Canadian Press).—Colonel Charles Sweeney, an American flyer with the Lafayette escadrille, fighting for the French in Morocco, in a letter to his sister, Mrs. F. J. Finucane of Spokane, says that the Riffian crack shots have killed twenty French airmen.

"The Riffs are excellent infantry and first class shots," Sweeney wrote. "You may judge when I tell you that they have already shot out of airplane from 500 to 1,000 feet up and going from 80 to 100 miles an hour, over twenty French aviators."

Spaniards Landing.

FEZ, French Morocco, Sept. 18 (Canadian Press).—The Spaniards are reported to have effected another landing in Almucemas Bay, occupying a stretch three kilometers (1.86 miles) deep flanking their original position on Morro Nueva Peninsula.

Wheat Prices Sagged In Early Trade at Chicago

CHICAGO, September 18. — Canadian Press. — Wheat prices underwent a sag during the early dealings to-day and showed but little power to rally. There was an absence of aggressive eastern buying which has been conspicuous of late. Furthermore houses with northwestern connections were fairly active sellers and reports were current that the new crop in Alberta, Canada, was turning out to be the largest the province has ever had. Chicago opening prices 7-8c off to 1-8c up; December 150 3-4 to 151 and May 153½ to 153 3-4 were followed by something of reaction but then by fresh down turns. Corn and oats as well as wheat lacked support.

Argonaut was fractionally lower at 26 3-4, and Barry Holly, Cons. W. D. Lake, and Keora were fractionally higher at 24, 12 7-8 and 14 7-8 respectively. Premier advanced six points to 23 while Lake Shore declined four points to 641. Hollinger sold at 15.20, a rise of 20 cents and Dome Mines was 10 cents lower at 15.30. Castle Tretheway was three points higher at 114 and Vipond and Keeley each advanced two points to 120 and 169 respectively. Teck Hughes, Tough Oakes, Can. Lorraine and Lorraine were each one point higher at 188, 51, 60 and 9 1-4 respectively.

Mining Corporation sold two points higher at 294.

Stock Prices Continue Upward Movement To-day

NEW YORK, Sept. 18 (Canadian Press).—Stock prices continued to move to higher ground today with rails assuming leadership of the advance, when some of the industrials showed signs of faltering on profit taking. Marking up of the call money rate from 3 1-2 to 4 per cent, and thence to 4 1-2, failed to dampen the enthusiasm of the pools, who continued to bid up their favorites in aggressive fashion. The heavy demand for rails was in anticipation of excellent August earnings statements, which appears to be justified in view of the unprecedented freigh traffic that month. There were a few outstanding exceptions to the general upward trend, Pullman losing about half of its 13 point gain of yesterday.

PECK IS WILLING TO CONTEST WEST PETERBOROUGH ELECTION ON CONSERVATIVE NOMINATION

Authorize Statement To-Day Declaring Readiness To Accept Mandate.

OPPOSE GORDON.

Other Reliable Sources Show No Doubt That He Will Be Named.

E. A. Peck today announced his willingness to accept the nomination of the Conservative party in the coming Federal election, if this is offered him at the convention on Wednesday next. From reliable sources it is learned that Mr. Pecks nomination is practically assured.

Mr. Peck stated that the selection of a candidate would, of course, depend on the free choice of the convention. If he should be the nominee of the convention, he would be quite prepared to contest the riding in the interest of his party.

Edward Armour Peck, of the firm of Peck, Kerr and McElderry, barristers and solicitors, 415, Water Street, was born at Alfreston, Sussex, England, on September 11, 1838, the son of Arthur Henry and Mary (Armour) Peck. He was educated at Peterborough Collegiate Institute and Toronto University, and was called to the Ontario Bar in 1881. He has been a partner in the present firm since 1896.

Mr. Peck was elected to the Ontario Legislature for West Peterborough in 1911. He had served previously as County Councillor from 1898 to 1904, being Warden of the county in the last year. In 1888 he was appointed Commander of Company 3, 57th Regiment.

On June 8, 1887, Mr. Peck married Kate Revell (deceased), daughter of Robert Revell, Woodstock, Ont.

He is a member of Peterborough Club, and his societies are A.F. and A.M., Co.O.F.; S.O.E.B. He is an Anglican.

AVIATION NEGLECTED FEW PILOTS AVAILABLE

Facilities Have Not Been Available, Says Col. J. Scott.

VAUCOUVER, B.C., Sept. 19. — (Canadian Press).—"It is up to Canada to put forth an effort compatible with the importance of aviation as a rapidly growing force in the world," said Col. J. Scott, of Montreal, in advocating an extension of commercial aviation throughout Canada before a meeting of the air force of British Columbia here.

"It is nothing short of a shame," continued Col. Williams, "that while sixty-five per cent. of the British aviators in the war were Canadians and the great majority of them are back in Canada, very few pilots in shape for flying are available in Canada to-day.

"That is simply because they have not had the opportunity to keep up—the facilities have not been available."

In concluding his address, Col. Williams recommended the establishment of clubs in every province to impress upon the public "the importance of getting Canada into the game and keeping up with the procession."

Every maritime authority in the world has been notified of the demolition of a certain factory chimney at Northfleet, England. The huge chimney was used in taking bearings by pilots ascending the Thames, and was marked on all charts.

Cops Taste Own Medicine Someone Let Tear Gas Loose.

NEW YORK, N.Y., Sept. 19. (United Press).—More than 100 policemen were routed from headquarters here with a taste of their own medicine yesterday evening.

Some one let loose the tear gas, and within a few minutes the whole force was weeping and rushing to the street. The officers in the telegraph room and at the switchboard were forced to stick to their posts, however, and they wept copious tears out of the windows between answering calls.

The irate policemen are conducting a rigid examination to discover who is to blame.

LLOYD GEORGE HAS PROPOSAL TO ADMINISTER FARM LANDS UNDER LIBERAL GOVERNMENT

Former Premier Would Evict Inefficient Farmers and Encourage Good.

ATTRACT VOTES.

Back to the Land Movement Planned to Retrieve Fortunes.

LONDON, Sept. 19. — (Canadian Press). — Former Premier David Lloyd George has embarked upon a "back to the land" campaign which, if it succeeds in attracting the votes of agricultural areas to the Welshman's banner, may do much to retrieve the ill-starred fortunes of the Liberal party. Astute political observers, however, believe there is little chance for the new Lloyd George programme to be adopted for many years.

Mr. Lloyd George launched his campaign yesterday at Killerton Park, Exeter, where an outdoor audience of 25,000 stood in a drizzle listening intently. He unfolded a new agricultural policy for the Liberal party, the result of two years' deliberations of the Liberal Land Committee. The outstanding feature of the former Premier's proposals is that the State should assume control of agricultural land, paying the landlord his present net rent, giving good farmers perpetual tenure, evicting bad and inefficient farmers after due warning and giving their land to men now employed in industry who would be given credit by land banks.

Big Days For Dry Officers 4 Boats; $50000 Champagne

NEW YORK, Sept. 19.—(Canadian Press).—Prohibition enforcement scored heavily in this district yesterday with the capture of four alleged rum-runners and the seizure of $50,000 in champaigne on board a bullet-proof speed boat at which 500 shots were fired.

OBJECTIVE OF 30,000 IS PASSED; DIRECTORS RAISE NEW NUMBER FOR PETERBOROUGH TO AIM AT

Tonight Is Last Night of Biggest Exhibition City Has Ever Had.

MAKE IT 35,000

Last Year's Record For Four Days Beaten This Year In Three.

Peterborough Industrial Exhibition had this afternoon passed its objective of 30,000 paid admissions, and was well on the way to a new high of 35,000. The total paid admissions up to last night was 27,282, a higher figure by 242 than the whole fair of last year, and 18,154 higher than the corresponding three days of last year's show. Friday's attendance alone was 2,301 ahead of the same day last year.

At three o'clock today, the directors officially moved their objective for this year forward to 35,000, a sign of progress and an advance in attendance aims unparallelled in the history of Peterborough County's Big Show.

The Last Chance.

To-night is Peterborough's last chance to see this wonder-show among exhibitions. With the objective passed, citizens are called upon to see how high they can roll up the total, but the big point is that to-night is the last chance. The figures speak for themselves—never has there been a show like it in Pet-

21st Battalion Men Renew The Strength Of War Friendships

Veterans of Eastern Ontario Gather in Seventh Annual Re-union at Empress Hotel — Dinner Was Huge Success to Accompaniment of War-Time Songs.

PRESENTATION TO COL. PENSE.

Hon. G N. Gordon Makes First Appearance Since His Elevation to the Cabinet — Major Miller Greeted As "Good Old Pete"

There must have been something different about the 21st Battalion of the Canadian Expeditionary Forces. Some secret spring of enduring friendship must have been tapped in their companionship in arms to have preserved, fresh and eager and vigorous, that spirit of manly fellowship, of unity and mutual esteem born in the sharing of common dangers and hardships, which seems to have been denied all the other units Canada sent overseas.

For the veterans of the 21st held their seventh annual reunion dinner at the Empress last night. Two hundred of the survivors of the battalion, which was recruited from Eastern Ontario, came together from all parts of this district, and some whose paths had diverged farther came from as far away as North Bay. From farms and villages and cities they came, men who had been officers and "non-coms" and privates overseas and now are carryiny on in offices, at factory benches, in construction work, and on farms, a natural fraternity of men who know each other as they were revealed under shell fire, in night raids and in the constant danger that threatened them.

The Empress rang with their rollicking until past eleven o'clock, although their first exurberance had long before that been subdued by the after-dinner speeches which, if it may be said invidiously, took the life out of the party. For the dinner was something of a "binge," and in its first stage was almost a continual chorus of the songs of the trenches and behind the lines, Mademoiselle of Armentieres; A Long, Long Trail; I Want to Go Home; Wee Deoch

URUGUAY WITHDREW PROPOSAL FOR REVISION OF WORLD COURT AS U.S. ADHERENCE QUESTIONED

Belgian Jurist Says Resolution Would Prove Embarrassing.

REVISION DESIRABLE.

Mosul Dispute Animates Wave of Excitement in League Circles.

GENEVA, Sept. 19. — (Canadian Press).—Frankly bowing to fears expressed by many delegates that insistence on its proposal might retard the hoped for adherence of the United States to the world court of justice, Uruguay yesterday officially withdrew its resolution which aimed at a revision of the statutes of that tribunal.

The action followed a statement by M. Albert Rolin, the Belgian jurist who, alluding to the United States, explained to the juridical committee of the League of Nations Assembly that international jurists were looking forward to other countries joining the court and that the Uruguayan proposition would prove embarrassing at this time.

The Uruguyan Minister to Switzerland, Juan A. Buero, explained last night that he would reintroduce his resolution during the next Assembly. He said that Uruguay had in mind two points on which readjustment might be advisable. The first was in the manner of the election of judges, and the second dealt with the compulsory arbitration clause of the court's statutes.

Like M. Rolin, he attached importance to Great Britain's position regarding the latter subject, as revealed by Ramsay MacDonald at last year's Assembly, when it was emphasized that Great Britain never would accept obligatory arbitration in disputes arising out of prize captures in war-time. This, said Buero, indicated the desirability of the revision of the statutes.

League circles in Geneva became excited last night over reports of a sudden serious conflict of views in the Council's sub-committee that is handling the Mosul dispute between Great Britain and Turkey, and that the Swedish delegate would present a minority report calling for the postponement of a definite decision on the Mosul question for three months. Another report was circulated, however, that the sub-committee had made some slight progress in this work, but would ask the world court of justice for an advisory opinion on procedure.

With Leon Jouhaux, the French Labor leader, insisting that the working masses of Europe yearn to have something started immediately toward the goal of disarmament, but with Australia, Great Britain and Italy maintaining that it would be a grievous error to launch a disarmament movement until security actually is achieved, the Assembly's Disarmament Committee has referred this entire question to a mixed committee which is also studying arbitration. It is hoped that a satisfactory formula of procedure will be worked out.

KINGSTON, Sept. 19.— (Canadian Press.)—The body of a man identified as Daniel Marchand, drowned off a yawl boat belonging to the steamer Glenlockie last fall, was found washed up in the main ducks islands Thursday morning. A card found in the man's pocket identified him as a member of the crew of the Glenlockie. Marchand belonged in Montreal.

KRIM'S ALLIES ARE DESERTING

Religious Frenzy Has Subsided and Tribesmen are Surrendering.

FEAR REPRISALS.

FEZ, French Morocco, Sept. 19 (Canadian Press). — Abd-el-Krim's native forces are reported as deserting in wholesale lots to the French army. A delegation of the Beni Zeroual tribesmen yesterday called on General de Chambrun, one of the French commanders, and proposed an unconditional surrender, providing French troops moved forward into the Beni Zeroual territory to protect the country against reprisals by the rebellious Riffian forces.

The religious frenzy of the Beni Zerouals which caused them to rise against the French in a Holy war has subsided, the spokesmen of the delegation told General de Chambrun. The French command is said to have accepted the offer of the emissaries and will advance into the territory of the Beni Zerouals shortly.

GREAT BRITAIN WILL SURRENDER MEASURES TO PRESERVE PEACE AS CHINA GUARANTEES SECURITY

INDICATED POLICY.

Austen Chamberlain, Foreign Secretary, who addressed China Association luncheon regarding national extra territorial privileges.

Austin Chamberlain Says British Have Desire to Restore Cordiality.

MUST HAVE GOOD WILL

China Must Become United Peaceful With Central Authority.

LONDON, Sept. 19.—(Canadian Press.)—Austen Chamberlain, Foreign Secretary, in a speech yesterday, indicated Great Britain's policy toward China in regard to "unequal treaties" conferring on foreigners special extra-territorial privileges.

"As circumstances change," Mr. Chamberlain said, "Great Britain will gladly surrender the special arrangements which were brought into being only to preserve peace between China and the outer world. Our hands will go out to meet China in memory of old friendships and in the desire to restore cordiality."

Mr. Chamberlain spoke at a luncheon given by the China Association in honor of Sir Ronald MacLeay, British Minister to Peking, and other British delegates to the Chinese customs conference to be held in Peking next month.

Alluding to the internal conflicts in China which have aggravated the already grave situation, Mr. Chamberlain said: "I am convinced that these are only surface features. If they are rightly handled and the opportunity rightly seized, the situation may lead to better relations than have been experienced for many years."

The Foreign Secretary added that Great Britain would carry out in spirit and letter the Washington conference engagements, but he declared that for the full fruition of that conference to be realized and for the inquiry into the matter of extra-territorial rights, two preliminary conditions are necessary: First, an atmosphere of good will, putting aside suspicions engendered by those who saw their opportunities in other people's troubles; second, that China should become united and at peace with herself, with an effective central authority, able to undertake engagements and see them kept, and able to provide security for life and property.

Mr. Chamberlain emphasized that Great Britain has no desire for special privileges, but is ready to meet China half way, bearing no ill-will. He declared that Britain would not allow herself to be diverted by the memory of things past, but would be ready to relinquish her special rights just in proportion as the Chinese Government could assure to British nationals the due enjoyment of the ordinary rights which foreigners enjoy in other countries.

MANY BUYERS AT FARMER MART

Most Farm Produce Was On Hand in Large Quantities.

POTATOES SCARCE.

The farmers' market basked in sunshine this morning, and there were plenty of buyers for the good things which filled carts and baskets.

Potatoes were scarce, the available supply selling for 30 cents a peck. Cucumbers were 30 and 50 cents, for large and small baskets, carrots and beets were a nickel a bunch, with lettuce and fresh green parsley at the same price. String beans were two quarts for a quarter, squash and vegetable marrow 10 cents each, and green tomatoes were 25 cents a basket. Red tomatoes were 25 and 30 cents a basket, and one dealer had large yellow tomatoes, of the variety described as being non-acid, and suited to tender digestions, at 40 cents a peck.

The long drought of this season is blamed for the dark coloring of cauliflowers and tomatoes. The former sell at 20 cents apiece, and celery was priced at 4 bunches for 25 cents.

Apples were plentiful this morning. The St. Lawrence variety were 40 and 50 cents a peck, Wolf Rivers were 30 cents, with a nice-looking yellow cooking apple at the same price, Duchess and Wealthies were 25 cents a peck, and strawberry apples were 35 cents. Green Culverts and Wealthies were $1 a bushel. Crabapples, red, were 50 cents a peck, and yellow and pink, the latter excellent for jelly, were 35 cents a peck.

Corn was a popular commodity this morning. The Sweet Corry variety, grown from single stalks and sown in among other vegetables, was 15 cents a dozen, and Bantam Evergreen was 20 cents a dozen.

Elderberries were 40 cents for a large basket, and upstairs, one lady had a quantity of wild grapes, excellent in quality, for 65 cents, in eleven-quart baskets. Wild grapes, it appears, are scarcer this season than they have been for years past.

Red onions were 50 cents a peck,

TORONTO, September 19. — Canadian Press. — In most cases it will not be necessary for applicants for motor driving licenses in Ontario — which will be obligatory next year— to pass a fitness test, said the deputy Minister of highways, S. Squire yesterday. Permits will be issued on presentation and satisfactory proof of an affidavit that the applicant has driven one thousand miles or more.

Those who cannot prove this will have to pass an examination.

CAMPAIGN NOTES

STRATHROY, Ont., Sept. 19.—(Canadian Press).—Conservatives of West Middlesex are weighing the advisability of placing a candidate in the field. NERVOUS WRECK FROM BOWEL TROUBLE

Ten Years of Suffering Ended by "Fruit-a-tives"

MR. F. M. SULLIVAN

"For over ten years, I was a complete nervous wreck, owing to severe Bowel Trouble and Acute Indigestion. Though a big man, I could hardly lift the smallest weight without suffering pain. As a last resort, I started using "Fruit-a-tives." Like a cloud, the nervousness left me after using the first box. I use the tablets according to directions and follow carefully your diet rules. The result is, today I am free of Indigestion and Bowel Troubles, and cannot recommend the wonderful Fruit Treatment too highly."

Thus writes Mr. Sullivan of 19 Pine St., Geneva, N. Y. "Fruit-a-tives" are made from intensified juices of luscious fruits — there is no other medicine like them. 25c & 50c at all dealers.

CONSERVATIVES OF TWEED MOVE EXCLUDE PRESS

Consider It An Impertinence That Business Should Be Reported.

UNUSUAL ORDER.

President of Tweed Conservative Association Concurs in Shutting Out Reporter.

At the meeting of the Conservative Association of Tweed, in Tweed Council Chambers last night, called for the purpose of selecting four delegates and four proxies to attend the South Hastings Conservative Convention to be held at Belleville on Monday, September 28. A representative of the press was excluded.

The secretary of the meeting announced that it was not in order to have the press present at the meeting. Another member stated that he objected to the presence of a stranger. He stated it was a humbug and an impertinence that anyone outside the village should come into the meeting prying into their concerns.

Not only did the President of the Tweed Conservative Association concur with the motion to refuse the newspaperman admission, but he also refused to sanction any statement to be made as to the findings of the committee.

TWIN TEACHERS TAKE PRIZES AT SEYMOUR FAIR

Earl and Everett Fairman Are Teachers of Winning Schools in Fair.

HOT COMPETITION.

Ran Dead Heat in Teachers' Race and Were Close in School Work.

CAMPBELLFORD, Sept. 19. — There are only two male teachers in the 12 public schools of Seymour Township, and they are twins, Earl and Everett Fairman, so much alike in personal appearance and disposition, that the only way in which they can maintain their individual identity is to wear different clothing. They teach in adjoining sections, Earl in No. 1 and Everett in No. 2, the latter school being located at Petherick's Corners. At the Seymour School Fair held here yesterday, Earl won first prize in the parade, and Everett was second, only a few points behind. The twins were the only entrees in the teachers' race, 100 yards, and though both did their best they ran a dad heat. It has never been settled to the satisfaction of their friends which of the twins leads in academic work or which is really the faster in a sprint, although they have been competitors all their lives, which covers a period of 20 years.

Born in Percy.

The Fairman boys were born in Percy Township, the municipality that has sent to Campbellford and Seymour so many men who have made good and received their public school education in S.S. No. 13. They entered the Campbellford High School together and, taking the four years in three years, passed the Junior Matriculation examination when they were too young to be admitted to the Normal. They spent an extra year in the High School and were successful at the Senior Matriculation. Both are in their third year as teachers, Everett having spent all his professional career to date in the Petherick's Corner School. Earl taught for one year and a quarter in the Fife School near Hastings, and has been in his present position since the beginning of the year. Everett sent four of his pupils to the Entrance examination this year, three of them taken from the Junior Fourth Class and all four were successful. One of these is now in the Campbellford High School, while the other three are taking Continuation School work in their home school. Both are in love with their chosen profession and are preparing themselves for First Class Certificates.

Well Equipped Schools.

These brothers are samples of the excellent teachers who preside over the Seymour schools. District representatives Smith stated yesterday at the close of the Fair, that it was second to none of any held in Northumberland County this year, and in saying this he took into consideration the training of the pupils, the interest displayed by the children and teachers in their work, and the exhibits in domestic science, and products of the school garden in the hall. So far as attendance was concerned that at yesterday's Fair set the record for the year.

Figures That Count.

The good work that is being done by the Seymour teachers is evidenced by the yearly results of the Entrance examinations. Campbellford High School is filled almost to capacity at present, in spite of the fact that over 90 per cent. of the last graduating class was successful. The majority of the new students come from the Seymour schools, so that the educational advantage enjoyed by the children of that municipality are far above the average.

There is only one drawback to the efficiency of these schools and that is the number of lady teachers who are enticed into matrimony, two of the best of them having taken that important step since the school fair of last year.

The School Represented.

The schools that took part in the parade yesterday, with the teachers, and the number of pupils in line were as follows:

No. 5, English Line, Miss Nellie Davidson, teacher, 24 pupils.

No. 10, Trent River, Miss E. Hartley, teacher, 25 pupils.

No. 1, Shea's School, Earl Fairman, teacher, 24 pupils.

No. 2, Petherick's Corners, Everett Fairman, teacher, 20 pupils.

No. 18, Rylstone, Mrs. Florence Scott, teacher, 15 pupils.

No. 11, Burnbrae, Miss Beatrice Borland, teacher, 28 pupils.

No. 3, Conley School, Miss Dorothy Huycke, teacher, 20 pupils.

No. 4, West's, Miss Freeda Nelson, teacher, 10 pupils.

No. 7, Hoard's Station, Miss Lillian Locke, teacher, 18 pupils.

Nearly all of the pupils were tastefully arrayed in neat uniform and although they were kept in line in the hot sun for nearly three hours, they showed no sign of weariness or waning of interest.

The Winners.

The decision of the judges, District Representative Smith and S. Crews, of Brighton, was based on the marching of the children and on the manner in which they went through their physical culture exercises. It was no easy task to decide the leader, but the four prizes were awarded in the following order: S. S. No. 1, S. S. No. 2, Trent Bridge and Hoard's Station.

Pupils Win Prizes.

Boy drivers— Ted Peake, Dan Peake, Stewart Stillman.

Race for girls, over 12, 100 yards —Ada Milne, Gladys Nicholas, Bernice Orser, Gladys Whitton, J. Stephens.

Take Three—

Race for girls, 9 to 12—Susan Atkinson, Jean Peake, Ruth Tinney, R. Dunham.

Three-legged Race, boys—Gerald Petherick and Gerald Barnum, Stewart Stillman and George Wheatley, Ivan Whalen and Kenneth Oddie.

Relay Race for boys—Gerald Barnum and Arthur Petherick from S. S. No. 2; Jack Stephens, Don Peake and Alex Stephens from S. S. No. 5.

Relay race for girls—Pupils from S.S. No. 1 were first; from S.S. No. 2 were second and from S. S. No. 5 third. The winners lost themselves in the crowd before their names could be taken.

Sack Race—Ivan Whalen, Ken Oddie, J. Midgley, Teddy Peake.

Trustees and Teachers

There were two entries in the Trustees' race, Robert Bateson of the Meyersburg School and Garnet Lloyd, representing Shea's School. Either one of these sprinters should not hesitate to accept a challenge even from the mysterious "Missouri" of Peterboro.

The teachers' race, between the Fairman twins, was a dead heat.

A Youthful Winner

One of the youngest prize winners of the fair was eight year old Cora M. Petherick, of the Petherick's Corner School, daughter of W. J. Petherick. This little girl, who lost her mother nearly three years ago, and who lacked maternal instruction in domestic duties, was given first prize for that useful household art, the best specimen of a darned stocking.

The Judges

Assisting the regular Judges who officiate at all these fairs, were Mrs. Charles Macoun and Mrs. W. McArthur, who were appointed by the Women's Institute of West Seymour and who passed on the Domestic Science exhibits.

Earl Fairman can now enter his school at the Warkworth Fair in the competition open to the winners of first place at the nine school fairs in the county, the first prize in which is $15 cash.

SHEEP.

"A first-class exhibition in sheep" was the commendation of the judge of this department, R. H. Harding of Thorndale, who had come to Peterboro from judging sheep exhibits at Vancouver, B. C., and London, Ont. "You have a lot of high-grade sheep here. At London the Shropshires and Southdowns were a little better, but in the other classes the Peterboro exhibits are practically on par with the same classes at London."

The directors in charge of this branch of the Exhibition were enthusiastic over the results they had to report. They set a high mark to shoot at in the future, with close competition among breeders, some of whom had come direct to Peterboro from the Toronto show. W. Fallis and Ken. Denoon gave a lot of attention to the needs of the exhibitors and to the judging, and turned out one of the best departments this year. The competition for the flock prizes brought out an array of high quality sheep that has probably never before been equalled in this district.

TAKE OFF DEATH DUTIES TO BRING IN WEALTHY MEN

MAKE MORE MONEY

Income and Land Taxes Would Increase If Millionaires Settled There.

LONDON, Sept. 19.—(Canadian Press).—The Daily Chronicle published the following in a recent issue: "Some people will be green with envy of the movement in British Columbia to secure recognition of the Province as the most comfortable place for millionaires to die in. It is to be done, if it is done, by abolishing death duties. Florida set the example and has its reward in the settlement there of thousands of people who, having amassed great fortunes, desire that in death, as in life, the tax collector shall make the smallest possible inroads into them.

"If Florida, why not British Columbia? It will not admit that its climate is inferior to that of the southermost State whose shores are lapped on one side by the Atlantic and on the other by the Gulf of Mexico. Indeed, the all-the-year mildness of British Columbia is declared to be 'ideal for those in the sunset of life.' Nowhere else can retired millionaires hope to live longer or die less unpleasantly, and, if given the assurance that their estate will pass undiminished to their heirs, nowhere else will they die in greater content.

"So the Provincial Government is being urged to ask the Legislature next session to abolish the succession duties. They yield about £150,000 a year, and, if only the millionaires are attracted, it should not be difficult to find full compensation for loss of that. The product of income and property taxes would be swollen; land values would decrease; the 'pull' of the Province would in many ways be strengthened; and, meanwhile, there would be substantial picking for real estate agents and others who have anything to sell. If only the Government will oblige them, they are hoping to find good customers among the retired business men of Eastern Canada and the United States. We should not be surprised, indeed, if the lure reached some of our own countrymen. The Channel Isles are the almost-tax-free Mecca of some, but against death duties, at any rate, they are not so secure in Jersey or Guernsey as they might be in the remotest Province of Canada."

SATURDAY, SEPT. 19, 1925.

THE LAST NIGHT.

You can't have seen all the Peterboro Industrial Exhibition yet.

Tonight is your last opportunity, and the Directors are hopeful that the citizens of Peterboro will turn out in large numbers for the final night of the big Exhibition.

An especially fine programme will be given by Al. Sweet's Band, and there will be seven big vaudeville acts in front of the grandstand, while the midway will be in full swing.

A large attendance tonight will make sure of the 30,000 mark and put the final touches on the triumph scored by this year's Exhibition.

Make getaway night the biggest yet in the history of Peterboro's big fair.

Make sure of that 30,000.

AN INTERESTING HISTORY.

The official history of the Peterboro Fire Department, written by ex-Ald. Frank H. Dobbin, and printed by the Examiner, will shortly be ready for publication, and it is hoped that, as the proceeds will be devoted toward the firemen's pension fund, the book will have a ready sale.

It will be full of most interesting features.

Mr. Dobbin, whose knowledge of Peterboro's history is outstanding, and who both by reason of training as a newspaper writer and his official connection with the Fire Department as former Chairman of the Fire, Water and Light Committee, is peculiarly fitted to be the historian of the department.

He has compiled a record of Peterboro's fire protection organization covering the whole history of the community, and to older citizens whose memory goes back to the early days the book will be a treasure trove of reminiscence.

Many splendid pictures are included, some of other time brigades, others of fires famous in Peterboro chronicles, and the history should be a welcome addition to the library of every citizen.

A more extended review will be given later, this announcement serving to call attention to the fact that the book will shortly be off the presses and ready for sale.

ONTARIO APPLES.

As a result of conferences between Premier Ferguson and Hon. J. S. Martin, representing the Ontario Government, and representative fruit growers of the Province, the Government will assist in the marketing of this year's record crop of apples, and will also undertake a campaign to induce Ontario citizens to eat more of their own apples.

Both these efforts are to be commended.

During recent years it has seemed as if it was almost impossible to secure good Ontario apples in the fruit stores.

British Columbia apples, neatly packed, wrapped in paper and making a fine showing, were offered for sale everywhere, but the home-grown article was hard to find, and not always of a good quality when located.

If the Government can do anything to put Ontario-grown apples where they should be, at the top of the list, it will be doing a good service not only for the apple-growers themselves but for the people of the Province generally.

The absence of our own fruit has been a mystery to the consumers of Ontario, who will welcome a chance to buy some of the fine apples that are grown in their own Province.

THE ONTARIO PROGRESSIVES.

Whatever the Western Progressives may do in the election—the present indications are that they will have candidates in all the rural and in some of the urban ridings in the Prairie Provinces—it cannot be said that the farmers' organizations in Ontario are displaying much enthusiasm over the campaign.

Only a few Progressive candidates have been nominated, and it seems altogether unlikely that they will contest as many ridings as in 1921, or that they will have as much success at the polls as on that occasion.

The overwhelming defeat of the Drury Government was a body blow to the political aspirations of the United Farmers of Ontario, and the opposition of Secretary Morrison to direct political action proved the last straw.

Mr. Morrison has recently re-iterated his statement that the U.F.O. is not in politics.

The individual branches will have to decide on their own initiative whether or not they will endorse candidates, and there is little evidence, except in a few constituencies, that the Progressives will be a prominent factor in the Federal campaign in this Province.

LEADERS SHOULD AVOID PETTY ELECTION ISSUES.

There are too many trivial side issues being drawn into the election campaign. Some of them have an odor suspiciously like political red herrings. The effort to make use of prohibition to stir up feeling when so little is being offered to appeal to reason is typical. The party leaders should see that the campaign speakers stick to the facts, dispense with trivialities and avoid the discussion of matters which have no bearing on the issues at stake.

Thus far there have been four main problems brought forth for the consideration of voters; they are: Taxation, transportation, immigration and the tariff. These issues are not new, but there is a great deal that can be said regarding them without bringing in such silly talk as that of the Minister of Marine, Hon. Mr. Cardin, at Sherbrooke when he told "our great manufacturers that if they would spend less time on the golf links and driving in their automobiles their factories would be more prosperous."

Can Mr. Cardin name one great manufacturer who has neglected his business to play golf? If he can we will contribute $1,000 to Mr. Cardin's election expenses.

On a par with Mr. Cardin's reference to manufacturers and golf was the statement of E. B. Ryckman, K.C., M.P. for East Toronto, that no one could point to one good thing that Mr. King had done. Mr. King has done a number of worth-while things; his refusal to be intimidated by Lloyd George and Winston Churchill to bring Canada into a Near East war in the interests of a group of unsuccessful politicians and international promoters will always stand to his credit, so will the Australian preferential treaty.

Canadians are asked to elect a new executive head and board of directors to manage the nation's business at a time when that business should have the serious consideration of every voter. It is no time for a political vaudeville show. Let the leaders stick to the issues of the day—there is still much they can say to make their attitude clear in regard to them—and see that their followers follow their good example. —Financial Post.

INCOME TAX PUBLICITY.

Publicity certainly has its uses, apart altogether from its commercial value. In the detection of crime or the exposure of abuses its effects may be as salutary and effective as the punishment meted out by law itself. But, like everything else, it can be carried to excess, and that point is unquestionably reached when it is used as a searchlight upon affairs that in a well-ordered society are regarded as private, or as an inquisitorial process which violates the principles governing business.

Taxation being a necessary evil, never more inevitable than at present, one of the most perplexing problems of government is not only that of establishing a fair and equitable basis of assessment, but of providing adequate machinery for collection. In this connection, as in the imposition of customs and excise duties, the tax dodger, like the smuggler, has always to be reckoned with. And it was essentially to meet this phase of the problem that the United States Congress last year passed a law providing for the publication of income tax assessments.

The Revenue Act of 1924 required, not only that the names and addresses of all taxpayers be open to inspection, but that the amount of tax paid by each be also open to inspection, which was practically an invitation to the newspaper press to procure and publish the lists. The object, of course, was to prevent evasion of the tax, the argument used by those who advocated publicity being that it would result in additional revenue for the Government by facilitating the detection of delinquents who failed to make the returns required by law.

The results of the experiment, after a year's trial, are not such as to commend it. At great labor and expense, the newspapers have collected, classified and published lists, in some cases running to a dozen closely printed pages. These have been examined, dissected and commented upon; significant comparisons have been drawn between the amount of tax payable by this prominent individual and that; the financial standing of business magnates, bankers, popular authors, actors and actresses, politicians, moving picture favorites and other notables, as reflected in the assessments, has been discussed and criticized, and the curiosity of the people who find a peculiar satisfaction in prying into the affairs of their neighbors has been amply gratified.

But, apart from these questionable features, experience of the publicity innovation has, according to authoritative opinion in the United States, already demonstrated its utter futility. President Coolidge, who opposed the provision when it was enacted, is on record as saying that he believes its continuation to be "detrimental to the public welfare and bound to decrease public revenues." Even more emphatic in his criticism is Secretary Mellon of the Treasury Department, who states that "publicity is wholly unnecessary from an administrative standpoint," and serves no purpose, save that of "giving to business rivals and to those having some ulterior motive information which is of value to them solely to the extent it is detrimental to the taxpayer."

Instead of being a deterrent, he believes there could be no greater spur to the efforts of taxpayers to avoid a taxable income than the threat that the amount they pay will be pilloried; and in support of this view he cites the fact that the enactment of the publicity provision was immediately followed by "a stimulation in the market for tax-exempt securities."

Further proof of the ineffectiveness of the measure is furnished by the collective opinion of the collectors of internal revenue. Specifically asked whether the publication of the lists of tax payments had had the effect of checking evasion, bringing delinquents to book and thereby increasing the revenue, they almost unanimously declare that nothing of the kind has happened. They regard it, not only as unnecessary and ineffective, but as wasteful, by reason of the added cost of administration, and offensive.

The lesson is one that should not be lost upon those of so-called progressive views who have advocated similar measures in Canada. The policy of the income tax authorities of the Dominion has been the antithesis of that adopted in the United States. Every care is taken to respect the confidence and safeguard the private rights of business firms and individuals. Those entrusted with the assessment and collection of the income tax are sworn to secrecy, and subject to penalties for violation of their oath. It is a policy based on trust rather than suspicion of the people, and experience has proved that it best serves the public interest and ensures the most satisfactory results.—Ottawa Journal.

EDITORIAL NOTES AND COMMENT.

Make sure of that 30,000.

Spend tonight at the Exhibition and help swell the attendance record.

The Exhibition has shunted the election campaign into the background so far as Peterboro is concerned. Next week the politicians will get back into the limelight.

The Dog Show is one department of the Peterboro Industrial Exhibition that speaks for itself. A howling success, so to speak.

Judges and exhibitors are both saying nice things about Peterboro's Exhibition. And the road to permanent success is to be found in satisfied exhibitors and patrons.

Watch for a bigger fair next year. The local directors believe that the whole district is behind them, and already they are planning for future improvements.

There was no important change in the condition of the local flour situation. A moderate amount of business was done in both spring and winter wheat grades at steady prices.

A THOUGHT.

WILL RECOGNIZE AND REWARD.

The person who casts custom and precedent to the wild winds, then acts naturally, will either be accepted or rejected, but you can bet your boots if this individual is conscientious and capable, he will be accepted.

A simple, unconventional man will make his own mark, and you know that no person can hope to get credit for the other man's plans.

Be honest in your own way and the world will recognize and reward you.

Be concerned with your Highways

The Old Home Town is different since the highways came, yet it has for you all the cherished memories of childhood just the same. Visit it before the season is over. You will recognise the old landmarks amid all the changes. As you travel, you will see many another Old Home Town, each with its natural beauties, its comfortable homes, and its well-kept lawns and gardens.

You should know Ontario, and you can't know it until you have travelled over its highways. There is no better place to go than to the Old Home Town, and no better season than now.

As you motor along, realize the interest you have in the highways. Know of your responsibility for their care. Be concerned with your roads.

Take an interest in them, for you will be called on to pay for construction and maintenance. Secure the co-operation of other users, so far as your influence extends.

Unnecessary damage is done by heavy loads driven at any speed, and by passenger cars at high speeds. The law limits both loads and speed. If you and all other users keep well within the limits of the law, it is safe to say that hundreds of thousands of dollars now spent on road repair work will be saved to you.

For those who will not obey the law, penalties are provided. While the Government requests sane and intelligent use of the highways, notice is given that the provisions of the law are being rigorously enforced.

Menace of Corn Borer Actuates Passing of Resolution To Place Control Measures Under Provincial Jurisdiction

CHATHAM, Ont., Sept. 19 (Canadian Press).—"That in view of the great increase in the number of the corn borers in the province and the necessity for more general adoption of control measure if the corn industry is to be saved, we recommend that the present Corn Borer Act be replaced by an act which will place the enforcement of control measures under the jurisdiction of the Province itself, instead of under that of the townships or even of the county, and that such act be brought into operation in the Fall of 1926 in as many counties as the degree of infestation justifies; and that as soon as the act has been passed, notice be given to the farmers of these counties so that they may be prepared to adopt their farm operations accordingly."

The above resolution was passed unanimously by a representative gathering of corn growers from Essex, Lambton, Kent, Elgin, Middlesex and Norfolk Counties here this afternoon, following an outline of the corn borer situation as it exists in Ontario today, by Professor L. Caesar of the O.A.C. and Provincial entomologists who have been engaged in this corn borer control work.

Hon. J. S. Martin, Minister of Agriculture for the Province, was present at the meeting and in a short address following the passing of the resolution declared: "The thing is so serious that the time has come when we will have to deal with it as a provincial matter." He stated that he would have to deal with it, as before the members of the government, and felt that something would be done along the lines suggested.

During his address, Professor Caesar said: "Frankly, I cannot promise the growers they can save their crop next year, no matter what they do. The situation is exceedingly discouraging and I do not think they will be able to grow corn in the future as extensively as in the past."

Would not be Without Zutoo Tablets At Any Cost

Mr. A. O. Norton, the millionaire jack Manufacturer, of Boston, who recently died, was a great "booster" for Zutoo Tablets.

He suffered from headaches from childhood and when he found Zutoo Tablets stopped these headaches in a few minutes and left no bad effect, he began recommending them to his family and friends. In an unsolicited letter, Mr. Norton says in closing:

"My family use them when ever needed with equally good results. I have frequently given them to friends who were suffering from Headache and they never failed to give quick relief. I always carry Zutoo Tablets in my grip on the road and WOULD NOT BE WITHOUT THEM AT ANY COST."

No Hope for Quantity Production Basis as Sales Insufficient.

GREATER LUXURY

BERLIN, Sept. 19.—(Associated Press).—A number of reasons were expressed recently by Dr. Carl Reichstein, automobile industrialist, why, in his opinion, Germany never can compete with the United States as an automobile market. Explaining the necessity for a protective automobile duty, he pointed out that Germany never will be in a position of attaining anything like American prices because of the impossibility of turning out the same number of cars, and even if this were feasible there would be no means of disposing them.

An automobile in Germany is a much greater luxury than in America, Dr. Reichstein declared, and even in the event of a general increase in incomes no person with an annual income of 10,000 marks would dream of buying a car for a price even as low as 2,000 marks. Germans, it is asserted, attach greater importance to housing, clothing, intellectual enjoyments and the education of their children and spend far more for these items than do Americans.

OWNERS CONSIDER STOPPING SAILINGS

Hesitate Because of Loss Which Will Result in Export Trade.

LONDON, Sept. 19.—(Canadian Press). — British ship-owners are discussing the advisability of cancelling sailings because of the seamen's strike, it is reported here, but hesitate to take such extreme action because of the inevitable bad influence it will have on the country's export trade.

MELBOURNE, Australia, Sept. 19—(Canadian Press).—When reports were received here yesterday that British ship-owners might cancel sailings because of the seamen's strike, Premier Bruce declared in the House of Representatives that if such a step was taken he would take all advisable measures to guarantee the shipment of Australian products to foreign countries.

ELECTRIC POWER TALK AT E.I.C.

First of Season's Lectures Takes Place on Tuesday Evening.

PROMINENT SPEAKER

On Tuesday, September 22, in the Chamber of Commerce, at 8 p.m., the Engineering Institute (Peterboro Branch) will hold the first regular meeting of the season, when the members, and any non-members who care to attend, will have the pleasure of hearing one of the most popular lectures on electrical and kindred subjects, on this continent.

By the kindness of the General Electric Company, the engineers have secured for this meeting the services of Charles M. Ripley, E. E., who will give an illustrated lecture entitled "Some Economic Results of the Use of Electric Power."

Mr. Ripley is well known to Radio fans for his interesting radiologues broadcast from W.G.Y. and other stations, and is the author of one of the most remarkable books of recent years, "The Romance of a Great Factory," for which the late Dr. Steinmetz wrote the introduction. This book is not a technical volume, but portrays the human interest side of the present day electrical industry, describing incidents in the lives of ordinary people engaged in the everyday tasks of a great factory.

Under the auspices of the G. E. Co. Mr. Ripley undertakes lecture tours, delivering lectures to various organizations, such as the Kiwanis, Rotary Lions and Civic Clubs, High Schools, Colleges and others, speaking on electrical subjects, not in the interests of the G. E. Co., but in the general interests of the electrical industry as a whole.

A schedule of the lectures given by Mr. Ripley, during the month of April of the present year, included a total of 44 lectures, at which the aggregate attendance was 21,251 persons, which figure does not of course include those who listened in by Radio.

The executive of the local branch hope that the citizens in general will avail themselves of the opportunity to hear this speaker, and they take this opportunity of issuing a general invitation.

The lecture will be illustrated with stereopticon slides, and the meeting will be under the chairmanship of A. L. Killaly, A.M.E.I.C., chairman of the branch.

MANY MOTHERS RECOMMEND THEM

Baby's Own Tablets Are Fine For Nervous, Sleepless Children.

From Canada the fame of Baby's Own Tablets is spreading over the world. Mothers recommend them to other mothers, and wherever they are tried nothing but words of praise are heard for these pleasant tasting little tablets that promptly relieve the minor ailments of young children.

"Baby's Own Tablets are one of the best remedies for children's ailments I have ever used," says Mrs. Arthur T. Allen, of Auburn, Me. "My little girl was nervous and could not sleep. I tried the tablets and she was relieved at once. She was also troubled with constipation and nothing seemed to help. I had used the tablets but a short time before her bowels were regular. All mothers should keep Baby's Own Tablets in the house for they are a valuable remedy."

Baby's Own Tablets are sold by all druggists or will be mailed on receipt of price, 25 cents per box, by The Dr. Williams Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont. A little booklet, "Care of the Baby in Health and Sickness," will be sent free to any mother on request.

FREIGHTER BEACHED TO PREVENT SINKING

SARNIA, Ont., Sept. 19.—(Canadian Press). — Beached to prevent sinking after a collision one mile below St. Clair flats on the St. Clair River, the Yosemite, 356-foot steel freighter, went high aground yesterday. The steamer J. J. H. Brown, with which the Yosemite collided, is in Detroit, undergoing minor repairs.

No injury or loss of life was reported. The Yosemite was seriously damaged below the water line and was leaking badly. The master ran it up into shallow water at the side of the Canal and beached it.

The steamer is resting on the bottom and partly blocks the ship canal, according to reports received here, but steamers may pass without difficulty. Tugs are at work on the steamer trying to float it so as it may be taken on the dry dock for repairs. The Yosemite was upbound. The J. J. H. Brown was downbound with a cargo of ore. It was damaged above the waterline, but was able to proceed to Detroit for repairs.

The Yosemite is operated by the Columbia Steamship Company. It's gross tonnage is 3,879.

America has 418 regularly organized association of various sorts, all devoted to the advancement of yachting as a sport.

If You Tire Easily—Beware of Chronic Fatigue

If you tire easily, feel "all-in" at night, and wake up unrefreshed in the morning—if you are always weak, nervous, headachy, etc.—nine chances out of ten the real cause is chronic fatigue.

Ordinary fatigue—the kind you feel after hard work, etc.—is normal. That's nothing to worry about. But chronic fatigue comes from within. Your nerves, muscles, etc., have become debilitated and cannot function properly.

To conquer it you must get at its cause—in the blood. For it is when your blood is thin and pale, lacking in sufficient iron, that you become run-down, and are a victim of chronic fatigue.

What you need is to strengthen your system by getting more iron in your blood. Don't take the older mineral iron medicines which many doctors now say do little good. Take organic iron—Nuxated Iron—which is like the iron in your own blood. Unlike ordinary mineral iron it does not injure the teeth or upset the stomach, but is promptly assimilated. Take Nuxated Iron for just 2 weeks and you'll be astonished how it begins to revitalize you and gives you new strength and endurance. Money back if not improved. At all good druggists.

When Your Income Stops

THE wage-earner or the salaried man does not usually have a surplus to invest. He, himself, is his sole capital, his earnings, his only income.

Think! When you stop, your income stops. What is going to happen then? You are not one of a company in business. You hold no stock. You stand alone. Who will pay an income to your family when you cease doing so?

The Mutual Life of Canada will.

The Mutual Life was organized for just such men as you. Mutuality lends the strength of each to the strength of all and the strength of all to meet the needs of each. Let our nearest agent tell you how to insure an income to your family should your own strength fail them.

BODY FOUND AFTER CITY WIDE SEARCH

NEW YORK, Sept. 19.—(United Press).—The body of Harold Bernstein, six, for whom a city day wide search was conducted, was found floating in the East River, near Astoria.

Two small boys, William and Joseph Floria, who at first told the police an older youth pushed Harold into the river, have varied their stories continuously. The latest description of the tragedy given by the brothers is that the Bernstein boy fell into the water after a chase on a barge.

NATURE LORE

By WALLACE HAVELOCK ROBB

Erma Foster lived on the edge of a clearing which her parents had made upon arriving in Canada a few years ago.

Erma's father had been a gamekeeper on a big estate over in England, so he took quite an interest in Canadian wild life.

One day, during the summer last year, while Erma was picking berries, and her father chopping some brush out of a small clearing, they discovered a young fawn, resting beneath a low-hanging tree. It may have been obeying the instructions of its mother, for sometimes, when the fawns are very young, they are left in hiding. At any rate, it was found and Erma's daddy carried it home.

It was such a shy and gentle thing then. It had a reddish coat, prettily spotted, and very soft. It had no horns.

But last week, when Mr. and Mrs. Foster decided to chase it away into the woods, it was big and had tempered. Erma was glad to know that it would roam the woods in freedom, but looks back upon her memories of the growing fawn, with great delight.

She was telling some of the children at school, so I heard all she said, as I was there. This is what she told:

"Our fawn was called 'Pretty Boy,' until he became grey-brown and big in the winter, when we thought he might get angry at such a baby name, so we called him 'Big Boy,' forever after.

"My! But he was strong. And he began to get great big bumps on his head. I thought he had bumped his head on the barn door and raised two bumps, but mamma said, although they were very tender bumps, they would burst out into horns. Just fancy that! I waited for them to burst out but the silly things just grew and grew and grew slowly. They were not horns at all, but were just fancy velvet covered sticks. They were most mysterious, especially when they bled real blood, the time a bad dog ran at him and he got them cut on the chicken wire fence, but the dog would run the other way now, for the velvet dried up and fell off in strips, leaving wicked looking horns. And they are sharp too. He liked us to rub his horns while they were velvety and drying, but once the velvet was off, he wanted to fight. So last week daddy made him run away, where he is now a happy, full grown wild deer. I guess that's all I can remember to-day."

YOUR HEALTH

By ROYAL S. COPELAND, M.D.,
Former Commissioner of Health, New York City.

FAILURE AWAITS BODY OF BROKEN NERVES

College days are here. Another scholastic year begins. Are you ready for it?

At the last commencement of the University of Pennsylvania a post-mortem degree was awarded in the name of a senior student who died two or three months before. To get an education this boy literally starved himself into an acute disease which took his life.

In his eagerness for knowledge he swept sidewalks, sold papers and did office work. When he could get no work he lived on stale peanuts. He struggled along, denied himself everything for the sake of an education.

That was heroic. It captures the imagination. But was it wise?

For years I was a college dean. This office gave me intimate contact with the knowledge of the circumstances surrounding hundreds of students. I could write endless tales of the sacrifices of personal comfort made by men hungry for an education. I know of the sacrifices made by fathers and mothers to keep their children in college.

Likewise, I have seen the wasteful, shameful prodigality of men sent to college, but indifferent to the privilege. They have spent their time in riotous living instead of study.

Isn't it a pity there couldn't be a clearing house where these inequalities and misfits could be overcome?

But what can be said to the millions of boys and girls, youths and maidens, who are beginning another year in school or college? Are there words of warning or suggestions which will be at all helpful?

An education has in it resources of pleasures and contentment which would lighten the burden of invalidism. I don't think anybody would doubt this.

But I should consider him a strange man who would deliberately court illness or death or, what is almost as bad, chronic disability for the sake of an education.

Without health, what good is learning?

A doctor, a lawyer, an engineer, a teacher, a business man, a preacher—no matter what the calling may be—failure awaits the man who begins his career with a shattered nervous system or a broken body.

I am not keen about the thing we call "success." I know hundreds of men and women who have not realized what the world calls success. They are not rich, nor are they famous. Their names are not found in social registers or are they rated high in commercial reports. But the world is better because they have lived.

However, if you prize success and would achieve anything like your ambitions, you cannot do it without health. If you have to choose between an education and vigorous health, there is no doubt in my mind where your duty lies. The education with ruined health will mean nothing more than failure and disappointment. A vigorous body and application in some other field than education will bring success—of any other sort, of course—but it will give the privilege to serve, which is success.

When you know how to live you can work very, very hard and yet keep well. Hard work never killed anybody. It is the abuse of the body which is deadly. You can't live on stale peanuts any more than you could wax strong on an exclusive diet of salt pork.

Regular meals of simple foods, plenty of sleep and an abundance of fresh air, systematic exercise and a reasonable amount of recreation. These you must have, and if you do not know that Nature will not submit to bodily abuse, your preliminary education is insufficient to justify further attempts at acquired knowledge.

ANSWERS TO HEALTH QUERIES

MRS. D. D. M. Q.—What are the symptoms of a nervous breakdown? Would this affect the stomach and intestines?

A.—A breakdown would naturally have an affect upon the entire system. With better general health the patient should notice improvement throughout the body.

MISS ANNA P. Q.—I am troubled with blackheads and would like to know what treatment you would advise?

A.—First of all correct your diet by cutting down on sugar, starches and coffee. Eat simple food. Correct faulty intestinal elimination. For further particulars send a self-addressed, stamped envelope and re-state you question.

MRS. L. L. Q.—What would you suggest for falling hair?

A.—Using a good hair tonic and gentle massage should help the condition. For further particulars send a self-addressed, stamped envelope and re-state your question.

TOMORROW'S HOROSCOPE

By Genevieve Kemble

SUNDAY AND MONDAY, SEPTEMBER 20-21.

Sunday's horoscope holds auguries for lively and interesting situations in business as well as in all other activities. There is prospect of change or travel and new opportunities may present themselves. Letters should thrive.

Those whose birthday it is are under the promise of change and travel, which should bring success if in connection with professional pursuits or new ventures. A child born on this day may be clever, but restless and fond of change, making it difficult to make steady progress.

Monday's astrological forecast is for annoyances and difficulties, which must be surmounted by determination and working along lines of least resistance. A friendly Jupiter may assist in this. Home affairs may be less annoying.

Those whose birthday it is may encounter a year in which determination and stick-to-a-tiveness will win the day against astral opposition, although assistance may be expected from Jupiter. A child born on this day should be ambitious, kindly and generous, but may need to work hard to overcome difficult situations. If born in the afternoon conditions may be less difficult.

GOOD NIGHT STORIES

By Blanche Silvar

Peggy Learns a Lesson From a Wee Little Neighbor.

"Oh dear," Peggy fretted, and giving her thread a decided pull, knotted it. "I just wish I might sew once without getting my thread in a knot," and the tears rolled down Peggy's cheek and dropped on her apron.

"My goodness," chirped a little bird and Peggy looked up in the tree above her. "If I got excited every time my thread knotted, and pouted and fretted that way, I wouldn't have any—."

Peggy didn't wait for her to finish, she just burst out laughing.

"There now," chirped the bird flipping her long-pointed tail, "I've made you forget your tears and laugh, yet," and she flipped her long tail once more, "I don't even know what was funny."

"Why," laughed Peggy, "you spoke of knotting your thread, as if a bird could sew," and Peggy laughed so hard that the bird had to laugh with her.

"Don't you fool yourself, honey," she chirped. "I sure can sew. Why, I made the dearest little nest you ever saw in all your life, and I sewed every seam in it myself."

"I Sure Can Sew!"

"Sewed it?" queried Peggy. "Why, how in the world can a bird sew? I never saw a bird that could sew before in all my life."

"Then I'm mighty glad I met you. I'm Mrs. Tailor Bird," and she flipped her long tail proudly. "And if you'd like, I'll show you how I can sew."

She selected two leaves at the very tip end of the twig nearest Peggy's nose, and with her shapely pointed bill made a row of holes down both sides of the leaves. When she had pierced them to suit herself, she flew away, soon returning with a long fibre of some plant in her bill. With this long fibre she sewed the two leaves tightly together. This formed a dear little funnel-shaped nest.

"Now I'll find some soft down and put it in there and I'll have a lovely nest," she chirped, dropping the extra bit of fibre she had left to the ground. "Now how long do you think I'd last if I got fussed when a thread didn't go in right? The only thing to do when one's thread gets knotted is to keep cool and try, and the knot will come out. Now there are birds in these woods that think I'm foolish to sew my nests together like I do, but I think it's much neater than the nests most of them have; then, too, they last longer. Now when I fill this nest with down, I'll lay some pretty eggs in it and then I'll hatch them for you."

"You certainly are a dear," laughed Peggy, "and I'm ashamed to think you saw me cross over such a thing as a knot in my thread. My, if I had to sew with my nose, like you do with your bill, I'd never get anything done. You just go on and hatch your eggs right in that nest and I'll see that no one harms you." Mrs. Tailor Bird thanked Peggy and flew away after her down, and Peggy ran into the house to tell her Mama about the little feathered Tailor Bird.

TEN MORE MEMBERS IN HOUSE AT NEXT PARLIAMENT SESSION

Re-Allotment of Seats Leave Ontario Representation Unchanged.

BOUNDARY CHANGES.

Hastings West is Renamed Hastings South—New Riding Formed.

OTTAWA, Sept. 19 (Canadian Press)—The next session of Parliament—the 15th Parliament—will see a larger representation in the House of Commons than ever before in the history of Canada. Under the Redistribution Act, officially called the Representation Act 1924, there are 245 members, ten more than in the last Parliament. The Act by taking away two members from Nova Scotia (14 members now instead of 16) and raising the representation of Manitoba from 15 to 17, of Saskatchewan from 16 to 21, of Alberta from 12 to 16, and of British Columbia from 13 to 14, leaves Ontario, Quebec, Prince Edward Island, New Brunswick and the Yukon unaffected.

In the re-allotment of seats among the provinces and the total increase of ten members, considerable changes in the boundaries of the constituencies have been effected. A summary of the alterations follows:

Prince Edward Island — No change.

Nova Scotia — The constituencies of Hants and King's are united (Hants-King's); Shelburne and Queen's are divided, the former being added to Yarmouth and the latter to Lunenburg (Queen's-Lunenburg and Shelburne - Yarmouth); South Cape Breton and Richmond, which formerly elected two members are created separate constituencies, each to return one member (Cape Breton South and Richmond-West Cape Breton.

New Brunswick—No change, except in the name of St. John City and Counties of St. John and Albert which is renamed St. John-Albert.

Quebec — While the number of members is unchanged the ridings of Missisquoi and Brome are combined, as are also those of Berthier and Maskinoge (Missisquoi-Brome and Berthier-Maskinonge). Chicoutimi-Saguenay is diivded, Chicoutimi being created a separate riding while Saguenay is added to Charlevoix (Charlevoix-Saguenay); Montmorency, formerly united with Charlevoix, is joined with part of Quebec County in a new constituency (Quebec-Montmorency); a new constituency is created under the name of Lake St. John, while another new one (Mount Royal), on the island of Montreal, includes Westmount, Notre Dame du Grace, Montreal West, Hampstead and Mount Royal, St. Henri is made a separate riding and George Etienne Cartier is renamed Cartier.

Ontario—The riding of Stormont and Glengarry is divided into two separate constituencies; Dundas and Grenville are united (Dundas-Grenville); Lennox and Addington are divided and added respectively to Prince Edward and Frontenac (Prince-Lennox and Frontenac-Addington; Hastings West is renamed Hastings South and Hastings East is added to Peterborough (Hastings - Peterborough); North Ontario is joined to Muskoka (Muskoka-Ontario); South Simcoe to Dufferin (Dufferin - Simcoe); and East Elgin to (Norfolk-Elgin); Essex is given three seats (East, South and West) and Timiskaming two (North and South); the ridings of Fort William, Kenora-Rainy River and Port Arthur-Thunder Bay replace Fort William-Rainy River and Port Arthur-Kenora; North, South and West York replace the present four ridings, while Toronto's represenation is increased by four seats and now is composed of Parkdale, Toronto East, Toronto East Centre, Toronto High Park, Toronto Northeast, Toronto Northwest, Toronto-Scarborough, Toronto South and Toronto West Centre.

Manitoba—Winnipeg Centre is replaced by Winnipeg North Centre and Winnipeg South Centre, while St. Boniface is created a separate constituency.

Saskatchewan—Six new seats are created—Long Lake, Melville, Melfort, Rosetown, Willowbunch, and Yorkton. The riding of Saltcoats is eliminated.

Alberta—In the increase of four seats from Alberta the ridings of Victoria and Strathcona are done away with and new seats for Acadia, Athabasca, Camrose, Peace River, Vegreville and Wetaskiwin are created.

British ColumbiaJ—A new seat is created in Vancouver, Centre, North and South ridings now replacing the former Vancouver Centre and Vancouver South.

Yukon—No change.

Thus Prince Edward Island will have four seats, Nova Scotia 14 New Brunswick 11, Quebec 65, Ontario 82, Manitoba 17, Saskatchewan 21, Alberta 16, British Columbia 14 and Yukon one.

CHAPTER V—Continued

The defensiveness was stamped out of her pride under the prancing hoofs of his running smiles and chuckles and good-natured banter. With shy reluctance she relinquished her hold on the waffle plate.

"It's very nice of you—but are you sure—"

"Just as sure as I'm sure that I'm not here at all—that I'm still in bed, sleeping having a beautiful dream—"

"Do you want your coffee now?" hastily.

The soul hunger of five starved years of exile in the barren society of this railroad town in the mountains impelled Bob on in a freedom of spirit and speech that would have been utterly foreign to his inhibitions in the old days. He tilted his chair back and said to her with the swift frankness of unconcealed admiration:

"I've heard of sights for sore eyes, but you're the first genuine cure I've seen!"

"Do you want your coffee now," she repeated, severely. Then, "Please—Mr. Bramley is watching us. I've made so many mistakes this morning."

"I don't blame Bramley, or anybody else, for watching you."

Sudden tears of nervous disappointment and impatience welled behind the long lashes that fringed her blue eyes like Lebanon cedars around Grecian pools.

"When I first saw you I thought you seemed a bit different—than these others," she said in a low tone, "but I must have been mistaken. You're repeating the same things, in better words, that I've been hearing all morning. You're making it very difficult for me. See, here's the manager now—" The girl pretended to be wiping the table adjacent to Bob's place, and said in a louder tone, "Very well, I'll bring your coffee now!"

Bramley strolled up and nodded to Bob with the supercilious deference of a maitre d'hotel to a good and orderly customer.

"Where's Minnie?" fished Bob, really wishing to congratulate Bramley on his choice in the new girl but feeling that it would be sacrilegious to discuss her in an over-the-table offhand manner.

"Sick. Too much for her alone, anyway. When she comes back, now, there'll be two of 'em. Telegraphed to main office and they sent this green girl up yeaterday—don't encourage us taking on local girls as a rule, you know. They know too many, and flirt too much," he confided significantly.

"What's hes name?" asked Bob innocently.

"Caroline—Caroline Dale. Say, what's got into you to eat waffles for breakfast?" It was part of Bramley's professional boast that he knew the epicurean habits of his "regulars."

"Finest thing in the world—for breakfast. And I've been missing them all these years," Bob lamented.

Bramley shrugged and strolled over to clean up a table after two untidy brakemen in his gingerly "I-don't-really-have-to-do-this-but-just-to-show-I'm-not-too-proud" manner. And at this moment the new girl returned bearing a cup of coffee for Bob.

"I want you to know I'm sorry that I annoyed you," said Bob hastily, in a penitent and intense voice.

She placed his coffee, and turned to go away.

"Er-r-, Miss—Miss Dale, please don't be angry," he begged miserably. She hesitated, resting the rim of her tray on a far corner of the table, and looked at him steadily. "My rudeness came from—my surprise at seeing anyone so nice as you in this place, after all these years."

"You are not a native, then?" she asked in a forgiving tentatively interested way, after a brief scrutiny.

Bob shook his head negatively and started to put sugar cubes in his coffee. He felt on terms of good fellowship with the whole wide world, the June scents of which wafted through the open windows a lulling message of awakened, sun-nourished things. The distilling forces of an artful nature were at work with rolled-up sleeves on the second growth enthusiasms in Bob's soul.

"I hope that after you've seen more of me here you won't mind if I ask you—if I want you to—if I ask you to be friends," he ventured, continuing to put sugar cubes into his coffee.

"Is that a threat or a promise?" she laughed, genuinely amused by his cautious approach.

Bob laughed, too. They had a second laugh then, together. Miss Trisk, who had not missed a trick, did not laugh; nor did Bramley. The one looked jealous; the other, resigned. Their opportunity for hilarity came within a minute, though, when a wild-eyed call boy dashed into the room, came to a disgusted and panting stop when he spotted Bob and the waitress, who were lost to all superficial influences, then advanced toward them and spoke sarcastically.

"Wilson, I've searched all over for you. Morran's going to send your train out with a sub if you ain't there in half a shake. He's down in the yard chewin' an oil can now, and six-inch sparks is comin' outen his eyes. I wouldn't want to be in your shoes. Sign here, please!"

Bob gasped in panic as he saw the time. Twenty minutes to eight! Ten minutes past the scheduled start of his run. He signed the call book, jumped up, smiled at Caroline and hurried away. The memory of the look of concern on her face—as though she were fearful that, somehow, it was all her fault and that he would get into trouble on account of her—stopped him at the door. He went back, shook hands with her, then departed—all in a laughing, excited, happy rush that even the expectation of being struck by Bolts' verbal lightning could not despoil. Luckily, his day's job was on a local freight, and while a delay was serious enough it was not vital or unforgivable.

In the whirlwind of his departing wake Caroline Dale stood looking with a guilty yet happy smile at the table he had vacated and the breakfast he had left untouched but for the single bite of waffles that had been, well—the cause of it all! A soggy, dank pyramid of sugar, the entire contents of the sugar crock which Bob had absent-mindedly transferred piece by piece into his coffee cup, was a sweet monument to the gay havoc she had wrought upon his mental processes.

SUGGESTIONS FOR SOLVING CROSS-WORD PUZZLES

Start out by filling in the words of which you feel reasonably sure. These will give you a clue to other words crossing them, and they in turn to still others. A letter belongs in each white space, words starting at the numbered squares and running either horizontally or vertically or both.

The solution will appear in to-morrow's paper.

YOUR GARDEN

COMPOSTING LEAVES.

When other sources of vegetable matter or humus as supplied in manure are not available, it is an economic waste to burn leaves. Every fall the atmosphere is thick with the pungent odor of the fires burning this excellent material. Of course, if you have too great an abundance or are able to obtain just what fertilizer supply you wish, it is a different story. But the average small garden owner can seldom afford to destroy such a humus supply that can be secured so easily.

When raking up the leaves, place them in a pile in some rather out-of-the-way or inconspicuous corner. Over every layer mix a little earth to aid decomposition and add bone meal from time to time. Pack the leaves down firmly, and in the course of a year or so they will be sufficiently rotted for use.

There are many uses for such material as a general mixture for supplying humus to heavy soils, especially in the planting of bulbs. For mulching about trees and digging in anywhere when it is desirable to protect the roots of plants or cool the soil. Also it may be used somewhat as a fertilizer to supply nourishment.

MISSES PETRIE AND CARLOW ARE WINNERS OF TRIP TO WINTER FAIR

Stood First and Second in Judging Competitions For Ladies

MANY ENTRIES.

Thirty-three Young Women Were Entered in Event at Fair.

One of the big features of the Fair this year, as it was last season, was the judging competition put on by the Department of Agriculture for young men and women. In the latter class, which is under the auspices of the Women's Institute Branch of the Department, the coach, Mrs. Florence Rowand of Walkerton, who was in charge of the event Thursday, reported a much increased interest over the first attempt of the kind held here last season and said also that an appreciable increase in good taste and judgment in making selections was apparent in the class of young women, all under the age of twenty six years, and numbering thirty-three entrants, as against twenty-five last season, who congregated from various parts of the district yesterday to take part in the competition. The basic idea of the Department in instituting these events is to encourage interest in their own surroundings among the young people of the agricultural communities, and further develop in them a sense of good taste in sewing and dressing and wise selection in other things. The competition here was divided into four classes: judging of good dressing, in which the girls just which model on view is dressed the most appropriate manner for going to church in the country on Sunday morning, judging of house dresses, judging bread and judging school lunches. Mrs. Rowand, Miss M. Robertson of Walkerton and Mrs. F. C. McRae of Norwood, wife of the agricultural representative for this district, had charge of the competitions and acted as judges.

The judging of good dressing was carried on at the Turnbull store in the morning, where models paraded before the girls, who had their choice of four costumes. General effectiveness, suitability to occasion and to person, style and color are the points considered in this section, and the girls showed excellent discernment in this, as in the other portions of the competition which came later, and were carried on in the big tent reserved for the occasion on the fair grounds where house dresses, loaves of bread and school lunches were on view. House dresses were judged for appearance, in which is considered colour and colour combination style or design and neatness, for suitability to purpose, with material and style or design also considered here, and workmanship. In judging the bread general appearance of loaf, its colour shape and texture of crust is taken into consideration, also crumb, its texture, colour, lightness, flavour and moisture. School lunches are considered for their general outward appearance (neatness of package), packing (neatness, separate wrapping, etc.), selection of food (suitability and food value) and quality and preparation of food.

Judges yesterday were Mrs. Florence Roward and Miss M. Robertson, Walkerton, and Mrs. F. C. McRae, Norwood. The prizes for the event, which is open to any girl under twenty-six years of age in the county of Peterborough and the townships of Cavan and Emily who has never attended an Agricultural College or taken part in a Provincial competition, and in which fifty per cent is allowed correct placing, fifty per cent. for reasons, are cash awards of $4, $3, $2 and $1 to first second, third and fourth successful entrants in each class with special awards by Mr. Roland Denne, President of the Exhibition Board, to the two girls making the highest total score, of free trips to the Royal Winter Fair, Toronto, with all expenses paid. The Peterborough U.F.O. Club also offers $5 to the girl making the highest total score.

The lucky winner of head place on this occasion is Miss Mae Petrie, R.R. No. 8, whose sister, Miss Pearl Petrie, had the trip to Toronto last year. Miss Annabel Carlow, R.R. No 2, Indian River also gets the trip to the Royal Winter Fair, these two young ladies getting first and second place in the general proficiency section.

"I wish from my heart I could persuade every person who is run down in health to give Dr. Williams' Pink Pills a trial." Thus writes Mrs. Louie Mitchell, Oak Point, Man., who further says:—"About a year ago I was a weak woman, suffering from a run down system and impoverished blood. Any little exertion would cause my legs to tremble and my heart to throb violently. I could not sweep a room or walk fifty feet without being exhausted. Then I began taking Dr. Williams' Pink Pills and after taking only six boxes I am as well and strong as ever. I can walk and run without stopping every few seconds gasping for breath as previously. Dr. Williams' Pink Pills will be my stand-by in the future if ever my blood needs building up again, and I shall always find pleasure in recommending them to anyone needing a tonic."

There are many troubles due to weak, watery blood which can easily be overcome by a fair use of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills. The sole mission of this medicine is to enrich and purify the blood and when that is done all the varied symptoms of anaemia disappear, and good health returns. You can get these pills through any dealer in medicine or by mail at 50 cents a box by writing The Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

Monument is Worthy of Its Position in Stanley Park.

VANCOUVER B.C. (Stanley Park) Sept. 17.—The President Harding International Good Will Memorial located in this city's immense municipal park and erected by Kiwanis International through the voluntary subscriptions of its ninety-five thousand members in the United States and Canada was dedicated on Wednesday September 16th. Government officials of both the United States and Canada took part in the memorial program.

The Peterborough Kiwanis club contributed toward the building of this monument.

The monument is the only material symbol of fortification outside of mileposts to outline the invisible demarcation of the thousands of miles of border line which spread from the Atlantic to the Pacific and separate both countries.

"What the world is hoping for the United States and Canada have achieved; the conception of peace written in the minds and hearts of the citizens of both nations" said John H. Moss of Milwaukee Wisconsin president of Kiwanis International today. "It was with this understanding that the late President Harding a Kiwanian himself pledged to the ideals of Kiwanis gave to the world that tribute of friendship which is now hoped to be succor to a world in the travail of a war's aftermath."

An extract from the Vancouver speech of the late chief executive written in bronze for the memorial and the possible text of many a murmured prayer of hope of the cosmopolitan tourist who reads it as he passes through the park is as follows:

"What an object lesson of peace is shown today by our two countries to all the world. No grim-faced fortifications mark our frontiers no huge battleships patrol our dividing waters no stealthy spies lurk our tranquil border hamlets. Only a scrap of paper recording hardly more than a simple understanding safe-guards lives and properties on the Great Lakes and only humble mile-posts mark the inviolable boundary line for thousands of miles through farm and forest.

"Our protection is in our fraternity our armor is our faith and the tie that binds more firmly each year is ever-increasing acquaintance and comradeship through interchange of citizens; and the compact is not of perishable parchment but of fair and honorable dealing which God grant shall continue for all time."

The idea of the erection by Kiwanis International of a Harding memorial was first given prominence by the fact that as president of the United States and a member of the International organization Mr. Harding had been greatly respected by both Canadians and Americans. Also it was the only time that a president had visited Canada during his term of office. When the proposal to erect a memorial was brought to the thousands of Kiwanis delegates at the Denver annual convention in 1924 it was met with instant and unanimous approval. Directly then followed the approval of the International Board of Trustees and also the International Council held in Chicago in December 1924. Members of the Harding Memorial committee appointed in July 1924 were: John H. Moss Milwaukee Wisconsin now president of Kiwanis International; Victor M. Johnson Rockford Illinois now immediate past president of the organization; Edmund F. Arras Columbus Ohio past president; and Douglas J. Scott Winnipeg Canada International trustee.

Consideration of a site demanded careful thought and mature deliberation. There were three suggestions: first the nation's capital second Harding's birthplace Marion Ohio and third Stanley Park. But the bond of harmonious friendship settled the question in favor of Vancouver for it was there that as president of the United States Mr. Harding had spoken in favor of the possession of an increased understanding between the two countries.

The exact site chosen in the park is some eight-hundred feet from the main entrance the only part of the expansive tract where waterpools fountains and flower beds are maintained and thousands of tourists pass by annually. Mr. Charles Marega, of Vancouver, is the sculptor. The design is a semi-circular set with an elevated center to contain a bronze tablet with Harding's profile in bas-relief and an excerpt from his last address. In the center are two bronze female figures symbolizing Canada and the United States on guard, not only over the man represented in the bas-relief, but also over the memorable words of international amity. Canada and the United States hold between them in one hand the olive branch of peace, in the other, the shields of the two nations. Directly in front is placed a shallow pool of running water, which, in reflection and motion, is designed to convey the idea of life and activity. At each end of the memorial structure is an eagle, typical and symbolic of America. The extreme length of the monument is thirty-seven feet; depth, thirteen feet, nine inches; height, ten feet, nine inches. A flower bed will add five feet on each end to the length and five feet in depth to the rear. The bronze figures are seven feet, six inches in height. The granite used has been received from a quarry located some sixty-five miles from Vancouver, and is known as Granite Island granite. It is of substance well adapted for the purpose, as it withstands the discoloration of the salt-laden sea breezes and other destroying elements of nature.

"The desire to erect a memorial to Warren G. Harding was not conceived by reason of his affiliation with any particular political party," remarked the International president. "The desire would have been manifested had Harding been a Democrat instead of a Republican.

"Nor was Harding's religious faith a factor in the determination of the memorial. He could have been a Catholic or a Jew instead of a Protestant and the memorial would have been erected.

"We honor the virtuous. It is only when the brain becomes spiritualized by the heart and the heart intellectualized by the brain that merit prevails and honor is bestowed. When Harding assumed the Presidency it was amidst the trials and tribulations of a war-torn world. The social, industrial and political conditions were embroiled in a state of turmoil, yet he met the issues with a heart as noble as his mind was honest. He was tolerant of the opinions of others, yet steadfast in the pursuit of principles he conceived to be right."

Clubs, wide-spread over the North American continent have contributed to caring for the expenditures of the memorial's erection. Announcement had been made but several days before Canadian clubs responded with contributions, acknowledging their support, even though at first they believed that the structure would be built in the United States.

A recent report from the northwest tells of an incident which marks the initial bringing to fulfillment of the conception of this site as a shrine where future generations may gather to pay homage to the ever-rededicating of patriotism, to greater ideals and motives for peace. Early in the year long before the structure was completed, wreaths of flowers from two fraternal organizations enriched the uncompleted memorial. It is estimated that thousands have already visited the park to watch the work of building in progress, while a multitude gathered for the dedication on September 16, when officials of the United States and Canada were present.

"Although Kiwanis is but following a long established custom, that of saving from oblivion the names of those who have been great and good, its purpose loses none of its charm," states the International president. "This memorial will appeal, not only to the membership of Kiwanis because of its love for a fellow Kiwanian, but to the world at large because of its respect for an honorable and honored public official."

ADMIT BOLSHEVIST

Canada has decided not to follow the action of the United States in refusing admission to Shapurii Saklatvala, M.P., Parsee Bolshevist and member for North Battersea, which elected him last October after one of the most violent campaigns in the history of this Thames-side constituency.

SOCIAL GIVEN IN HONOR OF BRIDE

St. Thomas' Church Members Met to Make Presentations.

MILLBROOK NEWS

MILLBROOK, Sept. 19—A very pleasant social gathering was held in the Sunday School Hall of St. Thomas' church on Tuesday evening in honor of Miss Gertrude Harkness whose marriage took place on Thursday, September 17, at 2 p.m.

Miss Harkness has been a faithful member of the choir, and a devoted worker in the A.Y.P.A., and the Girls' Missionary Auxiliary, for some years, and these organizations were anxious to show, in some tangible manner, their appreciation of the services rendered by the bride-to-be, the social evening on Tuesday being under their auspices.

A brief programme, consisting of piano duets by Mrs. (Canon) Allen and Miss Mamie Collins, readings by Rev. Mr. Dewdney, musical recitations by Misses Pearl Lamb and Gertrude Gray, and vocal solos by Mr. Fred Wells, provided enjoyable entertainment for the first part of the evening.

Mrs. Allen, on behalf of the choir and the A.Y.P.A., made an informal address and presented Miss Harkness with a dozen sterling silver teaspoons, initialed, and on behalf of the Girls' Auxiliary, with a handsome pitcher of Royal Dalton china. A personal gift of Rev. Canon and Mrs. Allen was also presented, this last being a beautiful china cake plate, the rector's wife voicing the sentiments of all present as she wished the bride-to-be much happiness in her changed home and circumstances, and desired that she carry with her the warm appreciation of her fellow-workers as a result of the years they had labored in harmony together.

Miss Harkness felt keenly the kindness expressed in word and deed and though the event was a complete surprise to her, made reply in a few well-chosen words. The embarrassment of the situation was relieved by all joining in singing "For she's a jolly, good fellow" after which a number of community songs were indulged in, and refreshments served.

Among the members of the Durham County Junior Farmers' Club who were prize winners in the judging competition at the Canadian National Exhibition, in which a total of over 340 young men took part, were: J. H. Jose, Newcastle; Lawrence Cryderman, of Bowmanville; Lloyd Crago, Bowmanville; Harry B. Cryderman, Bowmanville; Norman Hogg and Jas. T. Brown of Orono.

The junior farmers' judging competition was the largest in the history of the exhibition since this feature had its inception in 1917.

Prize winners in the fruit class at the South Cavan Rural School Fair, held at Millbrook on Saturday, September 12, whose names were inadvertently omitted from the regular list previously published, are as follows:

Spy Apples: 1, Muriel Gibson; 2, Charlotte MacMahon; 3, Robena Challice; 4, Vertil Kennedy; 5, Annie McMahon; 6, Fred Coulter.

Snow Apples: 1, Leslie Clarke; 2, Margaret Brackenridge; 3, Earl Martin; 4, Ralph McCamus; 5, Robena Challice; 6, Lena Gibson.

Talmon Sweet Apples: 1, Ralph McCamus; 2, Muriel Gibson; 3, nAnie McMahon; 4, Vertin Kennedy; 5, Leslie Clarke; 6, Wilfrid Lunn.

Did Dad Walk Baby?

Fathers would not have to walk the floor so often with restless babies if mothers insisted on using Baby's Own Soap for baby's bath. This soap cleanses and refreshes and prevents skin irritations and scalding which so often cause bad nights.

And baby smells so sweet after a good rub with the aromatic lather of Baby's Own Soap.

WITH DARROW AND SCOPES ON A MOUNTAIN HIKE
INNER LIFE OF THE GREAT LAWYER IS REVEALED

Revealtions Made During Relaxation Following Famous Tennessee Trial —Darrow Had to Battle Money Peril —$65,000 for Loeb Trial—His Sincerity Outstanding.

By R. E. KNOWLES.

It was commonly said—and it is hard to violate my chronic modesty long enough to let it down—that never before at a legal trial on this continent was there gathered together as brilliant a cluster of journalistic writers as were scattered about Dayton, Tennessee, during the recent legal encounter between the aforesaid state and John T. Scopes, by some rega ded as the Nathan Hale of religious and scientific liberty and by others as a disturber of the Faith and a rebel against the ancient authority of the scriptures.

It was a long, sore siege. Suffocating court-room; constant struggle to preempt and interview the great figures, Bryan, Malone, Scopes, Darrow; scant apartments with the majority of these 180 newspaper men stowed away somewhere among the simple villagers and only the fortunate few ensconced in the one tolerable hotel which doubled up in cots, trebled up on rates, and tightened up on dignity.

Wherefore Tuesday evening, July 21st, brought an uncommon sensation of relief when the last consignment of "copy" had been entrusted to one or other of the twenty or more expert press telegraph operators from all over the continent who were imported to do what had previously been done, in the despatching line, by one crusty and scantily clad dignitary at the "depot" a couple of hundred yards away.

"Scopes and I are going into the mountains for a rest," suddenly announced to me the next day Mr. Clarence Darrow, America's foremost criminal lawyer; "a few good fellows—fine chaps, these southerners—have asked us to go as their guests. They promise us a good time. And I'm going to ask them, if you'll come, to add you to the party. We are to drive to Knoxville first, and then on to a club these fellows belong to, somewhere in the Cumberland range of the Blue Ridge mountains. I think we'll have a great time."

I accepted, of course, the invitation which was not long in coming nor lacking in cordiality when it came. And Thursday morning, bright and hot, found the caravan of motor cars, three at least, making its swift way along a very modern highway toward the ancient city of Knoxville, the eye beguiled by novel sight of "poor whites" hoeing in the corn fields, a few negroes at the same cruel occupation under the same cruel sun, the omnipresent and philosophic mule lending his humble aid.

At noon we halted to dine at an old plantation house, the ancestral home of one of the lawyers in the party, but now a sort of semi-hotel and health resort, boasting a mineral spring covered by a vast canopy, over which read: "These springs was (sic) discovered by the Indians, etc." The rural Tennessean is not strong on grammar, the contrast easy to visualize as I recalled the culture and haughty race that had once dwelt in these splendid old mansions and that once toiled by proxy alone, eating the plentiful bread that had been earned by the sweat of other men's brows, those men their chattels.

World's Loveliest Hospitality.

Pushing on, we reached, about five in the evening, a truly beautiful home four or five miles out from Knoxville. Dismounting, we were greeted first by a stalwart darkey who, with true southern instinct, immediately began rifling the cars of everything in the shape of a bag or valise. When my poor own was extracted I straightway retrieved it from the dusky hands, informing him that I was not going to stay there but would phone for a taxi and press on to Knoxville and a hotel there. The negro protested volubly, and the argument was suddenly interrupted by the dripping appearance of the master of the house, a stalwart Tennessean garbed in swimming clothes, just emerged from his own pool, a palatial thing, marble encased, seven feet deep at will, ensconced in greenery and trees and begirt with lilies round the marble sides. He greeted me with such volume as if I were a long missed friend. He bade his servant take the bag to "the north suite" and simply overstormed my amazed protest with the rejoinder that he would regard it as a direct reflection on "this joint" if I insisted in seeking other quarters. Whereupon I yielded, marveling at this new evidence of the loveliest hospitality in the world.

In honor of the great lawyer, a company of twenty, my host told me, was expected in an hour or so, to meet and dine with Mr. Darrow. Meantime, we "must be hot and thirsty." Wherefore we were promptly led to a wonderful verandah—I counted seventeen arm chairs there—commanding a wonderful view, a vista that took in more or less of the 2,500 acres which provided the setting for this beautiful home. If there is any lovelier social experience than a guest-ship at an old southern plantation house, I have never heard of it. Soon the guests, cordial men and soft-voiced women, began to appear, each received with winsome speech, each replying with the almost extravagant expressions of delight and appreciation that fall so easily from southern lips. I could not but think, as we sat around the richly appointed tables, of the days now far distant and forever gone when the sable servants flitted in and out of the old mansion, singing though enslaved, the property in fee simple of those proud whites who lived in baronial splendor, scorning all toil, smoking their unctuous cigars, tossing off their imported wines, riding to hounds, despatching their sons to Oxford or Cambridge—and all at the expense of these unrequited toilers who made life so easy; but who made it so voluptuous too, the moral blight of which told—in a way whose description propriety forbids—upon their own indulgent sons, still telling in blight and handicap upon the whole confederacy that came into being for the preservation of an "institution" which all now admit to have brought more of curse than blessing in its train.

Endangered by Big Fees.

The next morning we started for Elkmount, the hill-girl club at which we were to rest and to be entertained. During this mountain drive, settled in the same car with Mr. Darrow, I had a long and intimate talk with the man whose power, as exhibited at the Los Angeles Times explosion trial, the McNamara trial, the Orchard trial, and especially the Loeb and Leopold tragedy had made his name a household word throughout the English speaking world. He spoke freely of his religious views, emphasizing that he did not deny the presumed truths of revelation, but only affirmed that he did not know. He disavowed having ever tried to disturb the faith of any man. He spoke of Ingersoll, and with reproach, passionately declaring that the world would "never find him (Darrow) booted and spurred and riding hotly toward Damascus for the destruction of the Christians." He claimed, what all the world knows as true, that he has devoted his powers, and his means, to the good of mankind, a fact I heard recounted in tribute to him everywhere in the United States. Speaking of his fortune, he gave a glimpse of his essentially philosophical mind when he told me that, finding his great fees were beginning to make him a rich man, he also discovered that the love of money was growing on him, "worse than the drink habit, I believe," whereat he had sternly set himself on guard against this danger. "I have enough laid by to do my day," he said "and for Ruby to marry again," with a playful poke at the winsome figure in the seat in front, "and for the the rest, I'm going to be its master, not its servant."

He asked me, as we made our climbing way, if I would like to hear the inside story of the Loeb and Leopold case. I liked, of course. And all that followed, some of it never given to the world at large, convinced me at least that the defense was conscientious and the verdict just. Loeb was surely a mento-moral degenerate. Mr. Darrow further confided—and nothing forbids its disclosure: "We left the legal remuneration to the American Bar Association—and all they allotted me was $65,000." I sought to comfort him, since he complained that he had been a whole month in court for this paltry sum, with the tidings that I knew several professional men who didn't make this sum every two months, let alone one.

Dismissing our stay at this mountain-side club with the scant information that two "comfortables" were necessary at night, and that the swimming pool in a rocky cleft was fit for Paradise, and that fried chicken was the abiding staple till one almost began to crow, and that prohibition is evidently a denizen of the plains, I hasten to give a brief description of a memorable day's pilgrimage to the top of "Old Smoky," a peak of the Blue Ridge 5,000 feet above the level of the sea. Off at early morn, twenty miles on a hand-car, then thirteen by a steadily ascending mountain motor road, this ending at the rude shack of a mountaineer, who, apprised and expectant of our coming, had already lined up, securely tied to the fence, a good number of solemn mules, sufficient for all the party. Soon aboard, Scopes, Darrow and myself tandem, off for five hours in this unaccustomed seat.

Climbing "Old Smoky."

The mountaineer and two of his sons accompanied us on foot through the whole five-hour hike, making their way with strange ease, even at extreme altitudes which shortened the mules' breath and made them pause and pant at frequent intervals. Wonderful fellows, these. The senior, who walked beside me, was a man of 45 and a native of these mountains, as was his father before him. He told me many tales of the famous "feuds" for which these regions are noted. Had "made coffins," he told me, for seven men killed out of hand, the occasion being a dance and plenteous "moonshine." Their living is made by hunting, trapping, guiding, and corn whiskey—and the greatest of these is corn whiskey. They live in perpetual vigilance against revenue officials. My guide was evidently proud of the form of argument, mostly of the pistol variety, with which they are wont to deal with these government sleuths, and rejoiced in the gift of repartee shown by the ten-year-old son of one of the natives. The story runs as follows: "Sonny, do you know where your father's 'still' is?" was the enquiry of one of a posse of the officials. "Oh, yes, suh." "Well, we'll give you ten dollars if you'll show us where it is." The boy agreed, preparing to start, but first remarking that he would just take the ten dollars before they went further. "Oh, that's all right, sonny, we'll give you that when we come back." "But you all ain't comin' back," was the boy's sage reply.

After two and a half hours we surmounted "Old Smoky," rewarded by a splendid cleared tableland, on which we lunched, the baskets having been carried up the mountain side by these amazing natives; and from our vantage point we could see outlines of Kentucky, North Carolina, Georgia and Alabama.

Down the mountain we made our way again, finally reaching the line of road. As we dismounted a rustic shouted to us that Bryan was dead. Mr. Darrow's shock and discomfiture were intense. "Two shall be grinding together at the mill," broke out this not irreverent agnostic; "the one shall be taken and the other left. Let us go home—I am very tired," and one could see that the mystery and tragedy of human life, of which I know him to be an earnest and truth-seeking student, had taken on a deeper and more inscrutable shadow than before.

A message was awaiting me in the rude telephone office among the hills. Three minutes later the Western Union operator at Knoxville was repeating to me a telegram from the Daily Star requesting an article on the dead tribune. A motor car—oh, these wonderful southern men—was immediately at my disposal; and in less than five minutes, the darkness engulfing us now, I was being hurried over the 70 miles that divided me from that city, musing "What shadows we are and what shadows we pursue!" By three o'clock the next morning, Monday, a thousand words, on the dramatic incident stood typed in The Star office at Toronto. What a bound from the primitive to the perfection of skill and science!

THE LAST ROSE OF SUMMER

Juanita Hamel

"Left blooming alone"—so the poet sings. But this modern rose, even though she be the very last one of the season, left all alone in the garden, isn't quite alone. The very last and the very sturdiest of the bees is buzzing 'round, waiting to sip the honey from her bewitching lips. And Dan Cupid stands by with poised arrow, ready to impale the hearts of these two on Love's altar. For even though she is the last rose, she's the best and Cupid has kept her waiting for the sturdy bee whom he has led to her. And the warmth of Love will enfold her and change her from the "Last Rose" to the "Most Wonderful Rose" in the world.

SIDELIGHTS ON MODE.

Sidelights on the mode for winter wear include the following:

That skirts continue to be short but add to their width with flares, godets or flat pleats.

That the waist line is creeping upward gradually.

That the two-piece dress for daytime is in greater favor than ever—in kasha, self-crepe, or brocaded metallic fabrics.

That boleros are being used to a great extent.

That dinner gowns use long sleeves and evening gowns are sleeveless.

That lace gowns are much in favor.

That velvets, metal cloths and brocades are the supreme note for evening wear, with velvet ensembles for evening very good.

That little velour hats are just the thing for early autumn wear. They come with folded crowns, rolling brims and bands and cockades of corded ribbon, in colors of powder blue, grey, taupe, navy, brown, rust, tan, sand, purple, black, and nigger brown.

An English woman, Mrs. William Jones, who is seventy-four years of age, recently won a prize in a tennis tournament in which she played forty games.

Let's Talk It Over

Baby-Doll Material for a Sweetheart

A certain king of Cyprus, who was also a sculptor, could find no woman to please him. So he made for himself a beautiful statute of ivory and so beautiful was she that he loved her deeply. But alas, the lovely woman of his dreams did not live. She was only a statue. He prayed to Venus, Goddess of Love, to bring his beloved to life, which she did. Then the story has it he married the perfect woman he had made, and was happy.

Unfortunately for the man who writes the following letter there is no compassionate goddess to bring to life the idol he has made. Like many other men, he has chosen a beautiful ignorant child to love and invested in her all the qualities of ideal womanhood that dwell in his own imagination. When in her selfishness and ignorance she failed to show the beautiful qualities with which his mind has endowed her, his heart was sick, and he called himself a "Failure." Here is what he says:

Years ago I knew and was interestd in a beautiful child. Time increased the interest into love. On my return from France we began to "go together." I showered gifts on her daily. She was fifteen, I was twenty-three. Friends called me a cradle robber. But my attentions were given and received openly.

When she was eighteen our engagement was announced. She was now working and meeting other girls, loose, semi-loose and very nice. Then she began to change. Every time I saw her it was, "Where do we go tonight?"

When we were engaged we each agreed not to go with any one else. When I crashed I asked her to forget me for three months and do as she pleased. She agreed, but insisted I should not do likewise. It was selfish, but I love her too deeply to have done otherwise.

We parted. In two weeks she phoned and said she had had her fill. Then I made a mistake . I fell for her talk. I returned. She told me that when she went out with others they wanted everything but her society. We've carried on the same old way till now.

Lately I have been sick. When I got up I went to see her. Her greeting: "Where do we go?" I replied, "I must return home soon; doctor's orders." Then the fur flew. I got made and told her to do as she pleased . I was told to go home and stay there. Now I want to know:

Have I spoiled her with attentions? Can that be rectified? Why have we scrapped so much? Why is the man that does the most for a girl treated the worst? Are my ideas on the conduct of engaged couples wrong? Wherein have I failed? I say the last because when I tried to elevate her tastes to higher things she called these things goulash.

Nothing I do satisfies her. I am always panned. FAILURE.

Only time can tell how a girl will turn out Pal. There is nothing to do but charge the past to profit and loss and take it all as philosophically as possible. You've invested in day dreams and hero worship and received the usual returns. Next time pick out a girl with more heart and less complexion. If you learn the lesson in this experience you will be lucky. The average man no sooner dries his eyes over the sawdust-heart of one baby doll than he looks about for another of the same stripe.

Why are you disillusioned and unhappy? BECAUSE MEN INSIST UPON PICKING THEIR WIVES THE WAY A MOVIE DIRECTOR PICKS HIS BATHING GIRLS—THAT'S WHY!

ADVICE TO GIRLS

By Annie Laurie

DEAR ANNIE LAURIE:

I am a girl of sixteen and am considered good looking. I am popular with girls.

Why cannot I get "dates" with boys? FRENCHIE.

FRENCHIE: Friendship is founded not on external things like appearance and age, but on the things which really count—interests and tastes. Therefore you cannot expect every acquaintance you meet to become a life-long friend, my dear. I suggest that you join a club or lecture class where the members are bound together by ties of common aims and ideals.

DEAR ANNIE LAURIE:

I am engaged to a man six years my senior and expect to be married soon. But my mother objects to our marriage because he is of another religion.

Now I love my fiance dearly and he of course loves me. We have known each other for five years and are together every evening. He is willing to change his religion if I desire it. Is love or religion greater? PEARL.

PEARL: The queston of religious differences is one which no one outside your family circle can solve. Pearl. You will have to discuss this and thresh it out well with your parents or your religious adviser. If you can convince your mother that your love for this young man is so deep and sincere that your religious differences are unimportant, she will probably concede.

DEAR ANNIE LAURIE:

I am a girl in my teens and very much interested in a young man. We have never been introduced but seeing one another every day speak.

When he speaks to me I always smile and speak pleasantly and I do try to be natural.

I cannot but think that he is interested also in me but when I speak to him first it's a different story. He stiffens and becomes very indifferent and he remains that way for a few days.

Could you please give me advice? MERRY.

MERRY: My advice to you—and it is very earnest—is that you do not speak to this young man again. That is unless you can arrange an introduction. No man really respects a girl who defies the conventions for the sake of a new acquaintance, and without respect friendship does not last long. I suggest that you ask a mutual friend to introduce you. Then you will not suffer the humiliation of being snubbed by this young man every time he is in the mood.

Home-Making Helps

MAKING PREPARATIONS FOR WINTER FLOWERS.

Flower lovers are always preparing for winter house plants where they have sunny windows or a sun parlor in which to keep them. Many prepare the low, shallow pots that fit into the fern dish of silver, or brass, by putting in the good earth and tucking in six or seven hyacinth bulbs. The pot is then put in a dark place for four or five weeks to root and it is then brought to the light and kept watered until it begins to blossom and it will be in fine condition for the Thanksgiving table.

Pots of other bulbs, daffodils, jonquils, freesias, crocuses, tulips and so on are planted in the same way and a few are brought to the light at a time so that the blossoming may be continuous through the cold winter months.

Many women start their plants from seeds and plant them in a shallow box, covering the seeds with a light layer of earth. The boxes should be four inches deep with holes bored in the bottom for drainage. Then, after the seeds are planted, not very deeply, the box may be covered with a sheet of glass, watered regularly, and not placed in a strong light until they start to grow. As soon as the plants grow sturdy and begin to crowd one another it is then time for transplanting. From the seed boxes the plants can be transplanted to window boxes where they should be placed at least two inches apart to give them room to grow. Or they may be placed in separate pots, if desired. See that the roots are spread properly before covering in, for this means much in the perfecting of the plant. In fact, whenever a plant becomes root-bound and needs a larger pot, the bottom roots should be straightened from the mass and rearranged evenly in the fresh earth in the bottom of the new pot.

After the transplanted plant becomes rooted and flourishing in its new surroundings, it may be occasionally cultivated about the base with an old fork or a pointed stick to the depth of a half inch of the soil.

Geranium seed may be planted in pots in September and after the plants have been transplanted two or three times, pinch out the tops of the main stems which give a round cultivation and you will be rewarded with many blooms. The primrose will flourish in a north window, it will start blooming in June and continue throughout the rest of the year. It is a favorite for pot and indoor culture.

The cyclamen may be started for winter, spring or summer blossoming, depending upon when it is desired. It must be repotted twice after the first leaf shows first in leaf mold and sand, then when it has three or four leaves showing, it must be transplanted for the second time to a heavy, rich soil. After the plant is through blossoming, it should be watered very little and have an occasional wetting with liquid fertilizer.

Fuchsias are very attractive in pots; the seeds germinate in about four weeks and they are transplanted to their pots when four or more leaves show.

A FASHION MODEL'S DIARY

By Grace Thorncliffe

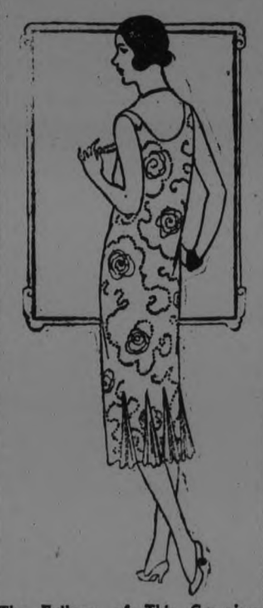
SHE DESCRIBES A SHEATH MODEL OF EVENING FROCK.

We manikins have been so busy lately, with the fall season in full swing, that we haven't had much time for talking behind the scenes.

But today there was a sort of lull in the activities in the front salon, and we did have a period of rest back in the manikins' room.

Of course, our talk immediately turned to fashions, and the new clothes we had been so busy modeling.

"How do you like the new geranium petal tint that Madame seems to have such a liking for?" Gaby asked of me.



The Fullness of This Geranium Petal Crepe Gown Is Concentrated at the Back.

"I think it's perfect for fall," I answered. "The rich geranium color is so warm and bright, and I do approve of warm bright colors for the fall season."

"Then you'll love this evening frock that has just come down from the work-room," Gaby said, hopping up and going to the hanger, from which I saw suspended a lovely evening frock.

"Why not put it on and let me get the full effect?" I asked.

Gaby is always ready to oblige by showing off a new frock, so she obligingly prepared to don the gown in question. She had just been showing evening things to a client, so she already had on her sheer flesh stockings and silver evening slippers.

The dress she donned was in the color already described, but it had a lovely shimmer, by means of a beaded design, done in crystal beads in an all-over pattern.

"What perfectly beautiful beading!" I exclaimed.

"Madame says Parisian women are beginning to show a marked favor for beaded evening things, so I feel sure that means they will also be worn here for this fall and winter," Gaby remarked. Then she added:

"But you haven't seen the real feature that makes this frock too smart for words."

I raised an inquiring eyebrow, and by way of answer, Gaby turned around so I could get the back view of the dress.

"See those perfectly ducky insets of plain chiffon in the geranium petal tint?" she queried.

"The new back fullness!" I exclaimed in tones of admiration.

The dress was a straight sheath affair, and its straightness was broken low at the back by the four insets of chiffon, which gave it a perky fullness that was most effective.

"Now you know anybody could dance better in a frock like this!" Gaby said enthusiastically, taking a few dance steps to prove her point.

PROVIDENCE CLUB GOES TO READING

Reading Club Will Be Transferred Intact to Newark

MAINTAIN PERSONNEL

NEW YORK, Sept. 19 (Canadian Press).—Acceptance of the transfer of the Reading International League Baseball Club to Newark, N.J., and the shifting of the Providence club intact to Reading were decided upon at a meeting of International League officials here yesterday.

The sale of the Reading club for $80,000 to Newark by President E. J. Poole to C. E. Davids was followed by the vote to transfer Providence to Reading without change of ownership or team personnel.

Mr. Davids outlined at the meeting his plans for the construction of a new ball park in Newark. Dick Shorten, the present manager, will continue to play with Davids' club, which will probably be piloted next season by Fred Burchell, former pitcher for the Baltimore Orioles.

BIG BILL AND LITTLE BILL JOUST FOR NATIONAL SINGLE HONORS

Tilden and Johnston Dispose of Challengers With Wasteful Strokes.

TILDEN FAVORITE.

Has Conquered Johnston Five Straight Times in Six Years.

FOREST HILLS, N.Y., Sept. 19 (Canadian Press).—"Big Bill" Tilden and his veteran Californian rival, "Little Bill" Johnston, dominant forces of United States tennis for most of the past decade, will have another joust for the national singles title today.

These two super-stars of the game reached the final round of the 44th annual championship tournament today, when they turned back the challenges of the two men who share Davis Cup laurels with the rival "Bills." Johnston's crushing power brought about the downfall of Richard Norris Williams, 7—5, 6—3, 6—2, while Tilden, although losing the first set to his young New York rival, Vincent Richards, left a convincing impression of his superiority by scores of 6—8, 6—4, 6—4, 6—1.

Today's match will bring together Tilden and Johnston in the title round for the sixth time in seven years. It will be Tilden's bid for his sixth straight title, a feat no other champion has accomplished since Richard D. Sears, the first recognized United States tennis king, ruled seven years in a row, from 1881 to 1887.

Tilden has conquered Johnston five straight times in his march toward the national crown, once in the semi-finals and four tims in the finals. He will be a favorite to reach the heights once more tomorrow.

Neither Johnston nor Tilden was extended in any severe measure today. Neither Williams nor Richards was able to more than threaten the two "Bills" in matches which fell considerably short of the spectacular flights expected of them. Williams faltered after the first set, and, losing control, was prey for Johnston's smoking drives, while Richards exhausted himself by the desperate attempts he made to hold Tilden even in the first two sets.

Tilden's victory left little doubt in the minds of observers that he is still command of the game which has kept him at the top so long. It seemed last week, when he had close calls against the two French stars, Jean Borotra and Rene Lacoste, that Tilden was slipping, but his advance to the title round again has seen him once more dominant.

AFTER SIXTH TITLE.

William T. Tilden has guarded his tennis honors zealously for five years. He enters finals as favorite to-day.

NARROW ESCAPE FOR CLERGYMAN

Rev. A. McLaughlin, of Keene, Drove Car Across Ditch.

SPRING BOLT BROKE.

KEENE, Sept. 19. — The Rev. Andrew McLauchlin, of Keene, had a very narrow escape Thursday afternoon when his car jumped off a narrow crossing east of Pontypool. With a five-foot embankment on the left side, only a quick turn saved the car from overturning—instead it crashed down and through a wire fence into a cornfield. The fence at the point being fortunately held up only with sticks, rather than posts, it simply was rolled down and righted itself after the car passed.

The accident was caused by a broken tie bolt in the front springs. It is remarkable that no one was hurt, for there were two small school children also in the car, and the only trace of any injury to the car was a broken oil gauge underneath, and Mr. McLauchlin proceeded to Keene and Hiawatha for service among the Indians.

THE COACH'S JOB

Something of the taskmaster, the general and the diplomat, and a lot of the doctor must be hidden away in the man who would be the coach of a successful football or track team.

Emergencies of all kinds are his daily routine. A thorough knowledge of first aid is as essential as a knowledge of the game played by his men.

Bumps, bruises, strained ligaments and muscles are every day happenings, but the coach never becomes contemptuous of them. He knows that if neglected, they may result in anything.

Trainers everywhere keep Absorbine Jr. in their lockers. They use it not only for sprains, cuts and bruises, but for the skin and blood protection of its disinfecting properties. In one convenient container it combines the functions of a number of preparations.

It is the first of all the First Aid requisites in use in all of the leading athletic clubs.

And there are just as many everyday uses for Absorbine Jr. in the homes of Canada as there are in the training camps. Always "jump to it" in case of emergency. $1.25 at your druggist

INSIDE GOLF.

Maker of 51 Golf Champions. "Golf's most successful teacher," says "Chick" Evans

By CHESTER HORTON

It is commonly known by golfers that the clubhead would, if pencil could be attached to it, describe a complete circle if it were given a correct backward and forward swing, with the lines slightly over lines slightly over lapping at each end. During this circling of the clubhead, the hands describe approximately ¼ of the complete circle. That is, if you hold the club at the address position, then break the wrists backward until the shaft points straight out from you, the hands you will note, move through about one-fourth of their circular arc. This indicates that the rest of the movement of the club is the lag's arm-lifting and shoulder-turning, which it is. What the golfer should do is keep this hand action down to the right proportion. The player need hardly go about it as a matter to be accomplished precisely on the above basis but the quickest road to the right action is found usually through shortening down the back swing. Try it.

CANADIAN GOLF CHAMPIONSHIP RETURNS TO NATIVE LAND AS CANADA'S WOMEN ENTER FINAL

Lone American Survivor Elimintaed Yesterday By Steady Play.

GAMES SIMILAR.

Both Dominion Representatives Held a Margin From Early Leads.

OTTAWA, Sept. 19 (Canadian Press).—That the Canadian ladies' open golf championship will come back to the Dominion after trips to the United States and Great Britain for the last five years, was made certain yesterday when Mrs. W. G. Fraser of the Royal Ottawa Club defeated the lone American survivor, Mrs. Edward Baker, Jr., of Boston, 5 and 4, in the upper bracket semi-final of the twentieth annual tournament. The other match, between the oft-times Toronto rivals, Miss Ada Mackenzie of Mississauga and Mrs. F. J. Mulqueen of the Toronto Golf Club, also resulted in a 5 and 4 victory, Miss Mackenzie being the winner. The definite location of the crown for the coming year will be decided today, when Mrs. Fraser and Miss Mackenzie meet in the 30-hole final.

In addition to the same margin of victory there was considerable similarity between the playing of the two winners. Both secured early leads and were able to hold their opponents safely on almost every hole, picking up a win whenever a chance offered. They were both even fours for the first eight holes and at this point both were five up. Mrs. Fraser took three putts on the ninth and had to be content with a half and a 38 for the outward journey, while Miss Mackenzie won the hole with a five for a 37, the best score for the first nine holes of the week, and made the turn six up. In both matches the tenth was halved and both the losers won their first hole at the eleventh. Miss Mackenzie won the twelfth while Mrs. Fraser had a half. Mrs Fraser won the thirteenth to become dormie. Both matches were terminated at the fourteenth green, the hole being halved by both pairs in fives. Mrs. Fraser played the last five in 21, and Miss Mackenzie in 22, so that they were each three over fives for the fourteen holes. There is little in Friday's play by the winners to assist in picking the successor of Miss Glanna Collett.

As a result of the victories of the two losers on Thursday, in convincing style and over formidable opponents yesterday's matches were looked forward to, and while each one of the quartette had supporters it was anticipated that the matches would be close, but after the first few holes the results were almost certain unless one of the trailers came through with a brilliant streak or one of the pace-makers cracked. Neither possibility materialized. The losers, Mrs. Baker and Mrs. Mulqueen, were offered but few openings by their opponents and when these were presented to them ,they were passed up more often than accepted. Mrs. Fraser was guilty of but three errors during the afternoon. She took three putts on each of two holes, the first ninth, but they were not costly, as she won the former and halved the latter. On one of the short holes coming in she put her tee shot into a trap and lost the hole, her only reverse of the match.

Miss Mackenzie also made but few errors. At the second she put her drive out of bounds but managed to secure a half in par threes. At the tenth she was in a trap with her second, and Mrs. Mulqueen was on in two but the latter refused to accept the chance to reduce the lead by taking three putts against two and getting a half. At the thirteenth Miss Mackenzie sent her iron third into the rough to the right over the trap, was on in four against a three and while she lost the hole she almost ended the match, her first putt for the half hanging on the lip of the cup and allowing Mrs. Mulqueen to keep the match alive.

Outside of these instances the playing of the two winners was almost perfect. Both had good distances off the tee, Mrs. Fraser having perhaps a greater distance, both were true in the greater majority of cases. Their approach work was good at all times and on the greens they were unbeatable, Miss Mackenzie sinking four first putts and never taking more than the conventional two, while Mrs. Fraser was down in one three times, but twice took the third putt.

CAR STOLEN.

COBOURG, Sept. 19. — Wilfrid Kenneth Johns is missing for the second time from his home in Port Hope, and has not been seen since Saturday. He is a son of Mr. and Mrs. H. Johns, Deblaguire Street, who are very anxious concerning their son's whereabouts.

Car Was Stolen.

A McLaughlin car which was left standing on Tuesday night in front of the Congregational Church, had disappeared when the owner, Mr. Emil Atkinson, went to get it. It was found the following morning about a mile west of the town, on a side road. It was not much damaged, excepting that the fenders were bent, but was covered with mud, and gave evidence of having been hard driven for quite a long way.

Registration Starts Sept. 24.

Mr. J. S. Haig and Mr. H. A. Allan, registrars for the Town of Cobourg for the coming Federal election, begin their work on September 24. Mr. Haig, who is in charge of the registration for Polling Sub-divisions 1, 2 and 3, will have his office at Mr. J. B. McColl's law office. Mr. Allen, who has charge of 4, 5 and 6, will open an office in John Kewin's residence, corner of Division and Spencer Streets.

These offices will be open from 9 a.m. to 9 p.m., exclusive of from 1 p.m. to 2 p.m. and from 6 p.m. to 7 p.m. The last day for registration is September 29. Afterwards the registrars are given three days to complete their lists, which must be in the hands of the Judge on October 3. Seven lists are to be prepared.

Presbytery to Meet.

The Cobourg Presbytery is called to meet in the United Church here on September 24. The bounds of the Presbytery are the Counties of Northumberland and Durham, the Townships of East and West Whithy, Pickering and Reach, and as far north as Port Perry in Ontario County.

TIGERS DEMAND HIGH SALARIES

Tommy Gorham Says Their Requests Nearly Knocked Him Over.

BURCH ASKS $6,000.

OTTAWA, Sept. 19.—(Canadian Press).—Tommy Gorman, manager of the New York Hockey Club, in the National Hockey League, to-day commented as follows, when shown a despatch from Hamilton which appeared in a Montreal paper to the effect that the Tigers had changed hands and that they now belonged to a new Hamilton syndicate:

"They have our best wishes for success, but I don't see how they are going to pay the salaries that will rule in the N.H.L. from this on. Billy Burch wants $18,000 on a three-year contract, while Red and Shorty Green will ask for $5,000 each per season.

Vernon Forbes wants nearly as much and Charles Langlois says that he will stay out of hockey rather than play for the contract he signed last winter. Langlois is the only man signed. McKinnon will also come high. I know what the players want because we took it for granted Monday night that we would get the club and conferred with several. Their salary demands nearly knocked us over. "We have made an offer again to-day for one of the strongest teams in the West," continued Gorman, "and we will likely have the deal completed by Monday."

21ST BATTALION SEVENTH REUNION

and Doris, and various others which these men of the "Old 21st or bust" sang with a gusto that must have carried to the farthest parts of the hotel.

Unique Battalion.

Old friendships were renewed and the conversations and intercourse evidently brought back old incidents which pals of this company and that had shared even apart from the others: and over all the gathering was the broader spirit of understanding and fellowship that embraced this happy remnant of what had been a numerous battalion. Judge Huycke, in his toast to the 21st, touched upon this resource of friendship, when he said that the battalion had been unique in several respects. It had originated daylight raids on the German trenches and it was the first to establish a peace time unity which from the large number of members attending the dinner was apparently as flourishing as when it was launched.

It was a night of vivid memories for the 21st. Ten years ago last night a detail of the battalion first entered the trenches, a few weeks before Loos, and Col. Elmett of Ottawa, who referred to that incident, admitted that it gave the personnel a real touch of fear. Then, too, the attack of the 2nd Canadian Division at Courcelette on the Somme, September 15, 1916, and the commencement of the last hundred day's fighting at Amiens, August 8th, 1918, were commemorated by the reunion dinner.

Presentation to Col. Pense.

The Kingston men quietly interrupted the after-dinner programme to present to Col. H. E. Pense, D.S.O., M.C., a silver cigarette box as a token of their appreciation of his unfailing support for their 21st Battalion Club since its inception after the war. Col. Pense has recently moved to Walkerton, and the reunion afforded his Kingston comrades an opportunity of expressing their gratitude for his assistance in promoting the welfare of their club of which he has been an active and successful leader. Rev. W. E. Kidd, M.C., conveyed to Col. Pense the appreciation of his Kingston pals, and W. C. McCullagh, vice-president of the club made the presentation.

The entertainment for the 21st men included a dinner programme by Follis' orchestra, songs by S. Harriss, Bob Hendry and Jack Smith, and selections by the Caledonian Pipe Band. It was a highly successful dinner due in a large measure to the hospitality of the Empress and beyond that to the spontaneity of the 21st men holiday spirit.

The officers of the Peterboro 21st Battalion Club who arranged for the reunion are Col. W. Gordon Hall, president; G. R. E. Melton, vice-president; C. E. Newman, secretary; Oliver White and Fred Hart had charge of the advertisements; and Bob Muir, Albert Nicholls and Fred Hart of refreshments.

The annual reunions are held in turn at Peterboro, Belleville, Kingston and Ottawa. Four years ago was the first time Peterboro was chosen, and from last night's attendance there is no slackening of interest in battalion sentiment.

Welcomed to Peterboro

W. Gordon Hall, president of the 21st battalion Club of Peterboro, in a cordial address of welcome, pointed out that the battalion is the only one that has held together since the return from overseas. He transferred the duties of chairman to H. E. Pense, of Kingston, who proposed the toast to the King, which the veterans of the 21st royally honored.

"To the greatest empire the new and old world have ever known," was the charge Tim Jordon, M.C., D.C.M., of Prince Edward County, gave in proposing the toast of the British Empire. Comrade Jordan said the Empire has been founded upon unity and love, and had been maintained by the spirit of fellowship and goodwill, which was exemplified in the associations of the men of the 21st.

Hon. G. N. Gordon in replying to the toast declared that it was a rare pleasure and privilege to join with the 21st in their reunion and to say a few words to this toast. Quoting the war losses of Britain and her allies and the fact that 27 per cent of the national wealth of the United Kingdom had been lost in the conflict, Hon. Mr. Gordon said it was manifest that Britain was confronted with one of the greatest problems of the centuries. It was baffling the greatest minds of the Mother Country, and Canada could assist her by encouraging migration from the Old Land and thereby maintain those ties which bind us to Britain. By encouraging people from the rural parts of the Mother country to settle here we can do our share in helping to preserve that British unity which had been so splendidly exemplified by such Canadians as the men of the 21st.

"And we will have in Canada in the days to come a people who will never falter in any way in their attachment to the Empire."

Appeal to Join Legion

R. E. Layfield, following Hon. Mr. Gordon, recalled old memories of the battalion especially quoting the phrase they had often heard in their progress through Canada and England to France, "The 21st are hard to follow." In a more serious strain he advocated an extension of the fellowship of the 21st to all the men of the C.E.F.

"Pals," he continued, "we can do nothing better than consecrate the deaths of the boys of the 21st than by seeing to it that those they left behind are properly looked after. You are here from Port Arthur, and Toronto, Montreal and Ottawa, and when you return to your home town you should be determined that in so far as you are able the returned soldiers shall be one. Then we can demand of the politicians that the promises given to our men when they went overseas shall be fulfilled. I am not throwing stones at any one. I am thinking of whatever government may be in power, whether Liberal or Conservative. It is not a matter of politics with us. Boys are breaking down now from the effects of their service in the army. When they came home they went out to do their best to earn their way through the old ways of peace again, but many of them had been weakened but were unaware of conditions that have gradually developed into serious illness."

Comrade Layfield referred to a case that came to his attention only a few days ago, in which a returned man was found tubercular. He had applied to the pensions department, and was told that nothing could be done for him. Mr. Layfield interviewed the local member and succeeded in having the department reconsider that case.

This was one of the many forms of assistance the G.W.V.A. had provided for returned men, and by complete unity the future of the service men would be safeguarded by an organization such as the Canadian Legion advocated by Earl Haig. Capt. Layfield especially appealed to the unattached veterans, urging them to throw their support to the formation of a solid union of all the returned men.

Toast to Peterboro.

The toast to the City of Peterboro was given by Major A. P. Miller, D.S.O., M.C., "Good old Pete" as he was greeted by his battalion mates with a warmth that proved they had not forgotten their exploits and escapes together.

Mayor Turner, in reply, augmented Major Miller's encomiums of their home town. His Worship's most significant statement was: "In term of office the greatest honor that has come to me has been this opportunity tonight of welcoming the 21st Battalion men to Peterboro."

W. H. Bradburn, M.L.A., took his text from Captain Layfields remarks, affirming "in all earnestness" that this country must not fail in its pledge to the men who went overseas. "I had a prominent part in the campaign of 1919 for raising money to bring our soldiers home. In Peterboro we raised the sum of $3,200,000, and surely if we were able to collect that amount in two weeks to bring our men back to us again, we can raise sufficient to help those who are in need at home with us."

The 21st Battalion.

A striking statement in Judge Huycke's eloquent tribute to the 21st Battalion in proposing the chief toast of the evening was as follows: "I feel you returned men have not received all the appreciation you deserved and which you should have received, but I assure you that in the hearts of every true Briton there is a great and abiding love for you and admiration for what you accomplished. But, after all, it was not what you have done for us, but what you have saved for us. I grant you that things are not as we would have them, but think what they might have been.

Judge Huycke said we should thank God for the strength of the British Empire and its forces which kept us from the results of German domination.

The final toast to "Our Fallen Comrades was delivered by Rev W. E. Kidd, M.C., of Kingston, and replied to by Rev. Paul Costello, C.E.F. chaplain of this city.

HE KNEW HIS PUBLIC

Handel Said More People Would Come to See Man Jump Than to Hear Him Sing.

It is curious how little attention is paid even by good teachers of the piano to accompaniment-playing. It is one of those things often taken for granted; a fair performer is supposed to be able to read an ordinary accompaniment at sight.

And yet how few good accompanists there are! That is why many soloists ahve been advised when once they get a good accompanist, to "keep in" with him. It is said that a singer once tried to charge Handel with having spoiled his rendering of a certain number and remarked that if Handel didn't accompany him better he would jump over on the hapsichord where the player sat, and smash it.

Said Handel: "Let me know ven you vill do dot, and I vill advertise it. I am sure more beoble vill come to see you shump as vill come to hear you sing."

He didn't jump.

You will laugh from the rise of the curtain on the first act until it descends on the last. There will be no advance in prices for this big double event. Same popular prices, 25c, 30c and 50c.

Mr. Young will announce from the stage to-night when "The Veiled Woman" will make her appearance in Peterborough. She is expected to arrive at any time. So be on the look-out for her. By all means don't miss her as you will regret it just as much as you did when you missed seeing that great play, "White Cargo."

THE YOUNG-ADAMS PLAYERS.

The Young-Adams players delighted a large audience at the Grand by their finished production of that striking play, "Dangerous Innocence," in which Miss Marjie Adams gave an especially effective performance. The whole company contributed adequate support, and "Dangerous Innocence" was an offering that added to the laurels of the organization. The vaudeville numbers made another big hit, and the company is sure to be warmly received in its other bills. To-night a double comedy bill will be offered, a three-act play, "Wanted a Wife," and a one-act farce, "Razor Jim."

AT THE ROYAL.

COUNTRY STORE NITE MONDAY AT THE ROYAL.

Country Store Nite as usual on Monday night.

A SHOP GIRL AND HER MILLIONAIRE.

"The Love Hour" Romance of Beauty and Money.

"The Love Hour," a Vitagraph production, begins a three-day engagement on Monday at the Royal Theatre. This is an original screen story written by Bess Meredyth, who did the 'Ben Hur' script, and directed by Herman Raymaker. It has been hailed by picture reviewers in other cities as one of the most amusing and dramatic productions of the season.

Huntly Gordon plays the hero, Rex Westmore, young, wealthy and bored, who falls a happy victim to the beauty and youth of Betty Brown, a shop girl.

Ruth Clifford, whose blond loveliness makes her appeal most convincing, plays Betty Brown; while Louise Fazenda, the clever comedienne, appears as her friend, Jennie Tibbs. Willard Louise is Gus Yerger, a prosaic, overfed suitor, who catches Jennie's vagrant fancy.

John Roche is the false friend of the husband, who gets the heroine into a dramatic situation. Charles Farrell, a newcomer to the screen, is the good-looking masher, whose flirtation with Betty is brought to an unhappy conclusion by Rex Westmore. Gayne Whitman is seen as an attorney who straightens out the tangled affairs of Betty and Rex.

FRANCOIS WONDER SHOW AT ROYAL THURSDAY.

The Great Francois, the same man who woke up the town with his blind fold drive through the streets and race at the Exhibition, will be at the Royal Thursday, Friday and Saturday next with his wonder show of five different acts:

Francois, master telepathist and mental marvel.

Resista, the 75-pound girl no man can lift.

Evelyn H. Braithwaite, dramatic soprano.

James Esplin, Scotch comedian.

Miss Decker, demonstration of suggestion and hypnotism.

Three days, both matinee and evening.

Struck down by a horned viper, whose sting is considered fatal, with no one to attend to him in his desert isolation except a physician who is his sworn enemy—can you see any chance of succor for the luckless Horace Pierpont.

Banish any thought of the nobility of mind on part of the doctor—he is drink-befuddled and, sensing an old love affair between his wife and his patient, he has only one instinct, and that is to exact revenge.

The outcome of this situation furnishes a tremendous surprise climax for "The Lady Who Lied," the new First National offering at the Capitol Theatre, commencing Monday.

The genius of Robert Hichens, noted novelist, whose tales of the Sahara are classics of literature, and whose "Snake Bite" forms the subject matter of the new play, is declared to have been preserved in every situation as transplanted to the screen.

Prominent in the cast assembled to interpret this unusual psychological drama are Lewis Stone, Virginia Valli and Nita Naldi.

Farflung locales form the background of the plot, with scenes of Algerian towns and desert, the picturesque carnival in Venice and its lagoons, and French Algiers as it lives at night among its extreme sites.

If anyone started to count the corpuscles in the blood of a man of average weight, counting at the rate of 100 a minute, day and night, it would take 285,000 years to complete the task.

SMALL BOY HURT BY AUTOMOBILE

Darted in Front of Moving Car Says Young Witness.

SKULL FRACTURED.

KITCHENER, Ont., Sept. 19. — (Canadian Press).—Teddy Czarny, four-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Czarny, is in the Kitchener and Waterloo Hospital in a decidedly precarious condition as the result of a motor accident near his home last night about six o'clock. The youngster, it is alleged by an 11-year-old witness of the accident, darted in front of a car driven by R. H. Fleischauer, and had his skull fractured. The injured lad was rushed to the hospital and operated on, but slight hopes are entertained for his recovery.

ExhibitionNotes

Appetite comes with eating. Ambition begets ambition. Nothing succeeds like success, and with the passing of the 30,000 mark the Directors of the Exhibition have lengthened their objective. Thirty-five thousand is now the aim of all officially connected with the show. Every citizen of Peterborough is asked to turn out tonight and help to swell the totals to a new record.

Two fine musical programmes from the Curve Lake Indian Band on Thursday and the 57th Regiment Band on Friday were given in the Bandstand at the George Street entrance. The 57th will give two programmes today.

To-night Eric Roberts will play several saxaphone solos at 8.30 in front of the Grand Stand.

Much interst has been aroused by the Military Rides of the Dragoons every evening of the Fair in front of the Grand Stand. Twenty local men, trained by Captain J. Abraham and Sergeant-Major Playford, stage a numbr of equestrian performances including a mimic cavalry charge. To-night at 8.30 the last ride of the Fair will take place.

First prize for any other variety of potatoes was won by Ben Fraser, Jackson Park, with Early Sunrise.

The burlesque military ride which forms one of the attractions before the grand stand at this year's Fair is in charge of Messrs. Jack Playford and James Abraham, who have gone to a good deal of trouble to get it in shape.

HARVEST FESTIVAL.

Salvation Army Temple Will Be Scene of Special Services.

Harvest Festival services at the Temple this week end will be conducted by Lt.-Col. and Mrs. Moore. Colonel and Mrs. Moore have been in charge of the Toronto East Division for several years, but are now under farewell orders, and are proceeding to Hamilton, to take care of that division.

Come and hear our visitors; bring your friends with you, and join with us in our Harvest Thanksgiving services. The Temple will be decorated appropriately.

MEIGHEN TALKS IN TWO HALLS IN CHARLOTTETOWN

Two Large Halls Crowded To Capacity To Hear Conservative Leader.

VOICE IS STRAINED.

Makes Predictions of Results Of Voting In Eastern Canada.

CHARLOTTETOWN, P. E. I., Sept. 19 (Canadian Press).—Instead of a single meeting, Rt. Hon. Arthur Meighen, Conservative leader, found two large halls crowded to capacity when he arrived in Charlottetown for his only Prince Edward Island engagement last night. Mr. Meighen, who was accompanied by Senator G. D. Robertson, former Minister of Labor, and Premier J. D. Stewart of Prince Edward Island, found difficulty in speaking at first, owing to the strain which the recent open air meetings have made on his voice.

Mr. Meighen predicted that the Liberals would lose heavily in the Maritimes, and that the Conservatives would gain perhaps 30 seats in Quebec. There was no possibility of a Liberal Government functioning without the assistance of Progressives for in the next parliament there are certainly going to be fewer Liberals."

"Indications are that they will have to rely on Progressives more than ever," the Conservative leader asserted.

17 GRAINS FROM NEW ONTARIO

Fine Samples of Each Variety Are Shown at Fair.

A collection of seventeen varieties of grain grown in New Ontario has been shown in the vegetable tent by Mr. Charls Kitney of North Monaghan, who visited friends in that section during August. "I never saw such crops of grain and hay as the clay belt produced this year," Mr. Kitney told The Examiner. "The quality was all like the grain I brought home; wheat, barley, rye, flax, and so on being of high grade. I got some of the samples at the experimental farm and the rest I gathered in fields as I went along." Mr. Kitney liked New Liskeard the best of the northern towns. While there, he was told of a machine for shelling green peas in the canning factory, but was unable to observe the details of its operation.

erborough. People who went to the grounds on the first night are going back tonight. Some have been there every night. Two ladies were heard to remark as they went home late last night that they had spent the whole evening from 7 o'clock at the Midway and would have to go back to-night to see the grand stand performance. There is so much to see that no one who has spent only one day at the Ex. can say he has seen it all.

So to-night's the night. It will be a matter for regret by any who miss an item in the Exhibition. When thirty thousand people approve the exhibits of livestock, grain, factory products, the seven big vaudeville acts, Al Sweet's band, the military ride, the seven big Midway rides, the fourteen sideshows, the half hundred games, the dog show, and the hundred and one other features that combine to make this the greatest show Peterborough has ever had—no citizen of the city can afford to miss a visit tonight.

Peterborough's Count

Because of the slack manner of counting in other fall fairs there has always been more or less of a doubt cast on the figures for attendance. This can be settled as far as Peterborough Industrial Exhibition is concerned, once and for all, by declaring that the count made public is on the word of the Directors the honest count. It represents paid admissions. And it does not include, as it really should, the entrances made on members' tickets. These tickets are sold at $2 each, entitling the holder to membership in the Association and to admission to the Fair. They represent, therefore, a certain number of paid admissions, but none are counted in the total published.

An example of the slack counting of other fairs is given in the two Kingston newspapers today. The Standard reports an attendance at Kingston fair of 8,000, while the Whig, referring to the same day, reports 10,000.

This cannot happen in Peterborough, wheer every paid admission registers automaticaly on a turnstile, and only this number is counted. The directors are to be complimented on installing a system like this that will make for honest comparison when adopted by other enterprising Fairs.

Q. M. HOSPITAL WAS DAMAGED

Nurses Received Quite A Shock When Lightning Hit

NO PATIENTS THERE.

The electrical storm of the night before last did a considerable amount of damage to the Isolation Hospital, which was struck by lightning during one of the most severe periods. The chimney was smashed and the electrical wiring and telephone equipments put out of order, with a total of about two hundred dollars' worth of damage done to the building. Fortunately no patients were in the wards, but Miss Price and her companions received quite a shock when the building was struck.

Wheat Prices Moved Up On Aggressive Buying.

Press. — Wheat prices jumped upward to-day after a down turn at the start. Houses with North Western connections, were on the selling side of the market early, but aggressive buying developed around 150 for December delivery. Fairly general rains likely to delay the crop movement were reported in the Canadian Northwest, and were influential as a motive to purchase. The opening, ¼c to 7-8 lower; December 150 to 150¼ and May 152 7-8 to 153 was followed by a sag to 149 7-8 for Dec., then by a rise which lifted that month to 151½.

Prices Move Upward In Brief Session Of Market.

NEW YORK, Sept. 19 (Canadian Press). — Supported by a growing outside demand for stocks, operators for a rise again succeeded in bidding up prices to to-day's brief but active session of the market. Cumulative evidence of business improvement and a plethora of funds available for both trade expansion and purchase of securities, created a bullish enthusiasm which was particularly pronounced in the demand for motors and public utilities.

Brazilian Leader On Strong Toronto Market.

TORONTO, September 19. Canadian Press. — A strong market characterized the closing session of an active week on the Toronto Stock Exchange this morning. The trend was generally upward though no very large gains were made. Brazilian as before, was the leader, and to-day registered an advance of 5-8 at 74 3-8.

KENTVILLE, Sept. 19 (Canadian Press)—"If father makes me go to school I will drown myself. You can look for me in the river, I won't be anywhere else," Edward Vidito, eleven year old Berwick boy confided to his brother on Wednesday morning. He disappeared from home a few hours later. Yesterday afternoon his lifeless body was found floating in the Cornwallis River at Waterville, near here, about eight miles from his home.

TO CONFER UPON SECURITY PACT

Date and Place Are Not Yet Fixed—Lugano is Likely Place.

WEST FRONT ONLY.

BERLIN, Sept. 19 (Canadian Press)—While the date and place of the ministers' conference on Germany's security pact offer remains to be fixed it is learned on best authority that the cabinet at a meeting Monday is most likely to decide upon October 5th at the date and probably Lugano, Switzerland, as the place. Only the proposed western front pact will be considered by Germany and it is expected the conference ought to be able to finish work within a week. If results are satisfactory a second conference could soon follow to deal with the questions of Germany's eastern border.

LABOR CAPTURES SOUTHPORT SEAT

Victory Over Tories Arousing Keen Concern Among Party Leaders.

LONDON, Sept. 19 (Special by United Press)—In wresting a seat in Southport by-election from the Tories, Labor has scored a victory over the Baldwin Government which today is arousing the keenest concern of the Tory party chieftains, for the Conservative candidate made his appeal to the electorate on the success so far with which the government has conducted the nation's affairs.

Keep Off The Poles

Warning to Parents

The Peterborough Utilities Commissioners desire to urge the parents of Peterborough to warn their children against the climbing of the system's poles. Apart from the danger of falling, the live wires on the poles make such attempts doubly hazardous to those who are not trained in handling electric wires.

The two recent disastrous accidents to young boys in the city of Toronto also emphasize the dangers of attempting to fly kites within the city. Apart from the interruptions to service and inconvenience to citizens caused by kites becoming entangled among electric wires, there is an element of danger to children who fly them, apart altogether from possibility of their being led to climb the poles with disastrous results.

The citizens are also hereby warned that it is dangerous to attach radio aerials and wires or apparatus of any description to the electric poles of the system. Not only is this dangerous to the citizens, but also the Commission's linemen in the performance of their duties.

EXHIBITION GAINS OBJECTIVE WITH CO-OPERATION OF PEOPLE AND HAS SIX THOUSAND OVER

Accomplishments Left No Disappointment For Officers and Directors.

SETS NEW PACE.

Aims Already at Increased Patronage and More Exhibits in 1926.

Peterboro's Exhibition closed its gates late Saturday night with a full attainment of all the objectives toward which its directors have been toiling for years.

The gate returns showed a total of 36,212 paid admissions, a figure that far exceeded the most sanguine expectations and hopes of President Denne, his fellow directors, and the people of the city and district who perhaps were just as eager as the executive for such a splendid record. This year's accomplishment left no disappointments. The exhibits in their quantity and quality, the amusement features, the smooth dove-tailing and functioning of all the arrangements, the satisfaction of the public, and finally the glorious weather, left the directors jubilant, of course, and somewhat bewildered by their surprising success, and beyond that they were manifestly subdued by a deep sense of gratitude for all the help they had received.

The attendance record for four years follows:

Day	1922	1923	1924	1925
1st	6,356	7,046	4,848	9,791
2nd	5,601	5,373	5,807	8,191
3rd	8,731	7,755	7,499	9,300
4th	5,676	5,976	8,886	8,930

BROTHERS FIGHT ONE IN HOSPITAL

Quarrel Over Girl Resulted in Fractured Skull For Alfred Munton.

WILLIAM IN JAIL.

TORONTO, Sept. 21. — (Canadian Press). — Alfred Munton, aged 21, of Toronto, is in Western Hospital with slight fracture at back of the skull as a result, police say of having been struck on the head with a milk bottle wielded by his brother, William E. The latter was arrested. The brothers quarrelled over a girl.

In the theatrical profession it has long been a popular belief or superstition that a "ragged' dress rehearsal will often result in a better show on the first night than if the final dress rehearsal runs too smoothly.

OBEDIENT DOG IS DYNAMITED

Runs After Master With Lighted Stick in His Mouth.

TURNS WHEN TOLD.

EMMET, Mich., Sept. 21. —(Canadian Press). —Frederick Short, a Wales township farmer ,owes his life to the fact that he taught his dog to be obedient. Short went into one of his fields yesterday to blast stumps and placed a stick of dynamite under a stump. Then he lighted a fuse and hastened away. He chanced to look back and saw his dog trotting just behind him, carrying the lighted dynamite in his mouth. The dog had been taught to return a stick that had been thrown and believed Short was playing with him. Realizing that the dynamite would explode within a few seconds, Short commanded the dog to take it back. The animal obediently turned and trotted towards the stump. When but a short distance away the dog was blown to pieces as the dynamite exploded.

NO PACT.

Rumors of a Progressive-Liberal election pact in Western Canada definitely were negatived recently by Hon. Robert Forke, leader of the Progressive group in the federal parliament.

Seven Names Proposed, But Others Withdrew in Favor of M.P.

J. W. KENNEDY SPOKE.

Mr. Brethen Says Meighen Tariff Policy Detrimental to Canada.

(By Examiner Staff Reporter)

MARMORA, Sept. 21.—G. A. Brethen, M.P., of Norwood, whose constituency of East Peterboro was one of the pawns and victims of redistribution, was the unanimous choice as the candidate of the Progressives of the new riding of Peterboro-Hastings at their convention here Saturday afternoon. Both parts of the new electoral district were well represented, and although they met as two strange groups, their mutual acquaintance and understanding developed quickly, and before the meeting had advanced far their coalition was complete.

Seven of those present, including one woman, were proposed for the leadership of the independents of the new riding, but one by one they declined, expressing the opinion that Mr. Brethen would prove a strong candidate because of his ability, his experience, his personality and his extensive knowledge of public affairs.

Those who were proposed for nomination were: Mrs. Jas. McCaffrey of Madoc township, E. N. McDonald of Dummer township, John McCaffrey, H. P. Hoover of Rawdon township, Gavin Wallbridge of Madoc village, James Caskey of Madoc township, and G. A. Brethen, whose farm is immediately north of Norwood.

Mr. Brethen's was the first name given to the meeting. He was proposed by John McCaffray and seconded by John Williamson of Norwood. Prior to that stage in the proceedings, these Progressives, thrown together as a result of redistribution, had organized themselves and the meeting and discussed at considerable length the question of whether or not they should enter the Federal campaign.

James Caskey was appointed chairman, E. N. McDonald, vice-president and B. C. Tucker of Rawdon township, secretary-treasurer.

In accepting the nomination Mr Brethen thanked the convention for the honor conferred upon him. It was, however, a great responsibility which he could not shoulder alone and single-handed. With the loyal support of the independent electors of the new riding on the farms and in the villages he promised to bend every effort for the success of the campaign in which he, for the second time, will carry the Progressive standard.

Mr. Brethen declared that he was more concerned about winning fairly than by victory itself. "I shall never win by any but fair means. Personally I rather like Mr. Meighen, and I believe he rather likes me. We have always been friendly at Ottawa, but when he takes a selfish political view of Canadian affairs I don't think it is in the best interests of the electors that his policy should come into effect. I believe it would be absolutely detrimental.

Of course there is the tariff issue placed before us, but the big issue is the reduction of taxes, and during the campaign I hope to show the electors how I have stood on this and other questions."

PRESIDENT DENNE'S MESSAGE TO-DAY

Perfectly Satisfied With Response of Directors and Public to Exhibition's Needs This Year—Growth Must Continue in Future Years, He Says

President Denne on behalf of the Exhibition Board gave the Examiner the following statement this morning:—"The Directors and myself are more grateful to the public than any words of ours can express. I have all along stressed the power of co-operation, and this year we received it from all sides so that the Exhibition attained a really splendid success. To the people of the city and district I wish to give my warmest thanks for their attendance. The crowds were an inspiration to us to go forward and make the Peterboro Exhibition greater than ever ,and worthy of this city as the leader in Eastern Ontario.

I wish to thank the exhibitors for the pains they went to in showing their stock and other products, but I would like to say that we want more exhibitors next year. That's what the Fair is for. I would like to see the young men coming out in greater numbers with their horses and cattle and other stock; and I hope the women will also take a greater interest next year so that we may look forward now to better things. And if our Exhibition steadily improves we may feel sure that the condition of agriculture in this district will also be improving.

The Directors are a little disappointed that the local merchants and manufacturers have shown a tendency in the last year or two to neglect their exhibits which used to be one of our features. There is room for improvement right here, and we appeal to them to co-operate with us to their best extent next year.

We are all grateful for the weather we had, and for the fact that the arrangements worked out without one complaint. We feel that the people are with us, and during the coming year we will do our best to strengthen that confidence. And we want them all to feel that we appreciate their sympathy with our objects.

AGREEMENT FOR LIGHT BEER HAS BEEN SUGGESTED

Tentative Negotiations Are Under Way Between Brewers and Dries.

LEGALIZE WINES.

Brewers Would Then Work Against Bootleggers and Hard Liquor.

NEW YORK, Sept. 21.—(Canadian Press).—The New York World says proposals for a compromise in the enforcement of national prohibition have been made by representatives of certain brewing interests to high officials of the Anti-Saloon League. The latter have not been altogether unfriendly to the idea, and the matter is now under tentative negotiations.

The propositions are: That the sale of light wines and beer of "non-intoxicating" alcoholic contents shall be legalized; (2) that in consideration of the tacit consent of the Anti-Saloon League to this, the brewers agree to lend all their support to the elimination of the bootlegger and the stopping of the illegal sale of whiskey and "hard" liquor.

LEAGUE COUNCIL SOUNDLY SCORED BY NEWSPAPERS

London Papers Accuse It of Shifting Its Responsibility

GRAVE RISKS.

Has Created Possibility of War Between Britain and Turkey.

LONDON, Sept. 21. — (Canadian Press). — The Council of the League of Nations to-day is sharply scored by the Times and several other London newspapers for the decision on Saturday to refer the dispute between Great Britain and Turkey over the Mosul region of Mesopotamia to the World Court of Justice at The Hague. These adverse critics accused the Council of the League of Nations of shifting its responsibility. They charge it with having, by postponement of the settlement of the dispute for three months, created a situation full of possibility of bringing about an ugly disaster — in short, to have created grave risk of war between Great Britain and Turkey.

What Is the Use of An Army If You Can't Fight? Japanese Diet Member Would Beat Guns Into Plows

TOKIO, Sept. 21. — (United Press). — Declaring that Japan spends too much money on the Army and Navy, Yukio Ozakia, prominent opposition member of the Diet, told the United Press that Japan was facing a financial panic that would shake the entire nation.

"Why do we spend so much on the Army and Navy?" he queried. "Whom are we going to fight? Nobody. There is no use spending vast sums of money on our Army now. We would use it only against China or Russia, even if we were to have war, and that idea is to be sure impossible."

Ozakia foresaw that after the predicted panic, Japan would undergo a complete economic re-adjustment. People would be compelled to spend less on their general living and Japan would grow as an industrial nation.

Farmers, he said, were suffering partly because they did not have modern machinery such as America had.

C. H. ACKERMAN WILL ACCEPT NOMINATION IN CONVENTION

Announces To-day That the Conservative Party Will Have Choice to Make.

SAYS NO SPLIT.

No Personal Rivalry Involved, But Many Urge Him to Run.

Charles H. Ackerman to-day told The Examiner that he will be a candidate for nomination at the Conservative Association convention on Wednesday, and if accorded the support of the party there he will contest the riding with Hon. G. N. Gordon, Minister of Immigration and Colonization.

Saturday's announcement by E. A. Peck that he would accept nomination was taken in most quarters as signifying the general desire of the Conservative party locally. Mr. Ackerman explains that there is nothing in the way of ill-will between himself and Mr. Peck, nor does his determination to oppose Mr. Peck in the convention signify a split in the West Peterborough Association. Only a good healthy spirit of progress, Mr. Ackerman says, is shown by his determination. He has been approached by a number of people who urge him to stand for nomination.

Ashes Scattered When Boys Obtained Funeral Urns

KEARNEY, N.J., Sept. 21.—(United Press). — Three boys carrying five urns were observed scattering the contents of one of the receptacles along the road. Investigation developed that the urns contained the ashes of five former residents. Further investigation is expected to determine how the urns were obtained.

THE MEN WHO MADE THE EXHIBITION

Sixty-Odd Citizens of City and County Combined in Effort to Put Over Greatest of Peterborough Exhibitions—All Workers and All Boosters.

Their names have appeared before, but too much credit cannot be given the men who sponsored and made successful the 23rd annual Peterborough Industrial Exhibition. The Deputy Minister of Agriculture said of President Roland Denne that it was easy to account for the success for the Fair, because the President gets down to detail work just like his directors. That is true of all the officers, too. First President Reg. Turner was here, there, and everywhere, filling in wherever needed. Second Vice-President T. McIndoo stood his turn at the gates, and only fell down once, when he let past two little children on an adult ticket, knowing he could not turn it in, and then paid their admission price. Secretary F. J. A. Hall worked steadily from Tuesday until Saturday night, and there are some who say he couldn't have slept more than three hours a night and covered the ground he did. His work is not finished yet, there being prize lists to complete and returns to make out. Treasurer C. S. Cummer's is an important post, and this year with thousands more admissions than ever before it was doubly arduous. Superintendent Tom Brown was everybody's assistant. Whoever wanted anybody was referred to Mr. Brown, and at any given moment he knew where any of the officers could be found. F. Holmes lived among his figures, as usual. He had probably the happiest job of them all—telling the directors hour by hour that they had more admission to grounds and grand stand than ever before.

Even the Honorary Directors, who might have been expected to stalk around the grounds on the strength of their past achievements, took a hand in the work. County Warden H. B. Rye was seen on sentry-go at the gate. Mayor J. J. Turner enthused outside the gate and radiated good cheer inside the grounds, inducing people to come and making those who came think they wanted to come again.

SUFFERS A STROKE AT MOTHER'S GRAVE

Harry Anderson Stricken in Millbrook, Died on Sunday Morning.

MILLBROOK Sept. 21. — Mr. Harry Anderson, of Chicago, who came here to attend his mother's funeral on Saturday, suffered a stroke of paraiysis at the graveside, was hurried to the Port Hope Hospital, and expired early on Sunday morning. Deceased was an uncle of Mrs. Alan Mitchell, of Milbrook. He was between fifty and sixty years of age. Mrs. Anderson's funeral took place from the home of her granddaughter, Mrs. A. Mitchell, Tupper Street, interment being in the Canton cemetery.

RAYMOND AGAIN LIBERAL CHOICE

Hon. G. N. Gordon Explains Immigration in Relation To Railways.

AT BRANTFORD.

BRANTFORD, Sept. 21.—(Canadian Press).—W. G. Raymond, former M.P., was on Saturday evening named Liberal candidate for the riding of Brantford. But one other name was placed in nomination, that of Reg. Scarf, president the Liberal Association, who at once withdrew his name and the nomination of Mr. Raymond unanimously followed.

Mr. Raymond declared that M. M. MacBride, M.L.A., would not be Conservative candidate, but that his choice would, since his wing controlled the Conservative party here.

Hon. G. N. Gordon, the new Minister of Immigration, was the principal speaker. Replying to the comment in the Globe with respect to his silence while the President of the C.P.R. announced the Government's immigration scheme from the city of Edmonton, Mr. Gordon declared that an agreement had been entered into with the C.N.R. and the C.P.R., but there was no intention of allowing an inrush of immigration. It was proposed to allow only industrial workers from Europe to come here in search of employment, until the industrial position here had so improved as to absorb all Canadian labor.

WEATHER

This is St. Matthew's Day, the first day of Autumn, the time when the day and night are equal, when the sun rises in the true astronomical east and sets in the true west. If you desire to know where the true west is, watch the setting sun this evening (if it should be uncloud) it may upset your preconceived idea of where the true west is. This is also the period of the so-called equinoctial storms. Perhaps the severe electrical storm of a few nights ago should be given that distinction, and the high wind of last night. The rainfall this month already totals over five inches, and a period of dry weather is needed. Much grain still remains to be put under cover. Sunday had a temperature of 81 degrees. High temperatures will also be a thing of the past, and before long the forest trees will take their brilliant and vari-colored robes suitable to the Autumn season.—W.

BRIGHTON FAIR AGAIN SUCCESS

Interesting Exhibits and Good Trotting Drew a Big Crowd.

RECEIPTS $453.

(By a Staff Reporter.)

BRIGHTON, September 21. — As C. C. Fiddick, secretary-treasurer of the Brighton Agricultural Society, snapped a rubber band around a plethoric roll of bills Saturday evening while the crowd was leaving the Fair grounds, he announced that the receipts for the day were practically the same as last year, and that $453 had been taken in at the gate. Brighton Fair may not be among the big ones of the district but the directors never fail to provide attractions that always draw a crowd. The village is outside of the stock raising and dairying industries of the county, the land owners specializing in fruit, and for that reason the classes of exhibits at the annual fair are different.

Carman Baker, whose home is with in the corporate limits, and who this year is Reeve of the village, owns one of the finest herds of Holsteins in Central Ontario, but he keeps them for production and not for the show ring. Even if he did bring some of his best specimens to the Brighton Fair he would have no opposition.

Some Stock Exhibitors.

There were however some fine live stock brought in from the townships that are noted for their horses, sheep and cattle.

Reeve Harry Bedel of Murray Township, is one of the few farmers in the district who pins his faith to the Jersey cow, as the dairyman's best investment, and he had a fine herd on exhibition here on Saturday, carrying off all the prizes in this class.

W. J. Cowan, the well known breeder of Percheron horses at Codrington, had ten of these animals in the ring, representing the classes from spring colts to working horses. His record for the day was a first prize for every one of his horses shown and in addition to these he carried off two special prizes.

Prizes for Sheep.

J. G. Honey of Roseneath had 20 sheep of different ages and breeds in the pens, and besides carrying off 11 first prizes, from the silver cup for the best dam of any age or breed and the specials for the best ewe and ram lambs. On the previous day at the Frankford Fair Mr. Honey had been equally successful.

George Hutchinson and Son, sheep breeders near Warkworth, had 12 exhibits, and for these they won ten firsts and two second prizes, exactly the same number that they carried away from the Frankford Fair. The son at the same time was showing sheep and poultry at the Peterboro Fair.

Another prize winner with sheep and poultry was C. H. Curtis, of Warkworth.

District Representative W. H. Smith, of Brighton, had his handsome five-year old stallion on exhibition, the sire he brought in to improve the type of heavy horses in the district, and was awarded first prize.

Ray Atkin, district representative, of Stirling, was judge of heavy horses.

The Races.

As usual the race track was the centre of interest and a good bill was provided, with three races, in which 12 good horses took part. George O. Tice, of Belleville, was starter, Thomas Cheer, of Brighton and J. D. Henderson, of Smithfield, were judges, and H. McCleary of Percy, held the stop watch.

Havelock Horse Wins.

Charlie Armstrong's horse, Mack R, the pacer that races without hobles, was the winner of the free-for-all event, taking the last three heats in a row, after finishing second in the first. The horses that went against him were South Dakotah Maid, owned by J. Vasseau, of Trenton, Roy Mack, the well known gray campaigner, now owned by S. Watson of Cobourg, and J. C., I. Waters, Port Hope. The latter won the first heat and second money, Roy Mack, finished second in the free-for-all heat, close to Mack R, being winner of third money, with South Dakotah Maid first. Best time, 2.29 1-4.

The 2.30 Race.

The entries in the 2.30 race were Lulu Brooks, J. Vasseau, Trenton; Bertha Todd, owned by J. McNaught, of Tweed, Butcher Girl, Stacey of Wooler, Lillian Patch, S. Watson, Cobourg, and Cy Winger, S. Blewett, Peterborough. It took five heats to decide this race. After Lillian Patch had won the first two, Lulu Brooks the third and Bertha Todd the fourth, the three started in the fifth, Bertha Todd finishing first, Lulu Brooks second and Lillian Patch second. Bertha Todd was given the race, Lillian Patch taking second and Lulu Brooks third money. In the fourth heat Lulu Brooks led up the home stretch but lost to Bertha Todd by going into the air when within two lengths of the wire. Best time 2.29 1-4.

The Green Race.

The entries for the green race were: Janette Tayor, W. Amment, Cobourg; Hal Direct, H. Dunn, of Wooler, and Bourbon Boy, the name of the latter not being given.

While the horses were scoring for the first heat of this race the driver of Hal Direct was thrown from his bike and the horse, taking the outside of the track, started to run, but was tripped up by his hobbles, and turned a complete somersault. Neither driver, horse or bike was injured and Hal Direct won the race in straight heats, with Bourbon Boy second and Janette Taylor third. This was a half mile race and the best time made was 1.14.

A RECORD FAIR.

Exceeding the attendance objective set by the directors by 6,212 and the best previous mark by 9,172, the Peterborough Industrial Exhibition came to a triumphal close on Saturday night.

The city and district had been asked to make the attendance 30,000 people; the total reached was 36,212.

This, it should be understood, was the actual paid attendance, and does not include membership tickets or passes.

President Denne and his directors are naturally elated at this remarkable showing, a concrete demonstration of the fact that the whole community is now behind the Industrial Exhibition.

This year's Exhibition was undoubtedly the best all round fair that Peterborough has ever known, recognized by the thousands who thronged the grounds last week and the favourable advertising that will be obtained from the good things said about the Peterborough Industrial by visitors from far and near will be reflected in an even larger attendance next year.

Already the 1926 Exhibition is being planned; the management has no intention of letting the grass grow under their feet and when September of next year arrives a bigger programme than ever may be counted upon, accompanied by improvements to the grounds and a possible extension of the Exhibition to a week's fair.

A "BIG LEAGUE" FAIR.

Few of the thousands of Exhibition visitors who watched the vaudeville programme in front of the grand stand, listened to the music of Al. Sweet's band, or wandered along the midway or through the buildings stopped to realize how much was involved in bringing together so many features of interest.

The Peterborough Industrial Exhibition has, of course, gone a long way in advance of the old standard and this can be illustrated by a statement of where some of the headliners seen here are to be found this week.

Al. Sweet and his band left early yesterday morning for Nashville, Tenn., the Boyd and Linderman carnival is now in Woodstock, Ont., the De Libberts Brothers, European acrobats, are in Springfield, Mass., the La Noles, trapeze performers are in Travers City, Indiana, and the Apollo trio an' Feen, the clown policeman will entertain Lindsay crowds this week.

These big feature acts made long journeys to Peterborough and now are scattered over the continent.

The Peterborough Exhibition has become, to use a baseball phrase, a "big league affair" to which attractions from far and near are brought.

The judge of the dog show came from New York. Some of the canines he looked over were from as far away as Vancouver. The judges of poultry and livestock were from all parts of the province, while the exhibits in these departments were from many different points.

Exhibition specialists who were drawn here by the growing fame of the local exhibition were representatives of the Ottawa Exhibition and of the Lockport, N.Y. Fair and J. B. Hay, publicity agent of the Canadian National Exhibition.

BENEFITS FROM THE EXHIBITION.

Much has been said about the amusement end of the Peterboro Industrial Exhibition, of its success as an entertainment and spectacle, but now that the big fair is over for another year, what has been accomplished by this year's Exhibition and its predecessors.

What lasting benefits have been brought about by the Peterboro Industrial?

These are questions that may honestly be asked, because if there are no permanent and beneficial results the Exhibition, popular as it proved last week, has not served its primary purpose.

Fortunately, such results can be reported.

The Exhibition has undoubtedly done much to improve the general quality of the livestock in this district.

Judges, breeders, agricultural representatives, all agree that in the past fifteen years there has been a very marked improvement shown.

There was a time when the farmers of the district feared to enter their stock in classes where outside competition was to be expected. That condition no longer exists.

Peterborough farmers are ready to match their stock with any that comes along.

The Peterborough Industrial Exhibition can claim credit to a large extent for this marked improvement in the quality of livestock throughout the district.

The education value, too, of the judging contests for young farmers and young girls, a feature of the Exhibition in recent years cannot be overestimated.

Interest is increasing and the young men and young women of the countryside are being benefitted by these competitions.

In other departments the same story is told, the spirit of competition causing a friendly rivalry that blossoms out into finer stock and better farming.

The Peterborough Industrial Exhibition has grown into a huge entertainment festival but wisely the agricultural side has not been neglected.

WORKING SEVENTY-FIVE YEARS FOR ONE DOLLAR.

Much has been heard of the value of Canada's natural resources, but sometimes an incident crops up which creates the impression that we do not recognise their value in dollars and cents when their development is being considered.

One incident of this nature recently came to the attention of the Natural Resources Intelligence Service of the Department of the Interior.

It concerned the sale of a number of birch trees in a forested area, where the purchaser desired the wood of these trees only.

No tree under ten inches was to be cut, while the diameters of those to be removed ranged from the minimum of twenty-eight inches.

These trees had been growing for from fifty to one hundred years, they had struggled against intense competition for light and moisture, they had seen their competitors droop and die from being cut off by their neighbors from sunlight, they had withstood the winds and storms of all seasons, and had reached a stat of maturity where their wood content was coveted by industry.

When the time came for their disposal, however, the struggles of these trees were forgotten.

They went to the block and were sold as they stood for one dollar each.

Seventy-five years growing and then to bow their majestic heads for one dollar each, was surely small compensation for a long life-time of struggle.

And yet, this may not be the only return to those age-old trees.

As the rough diamond, after the work of the master cutter has given it its best appearance, may repose at the throat of the society queen, so may the lordly birch, after preparation in the Canadian workshop, reflect back the image of the debutante when used in the construction of her majesty's dressing table—sometimes in its natural state, or when suitably coloured, as beautiful mahogany.

EMIGRANTS AND DOLE.

Great Britain is greatly worried by the decrease in the number of emigrants to the imperial dominions. Even the emigration boom to Australia has died down, and it is found that those who are venturing overseas are for the most part old men, "not yet demoralized by the dole," as the report expresses it. The dole and emigration are inseparably linked together. It is nor at all surprising that those who are guaranteed an income, sufficient at least to keep body and soul together, in the event of unemployment overtaking them, should hesitate to transfer themselves to countries which make no such provision. There is a tendency to criticize them for lack of spirit and enterprise, but their action is very natural. They receive the dole as a right and it is an unfailing protection against distress for themselves and their families. If they prefer to "bear the ills they have" rather than to "fly to others they know not of," who can blame them? Added to this is the distinct discouragement coming from this side of the ocean. Australia prepared a welcome for the newcomers and offered strong inducements to them, in the way of financial aid. For a time, at any rate, the commonwealth got results. Canada while officially active in securing suitable British immigrants, of the agricultural type, has had its efforts largely nullified by adverse propaganda in this country and in Britain itself. But, with the keenest desire to come, it is not possible for the majority of these people, who are in receipt of the dole, to make the venture. It is a question of expense. To begin with, there is the initial cost of the Atlantic journey. Bishop Bidwell compares the rates to Canada—a trip of little more than a week's duration—with those to Australia and New Zealand, taking four times as long. How has it been found possible to transport emigrants to the antipodes for considerably less money than it takes to carry them to Canada?

The tragedy of the situation is that Canada badly needs the extra population and has plenty of room for it and a surplus of facilities for its accommodation. The question of debt and taxation in this Dominion can only be settled by bringing in more people to pay it. The railway problem is bound up with the success or non-success of immigration schemes. The results so far obtained, at a comparatively heavy expenditure—the Government spent about $3,800,000 on immigration last year and the railway companies probably spent an equal amount—are ludicrous. It is costing Canada a great deal of money to bring out a mere handful of settlers and, in the meantime, Britain has nearly a million and a half of unemployed, costing the country hundreds of millions of dollars annually in relief pay. Many of these unemployed workers would be very glad to come out to this country, are genuinely anxious to work and to establish themselves and their families in an independent position. They need training in some cases, and in practically all cases need financial assistance. It is obviously a case of the Mother Country and the dominions getting together to see what can be done. The money at present spent to little or no purpose could be put to efficient use in a well-devised scheme of imperial migration.

Certain it is that things cannot drift on in the present aimless way indefinitely. Canada could do what the United States has done in the way of national development, if the task were attacked with sufficient courage and vigor. This question of population is the biggest which confronts Canadian statesmanship. We are losing our native-born citizens and we are not getting the inflow of British subjects which we have every right to expect. During the present election campaign the question of immigration should assume a position of dominance in all the political discussions. The money spent in this country on ineffective immigration efforts, coupled with the enormous sums spent in Britain on unemployment pay, would be amply sufficient to establish desirable settlers here and give them a good start.—Hamilton Spectator.

EDITORIAL NOTES AND COMMENT.

36,212—that is the answer of the city and district to the appeal, "Let us make it 30,000 in 1925."

Both the Exhibition and the people made good, and the Examiner congratulates both.

Next year the slogan will doubtless be "40,000 in 1926"—and the fame won by the 1925 Exhibition should make it an easy task.

And now for the election campaign. "The time has come," the walrus said, "to talk of many things."

So many people have said that this year's Exhibition was the best yet that the Directors are almost prepared to admit it.

The Peterboro Exhibition is at last a community affair with public support firmly behind the enterprise.

A THOUGHT.

MANY BLANK SPACES

When you have an exceptionally hard job, finish it. Put it away until the next day, and then go through it once more. You cannot help making it a little better, and you may discover some very consequential weakness.

To try to solve a distressing business problem when you are still suffering the fatigue of a strenuous day is like trying to sweep a floor with a bare broom handle or hoe a garden with a horsewhip. Your mind will work in jerks and jabs and leave too many blank spaces.

ExhibitionNotes

Five herds of accredited cattle comprising 84 head were shown at the Exhibition in the barns set apart exclusively for them. Accredited herds are those which have passed the tuberculin test, and so rigid is their protection that those at the "Ex" were alloted a separate drinking trough.

And the total number of dairy cattle this year was 186, according to the report of W. R. Shields, who pointed out that the number was not only bigger than ever, but that the quality was high and there was keen competition in every class. In short the dairy cattle committee composed of Mr. Shields, T. D. Young, W. Steinkrauss, M. Geary, W. Roseborough, J. T. O'Connell, Weston Fallis and C. Mann were delighted with the success of their department.

Weston Fallis was chairman of the sheep committee, and one of the notable features that came to his attention were the big prices received for two sheep by J. R. Kelsey of Woodville. He sold his second and third prize rams to MacDonald College, Quebec, and the Kemptville Agricultural College, respectively, for $100 each. And his first prize imported ram cost £42 in the old country. Quality brings price, was Mr. Fallis' comment.

The little wards of the Children's Aid Society and St. Vincent's Orphanage spent a bewildering afternoon of excitement Saturday, as a result of the thoughtfulness of Mr. Art Costello and the assistance of President Denne and Messrs. Boyd and Linderman of the midway. Mr. Costello proposed the idea to members of the Knights of Columbus who gladly supplied cars for children of both institutions. They had free entry to all the rides and shows, they were liberally provided with ice cream, soft drinks and other sweets, and they saw the vaudeville performance at the grandstand. "It was a pleasure and a privilege to have been able to give the boys and girls an outing", said Mr. Costello. "If all the directors had seen the gleam in those youngsters' eyes they would have had an extra satisfaction in this year's success."

CATTLE, GRAIN AND PRODUCE

CHICAGO GRAIN

CHICAGO, Sept. 19 (Canadian Press).—Sellers outgeneralled buyers in the grain markets today, but chiefly so as to other cereals than wheat. The fact that wheat prices were on about an import basis for wheat from Canada gave something of an advantage to the selling side of the wheat market. Meanwhile, corn, oats and rye lacked support, and all three went down below previous bottom prices for the season. After numerous changes within a limit of 2 1-2 cents, wheat closed easy at the same as yesterday's finish to 5-8c lower, December $1.50 1-2 to $1.50 5-8, and May $1.53 1-8 to $1.53 1-4, with corn 3-4 to 2 3-4c down, oats 1-4c off and provisions unchanged to $1 higher.

It was almost an even contest throughout the day in the wheat market, with the Northwest doing most of the selling and the East the bulk of the buying. The selling broadened out in volume whenever the market bulged, and the process was reversed on declines. It was asserted that milling demand had spent its force for at least the time being, and this circumstance served to stimulate selling. Besides, considerable notice was taken of reports that a cargo of 295,000 bushels of wheat was loaded at Duluth for Chicago yesterday, and that another cargo is expected to arrive here on Tuesday. Rains and colder weather likely to retard threshing and the crop movement in Canada served to encourage much of the wheat buying here. On the other hand, current advices indicated that the Canadian crop movement so far had been the largest ever known for this early in the season.

Corn was depressed by enlarged country offerings and by the fact that some corn in elevators here was reported as being out of condition. Oats sympathized with corn. There was virtually no call for rye.

Foreign buying of meats gave a lift to the provision market and so, too, did better demestic demand for lard.

MONTREAL GRAIN

MONTREAL, Sept. 21.—The export trade in Canadian grain on the Montreal market Saturday was again very quiet, and private cable advices stted that sales of No. 1 Northern wheat for October-November shipment were made at 11s. 3d. per quarter. The enquiry here from New York exporters for wheat was fair at 15 cents per bushel over the Winnipeg October option for No. 1 Northern, c.i.f., with sellers asking 15 1-2 cents over for now loading position, and 14 1-2 cents per bushel over was bid for first-half November shipment with offerings at 15 cents over, while No. 3 Northern sold at 10 1-2 cents over.

The trade in oats on spot was quiet, the demand being only for odd cars, but as offerings of Ontario and Quebec grades were small, a steady feeling prevailed in the market, with sales of No. 2 white at 50 1-2 to 51 cents, and No. 3 white at 48 1-2 to 49 cents per bushel, ex-track.

Prices for all grades of flour were well maintained under a good demand, both from local and export sources.

The market for millfeed was without any new feature to note, prices were unchanged with a steady trade passing. Standard grades of rolled oats were steady.

The butter market was quiet and steady. A fair amount of business was transacted in cheese and prices continued firm under a good demand, the egg market continued strong.

Beans were steady at $2.40 to $2.50 per bushel.

STERLING RATES

MONTREAL, Sept. 21 (Canadian Press). — Sterling exchange rates were quoted here Saturday as follows:

Sterling demand $4.84 1-8.
Sterling cables $4.84 5-8.

AL SWEET OFF TO TENNESSEE

Director of Exhibition Band Delighted With Peterboro' and Its People.

"Crowds are much the same all over" philosophized Al Sweet in a conversation with The Examiner at the Empress Saturday night. "Monday we shall be in Nashville, Tenn., for an engagement, but wherever we go on either side of the border we don't notice much difference in the people. Most of us are from the same parent stock, we dress alike, and look alike and we have so many similarities, so many things in common that we hardly notice any difference when we come into Canada. This is the first time I have come east, and I sincerely mean it when I say that we hope it will not be the last. By the way, J. K. Paisley, secretary and manager of the Ottawa Exhibition, heard us here this week and booked for next year. They are extending their Fair two weeks, Mr. Paisley told me, and it may be that we shall be back again in Peterboro.

One thing that has struck me in playing to Canadian audiences, and that is they respond more quickly to our music. I can feel them when they are with us, and we certainly noticed their liking for singing. Most of my bandsmen are college graduates. I give them a preference because of the fact that at college the musical student usually belong to a glee club and learns to sing. That is a special asset, and then too they are a fine type of men. Most of my bandsmen are ex-service men except a few who are married and because of family ties did not get into the army. But the others were all in it."

As a composer of music, Mr. Sweet has had quite a number of successes. Some of them were songs and marches written during the war. Another was "Prohibition Blues" which the late Bert Williams sang for the Columbia records.

Asked as to how he found time to devote to writing music, the genial "Al" answered that any person can get extra time if the desire is strong enough. "When I'm travelling I usually take a pad and scribble away at musical ideas that come to me. Some men like to play cards on the train, but writing music is my diversion. Afterwards I whip it into shape if the idea impresses me as worth while."

Musicians of the Irving Berlin and George M. Cohan type pound out their tunes on a piano, but musicians who have a thorough education require no instrument on which to work out their problems.

Mr. Sweet highly praised the directors he had met. They had shown him every kindness and from the very first day he had felt that the Peterboro men were almost old friends.

A donkey can eat thistles without harming the inside of his mouth or threat because his mouth is lined with a particularly tough membrane. This enables him to crush the spines and thorns with impunity.

While Prince of Wales, the future sovereign can visit the House, but once he has ascended the throne he can no longer do so. OPEN LETTER NO. 8

RT. HON. W. L. MACKENZIE KING,
Prime Minister and President of the Privy Council,
Ottawa.

Dear Sir:

Some nations make themselves rich and populous by taking materials, that are themselves of little or no value, and fashioning them into articles of great value by the application of labor and ingenuity.

A piece of clay is worth nothing, but when converted into a piece of artistic pottery, it may easily sell for several dollars! A piece of pig iron is worth little more than the piece of clay, but when converted into watch springs it is worth a fortune!

Canada has a great abundance of materials that she is selling mainly as raw materials, thereby enabling other countries to profit at her expense.

She is selling her forest products in the form of pulp, or as logs, timber and rough lumber, when she might be selling a much larger proportion of them as paper, or as highly finished articles of wood.

She is letting United States millers take her hard wheat, and make it into flour to supply their own and foreign markets, when she might be supplying those markets herself by doing all the grinding in her own mills.

She is inviting United States manufacturers to help themselves to her ores, so that they can make them into metal products to sell back to her, when she might be making them into metal products herself and forcing the United States consumer to buy from her.

As long as Canada pursues that policy she is blinding herself to her opportunities—stunting her own growth. She is like a driver trying to run his car in low gear with the brake clamped on, wondering the while why all the other cars on the road are sailing past him.

Other nations, being deficient in those materials, must buy either the materials themselves or the products made from the materials. They prefer to buy the former, and employ their own labor in manufacturing for their own requirements. So they bluff Canada into selling them the materials, by putting high duties on the products made from the materials

All Canada needs to do to call their bluff is to put high duties on the finished products that other countries sell her, or hope to sell her—then tender or await an invitation to bargain!

Canada, for instance, may have only a limited market for paper within her own borders, but she can purchase export markets for several times the amount of paper she is making by treating her own market, for the things she doesn't manufacture, as a series of concessions to be exchanged with the countries offering her the best exchanges in return.

You made a good start on a commendable policy when you negotiated the recent trade treaty with Australia. Why not do more astute bargaining for Canada? Why not make it your business to secure for her, in full measure, the advantages incidental to the employment of more capital and more labor, to which she is fairly entitled by virtue of her possession of key materials that are in such world-wide demand?

Yours respectfully,

J. J. GIBBONS,

The Peterborough Lumber Co. featured two exhibits — Harwood Flooring and Gyproc. Examples of flooring of birch, maple and oak were on view, all beautifully polished. Specimens of Gyproc fireproof wallboard were shown with a fine finish of Alabastine, wall paper, alapaint, oil, paint, and Muresco. Gyproc is the gypsum which is mined in the North, and is ground into a plaster and sheathed, to be used as a substitute for lumber, being used extensively in garages and summer cottages. Its decorative possibilities are unlimited.

HOT CONTEST IN FREE-FOR-ALL AT EXHIBITION

Five Heats Were Necessary Before Silk Line Was the Winner.

SET BACK ONCE.

Heat Was Awarded to Jim Todd Jr.—Armadale Was Surprise.

There was plenty of excitement in the Free-for-All race at the Exhibition on Saturday, and five heats were necessary before Silk Line drew down first money. Armadale, Johnston's veteran pacer, which had been in the stable all year suffering from lameness, was the surprise of the race. The old horse took the first heat and led in the second to the three-quarter mark. He broke then, and all three horses passed him, Silk Line winning with Jim Todd Junior second.

Silk Line took the lead from the start in the third heat and held it, although Jim Todd threatened him in the stretch. In the fourth, Todd and Armadale broke in front of Silk Line, but the Blewett horse overhauled the pair and entered the stretch in the lead. A swerve in front of Jim Todd resulted in the judges summoning the four drivers to the stand, and it was then announced that Jim Todd had been awarded the heat and Silk Line set back to second place. This made another heat necessary, which Silk Line won.

The last heat, won by Armadale, was the fastest at 2.14 1-4. Silk Line took the next at 214 1-2 while the next three heats were all run at 2.15 1-4.

HOUSE DAMAGED DURING STORM

Residence of Hiram Fallis Was Split Open at One Corner

NOBODY HURT.

MILLBROOK, Sept. 21. — Mr. Hiram Fallis' home on Fallis Line was struck by lighting during the storm in the early hours of Friday morning, a chimney being demolished, quite an area of plaster stripped off in one room, and one corner of the house, which is a frame building split apart so daylight could be seen through the opening. The telephone wires were also burned out. Fortunately the inmates escaped injury.

NARROW ESCAPE FOR BICYCLIST

Franklin Linton Was Saved By Quick Work of John R. Allen.

WINDOW SMASHED.

CAMPBELLFORD, Sept. 21. — Franklin, son of Fred Linton of the firm of Linton Brothers, had a narrow escape from serious injury if not death on Saturday. He owes his escape to the presence of mind of John R. Allan, who in order to save the boy, placed his own life in danger.

Franklin was riding his bicycle close behind an auto that was going north on Front Street. When opposite H. Cubitt's shoe shop, to which he had been sent on an errand, Franklin turned sharply to the left, failing to notice John R. Allan, who was coming from the opposite direction, and who could not possibly have seen the boy until he turned out from behind the other auto. Seeing that there were no pedestrians on the way, Mr. Allan swung his car onto the sidewalk directly in front of Mr. Cubitt's store, the boy on the bicycle also making a quick turn to avoid a collision.

Mr. Allan applied the brake, but the car wheels slipped on the south sidewalk, and plunged into the shoe shop, carrying everything before it. The entire front of the building was knocked out, door and plate glass window, and the counter across the room in front of the window was sent flying to a partition in the rear and this, too, was almost demolished. For a while the air was filled with flying splinters, soes that had been on the counter and fragments of glass. Fortunately there was no one in the front room when the accident happened, Mr. Cubitt being at work in the rear shop at the time. The front wheels of the car when it was finally stopped were about three feet inside the shop.

Some of those who witnessed the accident said that Mr. Allan took the only course possible in order to avoid a tragedy. They said, too, that the boy whoe life was in danger, did everything in his power to save himself by turning his bicycle to the left.

Mr. Allan assured Mr. Cubitt that the latter would be put to no loss by the accident. The building belongs to E. Hubble.

LONG PULL MADE IN DRAWING CONTEST

Winning Team in Event For Light Horses Pulled Load 189 Feet.

A. Patterson's black team pulled 5,000 pounds of iron on a stone boat a distance of 189 feet, 9 inches at the Exhibition on Saturday and won the drawing competition for light horses, beating W. Millen's team by over 22 feet. Four teams competed in the event while one other had to be rejected because the team weighed an even 2,900, and the rules called for under that weight. The names of the owners and the distances pulled in four minutes are.

B. Cunningsham, 110 feet, 4 inches
O. Kelly, 89 feet, 10 inches.
W. Millen, 167 feet, 2 inches.

PROPHETS CAN'T FIGURE VOTE OF PROHIBITIONISTS

Many Are Pledged To Take An Active Part in Every Election.

VOTES PLEDGED.

Will Vote Only For Men Known as Strict Prohibitionists.

CAMPBELLFORD. Sept. 21 — There is another element in Northumberland County besides the Progressives, that is keeping the political prophets figuring these days, and that is the Temperance party, for party it can be called, seeing that it is supposed to be organized on the same lines as both the Conservatives and Liberals. The branch of the Ontario Prohibition Union, of which Rev. J. W. Wilson, of Brighton, is president, stands committed by the membership pledge, to take an active part in every election, Federal, Provincial or Civic, and to support only those candidates who will promise to the cause of prohibiton. This year, however, the temperance people who have joined the union go a step further, and have obligated themselves to vote, regardless of politics, only for the man who is a prohibitionist, something more than in theory, a man, whose reputation as a total abstainer, is firmly established in the community. The latter provision, if strictly enforced, would result in the withdrawal of temperance support from a large percentage of the candidates who face the electors in Ontario. In Northumberland County it would work to the detriment of others, and for that reason a strict interpretation of the clauses is likely to cause a halt from the ranks of the temperance party.

Situation in Campbellford.

Here in Campbellford there is at present no temperance organization, except the Royal Templars of Temperance, a society that has been in existence for years, but which concerns itself with membership insurance rather than political action. Before the plebiscite last fall the local temperance forces organized, with W. J. Armstrong as president, G. A. Kingston, secretary, and J. A. Irwin, treasurer. This organization worked hard during the campaign, and demonstrated that in town and township the mojority of the voters are in favor of prohibition. It lapsed automatically as soon as the vote had been taken.

The Warkworth Convention.

The officers and other members of the local temperance party attended the convention at Warkworth, and took a prominent part in the proceedings. W. J. Armstrong and G. A. Kingston were appointed president and secretary respectively for Campbellford, and Mrs. W. H. Ashton was selected as a member of the committee, chosen to supervise the teaching of temperance in the secular and Sunday schools. It was the aim of the union to have every polling sub-division in the riding organized, the president and the secretary to take the initiative; W. J. Bertrand was appointed president for East and Fred Barnum president for West Seymour, Rev. C. D. Daniel to act as secretary for both divisions.

Nothing yet Done.

Nothing has been done, at least locally, to carry out this programme, and no attempt as far as heard from, has been made to put either of the political candidates on record as to their views on prohibition.

After all such action as the latter may be unnecessary, as both are well known and prominent temperance men. How far either or both might be willing to go in supporting nation wide prohibition, if elected, is another question.

The Civic Field.

At every civic election in Campbellford for some years past, the avowed supporters of law and order have exerted a great influence, although they have never gone as far as to require total abstinence of the candidates as a condition for supporting them, the new regulation laid down by the Ontario Prohibition Union. The reason given by the latter organization for getting into municipal elections, is that so many men elected in town or township go to the county council, are elected wardens, and afterwards become candidates for legislature or Parliament. The Union would make the municipal Councils the kindergartens for the training of the future Provincial legislators and Federal statesmen.

A Mistake

that some beauty seekers are making

They are misled on "olive and palm" soaps

Do you realize, Madam, that "olive and palm" soaps are ages and ages old? But never has one, before Palmolive, brought comparable results to the skin.

Palmolive Soap is a masterpiece, based on 60 years of soap study. It is a scientific creation, made to bring new beauty to the skin. Made to keep schoolgirl complexions.

Its unique results have led millions to adopt it. Now it is made in five countries, to supply the world-wide demand. It is made in France, because French women find in this their ideal of a soap.

Soft, velvety complexions are many times as common as they were before Palmolive came. Then don't accept ordinary "olive and palm" soaps, with artificial color, and often super-fatted.

Palmolive costs 10 cents—no more than the price of most ordinary soaps. But that is due to enormous production. Palmolive has become the leading toilet soap of the world. The only two soaps we know that fairly compare with it cost 25 cents per cake.

This warning is in your interest. There is a way to keep youthful complexions, and multitudes have found it. But that way is not a mere "olive and palm" soap. It is found in Palmolive alone.

Note the unnatural "too green" color of Palmolive imitators. What does that suggest? Men don't paint nature to improve it.

Olive and palm oils——nothing else——give Palmolive its delicate, natural color. Olive and palm oils——no other fats whatsoever——are used in Palmolive.

No "super-fatting," no "super-anything"—the only secret to Palmolive is its blending. And that is judged one of the world's priceless beauty secrets.

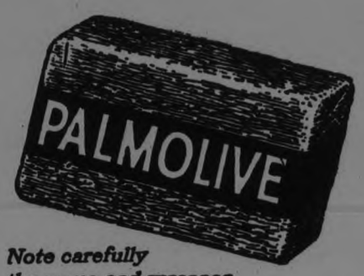
Let no one convince you—for your own sake—that any ordinary type of "olive and palm" soap can bring you Palmolive results.

Wash, launder, cleanse with any soap you wish. But when beauty is at stake—take care. Use Palmolive, nature's formula to "Keep That Schoolgirl Complexion."

IN PARIS

French women are discarding French soaps for Palmolive

Palmolive is today one of the two greatest selling toilet soaps in France. Parisian beauties are happy to pay almost twice as much for a cake of Palmolive as Canadian women pay. And, in many cases, three times as much as for their own French soaps. Remember this when tempted by costly French soaps, or by "French" claims for soaps.



Note carefully the name and wrapper. Palmolive is never sold unwrapped.

ASK COURT TO SETTLE POINTS

League Council Seeks Decision From World Court On Mosul.

PUTS OFF DECISION.

GENEVA, Sept. 19. — (Canadian Press).—It is understood that the Council of the League of Nations sub-committee plans to ask the opinion of the world court of justice concerning two points in dispute between Great Britain and Turkey over the Mosul region in Mesopotamia.

The first point is whether, in settling the conflict, the Council places the role of arbitrator under the Lausanne treaty or role of mediator, under the covenant of the League of Nations. The second point concerns the necessity of unanimity in reaching a decision. This plan will serve to put off the settlement of the issue until December, when the Council probably will convene in Madrid, Spain.

YOUR HEALTH

By ROYAL S. COPELAND, M.D.,
Former Commissioner of Health, New York City.

SEE THAT FRESH AIR ENTERS THE HOME.

We are approaching the time of year when house ventilation is important. After the open air life of the summer and fall, it is difficult for the body to adjust itself to the indoor conditions of cold weather.

Too little attention is given the ventilation of the private home. Building codes demand that public buildings shall be ventilated. Health officials watch factories, stores and loft buildings, to make sure the air is what it should be.

Hospitals and institutions are built and equipped with reference to the cubic air space and the unfailing supply of an adequate quantity of pure air. The police power places a padlock on a ward or building violating the accepted standards.

If the law-making and administrative bodies are so insistent upon the enactment and enforcement of such laws, why is it that the individual men who unite to do these worthy things are so negligent about the air conditions of their own homes?

Did I say "air conditions"? I meant airless conditions.

How many homes have you entered where the first whiff nearly knocked you down? It is scandalous how illy ventilated many private dwellings are.

Give a little study to your own home. Is there provision for the admission of pure air, day and night?

It isn't necessary to have expensive equipment to make your home what it should be. You don't need fans, air conduits and high-priced machinery to have your rooms flooded with good air.

As a matter of fact, there is never-ending debate over the comparative virtues of "natural" ventilation and "mechanical" ventilation. Many authorities contend that Nature's methods continue to surpass the scientific devices planned to force ventilation.

We need not enter into this discussion. A reasonable supply of fresh air is within your reach without great money investment. Open the window, just a few inches, at top and bottom both. Guard against draft by stretching a piece of cloth across the window frame in front of the opening. This will divert the breeze, causing it to turn up or down, as the case may be, and yet preventing it from blowing in upon the family.

Your own ingenuity will devise other schemes for admitting the fresh outside air. It is not my purpose to propose a plan of ventilation, but to impress upon you that good health and long life are to be had by observing the simplest rules of hygiene. One of the most important of these rules demands that you have fresh air day and night.

GOOD NIGHT STORIES

By Blanche Silver

DORIS FINDS A NEW KIND OF KITTY

When Doris spied the pretty black and white striped animal scooting along the side of the road she ran after him.

"Kitty, kitty, kitty," she called. But when the kitty wouldn't pay any attention to her and ran all the faster, Doris became vexed and stamped her foot. "I wasn't going to hurt him.

"Hurt who?" questioned a tiny voice, and Doris looked down in the grass to see Happy Giggles, her wee little friend from Make-Believe Land, smiling at her. "Who was that you were chasing?"

"Why, a little black and white striped kitten," replied Doris. "You know I wouldn't hurt him, Happy Giggles. Let's catch up with him.

Happy Giggles took Doris's hand and away they flew down the path until they had caught up with the furry one. Then Happy Giggles sat down on a stone and laughed and laughed.

"What's this You run from a little girl, Timmy Skunk?" he chuckled. "Why, Doris wouldn't hurt you. She thought you were a kitten."

"I'm not," laughed Timmy Skunk. "I waved my tail back and forth several times to give her a good warning, but when she didn't take heed I felt sorry for her and run myself. I just couldn't spoil her clothes."

"Spoil my clothes" repeated Doris, smoothing down her pretty white apron. "What in the world does he mean, Happy Giggles?"

"Why, Timmy Skunk has only one way of protecting himself," laughed the elfin. "He has a little scent gun which he shoots at folks when he is surprised, and——"

"But I always give them warning

"Doris Wouldn't Hurt You."

by switching my big busy tail back and forth first," laughed Timmy Skunk. "I switched my tail at you, but you just kept on running after me. When I heard you call me 'kitty' I didn't shoot. For once I do shoot, whatever I hit has to be buried to get the odor off."

"By the way, Timmy Skunk, how are your wife and babies?" asked Happy Giggles. "Have you joined them as yet? You see, Doris, when Mrs. Skunk has a family she goes away by herself until the babies are big enough to walk. Then Daddy Skunk is invited to come and look at his family."

"I'm going to join them to-night," replied the proud father. "Mother Skunk let me peek at them last night. Just think, Happy Giggles, we have ten little ones this year. We're all going out on a grasshopper hunt to-night. I'll have my hands full from now on. They will all have to be taught to hunt for their meals and I'll have to teach them to swim. Every good little skunk must know how to swim, you know. Come around to-morrow night if it's nice and see my family."

"We sure will," laughed Happy Giggles, and bidding Timmy Skunk good-bye he took Doris by the hand and ran down the patch toward the brook.

Facts About Your Gas Meter

Any Gas Meter is much like a pint or quart measure for water or flour.

When the covers are off, you can see two leather pockets—or bellows. Those bellows draw in the gas from the street mains and discharge it into your house piping.

Attached to the bellows are some simple little cog wheels which move the hands on the clock-like face of the meter dial as the gas passes through. . Your meter actually measures the gas by taking it in and pouring it out. It cannot register the same gas twice. And, when your burner cocks are all closed, it cannot move unless there is a leak in the piping inside your house.

Gas Meters are not made by the companies that supply gas to the homes. They are manufactured by well-known firms, of high reputation, who specialize on the building of mechanical devices that are as accurate as human skill can make them.

A Gas Meter may get out of order and need fixing—just like your watch. An old watch is more apt to run too slow than too fast. This is also true of a Gas Meter or of any other device made of iron or copper or leather that will wear out in time.

Close all your burners once in awhile and watch the small test dial at the top of the meter. If the hand moves, your pipes or appliances are leaking. Call the Gas Department at once. Gas leaks are dangerous. If there are no house leaks, but you still think the meter is not working right, report the trouble to our Service Department for prompt investigation.

TOMORROW'S HOROSCOPE

By Genevieve Kemble

TUESDAY, SEPTEMBER 22.

Unexpected lively and eventful situations are found in the forecast for this day, owing to some very important lunar transits. There is seen a presage of sudden change, removal or journey, and while these may bring some benefit they will probably not result in the measure of success anticipated. This opposition may be felt mainly in relation to new undertakings, which are under a baneful ray from Neptune in square aspect with the moon.

Those whose birthday it is may have a year of unexpected events, with removal, travel or change. And while some benefit may be expected from these, new ventures had better be embraced with hesitancy, as success in these may be but moderate. A child born on this day should be clever and versatile, original and inventive, but much given to change. It may lean toward adventure and travel.

Among the fisherwomen of Brittany, maidens, wives and widows have each their own distinctive color of shawl.

LIBERALS DECIDE NOT TO APPOINT REPRESENTATIVE

Electors of Victoria and Haliburton to Support Progressives.

DON'T LIKE MEIGHEN.

Dr. J. A. White Proclaimed That He Was Ashamed of Opposition.

LINDSAY, Sept. 21. — Admitting that it would be a losing game to place a candidate in the Federal field the Liberals of Victoria and Haliburton, at a convention held at Fenelon Falls this afternoon, decided not to conest the riding, but to give support to caididate whose policy was the nearest to that of Hon. MeKenzie King. Resolutions of approval and confidence were passed and will be forwarded to Premier McKenzie King and to W. E. N. Sinclair, Leader of Liberals in Ontario.

President L. V. O'Connor occupied the chair. No nominations were made, a motion by Mr. T. J. Carley of Fenelon Falls, and John Pearson of Haliburton, being placed before the convention, which in part claimed that as far as Victoria Electoral District is concerned Liberals would be farther ahead in advancing the cause of McKenzie King and that of the Dominion, by not, having a candidate, should his platform embrace a tariff policy, etc., nearly to that of McKenzie King. Speakers were outspoken in their desire to see the defeat of ex-Premier Meighen.

The speakers included Senator McHugh, Reeve O'Reilly, and Dr. J. A. White, of Lindsay; John Pearson, Haliburton; T. J. Carley, Emmerson Tiers and M. H. McCallum, of Fenelon Falls; Reeve W. C. Moore, of Bobcaygeon; Reeve Geo. A. Parrington of Fenelon, Ald. W. Eric Stewart of Lindsay and others.

Mr. Pearson ,an old-war-horse Haliburton, claimed that the Liberals gained half the victory in the defeat of the conservative candidate four years ago and victory for the Progressive candidate over the Conservative candidate in the forthcoming election would be just as sweet for the Liberals.

Dr. J. A. White, of Lindsay upheld the principles of Liberalism and claimed Rt. Hon. McKenzie King to be a peerless statesman. The speaker had known Arthur Meighen for 35 years and was ashamed of him, ashamed of the manner in which he criticized and jibed at leaders of other parties, ashamed of his arguments on tariff, Canadian National Railways and Senate Reform. The Liberal policy stood for the best interests of the Dominion and the people.

DOG SHOW'S SUCCESS REFLECTS CREDIT ON ENTIRE EXHIBITION

Fanciers, Committee-men, Visitors and Judge Gather at Luncheon

WANT BUILDING.

President Denne Starts Fund That Grows Rapidly to $300.

A small party of Exhibition Directors, officers of the committee, and exhibitors gathered together on Saturday at the Dog Show Committee's luncheon in the dining tent of St. James Methodist Church.

W. S. Merrill who presided explained that the affair was no formal banquet, but merely a hurried get together meeting. He had seen many old familiar faces, so many friends who had made it possible to put on dog shows, not only here, but who were also the bone and sinew of the dog shows of the Dominion. Thanks were due to them all, for by means of their efforts the show this year had become a three point show. On behalf of the Peterborough Kennel Association, he thanked all who came from either long or short distances.

Roland Denne, President of the Peterborough Industrial Exhibition, recalled the modest scale on which the Exhibition activities were based eight years ago, and spoke of the progress that had been made in the interval. The Exhibition was an example of what could be done by means of the community spirit. Every man in every office and committee was a worker. There were no drones. The work of each committee was done efficiently and free of charge. The only expense was $200 per annum to the secretary.. He congratulated the committee on the Dog Show. The Dog Show needed a permanent building. He hoped this need would be met.

Need Financial Aid.

On Friday, he told the Deputy Minister of Agriculture that the Exhibition ought to get some financial assistance. It was not right that all the eggs should be placed in two baskets, Toronto and Ottawa. He stressed the claims of Peterborough as entitled to the consideration of the Dominion as well as the Ontario Government. Mr. Denne intimated a gift from himself of $100 towards a fund for the erection of a permanent building in which to house the Dog Show. Mr. Merrill immediately capped this by a similar offer.

Makes It $300

R. M. Glover, Managing Director of the Peterborough Examiner, began his address by lining up with a promise of $100 to the fund. He congratulated the Dog Show Committee on their exhibition this year. The Dog Show, he said, was now in a higher class than some of the other departments of the exhibition. Those other departments would now have to work towards bringing themselves into the same class as that of the Dog Show. It was a distinct achievement to bring the Dog Show into the three point class after two trials. This accomplishment was not done without hard work. No committee had worked so hard a the Dog Show Committee, which had held weekly meetings when other committees were meeting twice a month or monthly. He thought that next year ,two or three other departments would be speaking as encouragingly as the Dog Show. Some sections of the Fair which had considered themselves as being all right in the earlier years, when the Exhibition was a small scale, were now realizing that further efforts must be made to keep pace with the progress made by the Exhibition. Great credit was due ot the local officers of the Dog Show. Mr. Glover also expressed his appreciation of the visitors and exhibitors who helped to make the show the success it had been. .

Lots of Fun.

L. L. Maguire said the organization of the show had been "hard work, but lots of fun." During the past six months ; he had talked dogs to a great many people with the result that buying and borrowing dogs had become very common in and around the city. There had been a big list of out of town registrations during the two Dog Shows held in the Exhibition.. If the people of city would do as well as those from outside it would be easier to have a show of the same magnitude next year. He thanked the exhibitors from within and without the city. He thanked the Judges who have come from a long distance. All the Exhibitors seemed to be remarkably well pleased at the awards..

Lauds Community.

J. Strachan, Secretary of the Canadian Kennel Club said the Exhibition was a great testimony to the co-operative and community spirit of Peterborough.. The Dog Show was satisfactory; the buildings were clean, sweet smelling and well ventilated. He hoped the time would come when the Peterborough Dog Show would have a permanent building of its own.

Judge's Praise. .

The Judge, Adyman of New York, expressed his gratifcation that while good dog shows had become extinct in the U. S. they were still very much to the fore in Canada. In his country a man might have a good dog, but would be compelled to keep it in the kennel because there were neither good shows nor competent judges. From the kind of men whom he had met in Peterborough he had a feeling of certainty that the Show here would continue to be successful. Peterborough had a fine lay out for its Exhibition and he knew the Dog Show would be well housed in the future..

Charlie Knight had washed his face with great care and had used the same kind of care to avoid wetting his neck. It was Saturday morning, and the Merry Men of the Greenwood would be meeting, rather a pleasant change from the formality of school, and a change which meant a let up on the neck washing, as far as Charlie Knight was concerned.

"Say, Charlie!" grinned Friar Tuck, who was Jimmy Britton most other days, "I know a swell nature riddle—want to heart it?" All the other boys felt that something was coming, so they left it to Charles Knight to bite for himself.

"Well, if it's about birds, I don't want to hear it unless it's funny", said Charlie.

"Oh, this joke—I mean riddle—is about a comical duck, and it will make almost everybody laugh who hears it" said the jolly Friar. "Now listen and see if you can guess."

Charlie was all ears and neck, listening.

When", said Friar Tuck, with a great sweep of his arm for added gusto, "does a Merry Man's neck look blackest?"

Absolute silence reigned. The other boys were as much in the dark as was Charlie.

"Give up!" said Charlie.

"Did you say, "Wash up", or "Give up"? asked the Friar, with a wicked grin.

"Ah, cut it out will you, and give us the answer?" said Charlie in a bit of a peeve, "I'll bet there's a joker in it."

"Well, do you want to know when a Merry Man's neck looks blackest?" repeated Friar Tuck, to make sure of the point.

"Yes," said Charlie, "When does it?"

"When it's night,' yelled the wicked Friar, joining his howls of laughter with those of the other Merry Men much to the chagrin of poor Charlie.

Charlie Knight was a good sport and took it all in good part, until Little John suggested that "Ring Neck Plover' would be a good name for Charlie. In fact he thought the name was a fine name for any one of several of the Merry Men, since that particular bird stayed around the water but did not go in much. All the boys began to try to see their own necks, but failing to do so, decided that Charlie's must be the blackets, so they all fastened the name on him, but not for long, because Charlie chased Little John into Johnsons' barn and all the rest followed just in time to stop a fight.

When the Merry Men went to the barn door to leave for the Greenwood, it was raining hard.

There was such a moaning and groaning, on account of the rain, that Wess joined them at once. He said his mother asked him to go and see if the cow was sick. That seemed to tickle the boys very much, so they all went up into the hay loft, to hold a Merry Council.

Robin Hood stood in the centre of the squatting Merry Men and demanded ideas of entertainment.

"I know a bird story," said Roy Preston.

"Ah, forget that bird story stuff", said Ned-the-Red, "we only want to hear bird stories when they are funny."

"I suppose the only time you like bird stories is when they are funny and read", said Robin Hood, with all the emphasis on the last word, as he pointed to Ned's red head.

"Go on, Roy, and tell us about it, and let Ned-the-Red stick his fingers in his ears if he wants to," said Big Bill Davis.

So Roy began.

"Saw some birds the other day, over in the bushes, but was sure I was asleep and walking, for I never saw any like them before. Thought for a minute I must be dreaming. They were so lovely to see. They had black curved bills, magnificent, long and beautiful tails, soft white breasts, and light brownish backs. And the teacher in school said they must be cuckoos, so she came over to where they had been and, after quite a hunt in the thick brush, we saw two or three. They are gone south by now, but they do some funny things.

Those cuckoos don't do any coo-cooing like the clocks would make you think they do, for I never heard one coo thirteen, like a clock sometimes does at one in the morning. All I heard was a one or two o'clock coo, very softly. But that is not the funny part that Ned-the-Red would go mad over. This is it: They have a magic stomach!

Yes, siree! A magic stomach!

Why, those birds got sick and tired of the same old common smooth caterpillars which are relished by most other birds, and they got so fed up that they went out into the garden, just like the peeved little girl did, and ate two hairy ones and a wooly one. Just for spite, I guess. But the funny part is, that they liked the hairy ones so much that they specialize on them now, and eat oodles and oodles of the awful tent caterpillars.

But that isn't it! That's not the magic!

Here's the magic! They eat hairy caterpillars so much that their stomachs become lined with fur. Then, with so much fur on their stomachs, what do you think? do they want to have fur on their stomachs and make them so hot that the food might begin to cook? Not much! I should say not!

They just wait until their stomachs get a lining of fur, then they decide it is time for a new lining, so they let nature make a new lining on the inside of their stomachs, and they throw away the old furry one. And they are the best fighters we have against the hairy caterpillar pests. And all the time, ever since I was a baby, I never knew they were on earth. Isn't that a funny thing?"

All the boys agreed that Roy had popped a real one on them this time, and Wess went into the house to get some nature books, and came back with one, which said that the Black-billed cuckoo is not to be disgraced by being mixed up with either the clocks or the European cuckoos that coo in them. These shameless European cuckoos act like our cow birds, and lay their eggs in other bird's nests, but our lovely, dreamland cuckoo is gentle, cultured very lovely to look upon and our finest defence against the hairy worms, and has a nest all its own, just like any other good mannered bird.

The town clock could be heard striking twelve.

"If that old clock strikes thirteen," said Friar Tuck, as he dashed out of the barn, "my name will be Coo-coo at home!"

"Gee, kid, you're a fast worker!" complimented Miss Trisk, backhandedly, a little later. "You're the first one who ever vamped Bob Wilson into looking as though he knew that such things as girls existed in this here mortal plane."

"Vamped him, why what do you mean?" said Caroline, aggrieved.

"That's your line, huh—sweet baby innocence—budding daughter asking mama 'how do cats get kittens' stuff. And yet, I've known others to pull that pose on him and never get past his jumper buckles."

Caroline swam deftly aside from the current of Miss Trisk's superannuated sex lore. "Is that his name—Bob Wilson?"

"Righto, cutey—but the rest of the family tatistics I can't give you," she volunteered cattily. "He's been the Elinor Glyn mystery of this burg so long we ain't hoping no more to solve it."

Now Caroline was young, remarkably pretty, and intelligent—Life's rarest triangle—inevitably and industriously romantic. All in all, here was a nature vibrantly responsive to the lilt and the warm urgings of the petal-sweetened spring air; and she was vividly aware that the young man had somehow deposited with her a glowing consciousness of his own freshly youthful, clean-cut good looks even in the undapper habiliments of his daily toil. He was the one bright tracing in the drab pattern of her first impressions of this town and its sweaty, swearing, careless bustle. Miss Trisk's alluring hints about Bob constituted a bracing challenge to Caroline's spirit, and she met it eagerly, dissembling with the sex craft of a thousand centuries, cloaking her real interest under a cov air of casualness so well done that it even fooled herself—but not Miss Trisk.

"A real, honest-to-goodness mystery? How interesting!"

"Yeah, ain't it?" drily.

"Surely he has some relatives that you know of—someone he writes to or visits?"

"Not so's you could notice it. But you can't never tell about them tramps——"

"Tramp!" in horror.

"That's what I said, cutey," Miss Trisk assured her, with comfortable satisfaction in her own swordsmanship. "He was a plain, ordinary bum when he first came to this town."

The thin casiher paused to enjoy her sport, and Caroline inwardly writhed while she fought to check an outward show of too obvious disappointment. He had been a tramp! Picturesque and mystifying, but rather rough. She could feel a racing of hot blood to her cheeks; for the rest, however, she was able to meet Miss Trisk's narrowed eyes on a cool level.

"Then I think he deserves all the credit in the world for staying and living down his past!" she maintained bravely.

Admiration for the girl's steadfastness in her interest softened Miss Trisk's mood; admiration, and a keen sense of the communal debt to Bob Wilson.

"He saved the Limited Mail one night, and after that it wasn't no trick for him to get a job around here for he stood aces high with the trainmen, and the homefolks too, because, believe me, there'd have been crepe on many a door only for him. Gee, they'd have given him the keys to the city," she finished, with an attempt at humor to cover a panicky realization that it was her own emotions that were in full cry now, "only it wasn't locked, and there ain't no key for it anyhow."

Caroline felt unaccountably proud of this man she had met but once, and then in a business way. Meanwhile, Miss Trisk's mood had undergone a complete change. Perhaps it was the fragrant outdoor breeze that had touched her thin cheeks, too; but to her it carried, instead of pubescent impulses, only reminiscent echoes coming hollowly back through dim years to a sterile present and future.

"I had a friend once," she said in a tight, cracked voice. "Looked something like Bob Wilson, too. But there was nobody to save the train on his night—and the Gorge got him. That was twelve years ago."

Caroline was glad of an interruption at this juncture in the shape of a hungry brakeman. Later, when she was able to idle once more at the cashier's counter, the quicksands of Miss Trisk's motions had turned up a mellowly informative and friendly strain.

"It's kinda sad as well as secret about that Bob Wilson," she confided. "He's such a nice, quiet, well-mannered fellow, and good-natured too, but no one's ever been able to get close to him except Jim Fowler. Postmaster says he's never got even a post card since he's lived here, and never asks or seems to expect any mail. Lordy, his eyes look so lonesome sometimes when he smiles good-morning at you——"

Upon Caroline's declaration of curiosity as to Fowler, Anemone undertook to describe the friendship of Bob and Jim and how it came about. When Anemone put her heart into it the narrative of her gossip could be illuminating; Caroline was spared no detail of the Damon and Pythias friendship of Bob and Jim, or the manner of their bachelor life in the little cottage under the tip of Mrs. O'Leary's wide wing. She started with the courtship of Jim and his wife; thrillingly described the events of the night upon which Bob saved the Limited; and garnished the whole tale with a salady recital of the choicest speculations of Crater City's eligible and scheming females as to the identity and the past of the aloof Bob Wilson. When Miss Trisk had finished, Caroline felt as much in the atmosphere of Crater City's favorite mystery as though she, too, had lived there and known personally of these things through the years.

"And it's the nicest thing how those two fellows care for that kid," she gossiped, in conclusion. "They both seem to love him so much that it's hard to tell who's really the father. Scandal!" she giggled, behind a sly finger. Then, seriously again, "He loves them, too. He calls them 'Daddy Jim' and 'Daddy Bob.' Jim is a mail clerk, you know, and his run is at night—on the Limited; and Bob is mostly away in the day, so it works out smooth. They don't see each other as much as they'd like to, Jim was telling me only a couple of days ago. Everybody in Crater City says no power on earth could ever come between Bob and Jim."

"And Mr. Wilson—is he a mail clerk, too?" Caroline asked, innocent of the caste prestige borne by Bob's jumper suit.

"Engineer," said Anemone laconically, "and believe me, he throws a wicked throttle, according to what the boys all say. Started in as a fireman, but Bolts Morran promoted him in jig time. I heard he was offered a chance to go in the construction department at Frisco, but he just laughed."

"Isn't he ambitious?"

"Yeah, he wants to get the throttle of the Limited, so's he can be on the same run with his friend, Jim Fowler."

"Oh!"

"He's next in line for the Limited, too, when Morse is retired. Say, look smart, that brakie wants something else."

Meanwhile, the virile subject of this lunchroom gossip had long since reached the yards and faced the ire of Morran. Bob's sleek locomotive had already been brought out by one of the roundhouse hostlers and was ready for him with a full head of steam up. But between Bob and the step to his cab stood Bolts and his electric eyes.

"Sorry, old man," said Bob, anticipating the storm with an umbrella of contrition, "but I just met the greatest girl in the world!"

The thunder and lightning were dissipated by a shifting wind, but the clouds remained; "Oh, you saw her, too!"

"Have you seen her?" Bob asked, enthusiastically.

"Wait a minute, Wilson, let me finish. I just wanted to say that inasmuch as this is the first time you've ever been late, we can overlook it. But it isn't much to your credit that your excuse is the same one that every damn cowsick —— — — —— in this Yard gave this morning, and if there's another guy late on account of her, I'll make the Division Super have the Larvey people chase her back where she came from, damn quick! Now hook up your boiler to your string and clear to hell out of this yard so fast you melt the rails—the whole schedule is shot to pieces now——"

It was an undampened Bob who jockeyed the big freight engine back and forth in the Yard with a reckless skill and a savage disregard that kept his coupling brakesmen on edge and cursing him.

"What in hell are you so happy for?" asked his fireman some time later when they were rumbling swiftly along a clear right of way, as he came up for a breath of air and a bit of gossip. "Didn't Morran scorch you for being late?"

"No," lied Bob with gusto, "he complimented me on my taste when I told him the same thing I'm now going to tell you—which is, that I've just met the greatest girl in the world!"

"They're all great when you first meet 'm!" said the fireman, scrambling down to his swaying firebox floor to avoid the grease stiffened seat cushion that Bob flung heatedly at him.

DEBTS MUST NOT FORM A PART OF WORLD'S PARLEY

Proposed Economic Conference No Place For Debt Discussion.

IMMIGRATION, TOO.

Many Other Delicate Problems Considered Equally Dangerous

GENEVA, Sept. 21. — (Canadian Press). — Interallied debts must not be discussed at the proposed world economic conference, M. Loucheur emphasized in bringing the French project for such a gathering by the technical committee of the League assembly on Saturday.

"It never has been and never will be the desire of France," said M. Loucheur, "to bring the question of her debts before such a conference."

The questions of immigration and emigration must also be put outside the agenda of the conference, the French spokesman declared.

Lord Cecil, in behalf of Great Britain, agreed that debts and immigration should be excluded from the scope of the conference.

"But," he added, "I am obliged in the name of the British Government to lay stress on the fact that there are other questions equally dangerous — the furnishing of raw materials, the relations between labour and capital and the organization of production."

He termed these three problems difficult and delicate, and said that while Great Britain did not want to hinder the conference project she asked for time to breathe a bit.

The French Government's proposal will not be tied up with reparation payments, nor will it be conditioned upon the tenative agreement recently entered into with Great Britain, according to the summary obtained today. French budget calculations must take both factors into account, but Caillaux is said to have no intention of bringing either into the Washington debt deliberations.

What will be the extent of the instalments is the most closely guarded secret of the French mission. The first announcement is being reserved for the ears of the United States negotiators but indications are it will be substantial enough to interest Secretary Mellon in his calculation of revenue for 1926 and thereafter. The offer will represent the French view of the utmost France is able to pay.

SYRIAN SITUATION IS TERMED CRITICAL

French Expedition is Preparing to March Against Druses.

PARIS, Sept. 21. — (Canadian Press)—Archbishop Cadi of Hauran, Syria, in a letter to Madame Myriam Harry, a well-known Belgian writer, published by the Matin Sunday, declares that the situation in Syria is "critical, but not desperate."

"More than 5,000 Christians have been expelled, and are homeless, living like vagabonds, owing to recent attacks by the Djebel Druses. Eight hundred French soldiers," says the Archbishop, "have been killed or are missing and 700 are besieged at Soueida. A French expedition is preparing to march against the Djebel Druses, but there is need of 15,000 disciplined and well-equipped troops to restore French prestige, which has suffered greatly since August 3."

NORFOLK, Va., Sept. 21.— The United States schooner Benjamin A. Van Brunt was sunk in collision with the U. S. S. light cruiser Milwaukee early to-day about 100 miles south of Cape Henry. Although the schooner sank immediately, all members of the crew were rescued unhurt by the Milwaukee, and will be landed in New York to-day.

A PERSONAL PEEP GIVEN INTO THE IMMIGRATON DEPARTMENT BY PETERBORO'S NEW MINISTER

Hon. G. N. Gordon Tells Business and Aims of His Office.

VARIED WORK.

'Many Called, But Few Chosen' is Summing Up of Policy.

The truth of extravagant statements regarding immigration and emigration now prevalent in Canada is strongly denied by Hon. G. N. Gordon in an interview with The Examiner today. Mr. Gordon spoke from information obtained in his department at Ottawa, and referred often to statistics compiled there and in United States.

When asked about the statements touching his department, the Minister said many hear or read them who have not the opportunity of investigting to learn whether or not they are true, while others are content for various reasons to accept them at their face value without taking the trouble to confirm them.

A number of questions were asked Mr. Gordon, and he courteously answered every one, amplifying occasionally the theme suggested, and occasionally, himself, interjecting a comment that showed his wide knowledge of the subject and his familiarity with present conditions in Canada.

Selective Policy.

Question No. 1.—It is said that the Government is pouring immigrants into Canada from the British Isles and the continent of Europe in greater numbers than ever before. Is this true?

Hon. Mr. Gordon's answer.—A reference to the published statistics settles that. In the fiscal years 1913-1914, immigration was as follows:—

	From British Isles.	From United States.	From Other Countries	Total
1913	150,542	139,009	112,881	402,432
1914	142,622	107,530	134,726	384,878
Compare these pre-war figures with the returns since the war:—
1920	59,603	49,656	8,077	117,336
1921	74,262	48,059	26,156	148,477
1922	39,020	29,345	21,634	89,999
1923	34,508	22,007	16,372	72,887
1920	72,919	20,521	55,120	148,560
1925	53,178	15,818	42,366	111,363

That is your answer. The government does not believe, and I do not believe, in flooding the country with anyone and everyone just to bring up the immigration figures. We believe in a selective colonization policy.

Not Flooding Cities.

Question No. 2.—Is it true that this Government is encouraging settlers to come to the cities and fill the places that have hitherto been occupied by our native-born sons and daughters?

Hon. Mr. Gordon's answer.—No, decidedly not. The Government has offered not the slightest encouragement to the immigration from any country of any class save agriculturists and domestics. This policy is clearly reflected in Immigration Regulations, particularly in Orders-in-Council 182 and 183 of the Immigration Act. But I will go further and state that this Government does not encourage the immigration even of the agricultural and domestic servant classes from many countries, but only from those countries that produce the type of colonist likely to successfully follow one or other of these occupations after admission to Canada.

Immigrants Not Paid.

Question No. 3.—It is said in some quarters that the Government last year paid every Englishman entering Canada the sum of $15. Is this true?

Hon. Mr. Gordon's answer.—No. Such a statement should be capable of verification, and the expenditure will be shown in the public accounts. If $15 were paid to every Britisher entering Canada last year, it would mean an expenditure of more than $800,000. Whoever told you that should have verified his facts before rushing into publicity. The fact is that the Government did not pay one dollar to any Britisher on arrival at a Canadian port. Steamship companies, however, did make a rebate of $15 to British third-class passengers arriving in Canada between the 1st March and the 31st October, 1924. This rebate was merely a reduction in the cost of passage, and the money was paid by the companies to the passengers—a vastly different affair from that suggested in your question.

No Cash Loans.

Question No. 4.—What are the facts regarding the settlement of English families in Canada? It is said that vast sums are being spent by the Government; that $7,500 is advanced to each family of British settlers; and that no such aid is given Canadian settlers.

Hon. Mr. Gordon's answer.—It is true that the Government is encouraging the movement of 3,000 British families to Canada for stletement on the land. These families are being sold partially improved farms now in the partially improved farms now in the hands of the Government. The settlers will pay for these farms, the payments being spread over a period of years. The farms have not been bought by the Government for these settlers, but are farms already in the hands of the Government, having been purchased for the most part for the settlement of Canadian soldiers. The Government is not loaning one dollar in cash. The loan for settlement is provided by the British Government and is merely being administered by the Canadian Government, and, further, the maximum loan instead of being $7,500, is only $1,500.

Precautions Taken.

Question No. 5.—It is said that the Government imports a great many immigrants for work upon the land, who have no intention of remaining on the land, but immediately drift into the cities. Is this true, and, if not, what steps does the Government take to prevent such an occurrence?

Hon. Mr. Gordon's answer.—It is not true. There are doubtless individual cases in which immigrants who have entered Canada for land settlement have not permanently remained on the land, but these are the exception, not the rule. Where the Government has doubt as to the type of immigrant and the likelihood of his remaining upon the land, a cash bond is exacted that the incoming immigrant will remain on the land for a period of one, two, or more years. Those who fail to fulfil their obligations are not only in danger of losing their deposit, but also of deportation to the country from which they came.

Can Restrict Immigration.

Question No. 6.—Has the Government adequate machinery to restrict immigration?

Hon. Mr. Gordon's answer.—Those who say the Government has not either make the statement through ignorance of the facts or through an intention to mislead. Since the Liberal party came into power an organization has been created overseas that is unique in the history of colonization, and is the best protection Canada can have. Today, Canada has trained Canadian Immigration Inspectors at such strategic points as Paris, Antwerp, The Hague, Hamburg, Danzig and Riga. Through the hands of these special agents every European immigrant must pass in coming to Canada. These officers have authority to reject, and the Government records show that they do reject very large numbers of applicants. When the present Government came into power we had the spectacle of hundreds, if not thousands, of immigrants held up at our ocean ports, having been allowed to sell their homes, spend their money on expensive transportation and get as far as Canadian ports, only there to discover that they might not enter. This Government has changed all this by the simple and yet wise expedient of placing trained immigration officials at ports of sailing.

The intended effect of the presence of the Canadian officers in Europe is not only the protection of the passenger and of Canada, but also the selection for Canada of the purely agricultural type. But the improvement is not only seen in selection and protection to Canada, but is also seen in the great strides that have been made for better medical inspection abroad. Canadian doctors, acting in an advisory capacity are working overseas, and whereas it was formerly common to have many detained at Canadian ports, now there are never more detained than a mere handful, either for civil or medical reasons.

Seek Repatriation.

Question No. 7.—It is said that thousands are leaving Canada and going to United States, and that the Government is doing nothing to stop the hegira or effect the return of these Canadian citizens. Is this true?

Hon. Mr. Gordon's answer.—We have heard much about the exodus to the United States, but little about the fact that the exodus is rapidly decreasing, while the return of Canadians from the United States is rapidly increasing. As showing the decrease in the exodus, using United States figures, the movement fell from 13,474 in March, 1924, to 4,408 in March, 1925. It is believed that many of those shown in the United States records as having entered the United States as immigrants do not remain permanently there, but return to Canada. As bearing this out, the Canadian Government records show the return to Canada during the fiscal year ended March 31st, 1925, of 43,775 Canadians, who had been in the United States for a period of six months or more. In the same period an equal number returned who entered the United States, paying head-tax, and returned to Canada within a period of six months.

As regards repatriation, there are now five regularly established Repatriation Agencies in the United States. There are in addition, 29 Special Colonization Officers. Within the past three months, three new agencies have been opened. Further effort is being made through an arrangement with station CKAC, Montreal, for broadcasting by radio twice weekly, news and opinions by prominent Canadians likely to stir the desire to return to their homes in the minds of the unseen listeners in United States. A special advertising campaign has been conducted in Canadian magazines circulating in United States, 21 papers being used. The present expenditure on special repatriation work is almost equal to the expenditure borne by Canada for assistance granted under the Empire Settlement Agreement.

KNOX UNITED CHURCH.

Basing his sermon on Mark 11:22-23, Mr. Mackinnon preached on tht power of faith to remove mountains, to accomplish impossible things. A review of history shows an unbroken line of men who said "It cannot be done! It is impossible!" They have always retarded progress. But other men in a line of apostolic succession have believed and have done the very things that couldn't be done. gas-lighting, steamships, steam cars, travelling twice as fast as stage coaches, automobiles, aeroplanes, wireless, etc., were all impossible. But faith has worked out these and a thousand other impossible things. Man simply couldn't survive being whirled through space at twice the speed of a stage-coach. But the other day a man safely flew at the rate of over five miles a minute. Man may not be able to keep up with the sun just yet, but "but just wait a few years, my shining friend, and we'll make steps that will amaze you. We will Joshua you!" Some day even at the equator "we shall hold the sun level in his full stride."

Church history is a story of doing impossible things. What a hopeless enterprise for twelve unknown provincials to face Judiasm, and Imperial Rome and a pagan world! But even Rome capitulated and the missionary work of Christ's kingdom goes on to full triumph. Carey, Livingstone, Moffat and a host of others have done impossible things for Christ. Concerning missions Charles Darwin admitted that even where he had always prophesied utter failure, the thing had been done. Our difficultp to-day is not with impossible culty to-day is not with impossible gle people—people who say the thing cannot be done. Its' the old difficulty of UNBELIEF—the same kind that hindered even our Lord at Nazareth. Unbelief paralyzes, faith energizes. "Have faith in God," and with the old reformer we can say: "Impossible? If that is all that is the matter, let us go ahead!"

In the evenng the sermon was on Music, "the specialty of God," "the language of the soul," "the speech of angels,' "the murmurings of t eternal sea,' "the voice of God," "the Master's sweetest voice." One of our own poets sings of:

"How rhythm and harmony can mend
The spirits hurts and ills."

A preacher tells us that "When music sounds the sweetest in my ears truth commonly flows the clearest into my mind."

A study of the Scriptures shows l w great a place music holds in the economy of religion. With music men are made over again, the evil spirits are driven out and the voice of God comes to the prophet, an indispensible spiritual stimulus. A proper study of music, its correct interpretation and sympathetic understanding leads us to the Author of all music, until w. exclaim with Benson on hearing a great violinist play: "God was in this place—and I knew it not." Or entering with Handel into the mystery of his "Hallelujah Chorus," we "see heaven opened, and the holy angels and the great God Himself.' For

"God is its author, and not man; He laid
The keynote of all harmonies; He planned
All perfect combinations, and He made
Us so that we could hear and understand."
"'Tis God gives skill,
But not without men's hands. He could not make Antonio Stradivaris' violins
Without Antonio."

Nor could He play Paderewski's piano without Paderewski, nor our instruments without us. At the keyboard of life sits each man and each man needs the master's touch. Or to change the figure:

"We are but organs mute till
A master touches the keys—
Verily vessels of earth into which
God poureth wine;
Harps are we, silent harps that
Have hung in the willow-trees;
Dumb till our heartstrings swell
And break with a pulse divine."

Music Recital.

The recital of 17th Century music kiven in Knox church last night left one with a deep respect for a period which could produce compositions of so diversified a character and yet so equal and smooth a texture. Generally diatonic and free from our modern dissonances, it yet covers the whole gamut of emotions; for instance—in last night's programme what could have been more grandly exuberant than Handel's "Oh! Had I Jubal's Lyre"—more touching in its simplicity than the slow movement from Purcells Sonata for two violins, or more exquisite than the delicate arabesques of Scarlotti's "Pastorale" for pianoforte. Again, where would one find a greater contrast than Corelli's merry "Gigue" on the organ and Bach's sombre "To Thee I Cry" prelude.

After hearing this wonderful recital of music of the 17th century we are eager to see how the brilliant era of Mendelssohn, Beethoven, Grahms, Schumann, Schubert, Chopin and Rossini, etc., will be dealt with by Peterboro's quartette, Mrs. Park, Miss Palmer, Miss Logan and Mr. Peaker.

OIL ELECTRIC CAR IS TRIED OUT AGAIN

OTTAWA, Sept. 21.—(Canadian Press).—An innovation designed to reduce the cost of railway transportation to extraordinary cheapness was tried out Saturday on the Canadian National Railways between Montreal and Ottawa. It consists of an oil-electric train of one split-coach operated by a Diesel engine. It is believed that the cost of operation can be reduced to less than one cent a mile by the use of the new engine.

REV. P. M'GUIRE 40 YEARS IN CHURCH

Ordained to the Priesthood Forty Years Ago To-day.

The fortieth anniversary of his ordination to the priesthood found the Rev. Peter McGuire in Wooler to-day, assisting in the forty hours' devotion in that parish. Friends of his, and they are a legion in this city and district, told The Examiner of the anniversary, but Father McGuire could not be reached personally. It was said of him that in spite of his years he has retained a youthful and vital outlook on life, that he is as much sought after by the young priests as by his contemporaries in length of service, that he is beloved not only by the Catholic people of the city, but also by Protestants who have known him for many years. And these friends will join in congratulating Rev. Father McGuire upon his fortieth anniversary in the work of the Church, and wish for him other years as fruitful as those have been that have gone before. His sense of humor, the breadth of his sympathies and interests, the depth of his Christian charity, and the unselfishness of his life, for it is known that Father McGuire's rewards have chiefly been the affection of his people and his friends and the hope of an eternity of God's promise to his faithful servants, these fine quality of his have endeared him to a host of friends, and it is perhaps true that none of the members of the Catholic clergy in this diocese stands higher in the esteem and in the hearts of men than this priest, who forty years ago today began his life-work in the Catholic Church.

FRANCE TO GET EASIER TERMS

Congress Would Ratify More Lenient Agreement Than With Britain.

SENATE CRITICAL.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 21.—(Canadian Press).—Congress will ratify a debt settlement with France that is much more lenient than the British agreement, that much seems assured, from soundings taken by the administration. Whatever terms are agreed upon will probably provoke some criticism in the Senate, but the general mood on capitol hill is to be liberal with France.

CONSUL'S CIRCULAR WAS IMPERTINENT

U. S. Consul in London is Sending Out Questionnaires to Firms.

LONON, Sept. 21 (Canadian Press).—The United States Consul-General in London is sending a circular to business firms containing a series of questions relating to their business and the recipients are receiving some surprise over them.

The questions, among othrse, include to what extent does a firm insure its plant and stock; what does it buy, and where; how many branch houses and travellers has it; what is the annual volume of business done, and how many persons are employed.

A monthly newspaper, The Mercantile Guardian says that such Sheer inquisitive impertinence never has been equalled, even by German spies of commercial agencies before the war."

PRINCE ESCAPES CHILE HOSPITALITY

Improved Weather Conditions Facilitate Passage of Royal Train.

SANTIAGO, Chile, Sept. 21. — Canadian Press).—The Prince of Wales, who was marooned in Chile for the past week because of heavy snowstorms in the Andes, left Vina del Mar at one o'clock yesterday for Los Andes, arriving there about four hours later. He left for the frontier on his way to Argentina at six o'clock in the morning.

No difficulty was expected in crossing the Andes as the weather of late has improved considerably. When the Royal train pulled out, to make its way up the steep mountain grades which only a few days ago were blocked with snow, there was promise of a beautiful day, and the Prince was expected to reach Mendoza, the Argentine terminus, in the evening.

The Prince spent the last day or two in Chile playing golf, riding and enjoying himself generally. There was a big crowd at the Vina del Mar station to bid him farewell. It is understood that he will fulfill his remaining engagements, despite the delay, and will sail on H.M.S. Repulse September 25 for home.

ABOUT ROLLED STOCKINGS

"A girl who rolls her stockings must have a poor opinion of her legs," observes Mlle. Mistinguette dranseuse, who, along with a host of admirers, has a very good opinion of her own. "The roll above or below the knee is ugly and breaks the symmetry of lines. It is a discord that destroys the symphony of shape. The roll below the knee is positively vulgar, for few women have knees that are pretty when nude."

The car that put the War in Warren

JIM WARREN bought a car—the "Ginger-bread Six."

Never heard of it before, but he happened to be walking along Automobile Row and during a lapse moment his foot slipped—he stepped inside.

"Nifty boat," said the salesman.

"Not bad," said Jim, as paint and doo-dabs got in their hypnotic work.

"But why isn't it advertised?" asked Jim.

"Don't need to advertise a job like that," was the forearmed reply. Sounded logical. But—

Six months later Jim had a collection of bolts and grease-cups and broken springs and disjointed steering mechanism and a motor that almost ran.

"Never again!" said Jim. "The car that's little known and never advertised hasn't much responsibility; little to live up to. Before I buy another car—or another anything—I'm going to get the facts. I'm going to read the advertisements about automobiles—or whatever I'm buying."

Advertisements are an invaluable guide to intelligent buying. Read them regularly

HER DOWRY

By Juanita Hamel

My dowry, sir? If you mean dollars I have none. But love has given me what he considers more worthwhile than gold. I have youth and beauty, and to each of these Love has added sweetness and understanding. When ... my portrait for you, he taught me that gold had no place in his domain. So I come to you with my offerings—they and my heart are yours. True, I've smiled all through life, but somehow, the real smiles—the smiles Love has taught me—I've saved for you, and you alone. So that's my dowry, sir! Could any man ask more?

RICH MATERIALS.

Some idea of the glittering richness of the materials used in frocks forecasting the coming season's styles, which were on view at the Canadian National Exhibition, in the Manufacturers' Building, encased in thick glass cases, may be gleaned from the following descriptions of their beauty:

A Paris evening frock, beginning simply with ivory flat crepe, and ending with vivid petal-like godets of emerald green velvet, ballooning from under a rich embroidery of pearl and crystal beads.

An evening gown of ivory white, exquisitely embroidered in crystal and silver-colored beads, with which is worn a glorious evening wrap of rippled silver crepe, in the new metallic effect, with great crush collar and lining of rose chiffon velvet.

A dinner gown of black chiffon velvet, striped with jewel-bright red and green, and the back drapery showing the new monster bow.

A black crepe gown with a novel treatment of black silk fringe arranged to create a basque effect, under a wrap of self-lined black chiffon velvet, showing the Chinese influence in the broad front panels of black and gold embroidery.

Another brown velvet evening wrap from Paris adopts inset bands of old gold velvet, and makes lavish use of matching fur in loose panels at the sides and back. It is lined with matching silk crepe.

The new ensembles often use harmonizing rather than matching color and fabric, and one model is developed in black kashmira with separate blouse and coat lining of brocaded metal fabric in red and gold.

A two-piece frock for formal functions is fashioned from metallic cloth, gold, silver and scarlet, with rolling velvet collar of the new pencil blue.

The fashionable bolero, re-appearing after many seasons in the discard, is shown in a charming model of fine black charmeen, which opens over a front of ivory crepe, embroidered in peasant colors. The back is quite plain.

COLONIAL FURNISHING

One of the most interesting buildings at the Toronto Exhibition this year was the Manufacturers' Building, and one of the most interesting sections in it was the five-room suite of furnished rooms.

The general feeling of the suite was Colonial, and there was a simplicity about the arrangement and furnishings easily adaptin them to the average room. The rooms featured Made-in-Canada goods.

An id of their attractive interiors may be gained from the official description of them:

The Brittany living and dining-room had grey plaster walls; beamed ceiling; unique fireplace with flat curved frontispiece; quaint hooked rugs; reproductions of French peasant furniture; sofa and chairs covered in red; red curtains.

The dining-room was a more formal room, with fine mahogany Chippendale furniture and antique crystal fixtures. The glazed walls were in biscuit color; the curtains of grey-blue damask; the rug of one tone in ripe prune color.

The hall was featured with a reproduction of old Colonial wall-paper of Gothic design, antique clock and chair; Made-in-Canada console; plain green rug and yellow sateen curtains.

The library showed pine panelled walls; one-tone rug, in warm brown; couch upholstered in purple, two chairs with printed linen slip covers; Made-in-Canada chairs and table; brocatelle hangings in red-brown tone(matching background in slip-covers) with touch of mauve; two stunning green Chinese vases made into lamps; Chippendale chair upholstered in purple tapestry (Made-in-Canada).

The bedroom used a wallpaper copy of an old Colonial sample; there was a real four-poster bed with interesting bedspread of India prints appliqued on cotton (done by a Toronto lady) a high-boy and low chest of drawers, and Queen Anne chairs covered in glazed chintz.

A SECRETARY'S PROBLEM WITH HER BOSS.

Time was when good women and bad women were as clearly defined as black cats and white mice. There wasn't a chance in the world for taking one for the other. Of course, some good women did dip into the family flour barrel and some very adventurous ones even went so far as to put talcum on their noses. BUT NO NICE WOMEN PAINTED! Not only by her complexion and her clothes, but by her manner could you tell her. The nice girl was never to be found "unprotected" in public places; she went nowhere unchaperoned; she had no man friend who was not a relative, fiance or husband. Her whole life was marked out for her. All she had to do was to follow the signposts.

But in the last few years the signposts have been swept away. The rouge pot and the powder box evidently have come to stay. Respectable mamas, staid school teachers, decorous Sunday school volunteers often carry lipsticks and compacts, and some even refresh their complexions in public! The "protected" girl is a scarce person. Economic necessity usually has forced her into business, where she works side by side with young men, old men, men who are married and men who have no intention of ever getting married. Is it any wonder that the Modern Girl's problems are many? Is it any wonder that she wonders what's right and what's wrong? Here is one:

"I am a young woman of twenty-three entering my third year in the business world. I have, previous to this year, worked in offices where the girls were all in one large room and there was little personal contact with men.

"Three months ago I took a position as private secretary to a man, and I must say he has treated me wonderfully until recently. In fact, he still does, only I am afraid that he is not doing what is right. We are together in the office a good part of the time and he often starts to talk along lines I do not approve of. I have to cut him off and show him that I am not that kind of a girl.

"Most of the time he is just lovely. I hate to give up a good position just for that. He is never really insulting. It is as if he was just trying to find out how I will take it or what I will say. He is married. His wife is very nice to me when she comes in on phones. Once when it was raining he took me to lunch. Since then he has taken me downtown in his car. On these occasions we have talked hardly of the things one would expect a boss and his secretary to talk of. It worries me.

"What do you think of a man who half makes love that way and yet is quite all right and lovely the next day? SECRETARY."

You are venturing into a new world, Pal, the world of business. You have no precedent to guide you. Mother can't answer all the questions that arise, for your problems are beyond the realm of her experience. She can't tell you whether it is wise or foolish to lunch occasionally with the boss. She never had any boss. She doesn't know. All you can do is to use your head and find out for yourself.

And just as you are feeling your way, so is the "boss" feeling his way. He is finding out what manner of girl you are. He is testing you, consciously or unconsciously, for he, too, is venturing where his ancestors never went. He is meeting you on new ground. You are a fellow worker, and whether that means someone he is to respect or someone he can play with DEPENDS ON YOU.

You're a trail breaker, little Miss Secretary, and on your good sense and integrity depends the status of Miss Secretary tomorrow. If the Boss is "trying to find out what you will say or how you will take his advances," don't keep him in doubt. Show him the things you stand for, and ten to one he'll get right in line and treat you as you want to be treated.

The coat of simple line is always more effective when the fabric of which it is fashioned offers some decorative value to its weave.

The novelty material, shown above, is ideal for the coat that is designed for sports wear. The fabric combines navy blue with a more delicate blue, leaving the plain navy to make a deep border at the hem.

ADVICE TO GIRLS

By Annie Laurie

DEAR ANNIE LAURIE:

I am a young girl in the latter part of my teens. I try to use, and would like to use, proper etiquette. But I am not sure of some things and would like your advice on the following two question:

1st—Should I ask my boy friend into the house after we come home from the show at night, or is it too late, and as it is immaterial to me as to which he does, especially after he has spent the former part of the evening with me?

2nd—If our conversation does not happen to be finished when we reach the house, is it all right for us to stand on my own walk or verandah and talk as long as I don't stand any longer than five or ten minutes. GOLDEN HEAD.

GOLDEN HEAD: It is hardly necessary to ask your boy friend in to the house after you have spent the evening in his company. Of course, it is merely a matter of choice, but if you want to use proper etiquette, as you say, you won't do it, as a matter of good form.

There shouldn't be any reason against your lingering for five or ten minutes on the walk or verandah, if you wish, but don't make it any longer than that. It is a curious thing about men that they usually take a girl at her own value. If you put yourself on a pedestal, and refuse to lower your standards, even in very small and seemingly unimportant matters, they will come in time to think that you are absolutely right in anything you do—that is, if they happen to be the right sort themselves.

BUFFALO, September 21. Canadian Press. — The International League season closed here yesterday, Buffalo winning two games from Toronto. The first was a record score for the Bisons, 20 to 4, due to the fact that Manager Howley tried out a couple of pitchers, whose performance was anything but creditable to them. The second of seven innings was a real ball contest, the score being 2 to 1, Reddy and Satterfield did the pitching. The teams had got as far as the eleventh inning with the score tied at three all and one Rochester player out when a heavy shower halted hostilities. The teams were scheduled to play a double header. TILDEN STILL ON TENNIS THRONE

Johnston Beaten After Five Grim Sets—Tilden Well Poised.

EPIC STRUGGLE

FOREST HILL, N. Y., Sept 21.—William Tatem Tilden, 2d, remains the undisputed tennis champion of the United States. He won the title Saturday when he turned back the challenge of his veteran rival, William M. Johnson, of California, in five sets. The score was 4-6, 11-9, 6-3, 4-6, 6-3, but the cold statistics fail to tell the story of Johnston's magnificent fight to overthrow the champion, who six times kept him from the title of the story of Tilden's genius and coolness in time of peril which kept the crowd of thirteen thousand keyed high throughout the match.

Johnston was three times within a point of taking the second set, Tilden's amazing poise preventing him from taking that advantage and when the champion rushed through the third set the spectators thought it was all up with "Little Bill." But the Californian came back with a hurricane spurt to take the fourth set and square the match. He had the crowd in an uproar as he gained a lead in the final set, but he had over-taxed his strength in taking the fourth. Tilden, rising to the emergency with starting lights of tennis, called on his apparently inexhaustible store of reserve to regain the lead and characteristically ace Johnston for the final point.

BROCKVILLE WON SECOND GAME IN DELORO BATTLE

Interest Now Hinges on Protest of the First Game Played.

ADA STOLE HOME.

Theft of Plate Accounted .. For Deloro's Sole .. Counter.

BROCKVILLE, Ont., Sept. 21.—Deloro journeyed to Brockville on Saturday to fulfill the second fixture with that team in the O.B.A.A. semi-finals. A large number of fans made the long trip by road. The weather conditions were ideal. Brockville brass band was in attendance on the grounds and a great crowd was on hand. Murray, the man under protest, twirled throughout for the home sters, whilst Ada was allotted the hurling for Deloro. Both pitchers were extremely good, though Murray received better support than his rival. In the first inning Deloro went out in order. Simon, batting first for Brockville, hit a two-bagger and was advanced to third on a sacrifice hit by McLean. Codere brought Simon home. Draggett hit, advancing Codere to third. Mackenzie walked, Knapp popped to centre field, Codere stole home. Oakey out at first, retiring the side. Deloro again went out in order. Brockville added another run in the next innings, Lightford reaching home on a sacrifice hit by Simon. In the third innings, Leal was struck out, Brown with a hit reached first and second on an overthrow, but got out stealing third. Hughes flied to centre field.

Brockville failed to add to their total in their innings which was marked by a minor injury to Knapp.

Deloro, in batting for the fourth time, made their lone tally. Ada walked. Schultz by a good hit reached first and advanced Ada to third. Schultz stole second. Johnstone flied out. Ada stole home. Boundreau and Regan being speedily disposed of, the side retired. Until the end of the game, each team valiantly endeavored to increase their total, but in less than two hours the game was over with Brockville victors by the score of 3 to 1. Hughes on first for Deloro came in for notice by the crowd by reason of his steady fielding.

Umpires were Wiley of Ottawa at plate; Rene Fortier of Ottawa on bases.

HARVEY PULLED C. G. E. SAMSONS IN TUG-OF-WAR

Three Pulls Needed to Decide Epic Contest at Exhibition.

WON DENNE CUP.

Over Three Thousand People Saw Splendid Show of Skill and Strength.

Like everything else at this year's Peterborough Industrial Exhibition the tug-of-war on Saturday was exceptionally good, the best performance that has ever been put on by contestants in front of the Grand Stand. And Jopling's team from Harvey won from the C. G. E., or South End Garage team in two pulls out of three.. E. B. Fowler and R. M. Glover were the officials in charge of the contest and the following were the teams:

Harvey: Alf. Irwin, McCullough, Armstrong, W. Shearer, Bob Irwin, Morris Irwin Stan Barcroft, W. Northey, L. Morris, Ed. Irwin.

C. G. E.: Robert Simpson, Adam J. McWilliams (Captain), Robert Manley, Pat Hobbins, L. Kemp, Norman McConkey, J. Reynolds, Bruce Menzies, Jean Hurtubise, Melville James, Russel Tucker.

Win Denne Cup.

By this victory the Harvey team retain the Denne cup which it won last year from the Board of Works team.

The pull was put on across the track from the grand stand, and through the efforts of President Roland Denne and Chris. Graham the spectators were kept back so that patrons of the stand had a good view. Last year there was scarcely room for the contestants to pull, so crowded were they.

In the first pull, with the Harvey team on harder ground than the C. G. E. team, the mark was not passed by six inches throughout the two minute pull, one of the closest exhibitions of the art that has been seen in Pterborough. On the change around, the Harvey boys romped away with the C. G. E. gang— in fact one was heard to say they would have pulled their opponents right of the grounds byt they were afraid the C. G. E. bunch would habe to pay fees again.

For the third round the rope was taken out on the soft track, and it was a strenuous battle for the deciding point Every inch was fought stubbornly, and at the end of the two minutes the Harvey team had edged their opponents eighteen inches nearer the mark.

Stand Crowded.

The grand stand, which holds about 3,300 people, was crowded almost to capacity, and there were fully 300 persons standing.. It was an unusual sight for Fair habitues to see the stand so well filled at that time as it usually empties immediately the horse races are finished. After Saturday's exhibition of the strong-man's art it is likely that greater interest will be taken in future events of the kind.

THISTLE CLAIM LEAGUE POINTS

Jags Had Full Eleven and Woollens Had Six Players.

DECISION TO-NIGHT.

Ideal weather prevailed on Saturday afternoon for the soccer code but unfortunately no game took place in the senior league fixture that was scheduled for Nicholls Oval between the Canadian Woollens and the Thistle.

The starting hour was 3 o'clock but Referee Alex. McKinley never declared the game off until 4-45 p.m. when the following Woollens players were present, six in all, Blowers, Mann, Burgess, Clark, Mitchell, and Sayers. The Thistle team was complete in Brown, Anderson, Wade, Williams, W. Hutton, P. Hutton, Richmond, Dawson and Browell.

There being no match, Richmond and Jack Wade choose two elevens that battled away on the field where penalties were in abundance and Tommy Stewart and Alex. Anderson being specialists in the art of scoring.

No doubt, the Jags will lay a claim for the two points at the executive meeting to-night when the Board will hear both sides of the issue before any definite result is declared.

WALKER AND SHADE IN 15-ROUND BOUT

World's Welterweight Title at Stake in Battle at Stadium.

NEW YORK, Sept. 21. — A challenge of two years standing will be finally answered tomorrow night by Mickey Walker, of Elizabeth, N. J. when he steps into the ring at the Yankee Stadium to defend his worlds welter-weight title against Dabe Shade, of California.

The meeting of the two men in a fifteen round battle to a decision is looked upon by pugilistic followers as one of outstanding welter weight contests of ring history.

Walker to-day continued to rule a favorie at 7 to 5 in the speculation, although it was expected that the odds would be shortened as the hour of conflict drew near. Walker still reported a slight cold, but his trainers confidently the last traces of the ailment would pass before to morrow night.

G. A. BRETHEN UNANIMOUS CHOICE

of," was Mr. Caskey's accolade to the first Progressive candidate in the riding of Peterboro-Hastings. "No one can point a finger against him in anything. He's a temperance man first and above everything and few candidates can say that."

Said Gavin Wallbridge: "We've got to fight the Tory machine and you know what that means. However, in Madoc village half the voters are Progressives. That was proved in two elections, and I believe we'll get a good vote in the villages."

Hugh Maloney of Marmora township, E. N. McDonald of Dummer, Adam Humphries of Asphodel, Mr. Caskey and others all advocated political action.

"We wouldn't be true to ourselves if we failed to put a candidate in the field," said Mr. Caskey. "The Liberals seem to be working on the same policy as the Conservatives, and the Progresives are the only people opposed to high protection. I can't see how we can gain anything by taying ourselves."

At the close of the meeting an organization was skeletonized for the whole constituency appointing local workers to look after Mr. Brethen's and the party's interests in every section.

J. W. Kennedy, M.P., of Glengarry addressed the convention prior to the business of selecting the candidate.

Not Out Of Politics.

B. C. Tucker corrected the impression that the U.F.O. had gone out of politics. "It was never legally in politics," he said, "but the United Farmers of Ontario passed a resolution favoring full autonomy in the constituencies. Branches of the organization in the ridings were free to do whatever they thought best. Our county has never been organized, and what we are doing now should have been started six months ago. My opinion is that we should not put a Progressive in the field, but if any man wished to run as an Independent he could do so. The King Government has killed every Progressive possibility it could in West Peterboro, in South Hastings, in North Ontario and elsewhere. The fight is theirs because the dirt is theirs.

Mr. Brethen, following Mr. Tucker, delivered the convention speech that enhanced his candidacy for the nomination.

"If this situation means anything," he began, "it means that it is not a one man's job. "The task any man would have as an independent or as a candidate belonging to any party, putting himself in the field, would be beyond the capacity of that man no matter who he was.

I was sent to Ottawa four years ago to support legislation on its merits, to promote the good and oppose the bad, and I have done that. I believe the call should come from the people to a candidate to go forth and should not come from the man himself.

Pure Democracy.

This meeting is different from any other ever held here for nominating a candidate. Responsibility for political action is being brought home to the people themselves. It is not a case of three or four men getting together and picking a party candidate. The duty is placed on the people generally. And that is real democracy, government of the people, by the people, for the people. That's the kind of thing I'm in sympathy with."

"There are two political propositions before the people of Canada" Mr. Brethen declared in changing topics. "One of them is supported by all true Liberals, and is advocated by Progressives. One of those propositions is that we want the people engaged in the basic industries of production in this country to be prosperous, that if the miners, and farmers, and lumbermen and fishermen and others have money to spend, the whole country will feel the effect of it from the banker to the bootblack.

Mr. Meighen's Policy.

Opposed to that policy is the proposition put forth by the Right Hon. Arthur Meighen. Briefly it is that if we are to stem the tide of migration from this country and to cure all our economic ills, real and imaginary, we must build up and protect great industrial centres; that there will be more workers, and farmers will benefit by feeding them.

Protection 47 Years.

It is a very plausible policy, but we've had it for forty-seven years no matter which of the old parties was in power at Ottawa. Today Mr. Meighen claims the country is going to the dogs, and that state of affairs has developed under the policy of protection, for that policy has not varied more than 1 or 2 percent under the two parties whenever they were in power. So if there is any blame for conditions in Canada, put it on that policy."

"What are the effects of this policy which especially Mr. Meighen and his candidates proclaim?" was Mr. Brethen's rhetorical question. "The Conservatives say 'look at the prosperity of the United States. Let us raise our tariff as high as theirs. I admit that in Florida there is prosperity of a kind because thousands of people are going there. It is a big land boom, and you know the after effects of that. Tourists from all over America pour into California, and some of the large industrial centres are busy. But what of the rest of the country?

U.S. Bank Failures.

The Fordney-McCumber tariff went into effect in the United States in 1922 with the highest tariff they ever had. Between January 1, 1924 and February 14th there were 7 national banks and 95 state banks smashed because they held notes of farmers who had gone into bankruptcy. And since 1920 there have been 420 state banks and 95 national banks in the United States forced to close.

Is that the kind of policy we want? It may build up industrial centres, but it won't help our Maritime provinces and it won't help the farmers.

Advantage to Cities.

Of course if I lived in Oshawa or Windsor I would be tempted to support the policy of Mr. Meighen, that is, if I cared nothing for the welfare of Canada as a whole. But being a Canadian and anxious for all Canada, I feel that every farmer and townsman and villager should know what he is doing before he gives a clear ticket to Ottawa for any supporter of Mr. Meighen. And the best way of bringing the facts before the people is by having a contest."

Snapping his fingers indifferently, Mr. Brethen proceeded: "I may say that it does not make that much difference whether I go back to Ottawa or back to my farm at Norwood, but it does mean something to me if I believe I have a message the people should know. I'd feel badly if Mr. Meighen could enforce the things he advocates. He favors prohibiting the sale of pulpwood outside Canada. The purpose back of that is a good one, building up Canadian industry, but it would force farmers who have pulpwood to take $2 a cord less than they can get now. And so it is generally with that policy."

Somebody Pays.

Somebody paid for the big manufacturers who lived in luxury and without much effort, and in the long run the people on the farms were big contributors. The people of Canada paid the $13,000,000 collected by the automobile tariff.

Bonusing Big Industry.

"Did it pay?" Mr. Brethen asked. "When you paid $200 more for a Ford than it cost across the line, was the money better in the other fellow's pocket than in yours? That company paid out $9,000,000 in wages, $2,000,000 in taxes, so the Government, in other words, said to Ford, we will pay your wage bill and your tax bill, and in addition we will give you a nest egg of $2,000,000 for having you with us. How long would Marmora keep a Council that brought in industries on that plan? The old parties have been jockeying with the tariff for 47 years, and it has varied only between 1 and 2 per cent. by the changes when one party went out and the other took its place."

Brethen a Temperance Man.

Mr. Brethen switched his subject to a different phase, one which, he said, would appeal to women, when he emphasized that the Progressive party stood 'four square' on the temperance question.

"I am a temperance man," he stated, "and I always have been. There are lots of temperance men who are as good temperance men as I until it comes to a matter of legislation. Then they are party men first and temperance men second. I am a temperance man first, and my temperance principles will never be subservient to my party principles. I can't make it any plainer, and I'm proud to belong to a party that stands four square on every great question of moral uplift, the party which social service workers recognize can be depended upon to vote right as well as talk right.

"Personally, I believe the Progressives of this new riding should put a man in the field."

What Progressives Did.

The address of J. W. Kennedy, M.P., was chiefly a statement of the accomplishments of the Federal Progressive group and of reasons why it should be sustained at Ottawa by the electors.

"The people give us a great deal of credit for the reductions in the tariff," he said. "And there was quite a reduction on the implements of production, that is, on machinery used on the farms, in forests and mines, but it was not enough. We also wanted the people in the cities to get some benefit by a reduction in the cost of the necessities of life, such as food, clothing, boots and shoes, but our work is not yet completed. Then there was the revision of the Bank Act in which the Progressives were all interested. We didn't secure very much because both sides lined up against the things we advocated, but you wouldn't have had Government inspection of banks if you hadn't had sixty odd independent men at Ottawa."

Then there was the work on legislation in the committee stage when it was being taken up clause by clause, said Mr. Kennedy. The Progressives were familiar with the subjects of the feed and shipping acts, grading of fruits and similar measures in which, because of their practical knowledge, the Progressives rendered considerable service by revising and suggesting changes in the legislation.

The Counsel of Farmers.

"Department officials admit they can't put anything over on us," Mr. Kennedy remarked, and the Speaker of the House said there never before had been such good attendance in the House in his experience.

"Isn't it worth while to have a large body in the Commons who will give their time faithfully to the country's affairs, who will put the good of Canada above party interests? We have broken the old power of partizan feeling throughout the concessions. That movement is not completed, but there has been a great change in the last ten years.

Independent Thought Needed.

What this country needs is a critical, intelligent, independent public opinion that can't be swayed by appeals to passion, and prejudice, waving of the flag and things of that sort. Such a public opinion would be one of the greatest safeguards any country could have against misgovernment.

We Progressives decided questions on their merits. You know there are in elections such things as party slush funds, and many a member who gets to Ottawa finds he owes certain obligations to his party and that he is expected to stand by it. We voted with the Government about as often as we voted against it."

Can't Shut Out Goods.

Mr. Kennedy touched upon the tariff controversy, saying that in 1879 Canada's imports totalled $80,000,000 and in 1920, they had reached $800,000,000. During that time the population had doubled. In other words, each Canadian in 1920 bought five times as much imported goods as in 1879. It was impossible to make this country self-contained, Mr. Kennedy contended. You can't shut out goods; you can only make them dearer.

The Canadian boot and shoe industry was protected to the extent of 30 per cent., but there was no duty imposed by the United States. In spite of the American market being open to them, the Canadian manufacturers have made no effort to get into that market."

Declaring that a tariff tended to deaden industrial effort, Mr. Kennedy pointed out in contrast that when the British cattle embargo was lifted, Canadian farmers had a shipload of cattle ready to sail for England against the competition of the Irish and Danish producers.

Competition is a wonderful incentive, but the more highly protected is an industry the least effort does it put forth to get markets. The tariff is an unjust tax because it bea heavily on people with large families and on farmers, while creatin a privileged class and a feeling unfairness and injustice.

"If we really desire a happy an contented country, that feeling mu be removed," Mr. Kennedy asserted. "The Meighen tariff policy is not national policy. It is a sectiona policy. It does not appeal to th Maritimes or to the Prairies, an this sectionalism has a damnin effect on Canada. It intensifies t feeling of division in this count and prevents the development of a truly national sentiment.

The meeting closed with the sing ing of the National Anthem.

RALLY IN TENTH LOST GAME FOR ROYAL MIDGETS

Ottawa Team Scored Two Runs in Last Frame to Win.

PITCHERS' BATTLE.

Three Hits For Royals and Two For Ottawa in Entire Game.

(Special to the Examiner.)

KINGSTON, Ont., September 21.—Ottawa and Peterborough Midgets met here on Saturday afternoon to decide the eastern title of the Midget series, Ottawa winning out in the tenth inning, after a neat little rally, by the score of 3-2.

It was a snappy game of ball and the fairly large crowd of fans that turned out to see the two outside teams perform, were well repaid for their trouble. The teams battled along fairly evenly all the way through, and it was a real pitching battle from the start to the close of the engagement.

Ottawa scored their first run in the first innings and were shut out again until the tenth when two were put across. Peterborough succeed one over in the sixth, and another in the tenth, but did not have the punch that the Ottawas had. The game produced one of the neatest pitching battles seen here this season in junior ball. Galarnieu, the Ottawa Midget pitching ace, and Routley, the husky Midget twirler for Peterboro kept their fight at the high pitch all through the game, but the latter weakened in the tenth, and was taken out, and Goodson replaced him but the first ball that Goodson threw got away from the Peterboro catcher and the winning run went over. The Ottawa pitcher had the edge and turned seevnteen batters back by the strike out route, while Routley pitching for Peterboro had fourteen. Hits were few and far between and the Ottawa ace allowed but three to the Peterboro team while Ottawa secured but two from Routley.

There was but one extra base hit that being secured by Reynolds of Peterboro in the fifth inning when he opened with a two bagger and stole third but was left there.

Ottawa was the first to score, getting a run in their half of the first frame. Lynch, the first batter, struck out but Hammell scoring Bennoffel. Dowd finished by breezing. Peterboro tied the count in the sixth inning. Wilson flied to Gardiner, Beavis drew a walk, stole second and scored on Maclies' high throw over third base. This run was a gift as the next two men struck out.

Things went along with the score the same until the tenth inning when Peterboro jumped into the lead. Hope hit safely for a single and stole 2nd and 3rd, while the next two batters were striking out. Wilson reached first on Purdy's error and Hope scored.

With the score 2-1 in their favo Peterboro thought the game was salted but Ottawa came back strong.

Purdy reached first on Hope's error and Maclie followed with a single; Ralph drew a walk; with three on and nobody out Purdy scored on a fielder's chance and everybody was safe, the play at second being slow. Goodson was sent in for Routley. He pitched one ball, that one getting away from the catcher and rolling toward the Peterboro bench. Maclie lost no time in getting in with the winning run, and the game was over.

By CHESTER HORTON

The golfer who tries to correct one golf fault with another one is going to do a lot of swearing at his golf clubs. One of the fine points on which to get set—once and for all — in golf is that a combination of errors can quickly ensue from one fault if the player does not watch his step and stick pretty close to the fundamentals. The true path to good golf is, "Play your own game and stick to it." When a fault or trouble bobs up make it a point to find out what the fundamental is on that particular phase of the swing, then stick it out. The right thing may at first be somewhat awkward, but ease with it comes with practice. Make it a rule not to adopt one bad practice to overcome another one. If you have doubt as to what the fundamental in any phase of play may be I will be glad to give you correct information if you write me in care of this paper. Now, not altogether please.

Conservative Convention Billed For Wednesday — Party is Optimistic.

"Conservatives locally and generally are most optimistic," said J. F. Strickland, secretary of the Conservative Association in a statement this morning. "The calibre of the nominees is such as to indicate a well contested election, here and throughout the country. There is no dearth of candidates. Many leading Conservatives are convinced that the country is heading for disaster and a calamity can be averted only by a change of government."

The Conservative candidate for this riding will be selected on Wednesday at a meeting in the Victoria Hall, which will be addressed by the Hon. Dr. Manion and Mrs. Fallis. The nominees will also give addresses.

TAYLOR TROPHY TAKEN BY C.P.C. FOR THIRD TIME

Overtime Was Necessary For Decision After Two Drawn Games.

FINAL SCORE 1-0.

Cup Holders Scored Only Goal in First Half of Overtime.

The final for the possession of the Taylor Trophy took place on King Edward Park on Saturday afternoon. The teams had met on two previous occasions, each game ending in a draw, and after playing full time no decision was arrived at. Extra time was played, and James, for the C.P.C., scored the only goal of the game, which gave the Packers the trophy for the third year in succession. It was a very pleasantly contested game Montgomery again proved himself to be a great custodian, stopping a penalty from Dyer in fine style.

The Game.

The Packers won the toss and Evans kicked off for the De Laval. Hanson got possession and tested Montgomery in the first minute. Buchan, who played his best game, made a nice opening for Mitchell, whose final effort went just wide. From the goal kick Frost sent out to Bennett, who in turn gave to Evans, who sent a straight drive for goal. Montgomery threw out to Carmichael, who made a nice dribble and sent Foster, who hesitated, and lost a golden opportunity. Frick, from the goal-kick, sent well up the field to Hanson, but Cross kept a watchful eye on him all through the game and prevented him from centering the ball, and sent to Bradley, who in turn gave to James, whose shot Frick just turned around the post. From the corner, which Mitchell took, Fricks again punted out of danger. Buchan was again in the lime light by some nice work, and sent Foster away, Dyer coming to the rescue and relieving. Lindsay got away, Halliday heading out his shot, which looked dangerous. Half-time arrived with the score-sheet blank.

Second Half.

Upon resuming, the Packers went away, and it looked like a score, Frick saving from Carmichael in fine style. The game seemed to improve in speed. Mitchell and Hanson were making some flashing runs on their respective wings, and were a source of trouble to the defenders. Hanson once got a beauty across, Montgomery fisting out and giving a corner. Hanson took the kick and placed nicely, Long just heading over the bar. From the goal-kick, Bellingsley got away and gave to James, who missed by inches. Dyer was now transferred to centre, and he was making tracks for goal and was fouled in the forbidden area. A penalty was awarded the De Laval. Dyer took the kick, and Montgomery saved what seemed a certain goal, amid cheers from his many admirers. Grant, who played a great game, got the ball away and Buchan sent to Foster, who made a dashing run; his centre was met by Carmichael, whose final effort just grazed the upright. Frick sent well down the field, and Dyer again was making his way to Montgomery, Buchan just robbing him in time. The game now was very exciting, both goals had some very narrow escapes. Time was called with the score-sheet again blank.

Extra Time.

The Packers won the toss and Mitchell was again conspicuous by a dashing run and sent across a beautiful centre. Frost cleared with a huge drive. Halliday and Grant, backed up by a splendid trio of halves, were urging their forwards along. Buchan gave to Bradbury, who made a nice dribble and sent to James, who beat Frick with a shot well out of his reach. From the centre kick, the De Laval made great efforts to equalize. Montgomery tipping a shot from Long over the bar. Hanson took the corner and sent among a crowd of players. Montgomery punted out of danger, and Carmichael went away and sent in a great drive which Frick threw out. Buchan again was prominent with some nice work, and sent to Mitchell who shot wide. Half-time was now called with the Packers leading by one goal to none.

Upon resuming, the De Laval went at it in great style. From Hanson's centre, Lindsay missed by inches. From the goal-kick, Montgomery sent well over the half-way line. James trapped the ball and sent to Foster, whose centre Frost again met and sent well down the field. Dyer got under way and looked all over a scorer when he was brought down just outside the penalty area. From the free kick taken by Warde, Montgomery again was conspicuous by a fine save. The De Laval were now having the best of the argument, and took the Packers' defence all their time to keep them out. Buchan kept popping up when a score seemed certain, and saving his side on many occasions. Time was now called, and the Packers won the trophy the third year in succession at the third time of asking by 1 goal to none.

Presenting the Cup.

In the absence of the donor, W. H. Taylor, the cup was presented to the winners by Mr. Middleton, a great supporter of junior football. He congratulated both teams upon the play and upon the sportsmanship in which the series has been played. W. James responded, and J. Warde moved a vote of thanks to Mr. Middleton, who called for three cheers for both teams.

The teams:

C.P.C.—T. Montgomery; Grant and Halliday; J. Bradbury, Buchan and J. Cross; T. Mitchell, R. Carmichael, James, Foster and Bellingsley.

De Laval—Frick; Frost and Dyer; Smith, Warde and Harvey; Hanson, Long, Evans, Bennett and Lindsay.

Referee—W. Curtis. Linesmen—W. Anderson and T. Monks.

PONIES BEATEN BY THE OSLERS

Gallagher Blew Up in Seventh and Ponies Lose 8-2.

TORONTO, September 21.—With "Lefty" McCay pitching invincible ball, the Toronto Oslers, worthy champions of the Ontario Baseball Amateur Association, senior series, defeated Kingston by 8 to 2 in the first of the home-and-home games played at the Island Stadium on Saturday afternoon. McCay walked one man, struck Arneil twice, fanned six and held the visitors to seven hits, most of them scratches. Joe Spring will pitch in the return game at the limestone City and the Ontario champions expect to make it two straight.

Weak with Bat.

The game was not productive of many thrills. The Ponies' helplessness at bat took nearly all the life out of the affair. With six right-hand hitters the visitors should have been able to make life miserable for "Lefty" McCay, but the righthanders didn't do very well, and Halbert and Gallagher, left hand batters, got 3 of the safeties. Harry Lee Batstone, who was applauded every time he went to the plate, could not make a hit at all, but he lifted a long sacrifice fly to Reid in the eighth to score Halbert with the second run. Somerville, the other slugger on the Kingston team, kept Batstone company. He was turned back four times in succession.

Manager Joe Daly selected Gallagher in preference to Cairns, when in the warm-up practice the veteran showed a lot of stuff. Gallagher's arm had been bothering him but he was sure he could beat the Oslers, and in the first six innings he pitched effectively even if the locals did get a two run lead. Better support might have given Gallagher a shutout, until the Oslers struck for victory in the seventh.

The lack of games and practice undoubtedly hurt the Kingston team's chances. They were not the same confident, battling aggregation that beat out the strong Peterboro' nine in the Central Ontario League race. They made seven hits, but most of them were scratchy, and the team as a whole looked weak with the willow.

Kingston will have a real chance to even the count in the Limestone City. They are used to the grounds, and Oslers will find that vast Exhibition Fair field tricky. Then, again, Joe Breen is not likely to play. He will leave to-night for Quebec, where he will attend a convention which is expected to last six days. Cairns will do the hurling for Daly's men, and Joe Spring will go to the mound for the champions.

POPULAR YOUNG FARMER AS PROGRESSIVE CANDIDATE TO SUPPORT MODERATE TARIFF

Nine Candidates Withdrew in Favour of Bruce McNevin.

RECALLED CORN LAWS

Presented European Nations as Examples of High Tariff Failure.

LINDSAY, Sept. 21.—Mr. Bruce McNevin, a popular young farmer of Ops Township, received the unanimous nomination as the standard-bearer of the Progressives of Victoria and Haliburton in the Federal campaign at the nomination meeting held in the Academy Theatre here on Saturday. There was a goodly number of delegates from all parts of the riding in attendance. Mr. Jasper Forman, of Kirkfield, president of the County Progressive Association, presided.

Ten names were placed in nomination by the candidates as follows: N. Smale, Alex. Horn, Lindsay; Wm. Newman, Lorneville; Isaac Fee, Emily; F. G. Sandy, ex-M.L.A., Omemee; J. J. Thurston, late Progressive member Victoria and Haliburton; Mrs. J. Hall, Ops; Jasper Forman, Kirkfield; Mrs. F. Webster and Mrs. McElroy of Mariposa.

All retired in favor of Mr. McNevin.

The surprise of the convention was the announcement of Mr. Thurston that he would not be a candidate. It was thought that there would be a contest for the nomination, and that Mr. Thurston would allow his nome to go before the convention. Private reasons, he announced, were responsible for his decision to withdraw.

Mr. Alex. Horn, of the Horn Bros. Woollen Co., in withdrawing his name as a candidate, announced that he was in favor of a high tariff, but not at the expense of the "other fellow." If he was to become prosperous at the expense of the people by a high tariff, he would prefer not to enjoy that prosperity. He further stated that he was the only member of the Canadian Manufacturers' Association who was also a member of the U.F.O. He hoped the day would come when a tariff would be formulated that would be satisfactory to all.

Mr. J. J. Thurston, in his address, gave an account of his record as the county's representative in the Federal House. His experience at Ottawa had been that the majority of representatives of the people thought more of party than they did of Canada. Partyism was only a myth, and the only policy that would build up this country and put it on the right road to progress was that enunciated by the Progressives. He referred to Hon. Mr. Guthrie's criticism of his stand in the House on certain questions, and pointed out that Mr. Guthrie was not competent to speak with authority during the last session he was touring the continent of Europe, spending the $4,000 sessional allowance. "He had referred to me," said Mr. Thurstone, "as one of the biggest Grits in the House, but if you ask the Liberals of Victoria and Haliburton they will class me as a Tory."

"The building of the Dominion Arsenal in Lindsay, and in Canada for that matter," was a crime," said Mr. Thurston. "It should never have been built in any country. It was built by the Conservatives and closed by the Conservatives, who now announce that if Mr. Meighen is elected, it would be opened in a month. If Mr. Stinson, the Conservative candidate for Victoria and Haliburton, could secure a written promise from Mr. Meighen that the arsenal would reopen within that period, I will get out and work for him."

Mr. Thurston characterized the Trent Valley Canal as a "white elephant"—built as a political bid, and could not be utilized for extensive transportation purposes. He also announced that during the last session the Tories had saved the government from defeat oftener than did the Progressives. He believed in public ownership of our railways and claimed that Sir Henry Thornton as chairman of the C.N.R., had performed wonders. If ex-Premier Meighen were elected and carried out his railway policy, the National systems would go out of business.

Mr. Bruce McNevin, in accepting the nomination, remarked that the present was a critical time in the history of the country. The Conservatives had nailed the flag of protection to the mast, and that policy touched the basic industry closely. Protection for farmers promised to be in the forefront in this campaign. He asked his hearers to look back to Britain in the days when the fight was waged against the Corn Laws. "Are we going back in Canada to a tax on food?" He would not thank the convention for the honor conferred on him, but rather for the responsibility placed on his shoulders. He referred to the action of the National Institute of Agriculture in the United States in demanding a protective tariff, which was granted in the Fordney Tariff. Recently the same Institute had declared that so far as agriculture was concerned, a protective tariff was useless. If a protective tariff was of no benefit across the line, what advantage would it be in Canada? Mr. McNevin quoted statistics bearing on the relation of a protective tariff on the importation and exportation of grain, live stock, etc. The tax on the importation of agricultural products, Mr. McNevin argued, hits the farmer who is obliged to purchase them. He quoted figures to show how a protective tariff to manufacturers seriously affected the agricultural industry, and took the manufacture of agricultural implements as a sample. The Progressives in the Federal House had urged a reduction in the tariff in many lines. "Was it a detriment to the progress of the country?" asked Mr. McNevin. He pointed out that in 1921, when Mr. Meighen went out of power, the country's trade balance was $28,000,000. In June, 1925, it was $269,650,000. The Conservatives claimed that the condition of Canadian industries was bad. In 1922, 857 industries had failed; in 1923, 772, and in 1924, 625. The cry was also raised, said Mr. McNevin, that if the tariff was lowered it would spell ruin for industry. Yet such a manuufacturer as Vincent Massey were ready to come before the people on a low tariff platform.

The statement had also been made that the steel industry was in danger. In 1921 the stock of the Canadian Milling and Smelting Co. was worth $21 a share; this year it was worth $121. The fact was, said Mr. McNevin, that industry was just commencing to develop from the reduction in tariff. The Bank of Montreal stock in 1921 was worth $215 a share, and in 1925, $236.

France and Germany were protectionist countries, and today we have the spectacle, said Mr. McNevin, of these nations appealing with a view to having the burdens of the war debt and obligations lightened, and also the United States demanding of Great Britain a payment of her obligations to that republic. What was her answer? We will pay every dollar of our debt. England, which had been bled white in the war, was a free trade nation, and it was that policy that had contributed to her greatness. The fact that the United States at the present time was prosperous was not due to a policy of protection, but rather to the fact that it practically came out of the war unscathed. In spite of all these facts, said Mr. McNevin, the people are told that Canada would sink into oblivion if it adopted a lower tariff policy.

The country cannot prosper, said Mr. McNevin, if it adopts a policy for the east and one for the west. We must support an all-Canada policy, and only such a policy will bring prosperity.

THE LOVE HOUR

Comedy Drama of a Beauty and a Millionaire.

Cupid lurks in unexpected corners of the world. The mischievous little god lay in wait for Jennie Tibbs and Betty Brown at an amusement park where the two shop girls went picnicking. Gus Yerger, overfed and prosaic, and Jennie, frisky and adventure-bound, were the target for the same arrow from his bow. Betty, however, gingerly stepped aside from the flirtatious advances of Kid Lewis, so, with a chuckle, young Cupid shot a multi-millioinaire for her. That was the beginning of the exciting romance between Rex Westmore and the beautiful shop girl, which was crammed with the drama of a woman's sacrifice and a man's understanding.

VIRINIA VALLI IN ..... "LADY WHO LIED"

New Screen Thriller From Robert Hichens' Novel Here Today.

Her aesthetic nature seeking early expression, Virginia Holmes, known to screen fame as Virginia Valli, studied classical dancing while attending public school in Chicago. However, the movies exercised their lure and Virginia found herself an extra with the old Essanay Company.

Not satisfied with her progress in pictures, she went on the stage as a member of a Chicago stock company, appearing in a similar capacity in Milwaukee. But the growing picture director Frankenstein never forgave her for deserting and again lured her, this time with the bait of leading lady and a munificent salary of $30 per week attached.

In this environment she appeared before the camera with such associates as Agnes Hinkle, whom you now know as Agnes Ayres; Rod La Rocque, Helen Ferguson and Ralph Graves.

Then she went to New York, armed with letters of introduction to everyone of importance among film executives. But such was ever (or almost ever) the efficacy of missives of that sort—the best she got was a place in the ranks once again, this time as extra with the World Film company.

Within a few months, however, she was co-starring with Creighton Hale in three pictures, and Bert Lytell, impressed with her work, obtained her as leading woman for a Metro production filmed in California.

She next appeared in "The Storm" for Universal and won such a success that the Laemmle organization placed her under a long term contract. Then an attack of double pneumonia forced her retirement for a year from screen work.

She made her reappearance in "A Lady of Quality" and made in rapid succession "Wild Oranges," "The Signal Tower," "The Confidence Man" and other productions.

She has an important role in the picturization of the Robert Hitchens novel, "Snake Bite," which Edwin Carewe filmed for First National under the title of "The Lady Who Lied." This picture is booked for the Capitol Theatre today.

PIANO CONTEST WINNERS.

Close Estimates in the Greene Music Co. $400 Prize Contest on Number Attending the Exhibition.

Evidently a lot more people than the directors were interested in the number of paid admissions to the big Fair. Judging by the interest taken in the estimating contest put on by the J. M. Greene Music Co., Limited, the question was a real live one. The estimates that were made on the total attendance were very shrewdly worked out, and a large number made a good deal closer guesses at the figure than the directors themselves dared hope for or aim at. This morning the envelopes were opened by the committee, after the correct number of 36,212 had been ascertained, and it was found that the three winners of the $400.00 piano credits had come unexpectedly close to the mark. They were Mrs. W. Howard, 558 Chamberlain Street, with an estimate of 36,183, who wins the first prize of a purchasing credit of $200.00. Second prize of a $125.00 credit was won by Opal Rosborough, R.R. 4, Peterboro, whose estimate was 36,176. Third prize of $75.00 credit goes to Eileen Fisher, 289 Armour Road, whose guess was 36,370.

The next nearest 50 who are awarded a $50.00 credit on a piano purchase will be notified of their success by letter.

Mr. Greene is greatly pleased at the success of the contest, and the splendid purchasing credits will be handed over to the winners, with the added feature that they will be redeemable, on the purchase of any new piano up to the 1st of November, 1925. The credits are also transferable, and will be honored if sold or given to a friend of the winner, but only one credit can be used on any purchase.

WEDDING BELLS.

COLLINGS—FISHER.

A quiet wedding took place at Knox Church manse, at ten o'clock this morning, when Devina May, the youngest daughter of Mrs. David Fisher of Millbrook, became the bride of Charles Collings of Campbellcroft. Rev. M. C. Mckinnon officiated.

CLARKE—CHAMBERS.

A very pretty wedding took place on Friday afternoon at the home of Mr. and Mrs. J. Stewart Chambers, 175 Aylmer Street, when their daughter, Daisy Eleanor, was united in the holy bonds of matrimony to Leon Ryerson Clarke, of Detroit, son of Rev. and Mrs. W. H. Clarke of Hilton, Ontario. The ceremony was performed by the father of the bridegroom.

The bride, who was given in marriage by her father, looked charming in a gown of sand georgette, with hat and shoes to match. Miss Hazel Davidson, who attended the bride, wore golden brown canton crepe. Mr. Fred Chambers of Windsor, brother of the bride, acted as best man.

After the ceremony a dainty luncheon was served to the immediate friends and relatives of the bridal party. Mr. and Mrs. Clarke left later for a short honeymoon trip, after which they will reside in Detroit.

The gift of the bridegroom to the bridesmaid was a bar pin set with sapphires, and to the best man a gold penknife and chain.

CARNEY—FOSTER.

A pretty wedding took place at two o'clock to-day, at St. John's church, when Rose, only daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Foster, 51 Brock street, was united in the holy bonds of matrimony to Robert C. Carney, eldest son of Mr. and Mrs. R. Carney, Aylmer street. The ceremony was performed by Rev. Dr. Blagrave.

The bride, who was given away by her brother, Mr. George Foster, was in a beautiful white costume. Her dress, of white silk canton crepe, was ornamented with butterflies outlined in silver beads. She wore a veil of white tulle, with coronet of orange blossoms, white gloves, white kid slippers and silk stockings, and carried an arm bouquet of sweetheart roses and lily of the valley.

The bridesmaid, Miss Agnes Stone, of Burleigh Falls, wore orchid georgette, trimmed with silver, hat of orchid georgette, with satin trimming, white shoes and stockings, and carried a bouquet of pink carnations.

Mr. Stewart Foster acted as best man.

The wedding march was played by Mr. F. G. Mann, and, during the signing of the register, Mrs. Jack Livingstone sang "O Promise Me."

Mr. and Mrs. Carney left on the afternoon C.P.R. train for a honeymoon in Toronto and points west. On their return they will reside in Peterboro. The bride travelled in an ensemble suit of Poiret twill, in navy and sand, with touches of Oriental embroidery. She wore a large hat of black panne velvet, with ostrich feather ornaments, and a brown fox fur neckpiece.

The gift of the bridegroom to the bride was a handsome brown leather purse, to the bridesmaid a sapphire ring, to the soloist a silver bar pin, and to the best man a pair of gold cuff links.

Merchants Who Helped Are Invited to Hear About the Outing.

It was Camp Day with the Peterboro Rotary Club today, the speaker being Herb. Mowat, camp director for the past three summers, while the merchants, who had assisted in making the camp possible by donations of foods had been invited to to-day's luncheon. Quite a number accepted the invitation.

Rotarian Gillespie announced the list of those assisting as follows: Fitzpatrick and Geraghty, P. S. White, N. Routley, J. E. Lillico, Jno. Kerr, Jas. Connal, John Hill, T. Kinnear, John Sloan, W. J. Oke, Kitney & Sons, John Williams, E. Strauo, J. Simons, M. Pringle, F. Asta, T. Toomey, T. Rose, F. Riley, Coleman Bros., Bowdin Bread, Stock's Bread, Gilgour & Son., T. Hooper, John Grady, S. Ferguson, Maple Leaf Milling Co., Canadian Packing Company, W. H. Hamilton, Chas. Cheu, James Burgess, Mrs. F. L. Robinson, Mendell Braund, Jopling & Sons, John Mervin, S. Mahood, Stoney Lake Navigation Co.

Mr. Mowat, after outlining in detail a day's routine in camp and relating some of the episodes that made the 1925 camp remarkable, pleaded for the Rotarians to not only put their supplies but to put themselves into the camp movement, declaring it to be the best possible asset in connection with a boys' work programme. It was possible through such a camp to get closer in touch with the boy than could be done in any other way, and Mr. Mowat urged Rotarians to back up the camp plan in every possible way.

An interesting feature of this year's camp, he explained, was the system by which a complete record had been kept of each boys' history and of his camp activities; information which would be useful in following up the boys during the year.

Rotarian Andrew Brown, who in co-operation with President Cook of the Kiwanis Club, had charge of entaining the crippled children at the Peterboro Industrial Exhibition, said that thanks were due to President R. Denne for his generous assistance.

CONROY-BUCHANAN NUPTIALS.

A very pretty wedding was solemnized at eight o'clock this morning at St. Peter's Cathedral, in the presence of a large number of friends and relatives of the contracting parties, when Ruth Agnes Buchanan, Phm.B., second daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Malcolm Buchanan, 87 Benson avenue, became the bride of Dr. J. Herbert Conroy, of Edmonton, Alta., fifth son of Mr. and Mrs. David Conroy, Hunter street east.

The ceremony was performed by Rev. Michael O'Brien of Huntsville, Ontario. The wedding march was played by Miss Lillian Hurley, and during the nuptial mass, Miss Ernestine McManus sang an "Ave Maria" very sweetly.

The bride wore a lovely straight-line frock of orchid crepe romaine, the front and sides ornamented with large motifs of silver beads and crystal fringe, the hem bordered also with heavy crystal fringe. She wore long white silk gloves, with openwork tops, shoes of silver brocade, silver stockings, and hat of pansy velvet, and satin, ornamented with painted fruit and foliage. Her wrap was of grey chiffon, with ermine collar, and she carried a shower bouquet of sweetheart roses, mauve sweet peas, and lily of the valley.

The bridesmaid, Miss Myrtle Buchanan, Phm.B., was in poudre blue Canton crepe, with panels of silver lace. She wore silver shoes and stockings, a hat of blue velvet, the upturned brim trimmed with metallic embroidery, and carried a bouquet of American Beauty roses.

Dr. G. R. Bobby, of Hamilton, acted as best man. Ushers were Messrs George Rutherford, Sarsfield Sheehy, Michael Sheehy and Gerald Conroy.

After the ceremony, a dainty wedding breakfast, catered for by Messrs T. H. Hooper & Sons, was served to about fifty guests at the home of the bride's parents. The tables were decorated with sweetheart roses and smilax. Mrs. Buchanan wore an ensemble suit of henna and sand Roshanara crepe, trimmed with mink, a black hat and corsage bouquet of deep red roses. Mrs. David Conroy was in black satin, trimmed with white, with black hat, and corsage bouquet of pink roses and lily of the valley.

Dr. and Mrs. Conroy left later by motor for Toronto, en route for a trip to the Pacific Coast. They will reside in Edmonton, Alberta. The bride travelled in a stylish ensemble suit of black and gold Bengaline, with tie of gold lace, black satin shoes and gold stockings, and hat of black panne velvet.

"Old Bill." 57 Years Young. Is Working Steadily

Famous Horse Is Puzzled By Great Excitement

WASHINGTON, N.J., Sept. 21 (United Press).—"Old Bill," 57-year-old strawberry roan work horse, does not know what to make of all the publicity he has been getting. He was puzzled by the appearance of photographers and reporters, as he performed his accustomed chores today.

It all started when some one produced "Old Bill's" birth certificate showing that the equine Methuselah had been born in 1868. This record revealed, made him the oldest horse in the world still in harness.

But a horse is only as old as he feels, "Old Bill" believes, and he skittishly performed his appointed tasks for John Soudar, his owner, who bought him 17 years ago for $92.

The $92 was well spent, Soudar says, for "Old Bill" has been kept from work by sickness only one day, and has done all the plowing and general work on his five acre farm.

"There's one job he won't tackle, though," Soudar explained. "He won't work in the tread mill. Bill likes to go somewhere when he works.

Treated Sweetie Cruelly Jail Breaker Is Exposed

CHICAGO, Ills., Sept 21 (United Press).—Nine years of freedom for Nick Cardinella, a convicted murderer, came to an end when he got rough with his sweetie.

Nine years ago Cardinella escaped from the Michigan State penitentiary where he had served three years of a sentence of from five to fifteen years. The other day he quarrelled and slapped his sweetheart, Rose Ross. She called the police and told them where he could be found.

Nick is en route back to prison.

Higher Call Money Rate Forces Stock Prices Down

NEW YORK, Sept. 21.—Marking up of the call money rate to 5½ per cent inspired sufficient selling on both accounts in to-day's stock market to turn the course of prices downward after an opening display of strength in a number of motor, public utility and tobacco shares. The reaction was influenced to some extent by commission house advises suggesting profit taking in industrials, particularly those which recently have scored sustained advances. An effort was made to stem the tide of selling by bringing forward railroad shares, the buying of which was inspired by the unusually good character of the first August earnings statements to make their appearance but although several of the carrier issues developed independent strength the general industrial list continued to lose ground, some of the high priced specialties broke sharply.

Substantial Advances Made By Mackay and C.P.R. Shares

TORONTO, Sept. 21.—(Canadian Press). — Substantial advances in both Maclay Common and C. P. R. featured this morning's session of the Toronto Stock Exchange. C. P. R. in active dealings was marked up to 150 1-2 a gain of a point and a half and Mackay gained two at 138. On the whole the market was firm, despite some recessions, about the largest of these being Bell Telephone's drop of a point at 140. Brazilian eased a quarter but British Columbia Fishing advanced at 47 1-2, Smelters improved a half at 117.

Trading Easier In Mines Varied Trend In Prices

TORONTO, Sept. 21 — (Canadian Press). — Trading on the Standard Mining Exchange was easier this morning with transactions totalling 107,435 shares. Argonaut and McKinley Darragh were fractionally lower at 26 3-4and 20 3-4 respectively. Premier declined six points to 231 while Dome Mines advanced ten cents to 15.35. Hollinger was on the upward trend selling five higher at 15.25. Teck Hughes, Castle Trethewey and Mining Corporation each advanced one point to 189, 119 and 295 respectively. Lake Shore sold two points higher at 613 and Keeley declined one point to 167.

EXHIBITION GAINS, ETC.

question, set the pace in Eastern Ontario were amply realized this year. Rain and chilly weather so often marred their plans and prevented their complete fruition that they had almost despaired of enjoying a week of good weather. When it did fit into the directors' scheme it became only a question of how high a total attendance would be piled up. Thirty thousand had been tentatively set as the goal, but early on Saturday everyone felt that figure would be exceeded, and the final total is entered in the records with gratitude and perhaps with a little doubt about equalling it next year.

Exhibitors Satisfied.

Sunday morning the Boyd and Linderman shows departed, and this morning the last of the poultry and livestock were shipped to their homes or to other Exhibitions in the district. Sunday afternoon quite a number of the exhibitors, whiling away the time together, agreed, without any reservation, that they have never been treated better than at Peterboro this year. They were thoroughly satisfied, and that sentiment is one of the most agreeable rewards the directors have received.

Meanwhile thoughts have been turning toward the programme for 1926. Some of the directors suggest that expenditure be curtailed for a year, and others recommend various improvements, including an addition to the cattle and poultry buildings, proper accommodation for the Dog Show, reserved seats for a section of the grandstand and a roof for the entire stand. Whatever course is adopted, the directors know from the past that there is no resting upon their present achievement. And perhaps in the shade of Saturday night the spirits of other directors returned from another plane. John Henry Garbutt, Harry Webber, Robert Leary, William Collins and others, to share unseen the elation of those directors who have carried on the work since they were called away.

NO RELAXATION OF RESTRICTIONS ON IMMIGRATION

Hon. G. N. Gordon Says There Has Been No Letting Down of Bars.

LESS RED TAPE.

Understanding With Railways That Removes Unnecessary Barriers.

TORONTO, Sept. 21 (Canadian Press).—There has been no letting down of bars, no relaxing of the restrictions as to the kind of immigrant that may enter Canada, in favor of the railway companies," said Hon. G. N. Gordon, Minister of Immigration and Colonization in the Dominion Government. "All that has been done is to arrive at an understanding that will do away with a good deal of red tape, which the railway companies claim has been retarding immigration to Canada." Mr. Gordon made this statement when his attention was drawn to a report that President E. W. Beatty of the Canadian Pacific Railway had stated in the course of a recent speech that "the settlement of the West would proceed more rapidly now under a new agreement with the Federal Government, whereby the C.P.R. and the C.N.R. have been given a free hand to select, transport and distribute all the colonists who can be assimiliated, with the further privilege of issuing the necessary permits for their admission."

NO SYMPATHY FOR SAKLATVALA

His Brother Calls Him "Destructive Genius"—Likes Publicity.

NATURAL AFFECTION.

NEW YORK, Sept. 21 (Special by United Press). — A destructive genius," is the term applied by P. D. Saklatvala, president of the Middle State Oil Corporation, at his office, 220 Broadway, in referring to his brother, Shapurji Saklatvala, Communist member of the British Parliament, who cannot attend the Inter-Parliamentary Union Conference next month, because Secretary of State Kellogg has shut the gates of the country against him. Mr. Saklatvala has a natural affection for his brother in England, but he himself has no sympathy whatsoever with his brother's radical political policies.

"Almost from childhood," he said, "his brother always took the opposition side to every question. He likes publicity," said Mr. Saklatvala, laughingly. 'I think he's been taken too seriously."

"What do you think of the action of Secretary Kellogg in barring him," he was asked.

"Well, it's an open question," he replied. "I guess the Government authorities know their business."

Asked if he considered that the British Government had instigated this country's action against his brother, he replied: "Of course, I know nothing about that. I don't suppose they would be pleased to have him come here."

In expressing the opinion that his brother was being taken too seriously, Mr. Saklatvala pointed out that his brother three years ago attended the conference of the same InterParliamentary Union in Copenhagen. "I believe he spoke there, but nobody paid much attention to him."

EDMONTON TEAM HAS BEEN SOLD

New York Club Has Purchased Entire Squad of Players.

NEARLY COMPLETED.

OTTAWA, Sept. 21. — (Canadian Press).—The New York Hockey Club has practically completed negotiations for the purchase of the entire Edmonton team of the Western Hockey League, according to reliable information obtained there this morning. Kenny McKenzie, owner of the Edmonton Club, and T. P. Gorman, manager of the New York Club, have been in communication during the past few days, and are said to have come to terms under which all the Edmonton players will report to Tex Rickard's new club in the National Hockey League.

Did You Notice—

The number of United States automobiles parked around the Exhibition Grounds on Saturday? Fifteen were counted.

That instead of many people leaving the grand stand when the horse racing was over, the tug-of-war and the drawing contest attracted many more spectators to the stand?

That the Directors were all smiling?

That because the Exhibition Board had the goods, The Examiner gave the publicity, and the people gave their support, the Exhibition went far over its objective?

That J. P. Probabilities, who presents his card in the right hand upper corner of the front page every day, was right in his forecasts every day?

LADY MOSLEY IS PROUD OF OFFER

She is a Socialist and Glories in the Fact, She Says.

NOT A LABORITE.

STOKE ON TRENT, Sept. 22. — (Canadian Press). — Lady Cynthia Mosley is proud to have been asked to run for a parliamentary seat in this constituency, made up mostly of miners, on the Labour ballot. She is a socialist and glories in the fact.

This daughter of the late Marquis of Curzon and his wife who was Mary Leiter of Chicago, made this statement last night.

In addressing a meeting of electors which endorsed her candidature.

"Comrade," said Lady Cynthia, "some of you do not know me very well and wonder why on earth I am in the socialist movement. Well, I have husband, two little children and I know what I should feel if I had not sufficinet food and clothing for them.

"I do not want to go into family troubles but it was a bit of a header for me and my husband when we left the Conserbative party."

"I prefer being labelled a socialist rather than a Laborite because I am a Socialist through and through.

White frost was to be seen in many places, and many tender plants show the effects of the first visit of Jack Frost. His initial visit last year was on Sept. 24th, two days later. Lone Wolf Killed To-day After Reign of Terror

ST. THOMAS, Ont., Sept. 22 (Canadian Press).—A lone wolf, which has been terrorizing the farmers in Southwold for two weeks was shot near Port Talbot this morning. The animal was killed in an open field on the Southwold-Dunwich town line, having been driven through the woods by one squad of searchers while another stood in waiting. When he appeared in a clearing half a dozen rifles barked and his devastating career ended. He is an immense male timber wolf, dark grey, almost black in color, and measures more than six feet from the tip of his tail to his snout.

CONVOKE DISARMAMENT PARLEY ON CONDITION THAT ALL STATES INTERESTED BE ON COMMISSION

Conference Will Take Place When League Council is Sure of Security.

BRITAIN INTERESTED

Viscount Cecil Denies Allegations Concerning British Attitude to League.

GENEVA, Sept. 22.—(Canadian Press.)— The leaders of the Assembly of the League of Nations, including the representatives of Great Britain and France, reached an accord last night regarding preparations for a future disarmament conference, which will be begun immediately. But the council of the League of Nations will be permitted to decide the moment when preparations for an international economic conference shall be started.

Under the terms of the agreement, the disarmament conference, which will only be convoked by the League when the council is convinced that security has been achieved, will be undertaken by a new organism to be known as "a commission to study for the reduction and limitation of armaments," with the distinct understanding, however, that all states having special interests in the disarmament problem and which are not now represented in the council will have a place on this commission.

M. Loucheur, of France, explained last night that he had compromised with the British delegates on the economic conference, which had been suggested by France, because he did not wish to ruin the chances of the success of the conference, and it must have the co-operation both of Great Britain and Germany, and also the United States if it was to be truly international. He added that if the United States did

MEETING TO-NIGHT.

Interesting Subject To Be Discussed at St. Paul's Church.

May I have space to say a word about the meeting to be held in St. Paul's Church tonight at 8 o'clock.

The Rev. Chas Foster states in his "Monuments of Assyria": "The most interesting subject as yet unsolved unquestionably is the national existence and local habitation of the Ten lost tribes of Israel. The theme is one of thrilling interest, for in includes, retrospectively the consummation of all things."

With this the thinking public will heartily concur, for it is claimed that two-thirds of the Bible refers to Israel.

If then, such a large proportion of THE Great Book is devoted to the subject, and if we are to read our Bibles intelligently, it would appear to be a very necessary perparation to know who and where Israel is.

I would, therefore, urge the need of taking advantage of the opportunity to hear the speakers in St. Paul's Church tonight.

Yours very truly,
D. H. Moore.

TRADE EXPANSION.

Says Canada Ahead of the States as Regards Textiles.

CHARLOTTETOWN, P. E. I., Sept. 22.—Two huge meetings in this city Saturday night heard Premier Mackenzie King and Hon. Dr. Beland expound the principles of Liberalism. Every seat and every bit of standing room in two theatres was occupied and many were unable to obtain admittance to either meeting.

Four years ago Prince Edward Island returned four Liberals to the Commons and the prediction is freely made that the performance will be repeated on October 29.

The Prime Minister again made reference to that mysterious claim known as maritime rights. So far, he said, he had been unable to obtain any exact definition of what these so-called rights were, but in his opinion the rights to larger margets might be included. Again he stressed what the Liberal Government had done to expand trade, particularly with the West Indies.

It was evident that the policy of high protection as exposed by Mr. Meighen has few friends in this land and the Liberal alternatives to that economic theory were loudly applauded.

The Liberal candidate in Queen's, who is a running mate with Hon. John Sinclair, is R. H. Jenkins, a merchant of this city. While Mr. Jenkins never before contested a parliamentary seat, he has had long municipal experience and has been Mayor of Charlottetown. Otherwise the Liberal nominees will be the same as four years ago.

In his speech the Premier touched

Amundsen Silences Haughty German Ex-Officer Tells Him Why He Sent Back His German Medals

BERLIN, Sept. 22 (Special to The Examiner.—Roald Amundsen, who has been baited constantly by the Monarchists since he spoke here last week, broke the Polar silence he has been maintaining against his critics last night in the lobby of his hotel, and told a monocled former Major why he has sent back the decorations he had received from the Kaiser.

The Major sought the explorer and demanded why he declared himself an enemy of Germany by returning once-cherished decorations. Amundsen, thoroughly aroused, thundered "I am a son of a Norwegian sailor, and German submarines took many Norwegian sailors' lives. I would have sent back the decorations of any country which through unwarranted warfare took the lives of my countrymen."

The former officer retired.

Bishop May Be Transferred To Another Diocese By House of Bishops.

SESSION ENDED.

OTTAWA, Sept. 22. — (Canadian Press).—The Journal, referring to the decision of the House of Bishops, says in its news columns:

"It is understood that there is a possibility that Bishop Bidwell will be transferred to another diocese. It is known that various events that led up to Bishop Bidwell's resignation have caused quite a stir within the diocese of Ontario, and that the synod of the diocese is sharply divided on certain actions of the Bishop. The admission of Mrs. Bidwell into the Roman Catholic Church was one of the chief reasons which caused the Bishop to tender his resignation, but other events were also the cause of controversy within his synod.

It is considered likely that Bishop Bidwell will continue as head of the Diocese of Ontario for another year at least, and that any change that will be made will take place at the next annual meeting of the House of Bishops."

The session of the House of Bishops concluded last night, but no statement on business transacted was made public.

FIRE DEMON ON PATH OF MINER

Wife and Four Little Ones Burned When Lamp Exploded.

1921 TRAGEDY VICTIM.

NANAIMO, B.C., Sept. 22.—(Canadian Press).—A mother and her four children lost their lives in a fire which destroyed the home of John Hunter, a miner, of South Wellington, near here, Sunday night. The victims are:

Mrs. John Hunter, 27; Isobel, aged 9; Dorothy, 7; Dona, 5; Lillian, 2.

Believed to have been caused by the explosion of a gasoline lamp, the fire quickly consumed the four-roomed structure. When the fire started, Hunter was absent from home, having gone to a store a short distance away to purchase some tobacco. In less than ten minutes he returned and found his home a mass of flames.

The mother had made heroic efforts to rescue her children, asleep at the time of the outbreak. Her charred remains were found huddled up on what had been the stairway, with her four little ones hugged up to her as closely as possible. All were burned beyond recognition. Charred pieces of bed clothing still adhered to some of the children.

BISHOP REMAINS.

E. J. BIDWELL,
Bishop of Ontario, who is likely to remain in office another year. He may be transferred to another diocese.

WOMAN FOUND BURNED TO DEATH IN KILN FURNACE IN LUMBER YARD POLICE HOLD FIREMAN OF PLANT

Woman and Girls Lost With Canoe On Ontario

TORONTO, Sept. 22 (Canadian Press).—Lake Ontario's waters and north shore are being combed today in an effort to find a canoe containing a woman and two girls who are thought to have gone paddling on the lake yesterday afternoon, and have not been seen since. Mrs. W. E. Cork, aged 2?, her two-year-old daughter, Phyllis, and 12-year-old Kithleen Conroy are those missing. Mr. Cork notified the authorities when he discovered his wife and child were missing, and that the boathouse was open with the canoe also gone.

SUSPECTED POISON.

Man Thought Wine Was Doped and Shut Woman Alive in Furnace.

NEW YORK, Sept. 22.—(Canadian Press).—Police to-day discovered the body of Mrs. Sophie Poleski, a young woman of the East Side, in the furnace of a lumber yard kiln in Lewis Street. George Symuk, a married man and fireman of the lumber yard, was arrested. Police believe the woman was placed in the furnace while still alive and was burned to death.

Patrolman William Merrick, hearing a woman's screams coming from the lumber yard, went to investigate. He was unable to gain admittance by the locked gate and scaled the walls. Scrambling over piles of lumber, he ran to the lumber yard building. Meantime the woman's screams had ceased. The policeman found Symuk at the furnace, but he denied that any woman was in the place.

The firman, who is of huge stature, fled as Merrick began to question him. Merrick fired his revolver, and the shot was heard by two other policemen, who intercepted Symuk as he ran from the lumber yard. After a struggle, in which he almost bit off one of Merrick's fingers, Symuk was subdued. The three policemen took the prisoner back to the furnace room. They found a woman's body inside the furnace, the door of which had been closed and a shovel propped against it. The body was burned almost beyond recognition.

Symuk told the police that the woman, who often visited him at his place of work, once threatened to poison him. When she brought two bottles of wine early this morning he suspected that she had placed poison in the wine. He beat her over the head with a bottle and then carried her body from an office in the main building to the furnace room, some distance in the rear. The police said she was gagged before being placed in the furnace.

LONDON THREATENED BY INVADER AND MIGHTY ARMIES ARE READY TO ENGAGE IN GRIM BUT MIMIC BATTLE

Reprieve Arrived In Time Hangman Was Fixing Rope

SOFIA, Bulgaria, Sept. 22.—(Canadian Press).—Just as the rope was being adjusted about the neck of a Communist conspirator by the hangman to-day, a reprieve from King Boris arrived. This is the first instance of the King annulling a sentence of death after it had been confirmed and signed by him.

Forty Thousand Men to Take Part in Military Manoeuvres.

REALISM FOR VETS

Troops in Ankle-Deep Mire Recall Days in Flanders' Mud.

ANDOVER, England, Sept. 22.—(Canadian Press).—England is on the eve of a great clash of arms, the outcome of which will spell the fate of London itself. Two armies, comprising 40,000 trained men, equipped with all modern appliances of war, including the latest death-dealing devices perfected since the world conflict, were encamped last night along the little river Test in Wiltshire Downs, awaiting the coming of dawn, which is the zero hour for beginning a struggle whose issue is of vital import to the whole country.

The villages nestling among the green-clad hills of this peaceful section of southern England are doomed to a terrifying bombardment by the big guns which laid many parts of Europe in ruins only a few years ago. Cavalry with clanking sabres and grim lines of infantry with tanks will swirl about them in a vicious battle for supremacy.

But there will be no cottages destroyed, as in the hamlets of tortured Flanders, and there will be no fields strewn with dead, for this is a "mock" battle, representing the first army manoeuvres of consequence since 1913, before the coming of the European cataclysm.

But while the battleground, which extends over some 2,000 square miles, will be marked by none of these terrible features of real warfare, those veterans of the World War among the troops last night were encountering conditions reminiscent of the old days 'somewhere in France.' Terrific rains during the week-end have swollen the Test and turned the surrounding lowlands into a morass such as the men struggled through

KIWANIS CLUBS HOLD DISCUSSION ON IMMIGRATION

Authority From His Majesty To Invite Persons To Settle in Canada.

NEW PROSPERITY ERA.

Cup to Club Which Brings Out Largest Proportionate Election Vote.

OTTAWA, Ont., Sept. 22.—(Canadian Press).—Kiwanis ... t in immigration was emphasized at the first business session yesterday afternoon of the seventh annual Ontario-Quebec district convention of International Kiwanis which opened here yesterday. It was announced that on September 1, 1925, an agreement had been entered into between His Majesty the King in the right of Canada and the transportation companies of Canada which in effect gives to the transportation companies the right and authority for two years to invite persons of Northern and Central Europe, the British Isles and U.S.A. to emigrate to Canada and to settle them in Canada as agriculturists, agricultural workers and domestic servants. The Government on its part agrees to admit the immigrants who shall be brought to Canada by the transportation companies and to assist in settling these immigrants on the unoccupied lands of Canada.

The report of the Public Affairs Committee of the Kiwanis district, which was submitted by L. A. Cunningham, of Montreal, chairman of the International Public Affairs Committee of Canada, stated that the committee considers this result highly successful, and submitted letters from the Deputy Minister of Immigration, and representatives of the C.P.R. and C.N.R. in appreciation of the efforts and co-operation of Kiwanis in the matter of immigration. It was urged upon the clubs in the district to use endeavors to make the new arrivals feel at home in their new land.

Mr. Cunningham, in submitting his report, said that the agreement referred to, in his opinion, marked the beginning of a new era of prosperity for Canada.

In the same committee's report reference was made to the efforts of Kiwanis in inducing people to exercise their franchise. The chairman of the International Public Affairs Committee for Canada invited each club to name a special committee, whose duty it will be to campaign a constituency, and he offered a cup for competition to be awarded to the club which brings out the largest proportionate vote to the number of names on the electoral list of that constituency. The International vice-president was asked to name the judges to award the cup upon the results after the Dominion elections on October 26.

W. H. HILL SEES BIG LANDSLIDE IN MARITIMES

Says Industry There Was Never at Lower Ebb Than Now.

MANY UNEMPLOYED

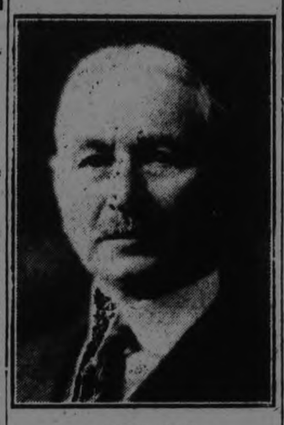
Discontent Rife and People Blame Ills on Government Policy.

W. H. Hill who has recently returned from a visit to the Maritime Provinces draws a very pessimistic picture of the conditions in those parts. He says industry was never at a lower ebb, with much unemployment, and the average man never in a poorer condtion than at present. During the past four years, he says the Maritime Provinces lost more people ,especially to the United States, than at any previous period in their history.

Discontent is rife, he says, and the opposition to the export of pulp wood and other raw materials is rapidly growing. Mr. Hill, as a Conservative, is looking for a Maritime landslide towards Mr. Meighen in the coming election. He declares the people blame most of their ills on the present Government and the present tariff policy.

FIGURES SHOW UNEMPLOYMENT DECREASED OVER FOUR YEARS

FROM MARITIMES.



W. H. HILL,
Of Hill, Weddell & Hills, Insurance Agency, who has just returned from a trip through the Maritime provinces. He predicts a big turnover in favor of Mr. Meighen, because of the present unemployment and the industrial depression.

EX. SATISFIED MAYOR TURNER

Jubilant Because of Outstanding Success and Looks For Advance.

HELP DIRECTORS.

No one was more delighted with the success of the Peterborough Industrial Exhibition than Mayor Turner, who attributed the success, first, to the splendid publicity given by the Examiner, whose men worked early and late to carry the story of progress from every angle to the public; second, to the fact, the goods were behind the advertising, for unless articles stand up to press notices, advertising would be wasted; third, the response of the public to the Mayor's personal appeal, President Denne's request, and the general policy of endorsation given by the Examiner.

The Mayor was feeling as jubilant as any of the Board of Directors over the success and encouragement which will strengthen all connected with the exhibition to go forward.

All Occupations Out of Work Drop From 13.2 to 5.8 Since 1921.

LABOR BULLETIN.

Details Given in Governmental Publication on Individual Trades.

Those who believe that the country is tottering on the brink of ruin, and that nothing remains but to put up the shutters on the national shop windows, will find cold comfort in the comparative tables of unemployment in Trades Unions by Groups of Industries for the years 1921 and 1925, just issued by the Labor Department.

For the month of June, the last month for which the figures of both years are available, the percentage of unemployment in all occupations was 13.2 in 1921, and only 5.8 in the present year.

Details of unemployment in individual trades are equally illuminating. Lumbering and logging made a return of 53.3 per cent unemployed in June, 1921. This had become zero in June, 1925. Mining industries had 16.7 per cent. of employees out of work in June, 1921. At the same time this year, the percentage was 6.6. Manufacturing industries are another case in point. In 1921, 20.9 per cent. of the workers in these branches were saying: "No man hath hired us. This year, the figures of unemployed were almost halved—10.6 per cent. In fibres and textile products—there were 46.6 of the workers laid off in 1921. This year these figures had come down to 22.7. Even in garment manufactures, an industry constantly cited as a "horrible example" there were 68.6 per cent. of the workers idle in 1921—a number which had shrunk to 25 per cent in midsummer this year.

Building and construction gave 13.4 and 10.6 as the respective unemployment percentages for 1921 and 1925. Transportation 5.0 per cent. and 2.6 per cent for the same years. Local transportation .4 per cent. and .1 per cent; communcation .4 in 1921 and zero in 1925, and miscellaneous industries 6.6 and 6.4.

Trades which show increases in unemployment are Pulp and Paper products—1.5 per cent in 1921 as compared with 6.2 in 1925; Textile and Carpet workers 2.3 and 12.2, and Government Services, zero in 1921 and .1 in 1925.

Hon. R. J. Manion Coming To Conservative Rally

The Hon. R. J. Manion, M.P. for Fort William and Rainey River, who will address the Conservative Convention to-morrow night, is a medical practitioner by profession and a former Liberal in politics.

At the outbreak of the war in 1914, Dr. Manion was in France, and he immediately joined the French Army. When the first contingent of Canadians arrived at the seat of war, Dr. Manion procured his transfer to the Canadian forces, with whom he served until the end of the war. His war record is particularly fine, and he received numerous decorations. He entered the Cabinet of the Union Government as Minister of Soldiers' Re-establishment, a phase of duty with which he was particularly conversant, and he administered this Department with great ability and enthusiasm. Although he had been elected as a Liberal, Dr. Manion followed the banner of Mr. Meighen in 1921, and has been a consistent supporter of the Conservative party since that time. He is a forcible and fluent speaker, and is capable of arousing great enthusiasm among his audience.

BRITISH ASK FOR LEAGUE INQUIRY

Suggest That Representatives Be Sent to Look Into Charges.

GENEVA, Sept. 22. —(Canadian Press). — Great Britain made a new move in the Mosul controversy before the League of Nations assembly to-day.

The British delegation asked that the League Council meet as soon as possible to consider the Turks alleged deportation of Christians from the Mosul area and to dispatch League representative to the scene to investigate the charges made by Great Britain and the counter charges put forward by Turkey.

The dispatch of these investigators was urged as the most practical means of preventing fresh difficulties. The Turks have denied deporting Christians from Mosul and accuse the British of occupying points temporarily held by Turkish troops.

LONDON, Sept. —(Canadian Press).—A despatch to the Westminster Gazette from Geneva says the Irak Government has asked Great Britain to send a division of troops to protect it against the increasing hostility of the Turks. The correspondent declares that grave importance attaches to the request as pointing to a belief that the Turks intend a forcible attempt to seize Mosul.

EXCLUSION REPORT CAUSES INDIGNATION

Story That U. S. Will Keep Out Labor Member Received With Amazement.

LONDON, Sept. 22— (Canadian Press). —Amazement and indignation were expressed at Labour headquarters here yesterday afternoon, over a Washington report that Frederick William Pethick-Lawrence, one of the Labour members of the British delegation to the inter-parliamentary union conference, may be prohibited from landing. "If such action is taken there will be a devil of a row here," said one Labour party offical. The report, however, was not taken seriously as it is pointed out that Pethick-Lawrence is one of the most conservative communist, who has been excluded.

Throughout that long and fragrant day the epidemic raged unabated in Crater City. Traumen came and went on tiptoe. Some were noted by Miss Trisk to have come in for half a dozen or more meals in quick succession. The fever extended sympathetically to the business section of the town. By late afternoon there was not a woman, except those housewives in quiet family circles to which the pain had not yet penetrated, and not a man—save one, Jim Fowler—who had not seen her, the men to admire, the women to inquire. But Miss Trisk, having developed a sudden liking for Caroline, double-crossed the neighborly tabies and scratched out all attempts at catty gossip. Many a substantial supper went cold over the home fires that day; it would not be so to-morrow, when the news had reached to the hearthstones, for then housewives would be applying old-fashioned remedies to wandering spouses. But to-day—Larvey's Crater City Branch did the biggest single day's business in its history.

Jim Fowler had spent a quiet afternoon at home playing with his son, Bobby, in the bright sunshine of their little backyard. On his periods at home, Jim slept until nearly noon as a rule because his run did not bring him in until well after midnight. If Bob was on early call, as this morning, he usually left Bobby to be awakened and dressed and breakfasted by Mrs. O'Leary when she came in to do her daily dozen on the dusty mantels and tossed beds and tables.

Bobby then would amuse himself in his quaintly precocious way until "Daddy Jim" got up. Living with the two men had made Bobby self-reliant and old-fashioned, for despite their zeal they could not supply in his impressionable boyhood life the softening influence of a gentle young mother's care: consequently, he was a swaggering, youthful copy of his "two" fathers, reflecting the essential manliness of the one and the intense idealism of the other. Jim's whole interest during his hours at home centered upon the fair-haired, sturdy little chap who was a vital monument of rosy flesh and warm blood to the sweetheart and mother whose picture was enshrined fondly in the foremost place on the parlor mantel.

Jim's out-trips on the Limited left Crater City in the early evening, and if Bob was not home then, so the routine went, Jim on his way to work left Bobby at Mrs. O'Leary's "to be called for."

In accordance with their accustomed habits, Jim and Bobby marched into Mrs. O'Leary's back yard this day and found the estimable Widow in one of her few respites of seated ease, waiting for the "supper potatoes to boil." Bobby dropped the toys he had brought and clambered into her wide lap for a kiss, while Jim, after a brief exchange of normal pleasantries, started on his way.

"Oh, there's me front door bell!" Mrs. O'Leary called after him, while he was making his way around the side yard. "I'm too lazy and tired to git up, Jim, boy, will you kindly be after tellin' whoever 'tis to please come around back."

Then the latest victim to the day's epidemic was laid low, for Jim, hastily rounding the corner of the house to carry out Mrs. O'Leary's wish, collided with Caroline, almost knocking her suitcase from her hand. He stood palsied under the sudden and glorious swell of her enchantment trying to stammer an apology but only able to utter barely audible and unintelligible sounds. And when she smilingly voiced regret for her share of the mishap it only increased his helpless amazement at the gorgeous phenomenon she represented.

"I was coming around because I thought I heard voices. I am looking for Mrs. O'Leary."

Jim managed to get off his hat and indicate in his absurd confusion by a weird combination of smiles and signs and broken words that he was sorry for being so clownish and would be glad to take her to Mrs. O'Leary. He searched for her suitcase, and with a gracious smile she granted him the privilege of serving her.

Mrs. O'Leary lifted her always heavy and mostly always weary body out of the chair in surprise when she saw the stranger Jim was bringing toward her.

"Mr. Bramley sent me here," said Caroline after introducing herself in a shyly smiling manner that found a warm reflection in Mrs. O'Leary's broad face and shrewdly practised eyes. "He thought you could give me room and board. I stayed last night at the Commercial Hotel because——"

"You poor child in that place! Of course I can accommodate you, Miss—and gladly—Sa-a-a-y, look here, Jimmy boy, you'll have no eyes left for the sorting of your mail, and be late in the bargain, if you stand there staring so. Go on with you, now——"

Startled as a small boy caught stealing doughnuts, Jim blushed and stammered, the more so because Caroline bent a friendly, grateful glance upon him. "I'll relieve you of my suitcase," she nodded, "and thank you very much."

Jim surrendered it to Mrs. O'Leary, who with motherly domination refused to let Caroline touch it. Still Jim lingered, until Mrs. O'Leary at last read the plea in his eyes aright—and introduced him to Caroline. No one, meanwhile, had been paying any attention to Bobby. The effects of this non-surveillance of natural rascality was made apparent with startling abruptness at this moment when a wild and gleeful whoop and a jerk that knocked Jim and Caroline together announced the successful consummation of a stunt which he had been slyly preparing for some minutes; he had cast the big loop of his cowboy play-lasso over his Dad and the strange gi.l, and was now backing a... ...heels at the end of the tightened ..., ...like a mischievous terrier.

When Jim took hold of Caroline's arms to steady her as she toppled against him, he felt a dazzling sense of unreality, as though he were touching the shadowy and uncanny substance of a beautiful dream. He regretted Mrs. O'Leary's efficiency in rescuing them from their tight and awkward predicament. The irate widow shook a threatening rope's end at Bobby, who merely scuttled out of reach and yelled:

"Why are you looking at that lady so funny, Daddy?"

Thereby winning for himself the fun of a grim chase by Mrs. O'Leary!—while Jim departed in red-faced haste, and Caroline remained alone on the field, smiling faintly. Mrs. O'Leary returned in a moment, unsuccessful and out of breath—but laughing.

"The divil in that little one comes from the inelegant example of his 'Daddy Bob,' I'm thinking. What can you expect from a baby that was taught to stand on his head and given sling shots to play with before he was two years old?"

"Oh," said Caroline in sudden light, "then that was the Jim Fowler with whom Engineer Wilson lives?"

"The same," said the Widow, "and they're thicker'n a pair of moths in a muff. In all me born days I never seen men cotton to each other so—I guess the person ain't living who could come between them two. Why, do you be knowing Bob Wilson already, Miss?" in some surprise.

"He—I——" Caroline was visibly embarrassed. "He was pointed out to me this morning, ma'am." After a shy sideglance at Mrs. O'Leary during their walk toward the porch, while Bobby played horse with the Widow's apron-strings, Caroline added: "He seemed—very nice"

"He—they're both——" but Mrs. O'Leary, holding the door open for Caroline to enter, suddenly became speechless in a deep fit of thoughtfulness. She found herself involuntarily contrasting the light in Jim's eyes when he was introduced to Caroline, to the light in Caroline's eyes when she mentioned Bob Wilson. She found herself reconsidering whether or not her statement of a moment before, that "bnoody" could ever come between Jim and Bob, had not been a trifle too sweeping. For now the Widow was pricked by keenly instinctive speculations as to what might happen when an Eve came into an Eveless Garden.

Therefore, the Widow was thoughtful.

FRENCH INDIGNANT AT GERMAN ACTION

Holding of Wounded Aviator is Violation of Laws of Humanity.

PARIS, Sept. 22. — (Canadian Press). That Germany has failed to observe the elementary laws of humanity in detaining the military aviator Diedonne Coste as a prisoner because he flew over German territory is the opinion expressed by officals of the French air service as well as the whole French peole.

Coste was injured September 13th, and his companion, Robert Thierry, killed when the plane in which they were attempting to fly to Bagdad crashed in a fog near Frieburg in the Black Forest.

RURAL DEANERY MET AT APSLEY

Clergymen of District Assembled in North Country for First Time.

HARVEST SERVICES

APSLEY, September 22. — For the first time in the ecclesiastical history of Apsley, the Ruri-Decanal Chapter Meeting of the Deanery of Peterborough, was held here on Tuesday and Wednesday of last week.

The clergy who attended were: the Rural Dean, the Rev. T. J. O'Conor-Fenton, Norwood; Revs. J. G. Bousfield, St. Luke's, Peterborough; J. D. Paterson, All Saints', Peterborough; J. L. Hughes, St. George's, Peterborough; W. Cox, Lakefield; G. C. Clarke, Campbellford; T. H. Stanley, Havelock; E. W. Gardner, Young's Point, and also W. E. Fuller, St. John's, New Brunswick.

The Chapter met on Tuesday afternoon at St. George's Parsonage, when business in connection with the Deanery was discussed. The harvest Thanksgiving service was held in the evening at St George's Church, and despite the unpropitious wet weather attracted a large congregation. The church was profusely and beautifully decorated by the ladies of the congregation. One part of the decorative scheme that created a novel effect was a symbolical design erected at the entrance to the chancel, consisting of a large cross of brown tufted marsh grass, flanked on either side with the cross of St. George, made of red and white everlasting flowers. At the base were grouped his helmet, shield, breast plate and sword, all made with the grey lichen moss, and on either side pendant from a rope of oat ears, the dates in gold figures 1875-1925. Mrs. Spence designed and executed the work. On the altar was a superb display of gladioli, the gift of Mr. P. Grover, Norwood.

The service was fully choral, being sung by Rev. G. C. Clarke, Revs. J. D. Paterson and T. H. Stanley reading the first and second lessons respectively.

The Rev. W. Cox preached an inspiring sermon woven around the perception of man as being in co-partnership with God, man's assets being materially the natural world, and spiritually the world of souls.

A very bright and hearty service concluded with the singing of Simper's Anthem, "I Will Feed My Flock," the bass solo being sung by Rev. J. L. Hughes.

On Wednesday evening the churches of St. Stephen's, Chandos, St. Paul's, Lasswade, and St. Andrew's, Owenbrook, all in the Apsley Mission, held their harvest thanksgiving services, the preachers being respectively, Revs. W. Cox, J. G. Bousfield and J. L. Hughes. Each church was splendidly decorated and held large congregations.

On Wednesday afternoon the clergy of the deanery made a pilgrimage to the Rock of the Holy Cross, near Loon Lake, and were deeply impressed with this wonderful natural geological formation of the emblem of Christianity, that has stood majestically for untold ages in the depths of the woods, isolated and alone.

Mr. Philip Tanner very kindly took the party for a short cruise on Loon Lake, after which a return was made to Apsley.

A hearty vote of thanks was accorded by the Deanery, before closing, to Rev. and Mrs. Spence, and the Ladies (Mesdames J. Downing, Windsor, Dean, L. Windsor, and Miss A. Coones) for hospitality extended to them.

Sure Way to Get Rid of Blackheads

There is one simple, safe, and sure way that never fails to get rid of blackheads; that is to dissolve them. To do this, get two ounces of peroxine powder from any drug store—sprinkle a little on a hot, wet cloth—rub over the blackheads briskly—wash the parts and you will be surprised how the blackheads have disappeared. Big blackheads, little blackheads, no matter where they are, simply dissolve and disappear. Blackheads are a mixture of dust and dirt and secretions that form in the pores of the skin. The peroxine powder and the water dissolve the blackheads so they wash right out, leaving the pores free and clean and in their natural condition.

ExhibitionNotes

Boyd and Linderman's carnival shows pulled out of the city about eleven o'clock Sunday morning for Woodstock, where they will pitch their tents this week. Their train comprised twenty-nine cars and a van. The hour for departure had been set for 7.30 a.m., but several hours were lost in hauling heavy parts of the ferris wheel.

To Larry Boyd, one of the outstanding features of the Exhibition was the Park itself. "I've seen a lot of them, but none of them neater or cleaner than you got here," he said to the Examiner. "The appearance of the park inside the race track was just like a big green lawn, and the white fences set off the beauty of the place."

Inspector J. F. Reid expresses himself as being very favorably impressed by the behaviour of the crowds at the Exhibition. "There was not a single case of intoxication," he said, "and both city residents and out of town visitors showed themselves to be orderly and law abiding." Mr. Reid also commented on the readiness of the spectators in the grand stand to respond to the wishes of the police and to move to other parts of the stand when requested to do so, which greatly facilitated the work of marshalling the large crowd.

TREATY SIGNED IS INVIOLABLE

Hip Sing and On Leong Tongs Decide to End Fighting.

SIGN "HOP TUNG."

NEW YORK, Sept. 22.—(Canadian Press).—The Hip Sing and On Leong tongs last night suddenly decided that the time had arrived for the intermittent hostilities, which have occurred recently throughout the country in spite of several treaties, to cease.

Accordingly, Lee Kee, mediator in the Chinese quarter, presided at a solemn meeting where Wong Get, Hip Sing, leader, and Lee Gee Min, on Leong chief, met and signed a "Hop Tung." It was explained that the previous treaties were only "Wo Yuk," which may be broken, but the "Hop Tung" involved certain religious associations which make it inviolable.

ST. PETER'S CATHEDRAL.

"And being rooted and founded in charity, you may be able to comprehend with all the saints what is the length and breadth and the height and depth", was the extract from St. Paul's Epistle to the Ephesians which formed the basis of the sermon preached at the morning Masses at St. Peter's Cathedral Sunday by Rev. P. Costello.

"To be rooted and founded in charity, so that you may consider the infinite love of Almighty God for His creatures, is the idea behind this quotation from the Epistle," said the reverend speaker. "God did not need to create us. He was absolutely sufficient in Himself, but it was in the Eternal Mind to create us because He loved us. Every moment of our lives is preserved to us by God. If His Hand were withheld for one second, we would fall back into nothingness.

"What person can explain what sight is, or hearing, or speech? They are all gifts from the Hand of God to His children. And when man fell from grace, He sent His own Divine Son to assume our human nature and atone for us on the Cross. Christ, not satisfied with redeeming us, left us His own Body and Blood, for the nourishment of our souls, in the Sacrament that brings God the Creator, the Infinite Being who existed before time was, into the souls of His creatures."

Father Costello referred to the message in the Angelus bell, ringing out three times a day, to remind us how God died for us on the Cross and of His constant goodness to us. We should heed its call and repent of our sins, the nails which bound the Crucified to the Cross on Calvary.

GET ON THE LISTS.

The registrars appointed to take the names of those eligible to vote at the coming Federal elections will begin their work, so far as Peterboro city voters are concerned, on Thursday.

Every citizen who is qualified to vote has a responsibility to perform in this connection that he should not neglect; namely, the responsibility of seeing that his franchise is protected.

If he is fully conscious of what he owes to himself and to the state, he'll not relegate this duty to anybody else, but will look after the matter for himself.

The Provincial lists, prepared in connection with the municipal voters' lists, will be the basis of the Federal lists, and those voters whose names were included therein have no further need of worry.

If they have made sure that their names were in that list, they have done all that is necessary.

On the other hand, if through some oversight their names were not placed in the Provincial lists, or if they have come of age since those lists were prepared, they should appear before the registrar appointed for the district in which they reside and have their names added according to the regulations.

Getting on the lists is the duty of the hour for every citizen who is eligible to vote.

THE "FULL STOP" PLAN.

It is possible that by next year Ald. Joseph Crowe's "stop street" programme will be in force in Peterboro, whether his colleagues on the Council support him or not.

The Provincial Highways Department is very seriously considering the advisability of adopting the plan as a Provincial measure, requiring all side traffic to come to a stop before entering streets and roads carrying through traffic.

In Peterboro, for example, all traffic entering Charlotte street or George street from side streets would be compelled to stop completely.

Officials of the department, taking into consideration the number of accidents caused by collisions at intersections and convinced by the experiences of those Ontario cities which have adopted the "full stop" plan, are inclined to favour a general enforcement of this policy throughout the Province, believing that it would result in a greater feeling of security for all motorists and in a very material reduction in the number of traffic accidents.

Police chiefs in many Ontario centres hold similar views, and it would not be surprising if 1926 found such a regulation in force in the Province.

CAMPAIGN WARMING UP.

With the Conservative nomination convention called for tomorrow night and the Liberal meeting to select a candidate slated for Thursday, the campaign in this riding is beginning to warm up.

The chief interest for the present, of course, centres in the personality of the Conservative standard-bearer.

A fight for the nomination is inevitable, as the announcement of Mr. E. A. Peck, ex-M.P.P., that he would be a candidate before the convention has been followed by a declaration from Lieut.-Col. Chas. Ackerman that he is an aspirant for the honour of carrying the Conservative banner.

It is just possible that other Conservatives will allow their names to go before the convention, so that tomorrow night's meeting will be full of interesting possibilities, "a certain liveliness," to use the famous words of a war bulletin, being exhibited that should make Wednesday's out of the ordinary.

The Liberal convention, on the other hand, presents no such uncertainty.

No other name than that of Hon. G. N. Gordon is likely to be presented, and the nomination of the Minister of Immigration will be a matter of course.

With the nominations over the campaign will immediately speed up, and for the next five weeks the warring politicians will continue to hold the centre of the stage.

GROWING A GOOD ROADS SYSTEM.

It is not so long since a good gravel road was the acme of perfection in road building, and those using the roads were delighted with highways of this description.

Property that was offered for sale had a special appeal if it could be advertised as being situated on a gravel road.

A Canadian farmer is still well satisfied with gravel roads, and even the fact that he cannot travel exclusively on this class of roadway does not deter him from getting to any point he wishes.

An occasional detour is accepted as inevitable and is made the best of.

The city man, however, having become accustomed to paved streets, expects to have these provided wherever he has the will to go.

He may complain of his frontage tax on his 33 or 50 feet of pavement, but he cannot see why in front of the thousand or more feet of frontage of the individual farm the roadways are not all paved.

True, he would like to whizz by on smooth highways just to get to some destination, forgetful entirely of the intermediate scenery or of the fact that the roadway was not built for his exclusive use.

There is far too much unjustifiable complaining about our roads.

Wonders have been performed upon them in the past few years, and the transformation to motor roads is going on as rapidly as reasonably possible.

It cannot all be done at once, and detours will be necessary yet for a while.

In many cases the detour is the only place where the motorist slows up sufficiently to see the country through which he is travelling, and in doing this it is conferring an unexpected favor upon the driver.

Canada's roads are good and it will be only a short time until detours are a thing of the past.

In the meantime patience should be exercised.

We did not reach manhood in a day; we had to grow up, and so does our good roads system.

Canada possesses an abundance of good road material among her natural resources, says the Natural Resources Intelligence Service of the Department of Interior, and is thus fortunately situated in her endeavours to cater to the ever-growing body of motorists and other improved roads enthusiasts.

SOFTNESS DOESN'T PAY.

Up in London on Saturday afternoon last, a bright, smart county constable and traffic officer of Middlesex was shot down in cold blood. He died in four minutes from the effect of a gunshot wound through the lung, says the St. Catharines Standard.

The officer was after a man named Harlton, who up to yesterday had made good his escape. Harlton is wanted on the charge of murder, all the circumstantial evidence pointing to his having done the deed.

It is interesting to look back on this man's career in crime. He was arrested in Stratford for housebreaking and theft, but broke out of jail. Subsequently he was caught, and sentenced to two years in Kingston. He was paroled after about a year. Then he got thirty days for chicken stealing, after which he was taken to Kingston to serve out the term on which he received parole. But they were kind to him and let him out on parole again. It will be remembered that it was a paroled man who put the district of North Bay in terror for a considerable period, and who shot up several people, killing one constable.

It is just a question, in view of the alarming crime wave in the United States, how far Canada ought to go with the parole system. This man, Harlton, is a typical case in point. He was a housebreaker, a thief and a jailbreaker; then he stole again. But he was again paroled because of exemplary conduct in Kingston, where his conduct could scarcely be otherwise. Had the man been made to serve out his sentence, London would not have had another murder to solve.

Should the murderer be captured and is convicted and sentenced to forfeit his life, no doubt there will be sentimentalists who will sign a petition for reprieve. This is an error and tendency of the time, and we are borrowing it more or less from the disrupted procedure of justice and distorted state of the public mind in the neighboring Republic. Canada cannot afford this. The safety of society must be the first consideration.

GETTING AT THE FACTS.

Why is it that Britain is singled out more than any other nation for hatred by the people of China? It is useless to disguise the fact that the brunt of the anti-foreign attack has been headed at the British. The Manchester Guardian claims it is useless to try to explain it by stating that it is the result of Bolshevist propaganda engineered by Russia. If there is this force at work, the Guardian claims that it is all the more reason why the British should make it their special business to demonstrate to the Chinese that Britain does not want deference, but friendship.

The Guardian draws a parallel between Russia and Britain in Chinese relations that is interesting. Russia can approach China as a new nation, with a new form of government; it can divest itself of responsibility for all the aggressions of which Czarist Russia was guilty and start with a clean sheet. Britain cannot do any such thing. As the Guardian puts it, "We cannot help our history; we cannot undo the opium war; we cannot take back all the slights and affronts we have offered to China in the past."

Britain's dealings, in the opinion of the Manchester paper, have erred in several ways in China. The conditions in mills owned by British capital in China are not satisfactory. Britain retains her old extra-territorial rights given by old treaties, while Russia gave hers up; Austria and Germany lost theirs in the war. The fact that Britain did retain hers put all the more responsibility on her "to see that China was given help, guidance, and above all a sense that she was no longer in slighting tutelage." Summing up, the Guardian says:

"Fate and history, we may admit, have involved us in a web of difficulties, but can anybody looking at the events of the last few years pretend that we have tried very hard to unravel them? What was demanded of us was that we should adapt ourselves to a new relationship with China. We half-recognized this duty in words, but in action we were very dilatory. We had to face at the same time a persistent propaganda which held us up to odium as a plundering people who had exploited China's weakness in the past and sought to keep her in a subject position. We did little to discredit, a good deal to encourage, this impression. We have got to remove it by acts."

The Guardian, in taking such a course, is exemplifying good journalism. It is not the sort that seeks to make it appear that "we are all right, and others are all wrong." It is just such opinions as those voiced by the Guardian that help a nation to see international issues from both sides, and once that is done there can be no cause to worry about the outcome.—London Advertiser.

EDITORIAL NOTES AND COMMENT.

The first duty of every elector is to make sure that his name is on the voters' list.

"What is the issue in the campaign?" asks a contemporary. And a cynical elector answers, "Trying to stay in power" and "Trying to get into power."

Prohibition is not a Dominion issue at the present time, and electors should not be red-herringed by candidates who attempt to make it one. There are more important matters before the country than prohibition.

If the policy of the Ontario Prohibition Union to vote only for candidates who are total abstainers had been acted upon in the past, the line-up of the Fathers of Confederation would present a strangely unfamiliar appearance.

NO SIGNIFICANCE IN SUPPORT OF MASSEY

Forke Says Any Local Progressive Organization Can Take Such Steps.

WINNIPEG, Sept 22. — (Canadian Press). —"Endorsation of Hon. Vincent Massey by the Progressives of Durham, Ont., has no party significance whatever," said Robert Forke, Progressive leader to-day. Mr. Forke, said the principles of Progressive party were most clear on the subject of local autonomy and that any unit of the party organization might take such steps as had been taken by Progressives in Durham in supporting Mr. Massey as a Liberal without committing the party in any way. Mr Forke declined to comment any further on the subject.

WANT WOMAN CANIDATE

To the Editor of The Examiner:

Dear Sir.—We have in Peterborough one of the few women of Canada of whom all women may well be proud in politics—Mrs. Fallis. She has shown her fitness for politics by being employed by Mr. Meighen to travel over Canada speaking with him on that subject. It is admitted by all who have heard her that she is the equal as a speaker of any man we have in Peterborough. I have heard women say of all parties, that if Mrs. Fallis is run that they would be glad to go out and work for her, and that she would get five thousand women's votes that would not go to the polls. This may seem strange, but we women feel that no man can represent us the way a woman can, and they would take no interest when so gifted a woman as Mrs. Fallis is overlooked. If Conservatives want to win, here is their chance.

I know when I write, when I say that the town and county would be filled with women working for Mrs. Fallis.

ANNIE HOSKEN.

SAYS PROHIBITION FAILED

To the Editor of The Examiner:

Sir,—It may interest your readers to know that "The Federal Council of the Churches of the United States" has made and published a voluminous and detailed report showing that Prohibition cannot be enforced in the United States. The two points upon which the failure rests are: 1. The impossibility of obtaining prohibition agents not open to bribery. The worst agents almost without exception were those nominated by ministers and churches. 2. The fact that Nature is so full of alcohol and the easy means of making it that it appears hopeless to prohibit the manufacturing of alcohol by others. Unless the Creator of Nature is in some way made amenable to prohibitory laws, the universal manufacture of alcohol will remain an easy task. It is idle and useless to try to enforce a prohibitory law against those who manufacture alcohol contrary to the Act when Nature itself is the greatest offender. It is recommended that the old plan of reaching errant man through the one and only cure of all sins be adhered to.

The report is very long and while its statements of fact are definite its implications are such as I have referred to.

FROM CHRIS, M. ROBINSON

Editor, The Examiner:

Sir.—A Subscriber notes casually that Charles Massey has recently been presented with the honorable title, Minister without portfolio—in which case this gentleman has decided to contest Durham County.

Major Massey could not have been a VERY old man when war broke out in 1914—shall we say 25 years old? But rather than join or lead if necessary a fighting unit this recent Honorable gentleman preferred to teach musketry in Canada to raw recruits.

As president of the Massey-Harris Co., one of the largest organizations in the country, he had every inducement to fight for his own interests and those of his employees; but no, this Honorable gentleman preferred to teach musketry—even though he had not heard a shot fired in the war!

No doubt, Major Massey is a man of very high ideals—as Mr. Davidson remarked in the nomination speech—but for goodness sake, when speaking of great Canadians (who were Liberals) leave the name of Charles Massey— a youth of 26 when war broke out and did not enlist for active service—out.

Let us know his good points and ities—but as a soldier, best class him as a wash-out.

Yours truly.

CHRIS. M. ROBINSON.

PRIZE WINNING DOG KILLED DAY AFTER PETERBORO SHOW

J Reid, of Charlotte Street, Loses His First Prize Airedale.

ANOTHER HURT.

J. F. Strickland's Entry Got Second Place Despite Its Injuries.

One of the prizewinners at the Dog how at the Exhibition on Saturday has since come to an untimely end. Daisy, an Airedale bitch, winner of a first prize in the Airedale class and belonging to J. Reid, Charlotte Street, was run over and killed on Aylmer Street on Sunday night by an automobile.

An Irish water Spaniel named Sport, the property of J. F. Strickland, was also injured on Saturday by a motor car. Mr. Strickland took the dog to the Show on Friday, but the animal broke the light chain with which it was attached to the bench, and got loose. Later it was found in Lansdowne Street, its hind legs badly damaged by the wheels of the car that had run over it. Mr. Strickland had it brought back to the dog tent where, in spite of its injuries, it obtained second prize after being examined by the Judge, Mr. Adyman of New York.

Standard Mining Active At Toronto This Morning

TORONTO, Sept. 22 (Canadian general list was under intermitten vailed on the Standard Mining Exchange this morning, with transactions totalling 132,917 shares. Lake Shore advanced 13 points to 673 and Wright Hargraves sold 5 points higher at 565, while Premier declined 3 points to 230. Castle Trethaway additional August earnings Mining Corporation was also on the downward trend at 293, a decline of 2 points. Kirkland Lake, Keeley and Teck Hughes each sold 1 point lower at 40, 166 and 188 respectively. Barry Holly also declined 1 point to 22. Hattie Preferred advanced fractionally under heavy sales to 4 5-8, and Argonaut was 1 12 points lower at 25 1-2.

High Money Rates Halt Speculative Operations

NEW YORK, Sept. 22 (Canadian Press).—High money rates continue to provide the stumbling block of speculative operations for advance in today's stock market, although strongly organized pools did succeed in lifting several of the automotive and public utility issues to new high levels for the year. The general list was under inetrmittent selling pressure, inspired by the belief that the technical condition of the market warranted further reaction because of the apparently oversold position of many stocks. Little attention was paid to trade news, the chief item of which was the decline in raw sugar prices to the lowest level since 1922. The reduction of dividend on New York Air Brake Common sent that stock down from 41 to 36 1-2, despite the fact that rumors of such action had been widely circulated about the street.

Sharp breaks of nearly 5 points each in American Can and General Electric also tended to curb the bullish sentiment. Rails held firm with traders showing an inclination to await additional August earnngs statements before extending their committments.

Little Wheat on Ocean Price Has Small Increase

CHICAGO, Sept. 22 (Canadian Press).—With the amount of wheat afloat for Europe said to be the smallest ever known, and with indications of export in rye, wheat prices averaged a little higher today during early dealings. It was pointed out as a bullish factor regarding wheat that there has been a decrease of more than 100,000,000 bushels in the United States crop of potatoes. On the other hand, persistent selling on the part of houses with northwestern connections tended to check new buying. Wheat opening prices 1-8c off to 3-4c up, December 151 3-4 to 152, and May 154 1-2 to 154 3-4, were followed by slight gains all around, and then something of a reaction.

Corn and oats reflected the action of wheat. After opening at 1-4c lower to 1-2c advance, December 81 1-2 to 81 5-8, the corn market rose to above yesterday's finish for all decliveries.

Oats started unchanged 1-8 to 1-4c higher; December 41 to 41 1-8c and held near to initial figures.

In line with hog values the provision market pointed higher.

Reactionary Tendency On the Toronto 'Change

TORONTO, Sept. 22.—(Canadian Press).—A reactionary tendency set in on the Toronto Stock Exchange this morning, and some of the erstwhile strong issues suffered material losses. Brazilian, still prominent, eased down to 72 5-8, a loss of 1 3-8 at the noon close, and Bell Telephone was marked down 2 3-8 at 138. C.P.R. also lost 2 3-8 at 148 1-8. British Columbia Fishing dropped a half point at 47½. Canadian Canners Preferred was active but unchanged, while the Common eased a quarter.

"DADDY" TAYLOR.

The following tribute is paid by the Sons of England:

On Saturday afternoon there was laid to rest in the beautiful grounds of Little Lake Cemetery the body of "Daddy" Taylor. A few years ago he was one of the best known men on the streets of Peterboro. His friendly voice and his cheery smile were true indications of his character.

He was a Son of England, and never missed an opportunity to voice his love and affection for the land of his birth. He was a member of the S.O.E.B.S. for more than 40 years, and the society's rapid growth in its earlier years was largely due to his missionary zeal and enthusiasm for new members.

It was therefore only fitting that the casket containing his earthly remains should be borne to the grave by the men who had been associated with him in the Lodge room for so many years. The funeral on Saturday was held under the auspices of the S.O.E., from his residence, 270 Sherbrooke Street. The pall-bearers were: Bros. W. Saxby, J. Gibson, C. Kitney, G. Benton, R. Buntin and C. Wood. The funeral service was conducted by the Rev. A. J. Langford, of Trinity Church, followed by the S.O.E. service led by Bros. G. Collis and A. Follis. A large number of members were present to take part in the service to show their respect to a departed brother who had given many years of service to their society.

MILL WILL GRIND ALFALFA FOR FEED

Will Be Second Of Its Kind Installed in Canada

U.S. INNOVATION.

CAMPBELLFORD, Sept. 22. — The property on Ranney Street, formerly owned by Capt. P. J. Kelly, who conducted a coal and lumber business was sold by auction on Saturday, the successful bidder being John L. Hay, whose name for the past two or three years has figured prominently in the local real estate transactions. Mr. Hay's bid was $2300. The property consists of three lots and a fourth lot which belongs to the town but which a lease for 99 years has been given. The buildings on its are an office a coal shed, lumber sheds and a warehouse.

Mr. Hay proposes to fit up the warehouse with machinery for the grinding of alfalfa hay. This is an industry that has been successfully established in the United States and a mill is now in process of construction in Belleville. If, Mr. Hay's present plans are carried out, Campbellford will have the second plant of its kind ever started in Canada.

In such a mill Alfalfa hay, just as it is harvested, is ground into a fine powder which it has been demonstrated in feeding qualities excells all kinds of ensilage and makes a profitable ration for all kinds of stock, hogs included. One outstanding advantage in submitting the alfalfa to this treatment is that it requires little room for storage.

NO ARREST IN LYNCHING CASE

Negro Was Burned at Stake For Attack on White Girl.

MOB DISPERSED.

NEW ALBANY, Miss., Sept. 22. —(Canadian Press).—No arrest had been made early today in connection with the lynching of J. P. Ivey, a negro, who was burned at the stake in a farming community, 18 miles from here, on Sunday afternoon.

The mob dispersed after the lynching and the negro's story that three other negroes were implicated with him in attacking the daughter of a farmer, on Friday, was discounted when the girl, who is in a serious condition in a local hospital, declared that Ivy alone had attacked her.

Ivy was taken to the scene of the crime, his body was covered with kerosene, and he was tied to a stake. Brushwood was piled about him and ignited.

Witnesses to the lynching said the negro's cries of agony were soon stilled.

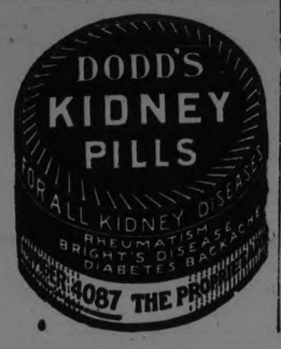
EQUALITY PROPOSAL TERMED PREMATURE

Shipping Committee Suggested That St. John and Halifax Be Equalized.

LONDON, Sept. 22.—(Canadian Press Cable).—Reports have emanated from Ottawa to the effect that the underwriters are likely to accept the suggestion of the Imperial Shipping Committee that St. John and Halifax should be placed on an equality in the matter of marine insurance rates, but, to say the least, these are decidedly premature.

While professions of sympathy towards the proposal are expressed here in very general terms enquiries show that in underwriting circles the proposal is not regarded as justified because of the belief that the Bay of Fundy offers more hazards to shipping than the open approach to Halifax.

However, no definite decision on the matter is likely to be given for some time yet.



GRAIN ON LAKES

Nearly 2 1-2 Million Bushels Floating Eastward in 11 Vessels.

FORT WILLIAM, Ont., Sept. 22. —(Canadian Press). — By far the largest aggregate grain cargo to clear from the ports of Fort William and Port Arthur this fall, left Sunday and Monday in the holds of 11 vessels. Of this volume, the giant lake freighter, Grant Morden, carried 495,000 bushels of grain the largest single cargo to leave the lakehead ports this year. The Grant Morden had in her hold 260,000 bushels of wheat, 135,000 bushels of oats and 100,00 obushels of barley. Six vessels are loading grain and 13 due light.

POSTPONE CONVENTION

Unnecessary to Draw Up New Wage Scale for Mine Workers.

INDIANAPOLIS, Sept. 22. — (Canadian Press). — A referendum vote on the question of postponing the biennial convention of the United Mine Workers of America until January, 1927, has resulted in almost unanimous approbal. It was explained at headquarters of the organization yesterday that the principal business of the convention would be the formulaton of a new wage scale agreement to supplant the one entered into with the operators at Jacksonville, Fla., in 1924, and which expires in 1927. The holding of a convention in 1926 the next regular year, is deemed unnecessary by union officials.

IMMIGRATION OF CHILDREN TO BE CONSIDERED NOW

Child Welfare Council Will Debate Matter at Convention.

OTHER PROBLEMS

Number of Noted Speakers to be Present at National Assembly.

OTTAWA, Ont., Sept. 22.—(Canadian Press).—Plans for the future good of children jn Canada, as well as a survey of what has been accomplished in the last five years, will be made at the fifth conference of the Canadian Council on Child Welfare, opening here September 28. It is five years since the first conference was called under the auspices of the Federal Department of Health. In the intervening time remarkable progress has been made in legislation, and especially in the getting together of many different organizations with an interest in child welfare.

The meetings last for four days and will be attended by a representation from all the provinces, with an especially large representation from Ontario and Quebec. On Wednesday there will be an all-French section meeting. Prominent leaders in child welfare in Canada will attend, also Miss Grace Abbott, chief of the Children's Bureau of the United States, at Washington. Mrs. Charles Thorburn, the president, will preside at the general meetings.

One of the most burning questions for discussion is child immigration. The Council drew public attention to the immigration to Canada of unaccompanied children under fourteen years. This was also labelled undesirable by the British commission under Miss Margaret Bondfield, whose visit to Canada was followed by considerable publicity on the subject. Then immigration of unaccompanied children was restricted to those over 14 years, and to this some British agencies have objected. The entire subject is to be discussed at a Wednesday meeting to which representatives of British agencies have been invited.

Topics of major importance to be dealt with in sections are: Social hygiene and child welfare, the mother and child in the outposts, the juvenile immigrant, tuberculosis among children, child placing in rural areas, religious education, recreation, mental hygiene and child welfare, family desertion and the placement of orphan children in adopted homes.

SEAMEN'S STRIKE WINS SYMPATHY IN GOVERNMENTS

No Collapse Apparent As All Seafarers Abet Move For Increase.

FARMERS COMPLAIN.

Arraign Shipping Interests For Apathy in Arranging Settlement.

LONDON, Sept. 22. — (Canadian Press).—The unofficial seamen's strike, which has already been responsible for the calling of a general election in Australia, is developing unfavorably both in Australia and South Africa, and is arousing bitter complaints from the farming community of South Africa, who see their whole export trade, maize, fruit and dairy products, obstructed. The farmers complain against the shipping interests and the government in England for their apathy in the face of a serious situation and their failure to make any attempt to arrange a settlement.

The difficulty of the situation is that, although the home ports owing to the depression, find little difficulty in recruiting men among the unemployed to replace the strikers, there is a strong undercurrent of sympathy among the masses of workers, including the seafarers themselves, with a movement aiming to prevent the cutting of wages. The fact also that many members of the Governments of South Africa and New South Wales are more or less on the side of the strikers helps to complicate matters and prolong the strike.

The strike has lasted a month and there seems no sign of a collapse. Emmanuel Shinwell, the strike leader, continues actively stirring the men, but his efforts have failed to hamper the British ports seriously. He demands in behalf of the strikers a continuance of the old rates of pay, pending a conference of all the parties concerned.

Attempts made in the past few days to bring out the workers in the shipbuilding yards in support of the strike have thus far failed.

CYCLONE WRECKS FARM PROPERTY

Steel Shingles Hurled a Mile —Pump Torn From Well—Barn Moved.

FENCES SCATTERED.

MARMORA, Sept. 22.—A cyclone of great violence visited the neighborhood of Malone about 3 o'clock on Sunday afternoon. The property of Mr. Levi Wannamaker, situated a mile north of Mr. W. D. Nickle's store, suffered great damage. The woodshed was detached from the house and wrecked entirely. Half of the roof of the dwelling was blown away. Steel shingles were hurled a distance of more than a mile away. The pump house was blown away and the pump drawn out from the well. The drive house was smashed to pieces. The straw barn moved two feet on its basement. Rail fences were scattered everywhere. Elms and poplars within range of the buildings were torn to pieces and large portions of poplar were hurled through the air.

Another barn, half a mile east of Mr. Wannamaker's, owned by Mr. Charles Kelly, was turned completely over. No fire resulted from either occurrence.

MONTREAL WOMEN PLACE CANDIDATE

Mrs. Piere F. Casgrain is Unanimous Choice, Says Exchange.

MONTREAL, Sept. 22. —(Canadian Press). — The French-Language newspaper, La Press, yesterday afternoon featured the following in its news colums—

"Now that the right to vote has been accorded to women, the Liberal ladies of Montreal are desirous of entering more actively into the political life of the country. Hitherto, Montreal women have been satisfied to form political associations of which the "Women's Liberal Club" and the "Women's Coonservative Club" are cases in point. The former comprises a French and an English section. In view of the forthcoming elections, these two sections have resolved to unite and to engage in an active battle not only to the extent of participating in meeting but also in having one of their number a candidate for one of the divisions in the Island of Montreal. The two sections have arrived at a complete understanding and one woman will be a Liberal candidate in the metropolis. Several names have been suggested, but it appears that all the suffrages are united in the choice of Mrs. Pierre F. Casgrain (nee Therese Forget), daughter of the late Sir Rodolph Forget and wife of the member for Charlevoex-Montmorency in the last parliament.

The newspaper adds that it has reason to believe in the correctness of its information.

LADY PARADES ON SOCIALIST TICKET

Departs From Persuasions of Youth Announcing Conversion.

STOKE-ON-TRENT, England, Sept. 22.—(Canadian Press).—Lady Cynthia Mosley, daughter of the late Marquis Curzon, was yesterday unanimously nominated as the prospective Labor candidate for a seat in Parliament to represent this constituency. She was the sole nominee but is not likely to become a member of the House until the next general elections.

Lady Cynthia told her constituents that she accepted the whole programme of the Socialist party.

The recent announcement that Lady Clythia Mosley would stand for Parliament as a Socialist caused considerable commotion among England's aristocracy, for her noted father was unalterably opposed to Socialism and the Socialistic view. Lady Cynthia, whose mother was Mary Leiter, daughter of the late Levi Z. Leiter, of Chicago, has always shown a spirit of political independence. She was married in 1920 to Lieutenant Oswald Mosley, who sat in the House as an Independent Socialist for Harrow, and last year she announced her conversion to Socialism, saying: "I am heart and soul with my husband in this matter."

Recently published statistics indicate that Coventry, England, holds the world's record for the number of motorcycles, having one machine to every 31 of the population.

FINE WEATHER AT SCHOOL FAIR

More Exhibits and Greater Attendance Than Ever Before.

LARGE DISTRICT

MILLBROOK, Sept. 19.—About one thousand people attended the North Clarke Rural School Fair, which took place at Orono on Wednesday, September 16, the number of exhibits being larger than at any previous Fair held this season.

Fine weather favored the occasion, and every event on the programme was carried out in detail, the interest and enthusiasm of the participants and onlookers being maintained throughout.

The North Clarke Fair is the largest in the district, fourteen schools being included in the territory covered. The list with teachers is: Antioch, S.S. No. 8, Miss Mary Luxon, teacher; Lockhart's, S. S. No. 9, Miss Velma Neal, teacher; Starkville, S. S. No. 10, Miss Emma Dickinson, teacher; Orono (Senior) S.S. No. 12, Miss K. Mrs. Campbell judged the school chorus singing in which Orono came first, Leskeard second and Antioch third.

There were eight entries in the public speaking contest, and the judges, Colonel McLaughlin and Mr. O. Gamsby, had a difficult task in deciding between them. Practically every contestant had excellent material, and voice, delivery and deportment were nearly on a par in each case. The winners were finally adjudged as follows: 1, Kenneth Hill; 2, Mary Bowen; 3, Sydney Morgan.

The silver cup, donated to the school winning the highest number of points per pupil in all school fair work, which was won in 1923 by the Sixth line school and last year by Kirby, was not awarded on Wednesday. Owing to the large amount of work devolving on the secretaries because of the size of the fair, points were not totalled the afternoon when the event took place. The winning school will be notified of its success in the immediate future.

Every week the factories of the great English industrial city of Birmingham turn out 14,000,000 pens, 10 tons of pins, 6,000 metal bedsteds, 7,000 tons of rifles and numerous other articles.

Earth-worms can produce musical sounds, according to a German scientist. He even claims to have discovered rhythm in this strange melody.

MANY ATTENDED OPENING MEETING

About Forty Members of United W.M.A. Were Present.

MILLBROOK, Sept. 22.—The reopening meeting, after the holiday season, of the Woman's Missionary Auxiliary of the United Church, was held on Wednesday afternoon at the home of Mrs. Robert Lunn, Carmel, with over forty in attendance.

The president, Mrs. (Rev.) Howard ,took charge of the opening business period. Group A, Miss Mary Widdis, convener, was responsible for the programme, but owing to the serious illness of Miss Widdis' mother, she was unable to be present, and Miss Estele Hetherington took charge in her place.

A "Mite-Box Conference", in which ten members took part, provided an interesting and instructive study period, giving in a concise and illuminating manner much useful information on this important manner of increasing the missionary funds.

Mrs. Offa Williamson read a paper on, "Stewardship," and Mrs. T. H. Aiken distributed the mite-boxes in the absence of the secretary, Mrs. P. Stinson.

Mrs. H. W. Johnston was appointed convener of the "Watch Tower," the material for the "heralds" being under her charge.

The usual social hour, with refreshments served, was enjoyed at the close.

The GRESSMAN Company Limited
"The Store of Birthday Bargains"

"Oh Mother", called Ethel White, as she led Jean Thomas through the dim hall, on the way to the dining room.

"What is it, my dear," called Mrs. White, from the kitchen.

"Jean and I have gathered some of the prettiest crimson leaves, you could ever see, just come and look, we are going to press them in our school books."

Mrs. White came leisurely into the dining room, as though to take nothing more than a motherly interest in her daughter's doings, but when she saw the leaves, laid out on the table, she stared at them in a moment of halting fear, delving into her memory, and muttering to herself about "three leaves for danger are bad for the stranger," then almost yelled in excitement, "Why, Ethel, where ever did you find that stuff, my dear child, you have been playing with poison ivy."

The two littel girls were conducted to the bathroom and common kitchen soap was gently applied not once, but for as many as six or eight different washings, with warm water, soap and gentle handling. Then their dresses were removed, to be washed separately and thoroughly, and Jean was dressed in one of Ethel's other dresses.

After that, Mrs. White swept up the leaves in the dust pan, putting them into the stove, and the girls led out to the corner of the field where the poison ivy was found. It had grown all over the fence and was a glorious colour. But Mr. White put on old clothes and gloves and cleaned it out, making a bonfire of both the ivy and the clothes and gloves, later when he had changed back again. He took good care to light the fire and stand away over on the road, for smoke from poison ivy is full of the oil and is very dangerous to eyes, throat and nose.

Mrs. White explained to the girls, that nobody is immune to the wicked oil from this plant. Even on clothes, it is dangerous. Do not rub when washing, as it breaks the skin and lets the oil in. Some folks, with dry hands, think they are immune, but let them touch it with moist hands and they will learn their error.

Good kitchen soap and water, gently applied, is the only way to get rid of his non volatile oil. It sticks to skin and clothes alike.

YOUR HEALTH

By ROYAL S. COPELAND, M.D.,
Former Commissioner of Health, New York City.

A charming mother said to me the other day, "You can't make bone and muscle out of imagination."

She had been talking about her twin boys, aged eleven. It seems they do not care for green vegetables, milk and the substantial foods which are essential to health and growth.

On the contrary, these boys hunger for the denatured and inferior foods—the "fabricated foods" or, as the mother put it, the "imaginary foods." This is a mistaken sort of appetite. The mother well said, "You can't build bone and muscle out of imagination."

Nothing can be more important than to supply the demands of a growing body. It is all very well to satisfy hunger, but that isn't enough. You can overcome hunger with sawdust or clay, but I don't need to tell you such indigestible things would do you actual harm. Simply to satisfy the yearnings of the stomach, regardless of what is swallowed for this purpose, is to breed trouble.

Every adult must have an abundance of the substantial foods. He must have the protein, the mineral substance and the vitamins. It would lead to disaster to attempt feeding the body with fats and carbohydrates alone. The building materials, the repair materials, must be had to keep the body from wreck and ruin.

If this is true of a grown-up body, already finished and demanding only that it be kept in condition, how much more important is it that the body of the child, small and frail perhaps, should be given the materials to make it big and strong. To this end real food must be supplied. Imaginary food won't do.

Have you thought, too, what it is that keeps the muscles firm and the skin clear and free from wrinkles?

I don't blame the person who feels the need of such attention for patronizing beauty parlors and taking regular massage. But I do want to remind everybody that food of the right quality and in proper quantities, plenty of water to drink, exercise of the whole body, sunshine and sleep in the fresh air, will do more to keep the skin and muscles in condition than all the artificial aids in the world.

Fundamental to good health is the food you take every day. You must have it, just as the timbers in a house must be solid and sound. Paint and plaster laid on timbers which are splintered and rotted will not long deceive the owner. Such a house is no more unsubstantial than is a body which is fed on imaginary foods.

Answers to Health Queries.

GLAUCOMA. Q.—What treatment do you advise for glaucoma. Would electrical massage over the eyes be helpful?

A.—This requires expert medical attention. Have your eyes examined and in this way whatever treatment you need may be definitely advised.

P.S. Q.—What will keep the hair from falling out? I have recently had an operation for appendicitis. Would this have any bearing on the trouble?

A.—Yes an operation very frequently causes the hair to fall out. Careful attention, such as frequent shampooing and using a good, stimulating hair tonic should help you. For full particulars send a self-addressed stamped envelope and repeat your question.

PATIENT Q.—Will a condition where there are adhesions of the tendon sheaths around the ankle, causing the heel to be drawn up, ever become normal?

A.—Without examination it would be difficult to advise you definitely concerning this condition. Baking and massage might help. Have your doctor advise you.

• • •

B.B.B. Q.—What is the cause and cure for pimples?

A.—The diet may be at fault for this condition. For full particulars send stamped, self-addressed envelope and repeat your question.

• • •

M.M. Q.—Are buckwheat cakes and maple syrup harmful when taken in moderation?

A.—No, they are not harmful.

FAMOUS JEWELS

By Barbara Bayne

AMONG THE WORLD'S GREATEST DIAMONDS.

"He who buys a diamond," it has been said, "purchases a fragment of eternity." Diamonds and adamant are only different forms of the same word, both signifying "unconquerable."

Certainly jewels link the present with the past in a marvelous fashion. Man lives out his brief span of years and is seen no more. But his jewel lives on and on, embodying family traditions, and around it gathers the record of buried nations or dead civilizations. Though lost, buried for centuries from human eye, it still lives on "unconquerable," until some day some hand will bring it forth again, a fragment of eternity."

Discovery of the G reat "Jubilee" Diamond.

It will surpise many who always have thought of a diamond as a brilliant white stone, to learn that black, grey, hycinthine, red, and, rarest of all, blue diamonds have been found. The Austrian crown jewels are reputed to contain the most magnificent ruby red diamond extant. The "Hope" is the best known speciment of the sapphire blue diamond.

The "Porter Rhodes", so named after the mine in which it was found in 1880—a claim of the great Kimberley mines—is one of the finest diamonds of large size taken from the Cape diggings. It weighs 150 carats and the color is blue-white, rare in any size, but extremely so in large stones.

The famous "Dresden" diamond is a faultless, white, egg-shape drop of exceptional brilliancy and "fire," weighing 76½ carats.

It was found in the Bagagem mines in Brazil in 1857 and in the rough weighed 119½ carats. Sent to Rio de Janeiro it was brought by an agent there who forwarded it to London.

In 1863 a rajah of India came to London for the purpose of buying it, but the price asked—40,000 pounds—was too high for even his Oriental extravagance. A merchant who accompanied him fell under the spell of the great diamond.

Later, during the Civil War in America when the price of cotton went soaring skyward he became enormously rich in the cotton trade and sent his agent to London to purchase the "Dresden" diamond.

The agent, doubtless accustomed to sharp practice got it for 32,000 pounds and sold it to the merchant for the original price, thus clearing 8,000 pounds on the transaction.

The merchant ultimately lost his get-rich-quick fortune and at his death his heirs sold the "Dresden" to the Maharajah Sivaji Ras, Gaikwar of Baroda who, always willing and ready to pay any price for a jewel that took his fancy, paid 40,000 pounds for it. The "Dresden" has remained in the Gaikwar's famous collection of jewels.

Another celebrated diamond, said to have been found by a negro in South America near the Abaite River in 1775, is the "Regent of Portugal," a rough diamond of 217 carats, valued at 396,800 guineas.

OPERATORS STRUCK.

Paris Did Without Telephones or Telegraph For Two Hours.

HAZLETON, Penn., Sept. 22.—(Canadian Press).—The anthracite coal companies have started to economize as the result of the suspension that began September 1st throing idle about 158,000 miners. Everything is being done by the operators to cut down overhead expenses while the collieries are idle and the men kept on the pay rolls previous to the suspension have been laid off. Maintenance forces, who look after the protection of property and the operation of mine pumps, have been reduced to a minimum, causing numerous complaints by the grievance committees of the United Mine Workers.

In America some 45 per cent. of the families are owners of their own homes.

TOMORROW'S HOROSCOPE

By Genevieve Kemble

WEDNESDAY, SEPTEMBER 23.

According to the rather insignificant places of the planets this may be expected to be a fairly quiet and unimportant day. Things should move in customary grooves, although those in the employment of others may meet with some favor or recognition. The money conditions are not promising and all manner of speculation should be avoided. In domestic, social and affectional affiliations more interesting and livelier occurrences may be enjoyed.

Those whose birthday it is may have a rather routine year, with affairs progressing quietly. However, those in the employment of others may be promoted or receive other recognition for industry and application. Heart and home associations may flourish despite certain irregular episodes. A sign of unconventionality holds away. A child born on this day may be popular and accomplished and have fine social qualities in spite of some unconventional or singular leanings. It will succeed best in the employment of others rather than on its own account.

GOOD NIGHT STORIES

BUNNY RABBIT LEARNS SOMETHING NEW

"Well, well, well," chuckled Bunny Rabbitt when he crawled under Farmer Brown's garden fence and spied a stranger digging up potatoes. "You're the funniest rabbit I ever saw." Anyone to look at Bunny Rabbit would know he was very young, so the stranger didn't make fun of bunny; he just smiled and nodded.

"Yes," he drawled slowly, "I guess I am a funny-looking bunny. But it just happens I'm not a Bunny Rabbit."

"No?" exclaimed Bunny Rabbit. "Then what in the world are you, anyway, may I ask?"

"Billy Pocket Gopher, at your service," chuckled the little stranger. "I heard that Farmer Brown has more potatoes then he could use, so I came to get some."

"I'm Not a Bunny Rabbit."

"But how in the world can you work with such a toothache" asked Bunny Rabbit, pointing to Pocket Gopher's face, which certainly looked swollen. "When I have the toothache, my Mama——"

"Toothache," laughed Billy Pocket Gopher. "I haven't the toothache," and he took his front feet and pushed on the back sides of his cheeks and out popped a great bunch of seeds and lovely grasses. "Those are my pockets. I always carry things home in my cheek pockets. Haven't you ever seen a gopher before?" Bunny Rabbit shook his head and felt his own cheeks.

"Then you'd better take a good look, so you'll know one when you see it again," he laughed.

"Chatty Chipmunk has cheek pockets," grunted Bunny Rabbit, "but his are on the inside of his cheeks and your are on the outside.

"The proper place for cheek pockets," chuckled Billy Pocket Gopher. "Mine cover almost the whole side of my head. I'll bet Chatty Chipmunk can't boast of big yellow cutting teeth like mine, either," and he opened his mouth and showed Bunny Rabbit his long, yellow front teeth. They were so terribly long they made Bunny Rabbit shiver.

Well, you've got a long tail; that helps some," snickered Bunny Rabbit. I have a tail, too, but it's so small you can hardly find it."

Talk about tails," chuckled Billy Pocket Gopher, "I couldn't get along without mine. It serves me as a guide when I run back and forth along my tunnels. It's very sensitive. Well, I guess I've about all the potatoes I need, so I'll be on my way home."

"You live around here?" asked Bunny Rabbit.

"Over in the meadows beyond the cornfield," replied Billy Pocket Gopher. "Come over sometime. You'll see my mounds piled above my doorway. When you come, just dig a little hole in the top of one of these mounds and I'll let you in," and gathering up his basket of potatoes he hurried out under the garden fence and scampered away home. Bunny Rabbit watched him until he was out of sight; then he hopped over to the bean patch to get his supper.

This is Where a Corn Hurts You at the Root!

Cutting the top of a corn off with a razor or burning it off with caustic lotions, plasters, etc., doesn't do any good. It may do great harm by causing infection or even blood poisoning.

Also it hurts and the root just sprouts right up again, so your corn soon has a brand new top making it bigger and more painful than ever. The top is only dead skin anyway. The business end of a corn is the little pointed part or core that extends down into the toe. That is what hurts when it presses on sensitive nerves, and it is the part you have to get out. A good handful of Reudel Bath Saltrates dissolved in a gallon or so of hot water will soften corns and callouses, like water softens soap. Just soak them in this for a while, then take hold of the corn with your fingers and out it will come root and all. The refined Reudel Bath Saltrates costs very little, and any druggist will have it. A half-pound is sufficient to rid the whole family of all foot troubles.

THREW HIM OUT OF BED

During the recent violent thunder storm which swept a large part of Ontario, J. K. Mullin, of Toronto, shown above, was lifted bodily from the bed he was sleeping on, and fell to the floor in a stunned condition, from the action of a bolt of lightning, which, however, left him entirely without injury. The same flash of lightning split open a chimney in an adjoining house, as shown above.

BID FAREWELL

BID FAREWELL TO DEPARTING FRIEND

Miss Crawford Was Faithful Member of St. John's Church.

MADOC, Sept. 22.—The A.Y.P.A. of St. John's Church held a social evening at the home of Miss Lillian Hart Thursday evening, as a farewell party to Miss Pearl Crawford. Miss Crawford is leaving for Toronto next week, where she will be in residence at St. Hilda's, while attending University. Miss Crawford will be very much missed in St. John's, as she has been a faithful worker both in the choir and the A.Y.P.A. She was presented with a fountain pen and pencil as a token of remembrance and appreciation of her valuable aid which has been given so cheerfully in all the activities of the Young People's Society. Rev. Mr. Strother addressed the meeting, expressing the hope that the members still remaining would put forth every effort to carry on the work, and wishing Miss Crawford every happiness and success in her new life and studies.

The members of the I.C.D.E. held an afternoon tea at the home of Mrs. F Curry recently. Mrs. Curry was assisted by Miss Aylesworth, Regent of the Chapter, and by Mrs. Watson. The tea table was bright with varicolored zinnias, while asters and gladiolus were used in the drawing room. Dainty refreshments were served. A large number of members and guests were present, and the financial results were very gratifying.

Madoc was visited by another severe thunderstorm Thursday night. It is reported that two barns were struck in the vicinity, one of them belonging to Mr. Frank Reynolds at Cooper.

Mr. and Mrs. Hotson of Vancouver are the guests of Mr. Wareham Harris.

"Informal conversations between Wayne B. Wheeler and other attorneys have offered the basis for interesting rumors but they are quite unimportant," is the way in which the United States Brewers' Association sums up the situation.

SUGGESTS TAKING C.P.R. BY COUNTRY

Railway Union Head Says Amalgamation Should Be Made That Way.

TORONTO, September 22. Canadian Press. — If the Canadian National and the Canadian Pacific Railways are to be amalgamated the government of Canada should take over the Canadian Pacific Railway, and assume responsibility of taking care of the wage earners who will be affected by its action.

Such is the opinion expressed by A. R. Mosser, President of the Canadian Brotherhood of Railway Employees, which opened its national convention here yesterday. The brotherhood represents largely the lower paid workers of the Canadian National System.

ADVICE TO GIRLS

By Annie Laurie

DEAR ANNIE LAURIE:

I have been going with a young man for over a year and I like him very much. As it used to be rather difficult for me to see him often he wanted to see me again and again. Now I can see him as often as I like and he seems to be rather indifferent. Is there any way I can bring him around to his former attitude?

BROWN EYES.

BROWN EYES: This young man may be much busier now than he was at the beginninf of your friendship, my dear. At any rate, there is no reason for you to wait until he asks permission to call. I suggest that you write him occasionally, inviting him over. This will make him feel that you are interested in him and enjoy his company—and he will probably call more often.

Annie Laurie will welcome letters of inquiry on subjects of feminine interest from young women readers of this paper and will reply to them in these columns. Letters to Miss Laurie should be addressed to her in care of this office.

DEAR ANNIE LAURIE:

I am a girl of eighteen and am in love with a young man who lives across the street from my house. I see him quite often and talk to him. It seems the more I talk to him the more I love him. He seems to like me. How can I find out if he cares for me?

WORRIED.

WORRIED: There is really nothing you can do to ascertain the extent of this young man's affection for you, my dear. At any rate, don't worry about it. Be cordial and friendly toward him, chat gayly about the things which interest you and don't give the young man an opportunity to think you are fond of him. If he does value your friendship he will find some way of telling you—and until then you must not broach the subject.

YOU SAID IT!

Fruit Dealers Warn Housewives to Get Peaches Done Up.

BEST WEEK.

The fruit dealers are warning the housewives who desire to do up peaches this year that this week is a singularly good time to buy them. After this week, they say, the market may be flooded with windfalls from the recent heavy storms that shook down the peaches in great quantities. Elbertas, the best for canning purposes, are in the stores just now, at prices ranging all the way from 75 cents to $1.35 a basket. This season is described as a disappointing peach year, with prices higher and quantities much lower, than last year.

Grapes are plentiful and are just rising to their zenith in the fruit markets, and so are pears, in the Bartlett and Anjou and Flemish Beauty varieties. Crabapples are in the stores, in reds and pinks and yellows, at many prices.

Although the blight spoiled the early potato crop to a certain extent, the late potatoes are described as being very good in quality. The rains that brought on the roots and corn to perfection spoiled to a certain extent some of the crops of tardy harvesters. A visitor to the city yesterday reported seeing a field of oats with the tops sprouting from the heavy recent rains, and many of the farmers have suffered in this way. Things in the grain markets are quiet just at present, with most of the agriculturists putting in their fall wheat.

THE QUILT

So she told me its story
And I heard it, not from preference
But of necessity, that day I could not go out
Because the raindrops pattered—
How they seemed to be footballs
Creeping close, close to the windows to listen!

"This the quilt that has been pieced
From scraps of the best-liked costumes
Of many of our blood."
And she unrolled it,
Musky with a faint old odor as of pressed flowers;
As she talked caressing each square
With hands that moved over the bright pieces
Like pale, withered leaves blowing here and there
Among the fallen petals of yesterday's roses;
"This is a piece of your Aunt Taisie Leigh's wedding dress—
It was woven on our loom;
And this was cut from Great-Great-Grandfather's uniform—
He was killed at—"

Thus the tale went on
Till I of today, the youth that had regarded the aged
As something different,
And age a half-crime,
Fused with age—
I am a part of Grand This and Great-Great That Pieced from the past to protect
God's slowly growing child, Progress,
I, too, am a quilt!

Home-Making Helps

EVOLUTION OF THE EGG BEATER.

The evolution of the egg beater makes an interesting story. Many of the older housekeepers felt the need of more efficient help when angel cakes came into fashion. The silver fork was good, but surely there must be a quicker way. A woman in an Eastern city started the barrel hoop idea and many of the men folks spent one or more evenings smoothing down a quarter barrel hoop, rubbing it with sandpaper and shaping a handle. It worked well and it did good work.

Then came the club-shaped wire beaters and they seemed to fill the need fairly well. They were followed by the slender flat wire beaters and the diamond woven wire beater that looked like a pancake griddle. Meantime many cooks were working with the open work wooden spoon. The spoon has long slot-like openings in its bowl. Still many a peasant was working to accomplish the same object with a neatly arranged bunch of clean twigs.

Then came along the single beaters the two-wheel beaters with the flat steel wire whose rapid revolutions were coaxed by the flying wheel and the eggs were whipped in shorter order.

HEDDA HOYT TALKS ABOUT THINGS THAT INTEREST THE BUSY WOMAN OF 1925

Fashion Notes

(Written for the United Press.)

NEW YORK, Sept. 21 (United Press).—Kick pleats are the newest means of giving hem fullness to the straight-lined frock. The skirt is slit at the front hemline and a pleated piece of material is inserted to permit hem-fullness without altering the straight-lined effect of the frock. Many sports frocks and separate skirts use kick pleats in preference to other means of attaining width.

Uneven hemlines for evening frocks of young Misses will be popular this season. Usually the scalloped hemline outlined in contrasting color is chosen as in the case of a silvercloth frock whose scalloped hemline is finished with a fold of bright green velvet, the same shade of velvet forming appliques on the full skirt. Another gown of silvercloth has its uneven hem bound in purple velvet and spaced here and there on the full skirt are velvet orchids appliqued to the gown with silver thread. Irregular stems are made of pale green velvet cord.

A new pearl choker designed for the evening gown has two single strands of pearls falling at the back near the clasp and extending to the waitline where huge pearl balls act as pendants.

Pale orchid hosiery is chosen for evening wear with the silver slipper by many women who are tiring of nude and silver tones.

A FASHION MODEL'S DIARY

By Grace Thorncliffe

SHE DESCRIBES A SMART SUIT FOR EARLY FALL.

Madame has been making a large number of ensembles for her older clients, but today she designed a suit for one of the young debutantes.

As her busy pencil plied back and forth, working out the idea on paper, she said to me:

"It is a pleasure for me to design things for any age, but I must say I seem to derive a keener pleasure from doing things for my younger clients.

"From the expression on your face, I thought you must be doing some youthful model," I remarked.

"Yes," Madame admitted. "And I must say it's rather a relief to design a short box jacket, after the number of long ensemble coats I have been doing."

I asked if I might see the sketch, and Madame handed it to me, remarking as she did so:

"You can see that it bespeaks youth in every line, from the back fulness to the box jacket."

I knew that the short box coat seemed to remain a favorite with the younger girls and the college girls, and I was very much interested in this new interpretation of the back fulness.

"I have chosen navy rep of a perfectly beautiful quality," Madame informed me. "The suit is to be practically devoid of trimming, except for a yoke and the tabs of the material which extend from the yoke at the back, and disappear in slits placed about at the hipline."

"Then the front of the suit will be altogether plain, won't it?" I queried.

"That it will," Madame agreed.

Back Fulness and a Box Jacket Features This Navy Rep Suit.

Then she went on to explain that the coat had a single row of perfectly plain dark blue bone buttons to fasten it in front, and that this was all.

INSIDE GOLF.

Maker of 51 Golf Champions. "Golf's most successful teacher," says "Chick" Evans
By CHESTER HORTON

It is a rather common practice among average golfers to twist the hands around on the shaft first one way and then another in efforts to cure some exasperating effect that is taking place on the ball. Here plainly is a case of trying to correct one fault by adopting another. There is a rather widespread rule that the V's in the hands should both point to the right shoulder during the address. Perhaps they should in your case—perhaps not. There are some forty different grips, anyone of which may be yours. It is necessary that the hands have a fine sense of balance—a natural balance—during the swing. Lacking this balance the muscles in one hand and one forearm are likely to work against those in the other hand, which will prevent the clubhead from striking the ball squarely. Get the most natural feeling possible in the hands during the address, observing the rule to keep the shaft in the fingers, not in the palms. Grip the club once without paying the least attention to the position of the V's—and the chances are you will have your correct grip.

GRID SQUADS HAVE A HARD WORKOUT

Ottawa Big Four Attracts Galaxy of "Rugger" Luminaries.

OTTAWA, September 22. Canadian Press. — The weather to-day attracted another big crowd to the daily practice of Ottawa's Big Four Rugby team. Over thirty men were in uniform and taking advantage of the cool atmosphere Coach Dave McCann lined them up for their first team practice of the season. This was no makeshift affair, but saw two complete dozens in action, with a merry battle waging for the best part of an hour. The honors were about evenly divided on the entire play.

A feature of the work out was the backfield work of Tubman and Miller. The latter ran brilliantly while Tubman was getting excellent distance and placement with his kicks, although kicking against a strong wind. Connell and Emmerson also stood out.

The work of Doug. Currie, a new comer to Senior Rugby ranks, was also worthy of mention. Holding down a flying wing assignment, the Ottawa Rowing Club star showed a slendid turn. "Stew" Bruce, another first year man, also made a big impression. James and Anderson worked at the quarter positions, both acquitting themselves creditably.

Although many local opinions have been expressed, it was the unanimous opinion of the rail birds to-night that the Senators look more formidable as a team than as a practice squad, and a really formidable team should result.

MASSEY CLUB HAS ENLARGED ITS FIELD

Members Decide to Take Up Softball and Hockey.

The members of the Massey Soccer Club who have had a very enthusiastic, although unlucky soccer season, seeing the weather adaptable to soccer rapidly drawing to a close, have decided to enlarge their field of play, to take in other sports such as softball, hockey, etc., as these playing seasons come along.

A number of enthusiastic and well attended meetings have been held at White's on Charlotte street and the result is the nucleus of a very promising Sports Club. The new organization takes the name of the Massey Sports Club. Rules and regulations have been laid down and softball practices already held. The club is in the hands of a very efficient executive. Chas. Fenner is president nad Waw Hotston is secretary treasurer.

Chas. Fenner had the misfortune to fracture his leg during a game at the start of the season, which necessitated his retirement from the game for the season. He has since been making up for lost time in the organizing and promoting of the new enterprise.

Those interested in participating in sports are cordially invited to attend the meetings held regularly every Tuesday night at White's.

MANAGERS DICKER ABOUT RACE MEET

"Missouri" of Peterboro to Contend With Campbellford for Selection.

CAMPBELLFORD, Sept. 22 — Jack Marchen of 259 Perry Street, Peterborough, who appears to be business manager for "Missouri" the unknown but ambitious sprinter of that city has sent a letter here explaining his terms.

Mr. Marchen says he is sorry he learns that his man cannot meet Charles Holmes of this town, the latter having announced his definite retirement from the cinder track after a gallant but futile effort, recently made, to come back. However, Mr. Marchen says that his man will take on any runner in Campbellford, the race to be pulled off here on Fair Day, October 2nd, provided the directors will put up a cash prize of not less than $5.

Mr. Marchen need look no further for a match. J. Nelson Stone says that the prize asked for will be given if a match is arranged and the local runners are already training to ascertain which, is the speediest. The only condition upon which the Campbellford men will meet is that the Peterboro runner is a bona fide resident of that city.

NEW YORK, Sept. 22. —(Canadian Press). — Harry Wills does not draw an ycolor line and he is ready to meet any worthy heavyweight in the world. This statement was made yesterday by Wills personally and his manager, Paddy Mullins, in angwer to an assertion in Chicago last night by Billy Gibson, manager of Gene Tunney that the "Black Panther" had either drawn the colour line or was afraid to meet the ex-marine.

Regarding Gibson's statement that he had refused an offer of $200,000 to fight Tunney, Mullins declared that he never received such an offer but that if any promoter wanted to guarantee Wills that amount to meet Tunney, he was waiting to talk ti him.

BEAR SEEN NEAR CAMPBELLFORD

Crossed Road Running Through Swamp in Sight of Motorists.

HUNTERS NOTIFIED.

CAMPBELLFORD, Sept. 22. — While Mr. and Mrs. G. W. Haig, accompanied by their daughter, were returning by auto from a visit in the country, they saw a large black bear come out of the swamp on the Eighth Concession, East Seymour, near the Sandy Innis farm. Bruin slowly crossed the road some distance from the travellers, of whom he took no notice and disappeared in the swamp on the other side of the highway.

When he reached town Mr. Haig notified by 'phone all the local Nimrods he could think of, and it is likely that a hunting party will be organized to search for the bear.

There was a bear killed last fall, not far from the place where this one was seen, after a long chase, in which one of the hunters was fatally wounded by the accidental discharge of his gun.

SENATE REFORM

on the question of Senate reform, saying, "When a house of parliament becomes an active block to all forward legislation the time has come when that house must be reformed."

A second chamber might serve a useful purpose as a check on hasty legislation, but certain changes should be made in the powers of the upper house to bring it more in accord with the spirit of the times.

"These changes," continued the Premier, "the government will propose in a measure which will be a government bill and we shall expect every senator who comes into the senate from this time on, and every senator appointed since we took office, to bring about the form which we consider essential to the interests of the country.

Senator Robertson had said that England started with protection. "Yes," commented Mr. King, "England started with protection but she had sense enough to quit it when she got into the markets of the world."

He accused Mr. Meighen of preaching "blue ruin," and assured his hearers that depression was worse in the United States to-day than in Canada. In Massachusetts, New York State and Connecticut there were fewer employed in the textile mills, in comparison, than in Canada. There were more boot and shoe factories closed than in Canada. That was not due to any action of the government. It was due to the situation in which the world found itself—a situation from which it was happily recovering.

LONDON IS THREATENED

in the old Ypres salient during so many bitter months.

The troops of England's mimic war are encamped in mire ankle deep, which brought dour smiles to the faces of the veterans as they listened to the grumblings of the lads who were too young to follow the flag in the last real war.

Briefly, the situation as regards the battle is this. Besides these 40,000 men, among which are large numbers of cavalry, there are one hundred airplanes and a host of tanks, armored cars and artillery. One force known as the Blue Army is drawn up, backs to London, as a defence for the capital against the invaders. This army is under command of Lieut.-General Sir Philin Chetwode, a great cavalry leader, whose corps was resnonsible for the canture of Jerusalem in the late war.

Opposing him is the Red Army, whose object is to break through and gain the roads to London. Lieut. General Sir Alexander Godley, who leads this army, is famous as th commander of the New Zealand expeditionary force throughout the World War, both at the Dardanelles and in France. Details of the battle plans are withheld by the censor, but the public knows that it will take four days to decide the fate of London.

An interesting feature is the employment by both sides of a large force of cavalry, regarding whose usefulness there was so much argument during the European war. It will be recalled that Field Marshal Haig was a staunch supporter of the cavalry, and he can look back to the campaign in Palestine to justify his faith.

The battle is being staged on historic ground which has been fought over since the days of the Romans. The path to London is the valley of the Thames. The Romans erected many camps along this route, and shortly, if the invading army is successful, monster tanks will be crawling over ground which nearly 2,000 years ago was held by the soldiers of Rome. William the Conqueror pursued similar tactics and the Plantagenets left Windsor Castle as a reminder that they had to hold the valley of the Thames.

MANILA, P.I., Sept. 22.—(Canadian Press).—A typhoon described by officers aboard the United States destroyers Ford and Pillsbury as the worst in their experience swept three sailors overboard off Tsingtao, China. Two were drowned and the third a negro, was rescued after swimming through the disturbance for 45 minutes.

CLERGYMEN MET AT MILLBROOK CHURCH

Rev H. Wilkinson Spoke on "The Consciousness of Sin."

MILLBROOK, Sept. 22.—The September meeting of the ministerial association was held in the Anglican Sunday School hall recently, Rev. H. Wilkinson, of Pontypool being the speaker for the occasion.

Mr. Wilkinson dealt with the subject, "The Consciousness of Sin", developing the thought that the significance of sin i. apparently more vague today than in former years, and even Christians need to be aroused to the fact "that every sin is a species of fascination to the soul, well adapted to beguile and ruin it."

The removal of Rev. Mr. Williams from the village leaves the presidency of the association vacant, but since Monday's meeting was the reopening one after the holiday season, the attendance was small, and the matter of electing a president was left over until next month.

Those present on Monday were Rev. Canon Allen, Rev. H. B. Foley, of Fraserville, Rev. B. R. Dewdney, Rev. H. Wilkinson, of Pontypool, and Rev. F. H. Howard.

It is expected that Rev. R. T. Richards, of Mark street, Peterborough, will address the association at the October meeting.

An enjoyable social gathering was held at the home of Mrs. George Howden, 8th Line, Cavan, on Tuesday evening when guests were present from Peterborough, Millbrook, Cavan and other points.

The event was in honor of Miss Gertrude Harkness, Mrs. Howden's nicce, whose marriage to Mr. J. W. G. Bryett, of Peterborough, took place in St. Thomas' church on Thursday.

The guests were pleaasntly entertained, in the first part of the evening, with music, games, and social intercourse, after which the bride-to-be was made the recipient of a miscellaneous shower, many beautiful and useful gifts in fine china, embroidered linens, silver, etc., filling the handsomely decorated box placed before her chair. Opening the many-shaped parcels, and reading the good wishes expressed on the cards which accompanied the gifts was a pleasing feature of the occasion.

The surprise of the "gift box" gave the guest of honor a rather difficult task in acknowledging the kindly thoughtfulness and warm friendship which had taken this particular way of expressing itself, but her reply was made in a few well chosen words.

The remainder of the evening was spent in music and dancing, with refreshments served, before the final good-nights were spoken, and the pleaasnt event was brought to a happy close.

Mr. Hugh Kennedy, recently had the misfortune to bruise his right knee while threshing alsike, a mild case of blood-poisoning resulting from the accident.

Within a few days Mr. Kennedy was sufficiently recovered to be able to resume work on his farm.

Mr. James Might met with a painful accident this week. While cranking his car his feet slipped on the muddy ground, throwing him forward and cutting his nose badly on the number plate in front of the radiator. Dr. Lindsay gave the needed medical attention, some stitches being required to close the wound. Satisfactory recovery is being made.

Miss Gertrude Gray spent a few days with her sister, Miss Gladys Grey, of Janetville last week. The Misses Gertrude Gray and Pearl Lamb expect to enter the Normal School at Peterborough this month.

Mr. and Mrs. H. W. Johnston were visitors to Port Hope on Thursday.

Among those from Millbrook and vicinity who attended the Peterborough Fair on Thursday were: Mr. and Mrs. W. E. Ball, Miss Thelma Ball, Mr. and Mrs. Harold Nattrass, Mr. and Mrs. W. Whyte, Mr. and Mrs. Ray Syer, Mr. and Mrs. J. D. Hunter, Mr. and Mrs. Chas. Thorndyke, Miss Ruth Thorndyke, Mr. and Mrs. Harold Hunter, Mrs. A. Tinney, Miss Annie Tinney, Messrs. G. E. Burnham, G. A. Duncan, L. Ingram, D. Fowler, and others.

PROUD BOAST OF FAIR DIRECTORS

Warkworth Association Says "Not Richest or Biggest, But Absolutely Best."

USUALLY MAKE GOOD.

WARKWORTH, September 22. — The directors of the Warkworth fair, on the cover of the prize list for their seventy-fifth exhibition, which will be held on October 9th, put forward the modest claim: "As an Association we may not be the richest, nor yet the biggest, but we are absolutely the best."

Sounds like boasting, perhaps but trust the board of directors to make good. Their exhibition has always stood in the front rank of Central Ontario fairs ,and this year the management will see to it that nothing is allowed to slip backward.

OPPOSITION TO SCHOOL PLANS

Three Men Named as Trustees Who Are Against Consolidation.

REEVE OPPOSED.

APSLEY, Sept. 22.—The nomination meeting for the Board of Trustees for the new consolidated school district was held in the Town Hall, Apsley, on Saturday. Mr. R. Lees, public school inspector, was present, and Mrs. Stanley Windsor was returning officer. The meeting was attended by about a dozen ratepayers, three of whom, Norman Lean, Reeve of Burleigh and Anstruther; Robert Scott, Reeve of Chandos, and Al. Harris, are opposed to the scheme. The Reeve of Chandos came out openly in opposition, and nominated three men, all of whom are against consolidation, after five nominations had been made. As the Board will consist of five members, an election will be necessary. This will take place on Saturday, September 26.

The following were nominated: Rev. C. A. G. Spence, Dan. Whitmore, Rev. J. W. Ogden, Mrs. A. Woods, Simon Windsor, Al. Harris, Tom Stephens and R. H. Knox.

The Revs. Spence and Ogden announced their intention of withdrawing their names at the close of the meeting, in face of the tactics that had been employed by those who were opposed to the consolidated school, but finally agreed to stand for election on the urgent representation of their nominator. The ground of objection offered by Reeve Scott was the fear of increased taxation, although he admitted he had not attended any of the meetings when the matter of expense was thoroughly gone into.

DEBATE WAS WON BY BRIGHTON LADIES

Defeated York Road Institute in Debate on School Life.

BRIGHTON, Sept. 22. —The first of a series of debates of the East Northumberland Institute was held Wednesday afternoon in the Methodist Church, Smithfield between the Brighton Institute and the York Road Institute.

The subject of debate was "Resolved that school life exerts greater influence in moulding character than does the home." The affirmative was upheld by Mrs. Edith Craig, Miss Mary Pickford and Mrs. George Lawson of Brighton. The negative by Mrs. J. F. George, Miss Hendrick and Miss Irene Boes. The debate was very interesting and it proved a hard task for the judges to make their decision, but the negative side was vanquished only by a few points.

A delightful programme was furnished by the Brighton Ladies and the Smithfield Ladies served a dainty lunch.

Illustrated Lecture.

An illutrated lecture was given on Thursday evening in the town hall under the auspices of the Institute in aid of the blind. Mr. Harry B. Phillips was chairman of the meeting, Mrs. R. Alexander was president and Mrs. A. Corley secretary. Solos and a duet were rendered by Miss G. Frise and Miss Muriel Ross. Mrs. Addie Wellington Lapp was pianist for the evening.

Mr. Gustar was the speaker of the evening. Everyone felt at the close of his remarks that the lecture was very instructive and helpful and also any work done in aid of the blind worthy of their best support.

First "At Home."

On Friday evening, the first "At Home" of the Musical and Dramatic Club was given in the Town Hall. The hall was attractively decorated with Japanese lanterns, asters and maple leaves. The Kilties Orchestra from Cobourg provided excellent music.

At mid-night a dainty lunch was served in the basement after which dancing was resumed until the wee small hours of the morning.

AGREEMENT REACHED.

GENEVA, September 22. — Canadian Press. — The League of Nations will begin immediately preparations for disarmament but the conference will not be called until the council considers the security assured Lord Robert Cecil of Great Britain said last night.

Cecil announced that complete agreement had been reached by the sub-committee which for more than a week has been arguing over the proposals of Count Quinones De Leon of Spain, as amended by Count Apponi of Hungary, for technical preparations in order that the nations may be ready for disarmament when security is achieved.

She leaves to mourn her loss her husband and two daughters, Evelyn and Gladys.

JOHN BEATTY.

MILLBROOK, Sept. 22—The late John Beatty, whose death, in his seventy-eighth year took place on Wednesday of last week, following an attack of pneumonia, had been a resident of Millbrook for over sixty years.

His parents came to this country from England, landing in Montreal at the time of the cholera scourge, and settling first in Port Hope, where their family of seven children was born. Later they removed to Millbrook to reside, making their home on Tupper Street, which was then the main thoroughfare of the community. Deceased was about ten years of age when his parents moved here.

The late John Beatty was the second son in a family of three boys, Thomas and George being the other two, and four girls: Jane (Mrs. Beatty of Port Hope), Lizzie (Mrs. Peacock of Welcome), Fanny and Ella. Deceased was the last surviving member of his family, unless the youngest boy, George, is still living. This son left home in early manhood and enlisted in the American Civil War, being severely wounded at the battle of Naseby Gap. Later he lived in California, but whether he is still alive is apparently not definitely known.

Deceased learned the printing trade in the Messenger office, Millbrook, during the late Mr. Hayter's time as editor and publisher, and developed considerable talent as a writer. He was for some years correspondent to the Port Hope Guide, and the few older residents who can now look back to that period recall the fact that a distinct vein of humor prevailed in his writings. He was a widely read man, well versed in the works of standard writers, both of prose and poetry, the ability to retain the knowledge thus gained making him an interesting and clever conversationalist.

After leaivng the Messenger Office, Mr. Beatty clerked for a time in the late Robert Deyell's, store, then located on the corner of King and Tupper Streets. A partnership in business with the late Alonza Fee succeeded the clerkship, their store being on King Street about where Dr. Turner's Drug Store now stands. In the destructive fire of 1875, which wiped out the greater part of the village, Beatty & Fee were among the business firms which lost their property, and the former then turned his attention to buying grain at the old G. T. R. station. When the Millbrook & Omemee Mirror locate here, he reverted to the printing trade, and was connected with this paper up until the time of his death.

Deceased was an Anglican in religion, and in former years an active member of J. B. Hall Lodge, A.F. & A.M. He was a veteran of Fenian Raid and also on the Riel Rebellion A niece, Mrs. (Dr) Dickinson, of Port Houe, is the nearest surviving relative.

The funeral, which was of a military character, took place on Friday September 18th from the Armouries Rev. D. R. Dewdney officiating. The casket was draped with the Union Jack, and the war medals of the deceased were laid upon the flag, the many beautiful floral tributes being arranged close by.

But two other local veterans of the Fenian Raid are still living in the community, Messers L. S. Clarry, and George Berry, Sr., and these with Messers. . McCorry and I. M. Nattrass, veterans of the Reil Rebellion, were the honorary pallbearers. The bearers who carried the casket were: Major A. V. Thorne, Dr. L. J. Stuart, V. C. Lambert, Graham Russel, F. N. Alcorn and Russel Smith.

The Millbrook band, under the leadership of G. A. Duncan, headed the cortege to St. Paul's cemetery, where interment was made. Lieutenant Errol Doxsee was the officer in command of the troops, and Sergeant J. Moore was in charge of the firing party, the members being C. C. Garside, G. Freelove, D. Fowler, W. Whyte, J. Griffin and E. Brooks. Four of these are veterans of the world war G. E. Burnham sounded the last post.

A representative gathering of citizens attended the service in the Armouries, and quite a number of these accompanied the remains as they were laid in their last resting place.

RUGBY PLAYERS HAVE WORK OUT

Twenty Players Rally to Initial Practice at Central Park.

JUNIOR O.R.F.U.

Local Rugby players had their first official workout of the season together last evening, when they donned the old harness and romped about the parade grounds on Central Park from 6.30 till dark.

Max Sloane, last year's enthusiastic manager of the Excelsiors, had rounded the players up and scheduled the initial practice. About 20 players in varied coloured uniforms were on hand, including Cole Wood, Fraser, Yelland, Henry of last year's crack P.C.I. eleven, and Mulholland, Ridpath, Dinsdale, Dundas, Fossett, Reynolds, McIntosh, Griffin, McFadden, Bailey, Cox. There is a heap of good Rugby material in that bunch. Max Sloane and his men are waiting with open hands to welcome in other men who have played the game or are eager to learn the thrill of a gridiron battle. That welcome would also be even warmer to an experienced man who would coach the team.

Practices will be held every evening this week, and it is announced that they will all be short one hour affairs with lots of snap and pep crowded into these sixty minutes.

These boys are lining up to enter Peterboro in the Junior division of the O.R.F.U., and it looks already that with the ex-P.C.I. players, and others, that they will have a strong outfit.

FRANKIE WHITEHOUSE SIGNS CONTRACT WITH BALTIMORE INTERNATIONAL LEAGUE CLUB

Petes' Left-Hander is Landed By Scout Knotty Lee on Dunn's Orders.

REPORTS IN MARCH.

Will Go To Florida With Orioles on Their Spring Training Trip.

Scout "Knotty" Lee, of the Baltimore Orioles, slipped quietly into Peterboro last evening, and when he left town at noon to-day he carried with him the signed contract of Pitcher Frank Whitehouse, of the Peterboro Central Ontario League team, making the local southpaw a member of John Dunn's famous International League squad for 1926.

Whitehouse will report to the Orioles early in March, and will go to Florida with the International Leaguers on their southern training trip.

Scout Lee says that the Peterboro youngster will be given every chance to make good, and that in signing a Baltimore contract he is going under the tuition of one of the shrewdest pilots in baseball. Whitehouse was signed under instructions from Dunn himself,, the Baltimore manager having been tipped off that the youthful Peterboro southpaw was a good prospect.

"Frankie" is a product of the local school of baseball, learning the game here and first coming into prominence as a member of the Lakeviews Junior O.B.A.A. club, his pitching winning the Junior Ontario championship twice in succession for Lew Lebarr's club. This year in his first season as a Senior he pitched fine ball for the local Central Ontario League team, finishing third in the list of League pitchers, his record of seven wins and four losses being beaten only by Bruce Cairns of Kingston and Al. Heckman of the Petes.

He has plenty of stuff, unusually good control for a left-hander, and under the coaching he will receive in the Oriole camp, should consistently develop. Peterboro fans will be a unit in pulling for him to make good with the International Leaguers.

Whitehouse is just nineteen years old.

Pitcher Frank Whitehouse, of the local Central Ontario League team, to join International League champions.

Defeated Tweed By 11-3 on Saturday.

The C. G. E. girls' softball team motored to Tweed on Saturday and handed the Tweed girls the first beating they had suffered in two years. The score was 11-3, and scarcely indicates the closeness of the contest. The visitors were cordially entertained by the Tweed girls and the outing was greatly enjoyed.

NEW YORK, Sept. 22. — (United Press).—"The average man talks too much, especially if he has a good command of the language. It is well to let the other man talk half the time," Elbert H. G.W.V.A. TAKES WINTERBOTTOM AS PRESIDENT FOR 1925-1926

Splendid Reports Presented at Annual Meeting Last Night.

ASSETS $60,000.

Commander Layfield, Retiring, Tells Work and Needs of Association.

At the annual meeting of the G.W.V.A. in the Veterans' Hall in Murray street last night, the following officers were elected for the ensuing year:

Commander, G. G. Winterbottom.
Vice-President: J. Abraham.
2nd Vice-President: G. Coutts.
Executive Committee: N. E. Crowe W. F. Huycke, A. P. Miller, C. W. Wiggins, Rev. P. Costello.

The secretary, S. Whatley, read the auditors' report for the year ending August 31. This was adopted and a vote of thanks passed to the auditors.

The retiring Commander, R. E. Layfield, presented his report, of which the following is the text:

Due to changing the date of the annual meeting form January to September, the financial report that has been presented to you covers a period of eight months, instead of twelve months. In this period there is only one payment of dues; also it lacks four months of good earning power, that is, September to December, while it includes four lean months, that is, May to August. This fact is largely the reason that the financial report shows an apparent deficit.

For the first time for several years we present a report that has been audited to date and your auditors deserve your thanks for the faithful manner they have performed their work. They have audited not only the current year but several years past.

Status of Property.

Due to a possible amalgamation with other associations your officers have had legal advice as to the status of our property and the legal aspect or ownership of our property in case of amalgamation. There is an agreement with the City of Peterborough regarding the grant of $10,000 they gave when the property was purchased. This agreement in short was "in case the branch became defunct the property would be sold and the amount of $10,000 returned to the city of Peterborough." In case of an amalgamation the branch does not become defunct.

The property was deeded to the G.W.V.A. Executive Committee. This was in error and not according to the constitution. We on advice from our legal advisers, have deeded the property to your trustees under the Trustee Act, which conforms with the constitution.

There was a possibility that we might find ourselves in a bad position due to non-payment of capitation tax. We, therefore, made a settlement of capitation tax with the Provincial and Dominions Commands and are fully paid up to Sept. 30, 1925.

The effect of all these acts is to clear up the situation for an amalgamation if such is decided on, also to protect the property for the returned men of Peterboro and our agreements with the city of Peterboro. While your officers are fully in accord with unity among the veterans we cannot allow our assets to be taken out of local ownership and control.

Your auditors have made a report and set up a depreciation to cover property and assets. Your officers have received this report and further written off the assets an amount to cover losses on loans and unpaid dues.

acting as returning officer for the present election, also rentals for your hall.

While your auditing report shows a deficit of $685.35 for the eight months' operations we have paid debts in that period that were contracted prior to 1925 amounting to $874.74 and also the sum or say $100 capitation tax to cover a period of two years' arrears. You will note that your finances are in a very healthy state.

Regarding loans. While we have written off an amount to cover losses your officers recommend that steps be taken to collect all outstanding loans from parties who are working and should be in a position to repay same, as these funds are necessary to help comrades who may be in need of assistance.

Good Field Day.

We had a very successful Field Day on Civic Holiday and I would recommend to the oncoming officers that the day be made a permanent fixture. I can foresee a splendid opening for the veterans to do a public duty by adopting Civic Holiday as their day. This field day can be operated at less expense due to the experience gained and we gradually can build up games and booths of our own thus saving expense.

Looking forward to the future of the rooms, I hope to see at some futurg date it become a community hall or centre as it is a valuable asset to the community and should be made more use of. There should be some way developed whereby the upkeep of this place might be divided over more organizations.

The question of taxes; i.e., Dominion, Provincial and Municipal, have been taken up with the proper authorities, and we are promised some relief by the Provincial Treasurer. This matter is now under correspondence and investigation.

Your secretary has been most faithful in the performance of his many duties and is worthy of your confidence and thanks for the splendid manner he has carried out his duties. The hours that Comrade Whatley put in for the benefit of all returned men are not compensated for by the salary he is paid.

Your executive committee meetings have been well attended and the business of your branch has been carried on with absolutely no friction.

I have now come to the end of my connection with the branch as an officer. I have enjoyed the work and hope that I have succeeded in some small way to help the returned man. I plead with you all not to consider what you can get out of the G.W.V.A. or any other association, but what you can put in. I sincerely hope by God's mercy you may never need the G.W.V.A., but if you do may we all be united together to help you. My services as a member are at all times with you in the future and I am prepared to pledge my backing to any officers you may elect to carry on the work. Loyalty to the Association and your officers will command respect of the public and secure success to you for all time to come.

General Business.

A copy of the document deeding the G.W.V.A. property to the trustees was read to the meeting.

A letter was read from a returned man in which thanks were expressed for the efforts of Messrs. Whatley and Layfield to have his case brought before the Pensions Board.

On a motion from Past Commander Layfield, the fees were increased by 50 cents, for the purpose of paying the per capita tax to the Dominion Association. The new Commander pledged himself to move or to have a motion made, that the Dominion and Provincial Commands of the G.W.V.A. be asked to furnish an auditor's report of all incomes and disbursements.

Past Commander Layfield installed the officers of the ensuing year in their positions, and laid emphasis on the privileges and responsibilitis attached to ther offcese. He thanked the members of the Association for the confidence reposed in him, and bespoke the co-operation of all with the newly installed executives.

The meeting was adjourned by the singing of the National Anthem.

Carl James, 11, was slightly injured yesterday afternoon through being knocked down by an automobile, driven by Herbert Duffus, of Duffus Motor Sales. Mr. Duffus was driving north on Aylmer street and was crossing Lake street when the boy ran unexpectedly into the road and was hit before the car was brought to a standstill.

Mr. Duffus took the boy to his parents house at 210 Perry street and called Doctors Clark and Amys, who examined the injuries and declared the boy to be in no danger.

Mr. Duffus personally reported the occurrence to the police immediately after the accident.

THEATRES

AT THE CAPITOL

"THE LADY WHO LIED."

This picture, with the original title, is one of those triangular affairs involving two men and a beautiful woman. With an excellent cast, a setting in Venice and in the far stretches of the Sahara Desert, with a theme that centres about the struggle of one man to keep his wife and the struggle of a former admirer to get her, it lacks nothing in the line of interest and entertainment. For a time, it looks as if something terrible were about to happen, but the complications smooth themselves out, and the hint of an unhappy ending which shadows a portion of the production changes later to a satisfactory denouement.

Lewis Stone, Virginia Valli and Nita Naldi make a colorful trio of stars who head the cast. Lewis Stone is John Pierpont, the wealthy American who stages a romantic love affair in Venice with Fay Kennion, daughter of Sir Henry Kennion, a part taken beautifully by Virginia Valli, who looks wonderful and acts splendidly in the role of the "lady who lied." Nita Naldi is the adventuress, a former Parisian friend of the hero's, coming the night before his wedding to claim his attention and arouse the jealousy of his bride-to-be. Pride causes Fay to turn from her lover when she thinks he has been unfaithful to her, and she makes the excuse that her pretence of love was a falsehood and a joke. She goes immediately to Africa, where Dr. Alan Mortimer, played by Edward Earle, a former suitor, lives and has, incidentally, befogged himself considerably with drink since their last meeting. She marries him and later, Pierpont comes to Beni-Mora, on the edge of the Sahara, and takes the young physician and his wife on a trip across the desert. Here is where the real drama begins, and the struggle of the two commences. Alan's native servant, Mahmud, kills his own unfaithful wife and arouses the suspicion of his master. The bite of a snake, the accident which caused Robert Hichens to name the novel from which this picture is taken, "Snake Bite," brings matters to a head and Fay is forced to lie to save the life of her lover.

It is an intriguing picture, one of the type that enchains the attention to the last minute, with the audience wondering just how the coil will unwind itself, and has some colored scenes of desert grandeur and of Venice at Carnival time, that are exceptionally fine.

Bobby Vernon is the ridiculous hero of "Watch Out," an impossible farcical affair with plenty of excitement in it.—Jeannette.

AT THE ROYAL.

FRANCOIS WONDER SHOW ON THURSDAY.

Five novelty vaudeville acts will be added to the Jack Hoxie feature on Thursday, Friday and Saturday at the Royal:

The Great Francois in mind-reading.
Resista,, 75 pounds, and no one can lift her.

Jas. Esplin, Scotch comedian.
Miss Decker, hypnotism.

Francois is the same man who startled the town with the blind-fold drive through the streets and at the Exhibition.

"LOVE HOUR" GREAT COMEDY DRAMA—LAUGHS GALORE.

To you who believe that the day of romance is over, that the world is concerned with material things only, we heartily recommend a convincing cure — an evening at the Royal Theatre, where "The Love Hour," a Vitagraph picture, opened yesterday to an absorbed audience.

This picturization of Bess Meredyth's original screen story proves that romance is as rampant as ever, that a multi-millionaire may marry a shop girl and find happiness, and that the call of love is far stronger than barriers of wealth and social position.

Gordon a Millionaire.

Huntly Gordon gives an excellent performance as the bored possessor of millions who finds the blonde loveliness of Ruth Clifford of greater interest than anything he has previously known in life. He was a multi-millionaire and she was only a shop girl, but that did not deter him in the slightest! He saw her, he loved her and he married her, but when his broker and friend met the beautiful mistress of the Park Avenue mansion he, too, loved her and wanted her.

As Fate would have it, the groom fell seriously ill when his fortune went up in the air and the villainous friend, admirably enacted by John Roche, offered to lend them money to see a renowned physician abroad. Unfortunately, as he offered the money he insisted that the lovely bride stay behind and send her husband abroad alone. In desperation she agreed, and then the trouble began.

Louis and Louise.

Without the comedy touch of Willard Louis and Louise Fazenda, the production of "The Love Hour" might not be as entertaining as it is, for this team does some of the most amusing work of consistently amusing careers, and every picture goer knows how funny both these players can be!

The remainder of the cast includes Charles Farrell and Gayne Whitman, equally good in smaller roles, and the direction of Herman Raymaker makes "The Love Hour" a photoplay you are certain to find enjoyable and worth seeing!

ON LEAVING THE THEATRE LAST NIGHT ,MANY OF OUR PATRONS TOLD US THAT THE "Love Hour"

Has more laughs than "Charlie's Aunt" and other socalled Comedies.

We will say it's one of the best comedy-dramas we've had in a long time. Real stars in it too. Louise Fazenda, Huntley Gordon, Ruth Cliftord, Willard Lewis.

MOVING PICTURE WILL BE SHOWN

Capitol Theatre Will Be Used For Showing Trip Through Rockies.

ADMISSION FREE.

By a special arrangement with the management of the Capitol Theatre, who have very kindly placed the theatre at the disposal of the Canadian General Electric Co. from 6.30 p.m. to 7.45 p.m. this evening, the C.G.E. employees, together with their wives, children and friends, will enjoy a special programme. C. M. Ripley, E.E., a well-known lecturer, of the publicity department, General Electric Co., Schenectady, N.Y., is visiting Peterboro, and during his stay it has been arranged that he will give a series of talks. The first of these was given on Monday evening to an audience composed of members of the engineering, drafting and test departments at the local factory.

The second talk was originally scheduled as an open air address to the employees of the Peterboro works at 5 o'clock this evening, but owing to the much appreciated courtesy of the Capitol management, this talk will now be given in the theatre, and, in addition to providing accommodation for relatives and friends, the additional facilities permit the showing of moving pictures. Mr. Ripley will exhibit two films entitled respectively, "The King of the Rails" and the "Busy Body." The first mentioned film is a complete pictorial record of the development of transportation from the earlier times, when even the wheel was unknown, to the very latest practice in electric railways. The film also shows the construction of an electric locomotive, and later, takes the spectator on a thrilling 200-mile ride through the canyons, gorges and tunnels of the Rocky Mountains, seated alongside the motorman and seeing the scenery just as he sees it as his huge locomotive races along at sixty miles an hour. This film is frankly termed educational, but the makers have sacrificed nothing of interest in the making, with the result that its entertainment value is as high as its educational value.

The second picture, in one reel, is "The Busy Body." In this picture an electric motor such as is used for household purposes is shown separated into its 178 component parts, and without the aid of human hands it rebuilds itself before the eyes of the audience.

Mr. Ripley's talk will also include some remarks on a 2,500-mile aeroplane trip over parts of Europe, which trip includes Switzerland, Holland, Belgium and England. This part of the lecture will be illustrated with stereopticon slides, among which are some very excellent aerial photographs of glaciers in the Alps.

There will be no charge for admission, but it is hoped that those attending will be seated before 6.30, as the theatre must be cleared again for the regular performance by 7.45 p.m.

At 8.15 p.m. Mr. Ripley will give another paper before the Peterboro Branch of the Engineering Institute of Canada.

MASSEY ANNOUNCES AGREEMENT WITH POLICIES OF PROGRESSIVES

Committee of Party Issues Statement Endorsing His Candidature.

ACCOUNTS OPEN.

Tariff and Electoral Reform Planks Were Submitted to Him.

ORONO, Sept. 22 (Canadian Press).—The Liberal Association of Durham has been notified by the Hon. Vincent Massey that he will accept the nomination tendered to him at the recent convention.

He will also be supported by the Progressives who at a meeting held on Saturday decided on their course of action, and handed out the following statement regarding their stand:

"A meeting of the Progressive electors of Durham County was held at Orono, Durham County, on Saturday, September 19, and the situation in the County in view of the approaching general election was fully discussed. It was realized that in the absence of a transferrable vote, a three-cornered contest was inadvisable, and the definite opinion of those present was that our action should be determined on principle rather than in any partisan spirit and that if a candidate could be secured whose views were in substantial agreement with those of the Progressive, he should be supported. The clearly stated position on tariff of Mr. Meighen, to whose support Mr. Bowen, the Conservative candidate, is committed, made co-operation in this direction impossible. A committee was instructed to interview Mr. Massey, the Liberal candidate. This was done and in reply a full statement of Progresisve policies with particular reference to the customs tariff and electoral reform Mr. Massey pointed out that he had always been opposed to the principle of high protection, and believed that in tariff matters our chief concern should be for the progress and prosperity of agriculture and other basic occupations which low tariffs assist, having due regard to the development of Canadian industry in general.

"On the question of electoral reform, Mr. Massey expressed himself as being in entire sympathy with the Progressive contention that campaign funds should be a matter of public information and that so far as his own campaign in this riding is concerned the accounts of both receipts and expenditures will be open to inspection by any elector before and after the election. After our conference with Mr. Massey we recommend that the members and friends of the Progresive movement in Durham county support his candidacy."

WEDDING BELLS.

PARKER—LAPP.

A wedding of considerable local interest was solemnized in Cobourg yesterday, when Miss Pearl Mary Lapp, well known in Peterborough, where she was until recently a member of the teaching staff of the King Edward School, became the bride of Mr. Wellington U. Parker, of Horne-Payne, Ont., son of Mrs. Parker and the late George Parker of Novar. The ceremony took place at the home of Miss Lapp's parents, Mr. and Mrs. T. B. Lapp of Cobourg, and was performed at two o'clock yesterday afternoon, in the presence of the immediate relatives and friends of the contracting parties in the drawing room, where a bank of flowers had been arranged in the bay window.

Rev. Adam Hamilton, M. A., and Rev. Mr. Campbell, both of Cobourg, were the officiating clergymen.

The bride, who was given in marriage by her father, wore a gown of French beaded georgette in sand color, and carried a bouquet of ophelia roses. She was unattended.

The wedding march was played by Mrs. A. E. Hagerman of Peterboro.

After the ceremony luncheon was served to the guests in the dining room, beautifully arranged in a color scheme of pink and white, with quantities of pink roses and ferns.

Mr. and Mrs. Parker left later by motor for Port Hope, en route for a trip to the Pacific Coast. The bride travelled in a suit of navy blue, trimmed with lynx, and hat of pansy blue velvet.

The gift of the bridegroom to the bride was a diamond bar pin, and to Mrs. Hagerman a beaded bag.

CAILLAUX EXPRESSES CONFIDENCE THAT FRANCE'S DEBT TO STATES CAN BE SETTLED ON RIGHT BASIS

France Has Never Failed to Pay All Her Debts, He Says.

GAVE STATEMENT.

Refused to Answer Questions About Conviction During War.

NEW YORK, Sept. 23.—(Canadian Press).—Expressing confidence that the French war debt to the United States can be settled upon "the basis of peace and righteousness," Joseph Caillaux, French Finance Minister, arrived on the steamship Paris to-day, as head of the French Government's mission which will open negotiations with the United States Debt Commission in Washington to-morrow.

"I have come accompanied by eminent members of all political parties in the French Parliament," he said, in a prepared statement handed to the newspaper men who boarded the Paris at quarantine, "to bring the settlement of all our debts. There is no instance in history in which France has failed to do so.

"The United States and France, which have twice fought side by side upon the battlefield, cannot but attain close understanding upon the basis of peace and righteousness."

Minister Caillaux spoke excellent English and used expressive gestures in a brief talk he held with the newspaper men. When they began to bombard him with questions, however, he said:

"Don't talk so fast and don't swallow your words. That is the trouble with many Americans, and it makes it hard for them to be understood."

The Minister was visibly perturbed by the first question put to him, which was as follows:

"We know you were not convicted of treason, but will you tell us just what you were convicted of?"

Caillaux threw up his hands in apparent disgust.

"I am the Finance Minister of my country," he declared, "and I refuse to answer such a question."

Broadway Chickens Hit Up Poultry Men Meeting There

The Broadway brand of poultry, all a twitter at the news, anticipates the convention with suppressed excitement.

WOMAN, BABY AND GIRL SAVED AFTER FLOATING ALL NIGHT IN CANOE ON LAKE ONTARIO

Baby Laughs and Coos at Rescuers, But Others Collapse.

SWEPT BY STORM.

Mrs. Cork Paddled Party All Night to Keep Canoe Afloat

TORONTO, Sept. 23.—(Canadian Press).—Adrift in a light canoe on Lake Ontario for 27 hours, surviving the nights cold by constant paddling and successfully riding the heavy lake sea through pitch black hours, was the experience from which Mrs. William Cork, 25 years, along with her 22 month old baby and 12 year old Kathleen Conroy, was rescued by the Toronto Life Saving crew shortly after six o'clock last evening. Notwithstanding, the rigors of the adventure, heightened by the fact that they were clad only in light summer clothing, the three rescued are declared by the authorities at Toronto General Hospital, where they were taken, to be suffering no serious effects from their hardship.

The party had set out from Mimico at about 3 o'clock on Monday afternoon, intending to take the usual afternoon paddle. From that time they had not been heard from and at daybreak yesterday, one of the most anxious searches wihch has ever been spread over Lake Ontario commenced.

An off shore breeze strengthened during the night to a storm, had swept them out to open water, and for the succeeding 27 hours tossed them about at its pleasure.

Discovered at six o'clock, Mrs. Cork was still able to tell a lucid story, before lapsing into delirium, of having paddled the party all night and day in order to keep the craft afloat, of having sighted the light at Port Dalhousie and of St. Catharines and of having been within sight of Hamilton without being able to effect a landing. She was able to give some details also of her night's experience with the rough lake storm and the cold.

Having given the story she was overcome with delirium. Young Kathleen Conroy collapsed upon being rescued. The baby alone came through the incident of terror unaffected, laughing and cooing to her rescuers as they took her up. While Mrs. Cork had paddled the canoe continuously, Kathleen Conroy had help the baby warmly to her.

Mrs. Cork is the wife of William Cork, superintendent of Loblaw Groceterias.

Any Charm You Like In Automobile Mascot

HOVE, England, Sept. 23.—(United Press).—Impressed by the growing toll of motor accidents, James Tyllyer, a former lieutenant in the Royal Air Force, who lost both legs in a plane crash, has designed automobile radiators a mascot which combines the lucky charms of a horse shoe, a black cat, four-leaf clover, swastika and wish-bone. Tyllyer thought some timid soul might like additional protection so he included a small book in his specifications. He says a rabbit's foot may be hung from it.

KRIM MAY BE SEEKING PEACE; SPANISH SILENCE RIFF GUNS; GRENADES REPULSE TRIBESMEN

Report in French and English Papers Denied By Lyautey.

RAIN COMING.

Riffian Leader Tells Followers Winter Will Help His Efforts.

PARIS, Sept. 23. — French and English newspapers report that Abd El-Krim has sent an emissary to the French in Rabat. The Riffian messenger is supposed to have been the bearer of a peace proposal on the basis advanced by the Spanish a year ago, including recognition of the autonomy of the Riff with Abd-El-Krim as sultan.

Marshall Lyautey has denied receiving such an emissary.

Rain and Winter to Help Krim.

FEZ, French Morocco, Sept. 23.—The rainy season and Winter coming on apace are Abd-El-Krim's most powerful allies, and the Moorish chieftain makes no secret of this fact in his appeals to his followers On the other hand, the French command asserts that offers of submission continue to come in.

Speaking at Targuist, Abd-El-Krim assured his adherents—"Winter will re-establish our victorious situation. The European troops are Summer fighters; you are warriors in all seasons."

Riff Guns Silenced.

MELILLA, Spanish Morocco, Sept 23.—Spanish artillery fire is reported to have silenced the guns of the Riffians who were bombarding the camp at Morro Neuvo, the point occupied by the Spanishs in their recent landing in Alhucemas Bay.

Rebels Repulsed by Spaniards.

MELILLA, Spanish Morocco, Sept 23.—Taking advantage of a heavy fog, rebels attacked the Spanish position at Tifaruin, but were repulsed by the Spanish garrison with hand grenades. Ambushes have been established by native troops to prevent a repetition of rebel attacks.

Arm Strong But Aim Poor Flower Pot Hit Neighbor

NEW YORK, Sept. 23.—(United Press). — Mrs. Paula Kahn has a good pitching arm, but her aim is poor, so when she hurled a flower pot at a dog who lay in her front yard, the missile hit her neighbor, Miss Adele Zurowsky, instead. Justice in court here believed Mrs. Kahn's story and freed her of an assault charge.

QUEBEC VILLAGE OF ST. CAMILLE NEARLY WIPED OUT BY BAD FIRE FANNED ALL NIGHT BY HIGH WIND

Church, Bank, Six Stores and Six Houses Were Destroyed.

LOSSES HEAVY.

Only a Few Were Able to Save Anything From the Flames.

QUEBEC, Sept. 23. —(Canadian Press). —Village of St. Camille, Bellechasse County, was nearly wiped out by fire last night. The Parish Church, the offices of Labanque Canadiene Nationals, six stores and six private residences fell prey to the flames and this morning they are nothing but a mass of ruins. Volunteer firemen fought for hours to prevent the spread of the flames but their efforts were unsuccessful, largely because of the high wind that whipped the conflagration into fury and spread the flames from house to house with startling rapidity.

Some of those who occupied houses were able to save the more valuable of their household effects, but others lost all they owned and are to-day being cared for.

The properties affected are the church, the hotel Georges Couture, and stores owned by the following Audet Et Fils, Philliphe Poulin Jules Rheaume, Thodore Morin, Aime Lapointe, Eusebe Boivin and the residences of Dr. Labreque Leo Dube, Arthur Lacroix, Richard Drouin, Ernest Blais and Wilbrod Laflamme.

The sacred vessels were saved and the fire was prevented from reaching the Presbytery and Convent which stand near the church. Losses due to the fire are said to be about $100,000.

PORT ARTHUR, Ont., Sept. 23.—(Canadian Press). —Hector Belanger, of Port Arthur, an engine driv slightly injured in a collision of a freight train on the Canadian National Railway, 105 miles west of Port Arthur, last night. It is stated that the operator at the station concerned fearing impending smash sent yard engine in pursuit of train which was in danger but it could not catch it in time to prevent the crash.

Raspberry Bushes Loaded

CAMPBELLFORD, Sept. 23.—On the roadside near Petherick's Corners, there is a heavy growth of raspberry bushes which at the present are fairly well loaded with well developed fruit. It is something unusual to see berries at this season of the year, and even more so to find women of the neighborhood out in force gathering the crop.

WEATHER

There was frost again last night, but hardly as sharp as the previous night. The lowest the temperature got was 31 degrees. The highest point yesterday, 59 degrees. My attention has been drawn to the fact that I was in error when I said a few days ago that Autumn began on the 21st. As a matter of fact, it begins this year on the 23rd (to-day. The beginning and ending of the seasons vary a little from year to year. The old school books taught, and some of our modern ones also do, that September 21st saw the commencement of the Fall season, but this is not always true. Winter this year begins on December 22nd, one day later, but it will undoubtedly be long enough to satisfy everybody.—W.P.

COLUMBUS, Ohio, Sept. 23—(United Press).—Worry is what makes people grow old, "but you can live to be 100 years old like I am if you can make yourself contented," Mrs. Susan Kennedy, of Coumbus, said yesterday as she reached the century mark.

Mrs. Kennedy is the mother of ten children, eats what she likes and goes to bed at 10 p.m.

Simplicity Marked Wedding of Daughter of King of Italy.

ROYALTY PRESENT.

Nuptial Mass Was Omitted Because of Religion of Groom.

RACCONIGI, Italy, Sept. 23.—(Canadian Press)—With time-honored ritual, marked by simplicity, Princess Mafalda, youthful second daughter of the ruling house of Italy, to-day became the bride of Philip, Prince of Hesse. Members of the Royal Families of Italy, Germany, Denmark, Greece, Roumania, Serbia, Belgium, Austria and Montenegro and representatives of the dynasties of Great Britain and Spain witnessed the ceremonies.

Following the civil ceremony in the great hall of the ancient Savoy Castle of Racconigi, the brief but solemn ceremony of the Roman Catholic Church was performed by Monsignor Beccaria, chaplain of the court of Italy. Because of the difference of religion of the bride and groom (the groom is a Protestant) the nuptial mass was omitted.

Hon. T. A. Low Is Coming To Liberal Convention

The Hon. T. A. Low, who will be one of the speakers at the Liberal Convention tomorrow evening, is a very successful commercial man as well as a prominent politician. He was born at Quebec in 1871 and was educated at Pembroke Public and High Schools. He has been connected with the lumber industry since 1889 and is president of refrigerator, manufactures, flour mill and electric appliances concerns, all located at Renfrew, Ontario. He was elected to the House of Commons as member for South Renfrew in 1908; was re-elected 1911 and resigned in 1912. He has always been a keen Liberal and was taken into the King Cabinet as Minister of Trade and Commerce. He is a member of the United Church of Canada.

NO BOOM IN UNITED STATES SAYS VISITOR TO THE CITY

J. A. Gillegan, New York, Tells Economic Condition Across Line.

BANKS FAILED.

Hope Held For Greater Prosperity, But Depression Still Acute.

"The United States are prosperous at present but not to the extent claimed by numerous observers in recent times." This is the opinion of J. A. Gillegan, of New York, who was in Peterboro to-day, and was interviewed by The Examiner. Pennsylvania is very far from being all that could be desired, he said, due partly to the ferment in the coal-mining areas and partly to other causes such as the depression in businesses like those connected with local transportation. Last fall, said Mr. Gillegan, there was much distress in North Dakota and Colorado, due to the light yields of crops. This year conditions are improved, but a full recovery from last year has not yet been experienced. Mr. Gillegan also mentioned the fact that last year many banks crashed in the Middle West. Great hopes are entertained that an era of prosperity is at hand, but whether these hopes will be realized remains yet to be seen, said Mr. Gillegan. He expressed the view that reciprocity between the two countries would be to their mutual advantage.

WOOLLENS SLACK.

Authentic reports show that there is great activity in the tire, automobile and artificial silk industries, but a great depression in woollens, cottons, boots and shoes. The American Woollen Company, owning 38 woollen mills, the largest woollen manufacturer on the continent, has ordered a 10 per cent. reduction in wages, and the American Federation of Labor will appeal to the Congress at its next session to reduce the high tariff duties now enjoyed by the woollen manufacturers. In New England, many of the woollen and cotton manufacturers are running half-time, and some are not running at all.

Referring to the taxation burden, it is evident that the weight of war liabilities must fall more heavily upon a country of 9,000,000 population that fought four years and had its army mobilized five years than upon a nation of 109,000,000 population that had its forces under arms only two years and three months.

The Labor Department of the State of Illinois has issued a warning that there is "a hard winter ahead," saying factories in Illinois have 110,000 fewer people on their payrolls than they had two years ago. Two branches are named as being busier than a year ago, building and hard road construction. The latter is paid for by taxes on the people.

EXHIBITION NEEDS MEMBERS OBJECTIVE IS TWO THOUSAND

President Roland Denne Points J. J. Duffus as Example.

HELP THE SHOW.

Memberships Offered at $2 Each to People of District.

Mr. R. Denne, president of the Exhibition, is anxious at the present time he has made to people of the city to continue for the remainder of the year and district to become members of the Exhibition Association. In response to that invitation a number of new memberships have been enrolled, during and since the exhibition, but Mr. Denne feels that many others would throw in their support if they were reminded of the proposal.

And by way of an example to others, he refers to the following letter which he has received from J. J. Duffus, and which he gratefully acknowledged at the directors' luncheon:

To the President and Members of the Peterborough Industrial Exhibition, Peterboro, Ont.:

Dear Sirs: I desire to extend hearty congratulations on your efforts and success in connection with Peterborough Industrial Exhibition.

Your work and accomplishments, not only this year, but during the past years, are highly commendable. It is regrettable that the weather has been somewhat unfavorable, and in order to offset this in a small way, I am attaching herewith my cheque for the sum of $25.

Regarding your campaign for two thousand members for next year, I have much pleasure in enclosing my membership fee of $2.

Wishing you every possible success, I am, sincerely yours,

JOS. J. DUFFUS.

STRIKE WILL BE SETTLED SOON

Waterside Workers Will Go Back to Ships Even if Crews Are Fresh.

HASTENING END.

LONDON, England, Sept. 23. —(Canadian Press). —Advices to the Exchange Telegraphs from Melbourne, Australia, quote prominent trade union officials as declaring that the seaman's strike will be settled within a few hours.

Waterside workers are said to have unanimously decided to commence work on all ships even if fresh crews are obtained and this is expected to hasten the termination of the dispute.

The seamen went out in protest against the action of their union officials in agreeing to a wage reduction of approximately $5 a month of all qualified electors are placed on the voters' list. The latest authorized Provincial list will probably be used as the basis of registration. For qualification an elector must have been a resident of Canada for one year prior to September 5, the date on which the election writ was issued, and also a resident of the riding for two months prior to September 5th. Any person who has moved to Peterboro from another electoral district within those two months may register and vote in the district from which he or she came.

ELECTION REGISTRATION OPENS HERE TO-MORROW

Every person who has become a British subject in Canada continues to be so unless his British nationality has been surrendered by his becoming a nationalized citizen of some other country, or unless the certificate of naturalization under which he became naturalized has been cancelled, or unless, if a woman, she has married a man who is not a British subject.

Young persons whose 21st birthday occurs after the conclusion of registration, but before the conclusion of the sittings of the revising officer, are advised to apply to the revising officer to be added to the list.

Persons deprived of the right to vote include judges appointed by the Dominion Government, Indians on reservations who did not serve in the war, prisoners undergoing punishment for criminal offences, inmates of charitable institutions.

He was very successful in academic work at High school and goes to Queen's well prepared for the hard course of study he intends to pursue. The best wishes of the community go with him to his new field of endeavour.

LADIES' AID HAS A BUSY SESSION

Anniversary Services and Fowl Supper Important Topics.

EXCHANGE PULPITS.

OMEMEE, Sept. 23. — The regular monthly meeting of the Ladies' Aid of the United Church was held in the Sunday School Room, on Thursday afternoon. The President Mrs. William Henderson, occupied the chair. The scripture lesson being read by Mrs. E. G. Sandy followed by prayer by Mrs. Rowland.

Letters of appreciation from Mrs (Dr.) Carmichael for flowers sent at time of illness also Mrs. Henderson and Miss Neill for kindness shown in time of bereavement, were read by the secretary, Mrs. I. Widdes.

The flower committee for the month of October were appointed in the persons of Mrs. Sloan, Mrs. Marcombe and Mrs. Shields.

The ladies, who compose the committee to purchase a blackboard for the church lawn, have experienced some difficulty in procuring same at a reasonable sum and by request the pastors name was added to the list, with the hope that a local carpenter may meet the requirement.

Upon motion, it was unanimously decided to hold the Fowl Supper on Thanksgiving day.

Mr. P. Race and Rev. E. W. Rowland were present, as a delegation from the Board of Stewards to interview the ladies in regard to having the annual Thanksgiving service and Thanksgiving on the Sunday previous to the Fowl Supper at Thanksgiving time. Some discussion followed and the general opinion was that less money would be obtained at this time rather than in December as has been the custom of the past few years.

The ladies extended an invitation to Mr. Rowland to have charge of the services on this day but upon a suggestion from the pastor to exchange pulpits with a Lindsay brother, the matter was left in his hands.

Owing to the late date, upon which the next regular meeting will fall ,much business concerning the Fowl Supper was disposed of.

Mrs. F. G. Sandy, Mrs. I. Bushwell, Mrs. L. A. Mahood and Miss L. Parsons were appointed a programme committee for Monday evening. Messrs. H. Lamb and R. Bradley a committee as cashiers; Mrs. J. Shields, Mrs. Bradburn and Miss A. Neill to prepare menu cards for each family as in previous years. Mrs.W. Brown, Mrs. Overholt, Mrs. Sloan and Mrs. Bradburn were appointed as ladies to have charge of the tables, while Mrs. J. Widdes, Mrs. S. T. Wilson will be responsible for the purchase of the fowl.

It was decided to purchase enough table linen for one long table also some large pitchers.

The meeting was brought to a close by a hymn and the benediction.

FIRE DESTROYED BARN AND CROPS

Jack McConnell Lost Season's Crop, Several Animals and Many Implements.

ORIGIN UNKNOWN.

OMEMEE, September 23. — A fire of unknown origin, which broke out while Mr. and Mrs. Jack McConnell were in Omemee, destroyed the large barn, one valuable mare, a baby beef, about 80 hens, three calves and their seasons crop.

A large number of neighbors gathered when the fire was noticed, and they were able, after much effort, to save the house.

The farm is situated about a mile east of Omemee ,on the fourth line of Emily township. Mr. and Mrs. McConnell had gone into Omemee, and as a result the flames had gained great headway before they were discovered.

The grain had just been threshed, and was in the granary. In the barn there was a large quantity of hay, alfalfa and alsike. A new hayfork and slings had just been installed. This was lost with other implements; and a straw stack and sheds near the barn were also burned. A very small insurance was carried on the buildings, and Mr. McMcConnell's loss will be heavy.

All the passengers, the paper says, were ordered out for boat drill at the time the infernal machine was supposed to explode. During their absence their cabins were searched but no trace of a bomb was found.

PETERBORO-HASTINGS LIBERALS AVOID THREE-CORNERED FIGHT

The Party Is Intact and Organized, But Many Members Advise Present Inaction.

HEAR OF BRETHEN.

Although some Liberals in the new riding of Hastings-Peterboro are demanding representation in the Federal election, it is generally understood that the party will remain inactive and will not put a candidate in the field.

The Examiner has visited the principal centres in the constituency, Norwood, Havelock, Marmora, Madoc, Stirling, and has found the prevailing opinion among prominent Liberals to be set against a three-cornered fight.

The general sentiment may be expressed in the following statement made by an old-time "Grit": "Don't run away with the idea that the Liberal party in this new riding is either dead or dormant. We have held an organization meeting and an executive meeting, and the executive will shortly decide whether or not to call a convention in order that the spirit of the party may be thoroughly sounded. Most of us I think believe that since the Progressives put a man in the field it would be a mistake on our part to contest the election. The Conservatives are already in, and we realize that our entry would simply split the votes of those who are opposed to the policies of the Hon. Arthur Meighen.

"As a party we certainly will not line up with the Progressives. All the reports about Mr. Brethen have been favorable, and we believe he has a good fighting chance, but at the same time we have our own political ideas and ideals and traditions, distinct from both the Progressives and Conservatives, and we have no intention of abandoning them and adopting those of either of the other parties. I think that is the general feeling of the Liberals throughout the riding. Some of our members are even insisting that we jump in, but most of us feel that we should hold together while biding our time and watching developments. And because of the extent of that feeling I don't think we will contest this election. But we do want our friends in the other ridings to know that we are alive and kicking.

"If we decided to stay out of it, our members individually, of course may vote for whom they wish, but I can't believe that any appreciable number of them will vote for the Meighen candidate."

CHAPTER VI.

Like Kipling's tumult and shouting that dies and captains and kings who depart, the rash and the rage of Crater City's epidemic began to pass away presently; but the business of Larvey's Depot lunchroom never subsided to its oldtime humdrum normalcy again, and the only competitor, a Greek in the Feeney building, was forced to turn his restaurant into a bootblack parlor. The heat waned out of the fever and was replaced in due time by a permanent prevalence in the Yards of rough admiration and warmly loyal affection for the girl who brought friendly interest into the crass routine of hunger appeasement, sunshine into the prosaic dispensation of eggs and bacon.

To Bob Wilson the coming of Caroline Dale had swiftly taken on a deep personal significance, supplying the one deft touch of rounding softness necessary to make his social rejuvenation complete in soul and body, mind and heart. Before their second meeting (which had occurred on the night of Caroline's first day at Mrs. O'Leary's, when he called for Bobby) was over Bob knew that some vital taper had been relighted in the innermost sanctuary of his breast.

He was in love,—with a consuming, tender, undenied depth.

But with this rekindlement of a sort he had thought would never again flame in his soul came also troubled qualms, for Bob was fundamentally ethical and honest. Had five entombed and undiscovered years given him the right to—love someone like Caroline?

He passionately decided that it had, and tried to banish the faded leaves that were restirring in a cold memory. The past was dead these five years and over; he was Bob Wilson now and forevermore. It often struck him that under his real name he was a stranger to even himself; he could not respond to the old name. Socially, he was but five years old.

Timidly, but feeling that he walked on morally sound ice, Bob had set out to capture his new and golden dream. And among the tactics of his siege was a daily call at the Widow O'Leary's to meet Caroline and walk down to the Depot with her.

Unknown to Bob, for the simple reason that the railroad schedule had evidently entered into a conspiracy with Fate to keep its cards under cover, Jim had also battled with qualms of a different sort, finally deciding that it was right and proper and a beautiful privilege for him to center hopeful attentions upon Caroline. Jim had believed through the years that no one could ever take a second and equal place in his heart; but Time uses a quaint and gentle sandpaper, and when his human frailties led him spellbound in the glorious wake of the wonderful girl, Jim justified himself on the ground that if he should marry again it would be for the sake of getting a good stepmother for Bobby and not because Caroline, or any other girl, would—or could—replace his wife in his heart. Caroline, though, was worthy of unqualified inclusion for her own sake.

A combination of traits and considerations joined the railroad schedule in its odd conspiracy to keep apart the wo[illegible] hitherto in all things and in all ways had no closed books. To begin with there was Bob's natural predilection for caution and secrecy, developed through years of watchful guardianship over his tongue and his innermost cherished thoughts. Even to Jim, Bob had never confessed the past; and now there was no reason to immediately parade something that might be awkwardly stitched into that past, were it but known. Then there was Jim's sensitiveness; he wanted to be sure of his emotional justification confident in his ability to express it before confessing to Bob, but own up he was determined to do just as soon as he was sure of himself—and her. But above all there was the third and most potent complication, the railroad schedule's part—widely divergent hours of work that gave no time or opportunity for confidences, or for those serene moments in which secrets could be led up to and revealed. Going out on the Limited Mail at night, Jim was away all day every second day, laying up at the next Divisional headquarters, four hundred miles west. He would return then on the following night, shortly after midnight. That gave him one full day at home, every other day; still, as he slept late on these mornings, he did not customarily see Bob unless the latter was on a lax schedule. The railroad schedule's entry into Fate's conspiracy was in an unprecedented rush of work for Bob that had kept him away on long runs and had given him much overtime in the few days since Caroline's lunchroom debut.

But wise Mrs. O'Leary had been observing the lay of the land and the direction of the wind; for Caroline's hours were such that while Bob saw her every morning, Jim encountered her in the early evenings when he stopped by to leave Bobby. This worked a double advantage for Bob, who also saw Caroline when he called for Bobby on his way home from work. Mrs. O'Leary had seen that Caroline's interest was in Bob, not in Jim; and in Bobby, but not in his father. She had seen, too, that Jim was mistaking Caroline's interest in Bobby for circumlocutory interest in himself. And the good Widow furtively trembled in suspense and trepidation as she witnessed the unwitting rivalry of the sworn friends Bob and Jim, for the innocent and unsuspecting Eve.

One morning, when Caroline was no longer the town's nine-day-wonder, Bob was gay with the plans of youth and romance as he walked proudly and brightly to the station with Caroline, whose duties required her to be on hand at 6:30 a.m.—the ham and egs shift—but gave her the late afternoon and all of every evening off. Furthermore, one day a week she had a whole holiday; tomorrow was such a day, she had just told Bob.

"Listen, Caroline, I've put in a barrel of overtime lately, and I'm tired enough to feel justified in asking for a day off. What do you say if we have a picnic tomorrow—lunch with pickles and paper napkins and all that sort of thing in the pine groves on Starling Hill?"

"Oh, I'd love to, Bob!"

"—it's a cool place and we can walk among the daisies or loaf on the cliff and watch the clouds sail overhead—"

"Poet!" she charged.

"—and hold hands, and—"

"So, the truth will out—horrid man!" mockingly.

Bob wilted under her playful glare, cloaking the eager twinkle in his eyes with smug contriteness.

"Well—" she continued mischievously, "I'll think it over, but if we go I guess we'd better take Bobby along to keep me company while you sulk if you can't have your way—about your last threat!"

"I love Bobby, but daisy fields and cliffs are no place for him to play—when there won't be anybody to watch him—so he stays with the Widow!" said Bob firmly.

"Mean! Bobby's an agnel child, and ought to be taken along!" she insisted. 'Mr. Fowler's a fortunate man to have such a darling boy," she continued.

It was Bob's turn to sham a glare.

"Are you sure your interest is in the child and not in the father?" he asked bitingly.

"Which of his fathers?" innocently.

"State your preference," he fenced, "so that I can decide whether or not I have to challenge Jim!"

"Bob Wilson, I do declare you sound positively jealous," she laughed. "Why I've heard on all sides that nothing could ever come between you two."

"Nothing or no one could!" said Bob loyally, but forthwith qualifying his declaration slowly and thoughtfully. "Except, perhaps, someone—like you." He shook the increeping seriousness out of his mood quickly. "Well, Caroline, is it a go about tomorrow?"

They had reached and paused at the lunchroom entrance by now. "I like to say yes," Caroline assured him roguishly, "but I can't help thinking of the scolding you gave me that first morning, and wondering if perhaps while you're—watching the clouds roll by, say—you might not reprimand me if I don't pass the pickles quickly enough—"

"That was love at first sight!" said Bob, reaching for her hand.

But Caroline had fled, blushing; the tender confusion in her nervous laugh quivered on the closing door.

SIGNAL LIGHTS FOR DIRECTING TRAFFIC

Use of signal lights for the direction of traffic is being tried in Toronto and apparently most motorists are taking kindly to the innovation.

Average driver of a motor car is anxious to observe the traffic regulations. He realizes that rules are necessary for his own convenience and protection. As a rule traffic regulations designed for safety are not wantonly violated. Signal lights, once the motorists are accustomed to their use, should prove very valuable to both pedestrians and drivers, but they can never take the place of officers at busy interesections.—Toronto Telegram.

GET ON THE LISTS.

Registration of those residents of Peterboro qualified to vote at the coming Federal election will commence tomorrow.

The Examiner wishes to emphasize once again the necessity of every elector in the city making sure that his name is included on the lists.

The simplest plan is to drop into the quarters of the registrar in your district and find out if your name is on the latest Provincial list, which is the basis for the new lists that are being prepared.

If you are listed there no further action is necessary.

If your name is not on the list you will be able to have it added by the registrar forthwith.

Every voter during the next few days should protect his franchise on his own account and not delay until it is too late by waiting for some party worker to do what all worth-while citizens will be patriotic enough to carry out on their own account.

It is a simple matter to get on the lists now if you are qualified—and the electors of Peterboro should look after this important duty for themselves.

Get on the lists, and vote—the two most important responsibilities that Canadians will have to discharge this year.

THE ELECTORS' DUTY.

The decision of the Kiwanians of Ontario and Quebec at their Ottawa convention to conduct a campaign to induce the electors to use their franchise at the Federal elections should be welcomed.

As a contemporary points out, the people should vote if for no other reason than the election will cost two million dollars and they have to pay the bill.

Educational campaigns, such as has been undertaken by the Kiwanis Clubs, should not be necessary, but, unfortunately, they are needed, in view of the large proportion of the electorate that refuses to use the franchise.

This is true not only of Federal elections but in Provincial and municipal contests as well, and the country as a whole is paying a pretty heavy price for the indifference of the slacker element in the population which leaves the selection of governments and the determining of policies to others.

The coming election finds Canada with many problems that require to be settled—the tariff policy, immigration, the railway problem, heavy taxation, the exodus to the United States, the cleavage between the Prairie Provinces and the manufacturing East on one side and between the Maritimes and the rest of Canada on the other—a formidable list that calls for the best efforts and best brains of the Dominion if a satisfactory way out is to be found.

It is a situation that should challenge every citizen worthy of the name to interest himself in the election and to endeavour to use his vote to the best interest of the country in which he lives.

RECREATIONAL NOVA SCOTIA.

It would appear from Maritime Province reports that the tourist traffic this season has been exceptionally heavy, and the hotels have been catering to vast numbers of motorists.

These have come mostly from Ontario, Quebec and the New England States, and it is said their stay in the Provinces has been longer than usual.

The United States tourists, particularly, have shown a keen interest in Nova Scotia and its game and fisheries, and many are asking as to the location of points where hunting and fishing may be indulged in.

Unfortunately, until recently, this information was not in such form as to be easily available.

The Natural Resources Intelligence Service of the Department of the Interior, which has been very active in promoting the interests of the Maritimes, has just issued a map of Nova Scotia which should be particularly valuable to those who are interested in promoting the tourist traffic in that Province.

The new map, which is called "Motor Roads and Recreational Resources Map of Nova Scotia," is of large scale proportions, 10 miles to the inch, and shows at a glance the various roads from Provincial highways to those which are truthfully designated as in fair condition only.

On the map also are shown the hunting and fishing areas, golf courses, hotel accommodation and tourist sites.

The map is printed in colours and on paper that will stand folding for pocket use.

Copies may be had on application to F. C. C. Lynch, Director of the Natural Resources Intelligence Service of the Department of the Interior.

NOT WHIMPERING.

United States' observers of international politics, who have been analyzing the bargain that France and Britain have struck for the liquidation of war debts, declare that it has placed the United States in an awkward position, says the Hamilton Spectator. It is pointed out that France, under the terms of the agreement entered into by M. Caillaux and Winston Churchill, will pay 2 per cent. on what she owes the British, but will not be called upon to liquidate the principal. Attention is called to the fact that, by this agreement, France assumes the greater part of Britain's interest payments to the United States, and it is known that a dead set will be made against the United States' representatives at the debt settlement conference to be as generous in their treatment of France as the British have been. The United States' observers have put two and two together and have found the answer to be five. It is a clever plan on Britain's part to get possession of a club which she can use to beat a better bargain with the United States, tney suspect. If the United States is lenient with France Britain will ask for a similar leniency, they reason. If the United States shows no disposition to be lenient, France can point to the fact that Britain has been generous. An awkward situation, in truth, as they point out, but what seems to be overlooked is that if Britain was intent upon depriving the United States of what is her lawful due, she would not have rushed into an oppressive debt-refunding agreement. Britain of all the nations involved in the war, recognized her obligations and made a sincere attempt to redeem her pledges. While others no less entangled in the web of debts have been trying to talk their way out, Britain has been paying. She hasn't whimpered yet, and isn't likely to start now.

THE EFFECT UPON PRODUCTION.

Just how great a burden governmental taxation—and that term includes Dominion, Provincial and municipal levies—is placing upon industry and production in Canada can be realized from the figures issued by the Citizens' Research Institute after an investigation made with the usual thoroughness of that body.

The total taxation by all Governments in Canada in 1923 amounted to $600,487,272, an increase over the preceeding year of $10,858,315.

The amount was made up of $341,718,807 Dominion taxes, an increase of $6,265,466; $46,858,075 Provincial taxes, a decrease of $484,370; and $211,910,430 municipal taxes, an increase of $5,077,219.

In 1923 the total net production of all Canadian industries, agricultural, forest, mining, etc., included, was $3,051,456,821, this being the estimate of the Dominion Bureau of Statistics.

Governmental taxation, therefore, consumed 19.7 per cent. of this total net production, Dominion taxation alone being responsible for 10.9 per cent.

Almost 20 cents out of every dollar of production, whether for industry or agriculture, the mines or fisheries, was sunk in taxes.

It is inevitable that whatever system of taxation we may adopt it is always production and productive industries which ultimately have to defray public expenditure—otherwise, taxation becomes confiscation.

Therefore, it follows that when governmental expenditures—Dominion, Provincial and municipal—are excessive in any country the competitive capacity of that country in the export market, and even in the home market, is greatly lessened.

TIME FOR ACTION.

Chicago is still taking the waters of Lake Michigan for sewage disposal purposes. Washington has ordered Chicago to desist, but for the sake of the city's health Chicago is allowed to take the water for the time being. When will it stop?

The Chicago drainage canal is used for the development of power. This is not a great issue as the amount of power derived is but a small percentage of the city's needs. The worst feature of the situation is the proposed scheme to make the drainage canal a navigable waterway with a nine-foot draft. While the city is using the water for sewage purposes the state is also busy. Locks are being installed at the State's expense and definite plans are taking shape to make the canal a vital shipping route.

By doing this navigation would be opened from Lake Michigan, by way of Chicago's sewage canal through Cook County, to the Mississippi and thence to the Gulf of Mexico at New Orleans.

Incidentally, millions are being spent by the Washington Federal Government for the purpose of projecting works along the Mississippi River. This is evidently being done with the idea of a permanent link between the Great Lakes and the Gulf of Mexico, on the Atlantic Ocean.

Considering all these things the question naturally arises as to whether or not the United States is serious in its efforts to put a stop to the Chicago "water steal." When city, State and Federal funds are being spent prolifically on a Chicago-to-the-Gulf-of-Mexico waterway it begins to look anything but encouraging.

United States authorities have done a tremendous amount of talking about stopping the water being diverted. Meanwhile they are going right ahead capitalizing on the scheme and investing funds to improve a waterway that cannot possibly be used after the "stealing" of water ceases. People are beginning to ask just how definitely Washington is acting. On the face of it the evidence is not favorable.

This question has never been even whispered from the political platforms recently. The fate of Canada's inland navigation rests in the balance. Here is a real opportunity to actually save something for the country. Without the asset of the Great Lakes the prosperity of Canada would be under a severe handicap. Hydro-electric development would be impossible. The proposed deepening of the St. Lawrence River would pass into oblivion. Lake shipping would be limited to the smallest vessels. The country would suffer greatly.

Chicago still takes the water. Canadians are sitting idly back watching the lake levels recede. The time for action cannot be postponed indefinitely.—Border Cities Star.

EDITORIAL NOTES AND COMMENT.

With a candidate named Beer running in Toronto and Porter likely to be nominated in Hastings, there seems to be some work for the Ontario Prohibition Union to do after all.

The variance in the political prophesies that are being made shows that there are a lot of bad guessers in Canada, and after October 29th it will be possible to pick them out accurately.

Even the superstitious cannot get a line on the election. One newspaper has a heading, "Meighen on Island; King on Mainland," and another tells of the Premier's train being sidetracked to give a clear track to the express carrying Mr. Meighen.

Things never are as bad as they seem. Millions of Chicagoans never have killed anybody.—Baltimore Sun.

MONTREAL, Que., Sept. 23. —(anadian Press.—On the local curb market yesterday, the offerings were 700 packages butter and 3,200 boxes cheese. The butter sold at 41 7-8c per lb. for No. 1 pasteurized creamery, and at 40 7-8c per lb for No. 1 creamery, and the cheese brought 22 1-8c per lb., delivered here.

STERLING EXCHANGE.

MONTREAL, Que., Sept. 23. —(Canadian Press). —Sterling exchange rates were quoted here yesterday as follows.

Sterling demand $4.84.

Sterling cables $4.84 1-2.

GRAIN MARKET.

MONTREAL, Que., Sept. 23. —(Canadian Press). — The foreign trade in Manitoba spring wheat on the Montreal market yesterday was quiet, but there was some enquiry for oats and sales of odd loads were made to the United Kingdom and the Continent, while the trade in barley was reported dull with foreign bids in some cases two cents per bushel below cost. On spot sales of No. 2 Canadian Western Oats were made to exporters at 14 cents per bushel over the Winnipeg October option, and No. 3 grade at nine cents per bushel over, C. I. F. Montreal.

The domestic market for Ontario and Quebec Oats was steady owing to the fact that the offerings of late have decreased to some extent on account of the low prices ruling. There is a steady demand for these grades of oats as the quality is very good this year and sales of car lots of No. 2 white were made at 50 1-2 to 51 cents, No. 3 white at 48 1-2 to 49 cents, and No.4 white at 46 1-2 cents per bushel, ex-track. The trade in Ontario malting barley continues slow and prices were unchanged with No. 3 grade quoted at 83 cents per bushel, extrack.

The foreign demand for spring wheat flour showed some improvement and as the prices bid were in line with millers views sales of some fair sized lots were made for October-November shipment. The demand from local and country buyers was firm and prices were steady.

The condition of the market for winter wheat flour was unchanged, prices being steady with a moderate amount of business for both local and export account.

The tone of the market for all lines of millfeed remains steady under a fair demand. There was no change in prices for standard grades of rolled oats but the volume of business showed an increase. The egg marekt was active and firm. The butter market was without any new feature to note. Extreme dullness marked the trade in cheese but prices were unchanged.

Beans were selling at $2.50 per bushel.

EGG MARKET.

OTTAWA, Sept. 23. —(Canadian Press). — No material change is noted in the egg market with the conditions remaining firm but no changes in prices reported. Chicago fresh prices remain firm under the recent advance while New York show another upward tendency.

Toronto egg market is firm and unchanged. Shippers are paying extras 38, firsts 34, seconds 26.

Montreal egg market is firm for the best grades but prices unchanged. Jobbing extras 48, firsts 42, storage extras 45, firsts 40.

Winnipeg egg market remains firm with increased receipts. Jobbing extras 38, firsts 35, seconds 31. Poultry receipts are light due to harvest operations.

Edmonton egg market is firm under a good demand and light receipts. Jobbing extras 40, firsts 35, seconds 30. Poultry is moving slowly.

Vancouver egg market is firmer with dealers paying country points extras 33, firsts 31. Jobbing extras 48, firsts 46, seconds and pullets 40.

Regina egg situation is unchanged as to prices and movement. Poultry receipts are good owing to threshing.

Saint John egg market is holding firm with light receipts. No change is reported in either wholesale or retail prices. Chickens are plentiful and foul scarce with chickens selling wholesale 35 to 40 and fowl 35.

Charlottetown receipts show a slight decrease with demand good. Wholesalers are paying country points extras36, firsts 31, seconds 25.

Halifax egg market is firm under low receipts. Wholesale extras 45, firsts 42, retail extras 35, firsts 50.

Chicago fresh firsts 34, December refrigerators 32 1-2.

New York fresh extras 42 1-2, fresh firsts 37 1-2, December refrigerators 33 3-8.

CHICAGO WHEAT.

CHICAGO, Sept. 23. —(Canadian Press). —Notable curtainment of Eastern buying in Chicago led to lower prices here yesterday for wheat, and so, too, did spreading operations between Winnipeg and Chicago. The spreading consisted of sales of the May delivery of wheat in Chicago against simultanous buying at Winnipeg. Wheat values here closed weak, 1 1-8 to 2 1-4 cents lower, December $1.50 1-8 to $1.50 1-4 and May $1.53 1-4 to $1.53 3-8. Corn finished at 3-8 to 1c down oats a shade to 1-4c off, and provisions varying from 7c decline to a rise of 20 cents.

Better weather both sides of the Canadian bondary, with reports that threshing had been resumed in Canada and that the crop movement from the Prairie Provinces was heavy, gave a decided advantage to sellers in the wheat market here. Besides, the world's available supply total showed an increase of 10,483,000 bushels for the week; under such circumstances and with persistent hedging sales from the North west, the market here closed at around the day's bottom level of prices, notwithstanding that at first the trend for a while had been upward.

Indications were that a good deal of the late selling of wheat here was in the nature of profit-taking on the part of recent buyers. The final downward swing of the market however, was hastened by speculative selling from various sources when it became apparent that recent aggressive support of the market had slackened for at least the time being. Earlier upturns to-day in prices here were ascribed to signs of export business in rye and to assertions that the amount of wheat afloat for Europe is the smallest ever known.

Corn and oats averaged lower with wheat. There were moderate offerings of old corn to arrive. On other conditions in the corn belt tended to discourage selling.

Provisions were irregular, reflecting an early advance and later decline in the hog market.

AUSTRALIAN ELECTION.

A THOUGHT.

WORKING CAPITAL.

The experience of others contributes much to our knowledge of others, but it seldom, if ever, enlarges our wisdom to the extent that we will take counsel from it.

Only by your personal experience do we accumulate wisdom, and only by taking stock of this widsom and applying it as freely to our own needs as we hand out advice to others can we hope to really profit by what we have been forced to learn by experience.

One thing that makes some men greater than others is their ability and their willingness to honestly review past experiences, and fearlessly make use of the knowlewge thus gained.

Experience is working capital, but not everyone puts it to work and, what is more, they do not even so bank it that it can pay them dividends.

WORDS OF TRUTH AND GLADNESS.

Listen to the Voice celestial,
Ye whose eyes with weeping fail;
God reveals His gracious purpose
To the soul in sorrows vale.
There shall be no helpless sadness
In the NEW earth's golden years,
Blessed years replete with gladness;
God shall wipe away all tears.

No more widowed hearts repining,
No more hungry homeless souls,
When the earth shall bloom as Eden
And the Prince of Peace controls,
When the ransomed hosts are singing
Not an echo of despair
In His vast dominion ringing;
There shall be no sorrow there.

EVERY tomb shall be deserted,
Harps of jubilee shall sing,
Ruthless grave, where is thy triumph?
Cruel death, where is thy sting?
Sing the blest emancipation,
Every creature that hath breath;
Life shall quicken all creation;
There shall thenceforth be no death.

ON MODERNISM.

To the Editor of The Examiner.

Sir,—The Rev. Dr. Fosdick, Baptist minister of New York City, is perhaps the leading modernist of America. He is professor of theology at The Union Theological Seminary of New York, and has written a now famous book, "The Modern Use of the Bible."

It is well for your readers who take an interest in these things to know what Modernism-up-to-date really is and how it is fighting to displace the Old Faith. The old way of looking at the Bible, he says, is no longer possible. He has turned religion upside down and even in referring to God as Him and His spells them him and his. Dr. Fosdick regards the Bible as do all modernists as a series of stories mostly childish and incredible which show however how religion was working in the human mind to be when the time came crowned with the coming of Jesus. The Bible is therefore no more inspired than any other book and what Dr. Fosdick says is that there was no direct and immediate revelation of God and His purpose to man in it but just a slow growth of the conception of God which the reader will see is of no more value as a theory than any other.

There is a clear denial that the Bible is in any way inspired or written at the order of God and blessed with His authorship. Dr. Fosdick points to the stories in the Bible of creation, &c., &c., as having been found in recently discovered clay tablets in great variety and difference. The only inspiration or authority the Bible has, according to Dr. Fosdick, is that it furnishes like other ancient tales a knowledge of the growth in the mind of man of a knowledge of God. There is no record, therefore, that God had any hand in it at all. The whole question of religion, according to Dr. Fosdick, is just what people choose to make of it and read into it. God takes no active part in it. Everything is merely "historical" (not inspired), including the account of Jesus Himself. In fact, we are to get our religion henceforth from the Fosdicks. It is true he lays great stress on prayer and proclaims the strict individuality of the individual contrary to the efforts of those who say that the "all" is everything and the "individual" nothing.

But it is apparent that prayer in the past has not in any way induced God to reveal that the Bible was only a history of crimes and crazy stories of interest to antiquarians but only a matter of contempt to us "moderns." The Bible had grown impossible to these people and they just concoct a theory of their own. Ninety per cent of the clergy and all the "wise" ones with them, but we have read that these things are hidden from the wise. Much learning and love of power have made them mad. If religion depended on modernism it wouldn't last a week. Congregations are not so simple and easily led as they look, from the pulpit.

—J. H. Burnham.

To the Editor of The Examiner—

Dear Sir:—

"Drinking Among Young People Now, and Before Prohibition,"

—or—

"Drinking Among Young People Past and Present Conditions."

Occasionally, nowadays, we see the statement made in the press, usually by some old timer who is getting pretty thirsty himself.

That the young people of today are drinking more than they ever did, even under the open bar.

Now, I don't think many sensible people believe such a statement; but Ruskin said, "the number of those who are naturally foolish is exceedingly great." And for fear some sensible people and a lot of foolish people, may believe such a statement, I would like to point out.—

That liquor, and by liquor, I mean whiskey and beer, is a lot less in evidence today than it was in the good old days before prohibition, especially on those occasions where it once was most evident, such as logging bees, ploughing bees, barn raisings, dances, threshings and silo filling. I have attended several of these in the years prohibition has been in force, and, with the exception of dances, I have never seen a drop of liquor at any of them. And not all the dances I have attended have had liquor at them. A great many have been absolutely dry. True! most of them have been a little wet. Usually two or three fools would come half drunk, sometimes they were put out, some times they were not:

But, it has always puzzled me, why, when two or three were drunk or partly drunk, at a dance or ball, the next day a report would go all over the country that over half the young people were drunk?

The only explanation I can find for it is that some people—even at the expense of telling lies—are trying to make out that we are still holding on to the good old days before prohibition; when such a report would undoubtedly be true.

I well remember a dance given in our neighbourhood over fifteen years ago, when, by 2 o'clock in the morning, over half the young men were so drunk they could scarecly stand up.

I also remember a stoning bee held in our neighbourhood in the days of the open bar, where a big ten-gallon keg of beer sat up on a stone in the centre of th field, with an old rusty dipper on top of it, and all you had to do to get a drink was to hold the dipper and turn the tap.

The field was close to the public school, after four o'clock, a dozen or more school boys, ranging from 7 to 14 years of age trailed over to where the keg was. The men were all up around it having a drink, and when they were through the boss, who really was a good-hearted fellow, although half drunk himself, offered the boys a drink. Each boy was given a clipper of beer, and told it was good for him and to drink as much of it as he could. Of course, if he could not drink it all he gave it to the next boy.

I happened to be with the public school boys and that's where I got my first drink of beer. I remember yet how dizzy it made me feel, and how I fell over the fence going home and lost the top of my dinner pail, but I don't remember being sick.

It will take a lot of argument, and a whole lot of evidence to convince me that the young people of today are drinking more than they ever did. They're not, of course. Four-point-four might be providing hotel keepers with a good excuse to sell the hard stuff mixed in along with the 4.4, but in spite of all that, there's a lot less drinking and a lot less drunkeness among young people than there was in the days of the open bar. For one thing the same quantity of liquor is not here to be drank, and the temptations to drink it are not nearly so numerous.

Personally, I have only been offered three drinks since prohibition came into force—which I refused, whereas I was offered a few hundred in the drunken days before.

—Ralph Webster.

OUR FORESTS.

To the Editor:—

Dear Sir,—

I have sent a copy of the following letter to the Hon. James Lyons, Minister of Lands and Forests:—

Dear Sir:

It is more than a month ago since I addressed a letter to you calling your attention to the need of a new policy in the administration of our lands and forests. More than a score of newspapers throughout the Province consider my letter of sufficient public interest to warrant its publication. In addition to that, I have received many personal letters, from men prominent in all walks of life, voicing unqualified approval of my effort to obtain some light upon the problem of a more efficient administration of our lands and forests. Aside from a mere note acknowledging the receipt of my communication, I have thus far heard nothing from you.

Do you consider the annual expenditure of several millions of dollars upon schemes, that your own reports prove to be more than half failures, of little importance to the people of Ontario? Do you consider that your obligation to the people of this Province is fully discharged once you have succeeded in spending the money received from the sale of their resources on colonization schemes that fail to colonize? Do you regard the destruction of more than twice as much forest land each year as you are able to get permanently settled as a matter too trivial to discuss with the people who own it?

Do you know that the policy under which you are now operating your department is becoming more and more ineffective each year; that where you now spend millions of dollars to promote development the government in 1908 spent practically nothing and yet succeeded in settling more acres in that year that in any year since, and that in spite of the fact that the acreage settled was so much greater than you have been able to secure the cancellations for non-fulfilment of settlement duties was only twenty-five per cent. of the amount sold or granted whereas you report that with a smaller amount sold or granted in 1924 your cancellations for non-fulfilment of settlement duties was more than fifty per cent? When the data you have at hand shows that better results were obtained when very little money was spent to aid colonization, why do you continue to increase your expenditures on dedvelopment schemes until, in the present year, they have reached approximately five millions of dollars.

The questions I placed before you in my letter of August 10th, as well as those above, are questions of pressing interest, and inasmuch as the people of Ontario own the property entrusted to your care they feel that the least you can do is to explain to them why your administration of it is such an overwhelming failure. They are not satisfied to receive your report of its failure unaccompanied by explanations of the reason therefor, or without any attempt on your part to suggest measures to be taken for the establishment of a more efficient policy. They are looking to you to make some definite attempt to remedy the evils that your annual reports show are increasing each year. They are expecting you to protect our forests, encourage permanent settlement and eliminate the bogus settler, and to have some net revenue to show for the vast amount of timber that you sell each year.

Ever since Confederation we have been looking forward to the time when the income from our natural resources could be applied in such a way as to relieve us of part of the burden of taxation under which we have been laboring. Are you to be the one who will bring about that happy condition, or do you intend to follow the old path that has always led to forest destruction and unsuccessful colonization?

Yours truly,
FREDERICK NOAD.

BRITISH PROTOCOL ACCEPTANCE ASSURED BY DELEGATE'S WORDS INDICATING WAY TO WORLD PEACE

Recognized That Arbitration Security and Disarmament Essential to Progress.

PREPARE CONFERENCE.

General Reduction and Limitation of Armaments May Be Realized.

GENEVA, Sept. 23. Canadian Press. — Confirming the plans of the leaders, the League of Nations assembly in plenary sessions of the Commissions yesterday, laid the foundations of future international disarmament and economics.

The disarmament commission adopted a resolution whereby the League Council will make a preparatory study for the conference for the reduction and limitation of armaments, so that as soon as general security has been achieved a conference will be convoked in order that "a general reduction and limitation of armaments may be realized."

The outstanding feature of today's discussion was the declaration of a British delegate that it is generally recognized that the trilogy, arbitration, security and disarmament, indicates the road on which progress can best be made towards world peace—a declaration which gave immense satisfaction to the French as voicing British acceptance of the underlying ideas of the Geneva peace protocol.

The thought behind the disarmament resolution, as expressed by several delegates, is that preparation for such a conference does not brook a moment's delay.

As for an economic conference, the resolution drafted invites the council to examine at the earliest possible opportunity the creation on the widest basis of a special committee to prepare the work for an international conference, which should examine into the economic differences standing in the way of the restoration of general prosperity and discover the best methods of surmounting difficulties and avoiding disputes.

M. Loucheur, of France, who instituted the economic conference project, announced to-night that he would expect the council to take definite action at the December session.

M. Jouhaux, the French labor leader, declared that the economic situation throughout the world was grave, and should not be concealed from the people.

"The projected conference," he said "will bring out those truths the people have a right to know and put its finger on points of friction and agreement."

In announcing in the assembly today that Canada had ratified the opium convention framed at Geneva in February, Dr. Walter A. Riddell declared that Canada had hoped for better results from the conference, but accepted the convention as a step in advance, and with the hope that more could be achieved later to combat the opium evil.

The proposal of M. Unden, former Minister of Justice of Sweden, for a collective international convention on compulsory arbitration, will probably be merged with a new project introduced by M. Adachi, of Japan, and the entire problem of the development of arbitration treaties will be sent to a special body of jurists.

INTERESTING FIND ON CHAMBERLEN ST.

Warden Rye Has Ticket to Intellectual Society Banquet, 1863.

A link with the past was recently uncovered on the site of the house of Edmund Chamberlen (after whom Chamberlen street is named) near the Prince of Wales School, consisting of a ticket for the annual soiree of North Monaghan Intellectual Improvement Society held in the year of 1863. The ticket has written on the back the name of Edmund Chamberlen and the date.

This is now in the possession of H. B. Rye, Reeve of North Monaghan and Warden of Peterborough county. Mr. Rye is particularly interested in antiquities and curios relating to Peterborough and district, and has quite an interesting collection.

TIMBER WOLF IN ELGIN COUNTY GENUINE ARTICLE

Measured Six Feet in Length and Weighed 200 Pounds.

POSSE KILLED IT.

Had Accounted For a Dozen Sheep and Twenty Pigs.

ST. THOMAS, Sept. 23.—The animal which has been killing cattle and terrorizing Elgin County was shot yesterday about two miles south-east of Fingal, following a drive participated in by between 150 and 200 riflemen.

It was a genuine timber wolf according to hunters familiar with that creature. It weighed 210 pounds and was six feet in length.

In color it was almost black, with a sprinkling of grey hairs.

On Monday night the animal made its appearance in the sheepfold of James Smith, near Fingal, and chased the terrified creatures across the meadow, but was finally scared off by Mr. Smith.

About five o'clock Tuesday morning it was again sighted in a ravine some miles distant. Gangs of armed men at once were organized and shortly after daylight started beating through the woods eastward, while riflemen stood along the roads ready to fire if the marauder should be driven from cover.

The animal, which has been killing cattle and sheep throughout the district, was finally located and shot.

In appearance it resembled a big dog, in splendid condition.

So far as can be recalled, no wolf has roamed Elgin County in the past fifty years, and how the present animal got there is a mystery.

Sheriff Harding headed the posse of hunters who went after the beast Tuesday. The posse was divided into two groups, those with shot guns beating the bush while those with rifles surrounded the woods.

The wolf, mortally wounded, staggered out of the woods just before noon and was killed before it had travelled twenty feet.

During its marauding in the district, the wolf killed at least a dozen sheep, about twenty small pigs and several calves as well as poultry.

It is on exhibition in Fingal.

CAMPAIGN IS UNDER WAY AT COBOURG

Both Candidates Have Been in the Town to See Their Supporters.

COBOURG, September 23. — So far Northumberland County has had no political meetings in the present Federal campaign, but that does not mean that there is no activity among the faithful supporters of both parties. The local Conservatives have opened up committee rooms. Col. F. D. Boggs is president of the local organization and Mr. A. R. Willmott is secretary. Meetings for organization have been held in some of the polling sub-divisions. M. E. Maybee, with Miss Maybee as a lo. l assistant was in Cobourg last week feeling the pulse of the electors, and Fred J. Slade, the Liberal candidate, was in town at the week end shaking hands with ciitzens and consulting with his supporters.

The riding of Northumberland is an uncertain one politically, and there has been many a hot contest here, especially in the old riding of West Northumberland. Indications are that the coming campaign will lose none of the constituency's old-time prestige as far as a hard fought political battle is concerned.

Offices Open.

The two registrars, Messrs. J. D. Haig and Henry Allan, who have been appointed by J. N. Stone, returning officer for Northumberland, to prepare a list for the town of Cobourg for the coming Federal election, will open up their offices next Thursday, September 24.

Mr. J. D. Haig will look after polling sub-divisions 1, 2 and 3, and will have his office at Mr. J. B. McColl's law office. Mr. H. A. Allan is in charge of polling sub-divisions 4, 5, and 6, and will have his office at the corner of Division and Spencer sts.

It is required that they have the lists completed by September 30.

After the registrars have completed their work the lists go to the revising officer of the riding who is the County Judge, and in this instance the new appointee to the Northumberland and Durham County Judgeship, Judge McGlade.

LONDON DEFENDERS START WAR WITH SURPRISE ATTACK ON REDS WHO CHECK MANOEUVRE QUICKLY

Main Armies Have Not Clashed Yet as Smaller Bodies Skirmish.

MOVE UNEXPECTED.

Airplanes Great Factor in Battle Craft Driving Enemy to Shelter.

Somewhere in Wiltshire, England, Sept. 23 (Canadian Press).—Under lashing equinoctial rains and over a country always sodden and often churned with mud, a great four days' mimic battle between 50,000 soldiers of Britain's army opened today. Thousands of the troops engaged were schoolboys when the Great War was being waged in Europe and knew nothing by active experience of the Flanders mud, which today's operations recalled only too vividly to thousands of the older men.

The former treated the weather as a joke; the latter ploughed through the sticky earth with stoical determination, cheered by the war-time ration of rum, which is served to all ranks twice daily and which perhaps assisted the hearty singing, in which all indulged as they marched to take their positions.

The main armies have not yet clashed, but throughout the day there was much skirmishing by smaller bodies of troops, while the big guns thundered at distant objectives and machine guns rattled incessantly.

The two forces opposing each other are the Blue and the Red armies; the Blue, defending London against invasion, under the command of Lieut.-General Sir Philip Chetwold, and the Red army directed by Lieut.-General Sir Alexander Godley.

The war began at dawn with a surprise attack by the Blues, which, though unexpected without a formal declaration of war, did not find the invaders asleep. Red troops were rushed to the front, bridges and other communications were destroyed, and the attack was checked almost at its inception.

Airplanes constantly attacked moving columns, diving almost to the earth, often between trees, where it seemed hardly possible for the wings to pass, and driving the enemy to the shelter of the woods from what ought to have been a withering fire from their machine-guns.

At nightfall, most of the troops were bivouacking in the mud while others enjoyed the shelter of barns and sheds, where luck provided such luxuries.

The main armies will probably meet each other in a day or two on 35-mile front between Newbury and Southampton, and it is here that the great test of attack and defence aided by all the modern appliances of war will come.

HARVEST FIELDS ARE ATTRACTING WOMEN

Many Go From Vancouver to Work as Cooks and Helpers.

VANCOUVER, B.C., Sept. 23.—(Canadian Press).—Harvesting in Alberta and Saskatchewan is attracting a large number of women from this city, according to the women's department of the provincial employment bureau. Positions as cooks and helpers in households in the rush season are filled by women who often serve the same farmer several years in succession. The fruit season is also causing numerous requests for girls from the Okanagan valley.

There were several committees appointed, but the principal was an advisory one for the election of a general superintendent of the church to succeed the late Bishop A. T. Warren, who died a few months ago.

A communication from Ireland was read, expressing the appreciation of the services of Rev. W. J. Major, who is in charge of the work there. A lengthy petition was also presented urging upon the church more extension work in that country.

Admitted Relieving Conductor and Postmaster of Small Sums.

WINNIPEG, Man., Sept. 23. — (Canadian Press).—Confessing to a series of robberies, three youthful bandits, captured near Culross, Man., on Saturday, were remanded until next Monday for sentence. They admitted holding up a street car conductor in Winnipeg, and robbing George Thompson, Culross postmaster. They obtained only small sums in each case. Several other charges will be preferred against the trio.

Pigeons Steamed In Alcohol: Billing And Cooing For More

WINNIPEG, Man., Sept. 23.—(Canadian Press).—Driven to desperation by the constant cooing of a growing flock of pigeons, residents of the troubled neighborhood tried a novel method of getting rid of this nuisance.

They conceived the scheme of soaking wheat in alcohol and feeding the grain to the unsuspecting birds. The birds had a "glorious fling" on the roofs of the pestered houses—then lay down in the eaves and slept it off. Yesterday they were billing and cooing again. Now the residents have sought permission to shoot them.

CHEESE OUTPUT AT HIGH PRICE HELPS FARMERS

The Dairy Cow Again Proving Her Value at Money Producer.

QUALITY HIGHER.

R. W. Ward, Dairy Inspector, Reports Marked Improvement in Cheese Quality.

The quality of the cheese produced in this district has shown a decided improvement in quality this season, R. W. Ward, dairy inspector, told The Examiner this morning. And there was much room for improvement, too much in fact to suit Mr. Ward, in spite of whose vigilance the cheese of this district fell from grace last year. This decline had given him a great deal of concern, for Peterboro cheese has always rated high in Canadian dairy products, has usually brought the top price, and was sought after by British buyers.

The season now drawing to a close must be very satisfactory to the farmers, Mr. Ward believes, largely because of the increased price they have received and because the flow of milk has been plentiful throughout the summer. August's long dry spell hit the dairymen, but the rains that came with the turn into September have converted the pastures to the freshness and verdure of Spring. The average price has been four or five cents above that of last year, and last sales were around 22½ cents.

With the passing of the Peterboro Cheese Board, the factories have adopted various plans of selling. Some have contracts with Toronto buyers, others are sending their cheese to Montreal, and some others ship to the Dairymen's Co-operative. In most of the local sales the Belleville Cheese Board's price is accepted as the prevailing market quotation. Altogether the dairy industry has been a profitable adjunct of farming throughout this district, and the dairy cow is more than proving its value to local farmers.

GOVERNMENT TO PROPOSE REPLY TO DIFFICULTIES

Conservative Council Report Says Move Might Now Be Taken.

PARTY UNASSAILABLE.

Expenditures Show Standard of Living is Well Maintained.

LONDON, Eng., Sept. 23.—(Canadian Press Cable).—A rather complacent view of the political situation in Great Britain is taken by the Council of the Conservative party in the report which will be presented to the annual conference at Brighton next month. The report speaks of the great strides of the Unionist movement and refers to an increase of 150,000 in the membership of the women's organization, who were the principal promoters of the Empire food campaign, as "one of the most remarkable achievements of the year," while the Junior Imperial League is stated to have established 250 new branches. Mention is made of the inauguration of a juvenile organization, styled The Young Britons, with the view of giving patriotic education to the children of the country.

With regard to the future the report states that the Council sees no reason why the Baldwin Government, "intact and unassailable," should not advance proposals for the solution of national problems which, however, will take substantial periods to mature. The increase in unemployment is noted with regret, but the steady investment of small savings and the working class expenditures are pointed to as showing that the general standard of living is being well maintained and even increasing. Encouragement of the Empire trade movement is made a special feature of the report which considers that a real Empire preference tariff is now firmly fixed in the fiscal system.

September turns the green leaves brown." Sometimes, it leaves this work for early October, or makes but a weak beginning, which upsets all our rhyming.

This is the month when our Canadian landscapes begin to be the glorious feast of colour from which we take our emblem, the maple leaf. A touch of green, fading into yellow down in the corner, a wonderful dash of red, covering two thirds of the leaf and deepening into maroon or even purple, at the tip.

There are several kinds of maples, which will be spoken of in Nature Lore, some time or other, but, for the present, let us ask ourselves, have we ever seen two leaves coloured alike? Have we ever seen two maples alike in any way — except when looked at in a hurry?

This is the time of golden rod, that wonderful yellow bloom which rivals the sun, and which has been blamed by folks who suffer from hay-fever, when all the time it was something else, as I have learned, to my great satisfaction. Don't blame any kind of plant or flower for your troubles, unless you are sure. The ragweed, that raggedy straggler on the roadside, is also blooming yet. It began in mid-August, and is the cause of most of the sneezing and hay-fever. However, science has found the way to prevent us from suffering from the pollen of this loafing dirt-road and foot-path weed, so let it bloom on.

The Salvia is ablaze, the pretty haws make crimson necklaces for little girls, but look out for the tempting red leaves of the poison ivy. We will give this a special story soon, so be sure and read it and save it for reference.

Let hay fever victims keep away from asters, as the pollens, not troubles some directly, are irritating to victims of other pollens.

The staghorn Sumac is showing bright clusters of red seeds. These are a peculiar provision of nature. They are provided every year, but the birds do not need them every year, and, since they are not very good eating, they remain untouched, so that they are always on hand, to save the birds, when other food fails. Nature makes them unpalatable but good food, for a good reason.

YOUR HEALTH

By ROYAL S. COPELAND, M.D.,
Former Commissioner of Health, New York City.

"What would you suggest for a person who suffers from a habit of grouchiness, refusing to speak for days at a time?"

This is a question from a New England correspondent.

It is said a Yankee always replies to a question by asking another. To make my correspondent feel at home, I'll ask a question: Do you know what we mean by the word "psychosis?"

Any abnormal mental condition may be described by this term. It may be a temporary disturbance of mind, due to some passing irritation of the brain. It may be a more or less permanent mental upset, so marked as to be called insanity.

The trouble my correspondent describes is a psychosis. Its seriousness depends upon the cause and the possibility of removing the cause.

It isn't a good sign for a person to give way to surliness and "grouchiness," refusing speech for days at a time. Unless something can be found, proving that the trouble is purely functional, this attitude of mind may foreshadow permanent loss of mental freedom.

In the great majority of instances, however, moodishness and irritability of this sort are likely to be the effects of poisoning by absorption of the body wastes or of a pus infection somewhere in the body. The delicate brain is liable to disturbance when the firmer muscles and hard bones readily resist the poisonous substances.

For most psychoses there can be found a physical foundation. In the case in question, the first thing to find out is what is wrong with or in the body of the victim.

Suppose we outline a procedure. What about the teeth and gums? Are they healthy or is there decay or pus formation?

Are the nasal sinuses free from pus and are both ears without discharge?

Are the tonsils healthy or are they filled with infected pockets and even with pus?

Are the kidneys and generative organs normal and without pus formation?

Lastly, and perhaps more important than all the rest, is the intestinal tract normal and functioning normally? Chronic constipation and fermentation are conditions which are capable of producing the most serious results upon health and mind.

In all human probability the patient described is the victim of some bodily disturbance within the limits mentioned.

A corn isn't just a local pain. The tiny nerves beneath it are on the "main trunk line," linked with all the nerve centers of the system. . . .Doctors know that a tiny lump of callus on the toe—no bigger than a match-head—may make one feel mean all over. GOOD NIGHT STORIES

By Blanche Silver

DICKY DISCOVERS A NEW NEIGHBOR.

Something rustled under Dicky's feet. Away went a little furry creature, and over across the path in the grass Dicky saw the dirt begin to fly in the air, then the furry one disappeared.

"Well, of all things," drawled Dicky. "Now who in the world could that have been? Dear! I wish Squeedee or——" A tiny hand touched his sleeve and Dicky turned around to look into the smiling face of a wee little elfin. "Oh, Squeedee, did you see who that was digging over there? I guess I must have startled him."

"I'll bet you did," laughed the elfin. "Come on over and we'll just see which one of the meadow folks it was," and together they ran across the path to a mound of dirt. "Say, he did make a fast getaway chuckled Squeedee. "Looks to me as if it might have been Daddy Badger."

He rapped at the side of the hole in the ground and pretty soon out peeked a tiny black nose and two bright eyes. "Come on out, Daddy Badger, and meet Dicky. He's a friend of mine and wouldn't harm you for anything."

The little furry one crawled out of his hiding place and dusted the dirt from his silky gray suit.

He was a fine-looking fellow and his silvery gray fur was parted straight down the center of his back, just as if his Mama had just combed it. His head and face were really handsome. His cheeks, chin and a broad stripe from his nose straight over the back of his head were pure white. On each cheek was a bar of black, and the back part of his ears and his feet were black.

"He Is Noted for Digging."

"Goodness," laughed Dicky, "no wonder you could make the dirt fly so fast. Look at his claws, Squeedee."

"Sure," said Squeedee, patting Daddy Badger's pretty head, "he is noted for digging. Bobby Mole and Johnny Chuck are noted for digging, but they can't beat you, can they, Daddy Badger?"

"I'll say they can't," laughed the furry one. "That's my one hope when anyone surprises me, as Dicky did. I didn't know he was anywhere around until he was right on me; then I ran and dug a hole to hide in. I really don't belong out in the daytime, but I just thought a sun bath would do me good. Now if you'll excuse me, I'll go home to my wife and children."

"And may Squeedee bring me over to call on you sometime?" asked Dicky. "I'd love to see your wife and children. How many have you?"

"We have five of the sweetest little badgers you ever saw," replied Daddy Badger proudly. "After Mother Badger is more settled, I know she would be glad to meet you," and nodding his pretty head Daddy Badger scooted away to the broad meadows.

"Sure, we'll go and call on him sometime," said Squeedee. "Mother Badger and Daddy Badger don't like much company. They live alone with their little family. Come on, let's run down the path and see what we can find," and taking Dicky's hand, away the two friends ran in search of new adventure.

TOMORROW'S HOROSCOPE

By Genevieve Kemble

THURSDAY, SEPTEMBER 24.

Although this will be a likely enough day, yet certain hostile forces enjoin conservatism and especial care in the matter of change, removal or travel. And while new projects are under an auspicious rule, at the same time there is a menace of fraud or deception, which, if guarded against, may be made to thrive under a benefic force from Jupiter assisted by a friendly Saturn, who may reward application and patience. But beware in signing all writings.

Those whose birthday it is may be able to wring success from certain menacing conditions by discretion in the handling of business, particularly as to precautionary measures against fraud and deception. New undertakings manipulated with conservatism are encouraged, but change, removal and travel are advised against. A child born on this day may be talented and clever, but may have a restless and irresponsible disposition, unless given rigorous early training, particularly in the matter of veracity and honesty.

CROWED HALLS GREET PREMIER

Two Halls Filled For Mr. King's Last Meeting in Maritime Campaign.

HELD AT MONCTON.

MONCTON, N.B., Two crowded halls greeted Premier King last night for the last meeting of his Maritime campaign.

He charged that in preaching "blue ruin," the Conservatives were proceeding on the theory that "If you state an untruth often enough, people will believe it."

He then classified as 'untrue" the statements reported to have been made at Mr. Meighen's Moncton meeting yesterday:

"That 2,000 factories had been closed in Canada since the present Government took office.

"That we are becoming annexed to the United States by reason of the migration of Canadians south."

CANADIAN AUTOS NUMBER ABOVE HALF A MILLION

Ontario Owns Nearly One-Half of Total of the Dominion.

YEARLY INCREASES

Figures for Province Doubled During the Years 1910-11

If the number of motor cars owned within a country is to be taken as an index of its prosperity, Canada to-day is in a more prosperous condition than at any other period in its history.

In 1907 there were 2,130 motor vehicles registered in Canada, more than half of which were in Ontario. In 1914, this had increased to 69,598. To-day there are 652,121 cars within the country — more than 300 times the number recorded in 1907.

Ontario has throughout, been the banner province so far as motor cars are concerned. Practically every year for which figures are available this province has laid claim to almost one-half of the cars of the Dominion. Ontario began with 1,530 cars in 1907. And the numbers increased year after year. The figures for 1910 doubled themselves in 1911. The expansion was comparatively less rapid after that, but the increase was fairly well maintained. Now the number of cars within the province is 308,693.

1907	1,530
1908	1,754
1909	2,452
1910	4,230
1911	11,339
1912	16,266
1913	23,700
1914	31,724
1915	42,246
1916	54,375
1917	83,308
1918	114,376
1919	144,804
1920	177,651
1921	206,521
1922	240,933
1923	280,996
1924	308,693

POLICE ORDERED TO DEPORT REDS

Lists of Suspected Aliens Are Requested By Home Office.

ABOUT FIFTY TO GO.

LONDON, September 23. — Canadian Press. — The Daily Mail says the government has initiated a big campaign against Red propagandists in Great Britain, and has already decided to deport about 50 Russian and French Nationalists.

The Home Office has ordered Scotland Yard to prepare a list of aliens who have long been suspected of working here in the interests of the Bolsheviks, while the police chiefs of provincial cities have been instructed to make similar lists.

NATIONALISTS GIVE APPROVAL TO PACT

Endorse Actions of Their Representatives in German Cabinet.

BERLIN, Sept. 23. — (Canadian Press).—German Nationalists have adopted a resolution of approval of the attitude of their representatives in the Cabinet on the Government's security past policy. This is interpreted in political circles as indicative of their intention not to oppose the Government's participation in negotiations with the Allied Foreign Ministers.

ELECTRICITY VS, HUMAN POWER FOR PROSPERITY

Speaker at Engineers' Meeting Compared Economic Results From Power.

USED PICTURES.

More Power Means Greater Production at Less Cost and Higher Wages.

C. M. Ripley, electrical engineer, of the Publication Bureau of the General Electric Company, was the speaker last night at the first fall meeting of the local branch of the Engineering Institute of Canada. The title of his address was "Some economic results of the use of electric power," and the subject matter consisted largely of comparison between production costs in Europe, where man power is much more used, and in American, where machines do the bulk of the work. Power is needed to run these machines and the best power, said the speaker, is electricity.

He first showed pictures taken during a recent trip in Europe. There were pictures of heavy carts being hauled through the streets by men and of heavy barges being poled along the canals by man power. He gave statistics to show the relative number of homes using electricity, of automobiles, of power used per capita, and kindred facts.

Several pages of a British publication, "Eclipse or Empire," were shown, which gave the comparative amount of power used in various industries in the United Kingdom and the United States and the resulting production per capita.

Greater use of power and machinery, he said, made for greater production per worker, which meant higher pay for the worker and a lower price for the product. Lower prices and higher pay mean greater purchasing power and general prosperity. The last diagram thrown on the screen was a series of cog wheels in a circle, actuated from one marked "Cheaper electrical power."

To offset the idea that he was pessimistic about Europe, Mr. Ripley told of his trip which had proved to him that in one respect, that of the commercial use of aeroplanes, the European nations are far ahead of the people on this side of the Atlantic. He showed pictures of the various types of aeroplanes which operate on regular schedules between various cities and provide faster service than trains or boats at about the same rate of fare. Pictures of the advertising posters and maps of the routes gave an idea of the great territory covered by the various systems. Everywhere from Moscow and Constantinople to Madrid and Glasgow was covered, including the north coast of Africa.

The moving pictures shown earlier in the evening at the Capitol Theatre for the employees of the C.G.E. were repeated for the benefit of the Engineers.

A. L. Killaly was chairman for the evening. The best wishes and regrets of the members were expressed to D. L. McLaren, of the C.G.E. Engineering Department, who is going to Toronto to live.

Charged With Giving Poison To Her Child

BROCKVILLE, September 23. — Canadian Press. — Myrtle Love, aged about 30 years, was remanded to jail until Monday next yesterday afternoon in the police court, on the charge of administering poison, with intent to endanger life.

Mrs. Love was arrested following the discovery of a letter which she had addressed to her mother, and in which she treatened to kill her children and herself.

Poison had already been administered to one child, but it will recover.

Of the 4,267 persons 100 years old or more in the United States at the last census, 2,935, or considerably more than half were negroes.

YOUR GARDEN

LATE FALL OPERATIONS AND NOTES.

When all the perennials and annuals have thoroughly matured and died down it is well to remove the tops and leave the borders shipshape for the winter. It will also be appreciated when the rush work commences in the spring. There may be exceptions, however, in exposed situations, where if the tops are not left on to hold the snow somewhat, there is danger of winter killing through exposure. If the tops are thus removed fall digging is distinctly beneficial.

All the borders, whether in flowers or shrubbery, should be fall dug, as well as any vacant ground that has been used for annuals or bedding plants. At this time of year, however, by no means attempt to produce a fine surface but leave the soil as rough as possible. It will be broken down and pulverized by the frosts and spring rains and will be much the better for it. Mulching is no small part of success with fall planted material and now before it is actually needed is the time to collect it. Full directions for fall protection will be given next week.

The grass should be cut as long as it continues to grow. There is no benefit from leaving long grass with the idea of protecting the roots from severe freezing except on newly seeded areas. The long grass will die and give a lot of trouble in spring through clogging the mower.

Collect material for protecting evergreens that are easily scorched by the sun. Directions for protecting evergreens will be given later. Watch out for frosts as the season advances and take in tender tub plants before there is danger of damage being done. When thoroughly matured and the leaves have fallen from the deciduous plants these should be stored in a cool place away from frost and sufficient water to keep them moist. A good soaking at the time of storage will suffice on dirt floors but cement floors will dry them out quickly and they should be frequently watered.

The storage pit, glass covered, is an ideal place where the plants receive light throughout the winter. Few, however, will have such a place available and the cellar must be used. Care should be taken to select a suitable spot for evergreens where they will receive plenty of light. When kept in the dark they will scorch if brought too suddenly into the sunlight. Deciduous plants can be kept quite well in the dark.

Apply rotted manure to the lawns, perennials and shrubbery quite late. Fresh manure will also do for lawns and will prove quite satisfactory but will likely increase the number of weeds. The surplus of both should be removed easily in the spring before growth starts.

In applying manure to the perennial border care should be taken to avoid covering the crowns of the plants. If bulbs have been planted among the perennials one is bound to cover them and they will have to be watched and freed when they start to grow in the spring. It is therefore advisable to break up the manure as much as possible, or otherwise large chunks will cause the bulb leaves to grow twisted and deformed.

You'll Get Rid of Blackheads Sure

There is one simple, safe, and sure way that never fails to get rid of blackheads, that is to dissolve them. To do this, get two ounces of peroxine powder from any drug store—sprinkle a little on a hot, wet cloth—rub over the blackheads briskly—wash the parts and you will be surprised how the blackheads have disappeared. Big blackheads, little blackheads, no matter where they are, simply dissolve and disappear. Blackheads are a mixture of dust and dirt and secretions that form in the pores of the skin. The peroxine powder and the water dissolve the blackheads so they wash right out, leaving the pores free and clean and in their natural condition.

SPLENDID SERMON IN MILLBROOK CHURCH

"Am I My Brother's Keeper?" Was Text Chosen by Speaker.

MILLBROOK, Sept. 22.—"There is a fascination about first things—the first robin, the first day at school, the first time in a new environment, even the baby's first tooth—and to-day we are choosing our text from the scene of the first murder."

Rev. C. W. Stirling, President of the former Bay of Quinte Conference, began his sermon on the subject: "Am I My Brother's Keeper?" in the United Church on Sunday morning, with these words.

"Cain is a typical man; he has lived in all ages," and the speaker roceeded to show, by concrete illustrations, that selfishness and indifference are the mainsprings in such types of character. 'Yet there is a sleeping power in the boy, careless of an education, and the financier lacking in interest in his brother's need, that only needs to be awakened to produce the very finest results."

"Helpfulness to others has gotten in the wrong category; we regard it as optional when in reality it is a duty we actually need to perform in order to be complete in this life. Without it, we are as maimed in our spiritual qualities as a man is physically who lacks an arm or a limb."

The personal responsibility for some of the awful happenings in home and social life, of the one who, by word and deed, generates an atmosphere that tends to make of life a common thing, was unsparingly criticised by the speaker. "Any person, who by their indifferent attitude and careless word, sweep away the fresh, feather edge of modesty and purity, who makes it easier for a man to wrong a woman, will be required by God to answer for his indirect share in causing some terrible domestic tragedies."

"What is the story of the hospitals, the shelters, the beneficient institutions all over our land? Do they not show the general tone of the world is climbing upward in every generation? You could not put across some things in this country to-day that were tolerated in previous years. There is gradually growing a feeling that we are here to help the underprivileged, and that our prime business is to be our brother's keeper."

"Our text pictures for us Cain fleeing red-handed from his brother's murder. But there is a third person present. Who is that? The Lord. What is He doing there? Looking after His child. Does that picture hold all through the ages? Doesn't God lay equal obligation upon all, whether church members and workers, or not? If all would do what some faithful workers are doing, wouldn't that be a spectacle, strengthening the power of the church in the community?"

"The reason why there is so little interest, with some, in their brother's welfare, is because they are living so far from their Father."

PITY THE CHILDREN FED ON GHOST CEREALS.

Feed your children upon ghost cereals—if you will, but a farmer would laugh at you if you told him to feed them to his live stock, for he would know that live stock will soon die if fed upon them exclusively. Yet your children have not half the resistance of horses and cows. Then why feed them foods that will kill horses and cows?

Ghost cereals is the name science applies to certain unsubstantial cereal foods whose chief claim for your attention is flavor and ease of serving. Now would you not rather buy real foods, especially for your children, than to buy these fancy packages which, without milk, are hardly foods at all? Certainly you would.

Well, Dr. Jackson's Roman Meal is precisely such a real food. Science proves that it is the darker, rougher parts of the grains that nourish and build sound and vital health. Roman Meal has the dark parts of three whole grains with bran, used in proportions to make a balanced human food: Beef contains 502 food units to the pound; Roman Meal contains over 1,600 food units to the pound. Prevents indigestion, positively relieves constipation. A truly wonderful food. You ought to try Roman Meal. At grocers.

It takes seven thousand five hundred of the copper and zinc coins used by the Chinese in Hong Kong to equal five dollars in value.

CHIEF DICKSON OF TORONTO

Discusses Motor Traffic Regulations and Semaphores.

In an interview in The Toronto Globe recently, Chief Dickson of Toronto, who presides in the Traffic Court, gave out the following:

Discussing traffic, the head of the Police Department pointed out the need for the installation of modern equipment for directing vehicular and pedestrian traffic. In addition to recommending the installation of automatic traffic signals, the Chief is anxious to have purchased more traffic signs.

Stop at Main Crossing.

The Police Commissioners will be urged to have a by-law passed giving the Chief Constable the authority to compel all motorists to bring their machines to a stop before crossing arterial highways. This system, the Chief stated, is being worked successfully in a number of large cities in the United States, and has helped to show a decrease in the number of accidents. If such a law could be put into effect it would entail expense of erecting signs on street corners. These signs would read, "Stop! Through Street."

Since the installation on trial of the electrically operated traffic semaphores at the intersection of Bloor and Young Streets, Chief Dickson has found the pedestrians are being educated to their purpose, and are not running across the street and dodging cars. The reason these signs were erected 14 feet above the sidewalks, the Chief said, was to comply with the law, which requires them to be that distance above the street. Bells could not be used on these signals, as storekeepers object to the continual noise. When motorists become more familiar with these signals, and they are placed in different areas, the Chief Constable thinks they will meet with general approval. As yet he has received no comment on them from the Motor League.

Numerous protests are being received daily by Chief Dickson and Deputy Chief R. J. Beatty from downtown merchants against cars being parked in front of their places of business. Several storekeepers complained that express companies had refused to make deliveries on account of their trucks and waggons not being able to reach the front of the place of destination. Downtown parking is a serious problem. The only solution Chief Dickson can offer is for the erection of large garages where cars could be parked at a nominal fee.

MASSEY HOMESTEAD IS NEAR COBOURG

Late Hart Massey Was Born in House Still Standing.

COBOURG, Sept. 23.—The campaign of Hon. C. Vincent Massey, Minister without Portfolio in the King Cabinet, will be of particular interest to residents of Northumberland County. At a place known as "The Gully," on the Base line, about seven miles east of Cobourg, stands a large frame house that was for many years the Massey homestead. It was occupied by the late Jonathan Massey and his family of sons and daughters, of whom the late Hart Massey, founder of the great agricultural industry, was one. After some years Mr. Hart Massey left this locality and moved to Newcastle, and afterwards to Toronto, where his death occurred. It is fitting that his grandson in entering upon political life should stage his contest in one of the constituencies where the old family home is situated.

ANNUAL REPORT SHOWS WORK OF COLONIZATION

No Longer is Free Land the Attraction Government Holds Out.

SOME OBSTACLES

Work of Department is Carried on on Strictly Selective Basis.

Changes which have occurred in matters affecting immigration summarized in the Annual Report of the Department as follows:

Many in Canada look back to the decade before the war, when in one fiscal year the influx exceeded 400,000 souls ,and wonder why that high tide is not again reached. That Canada needs population is evident, but it is equally evident that mere numbers without regard to fitness or opportunities for settlement, are not the solution. In the pre-war years there were at least four contributing causes to a high tide of immigration which do not at present exist. Some of these can never return and others will come but slowly, if at all; these, briefly, are:

(a) We had in Western Canada vast areas of free land offered to all, on the simplest of settlement conditions. While free lands are still available ,they are limited in extent and at present somewhat difficult of access, as compared with the years when two great railway systems were pushing construction in every direction. Twenty years ago "160 ACRES FREE" was a trade mark, but this slogan no longer properly represents conditions. Farm lands in Canada can undoubtedly be bought at lower prices and under more favorable conditions than elsewhere, but there is a material difference to a settler with small capital, whether he get "160 ACRES FREE" with a paternal Government protecting his title while he fulfills his homestead duties or whether he must invest even the modest sum of $10 per acre for his holding.

(b) Demands for labour arising from railway construction were constant. Many who arrived in Canada with little beyond a ticket to destination,a pair of strong hands and a stout heart, and who spent part of the first two or three years in railway construction camps, are now comfortably farming on free homesteads. In former days men could be placed in bulk but the present day effort to fit the individual worker into the individual job and with the employer he will suit is a vastly different affair.

(c)Transportation was cheap. The amount involved in transfer from Warsaw to Winnipeg fifteen years ago would not at present pay for the poorest berth in the oldest passenger ship on the Atlantic. True it is that third-class or "steerage" accommodation has greatly improved and that the new comer travels in greater comfort; in fact so great is the improvement that on the modern passenger liner of today, the third class passenger travels in accomodation equal in many respects to the second cabin accommodation of other years and the term "steerage" has properly disappeared. But the inevitable result is that the higher cost of travel creates difficulty in finding the funds.

(d) Money had some stability in the years prior to the Great War and could be exchanged, without much loss in the transfer from Europe to Canada. An illustration of existing conditions is furnished by story of a recent colony movement from the borders of the old Russian Empire to the interior of British Columbia. The money belonging to these colonists shrank from fifty dollars to fifty cents in the process of exchange. This condition will undoubtedly improve with the passing years, but in the meantime it retards settlement in Canada, as no new enterprise can be undertaken & no existing business can be developed without some capital.

Combined with the foregoing general conditions is the fact that an excess of population over industrial requirements existed in many of the Urban centres of Canada. It became apparent that Urban development of the Dominion had outrun the rural and agricultural development and that the energies of the Department of Immigration and Colonization should be exercised toward restoring a proper balance. For this reason the Department concentrates its efforts upon securing farmers and farm labourers—the latter being the stock from which future farm owner may most readily be developed. Attention is also given to the immigration of juveniles as these are readily absorbed into the population, and to obtaining a sufficient supply of female and domestic labor to meet requirements of both city and country.

Selective Basis.

The work of the Department is therefore now carried on on a strictly selective basis. Such a policy of selection, restricted mainly to farmers and farm labourers, and combined with the fact that the farm settler now must have available cash or credit with which to acquire a farm in Canada, cannot be expected to produce immigration in the great numbers that existed during the period of the distribution of free lands, and the work of the Department must now in fairness be measured on a basis of quality rather than quantity.

In this search for quality, the Department has turned mainly to Great Britain and Ireland, the Irish Free State, the United States of America and in lesser degree to some of the countries of Northern Europe. Emigration of actual farm families from Great Britain is being effected under an arrangement entered into with the British Government by which such families, selected by the Canadian officers, are assisted financially by the British Government in establishing themselves in Canada. The present year has seen the first movement to Canada under this scheme. Up to September, 1925, some 470 selected families representing 2,800 souls, had been actually located on the farms in this Dominion.

Active emigration propaganda is not generally encouraged, or even permitted, by the countries of Northern Europe, but the attractions which Canada has to offer are drawing a steady and important stream of Scandinavians and some other European nationalities.

STORM INJURED STANDING CORN

Many Farmers Will Revert to Sickle—Busy Season.

BLACK BEAR AGAIN.

BURNBRAE, Sept. 21.—Burnbrae was visited by one of the worst storms of the season during the early hours of Friday morning. While no damage from lightning is reported in the immediate neighbourhood, the violent wind and rain storm did untold damage to the corn crop. Very few farmers had begun cutting corn, most of them intending to start this week. Probably 40 per cent. of the corn in this district will be cut now with the old-fashioned sickle. Silo-filling is getting under way and the busy season is once more upon the neck of the average farmer, with corn-cutting, threshing and fall plowing all coming at once.

The Burnbrae Unionist W.M.S. met at the home of Mrs. John Rannie on Thursday evening, with a good crowd in attendance. A dainty lunch of fresh fruit was served at the close of the meeting.

Local schools carried off a fair share of honours at the school fair on Friday last. S.S. No. 1 secured first prize for physical drill.

Our recent visitor, the black bear, is still in the neighbourhood, judging from reports by some farmers who have seen his tracks lately.

MOUTH ORGAN BAND IN PHILADELPHIA

In Recent Harmonica Contest More Than 40,000 Boys Took Part.

Canadian boys can well afford to follow the lead of their American cousins in Philadelphia and other centres—at least, as far as harmonica playing is concerned.

The boys of Philadelphia have a Harmonica Band, which has done much to stimulate the desire to play the mouth organ. During the "Annual Week of Boys' Activities" held in that city recently a harmonica contest, in which 40,000 boys participated, was held. So delighted was the mayor of the city with the contest that he stated: "I am very pleased at this display of talent. I am proud of our boys, and what is more, i am deeply interested in the Harmonica Band because I was a left-handed harmonica player myself when I was a boy. In those days we did not get any bouquets when we played a harmonica on the street corner, but we were generally chased by some policeman."

In a talk on the same occasion the leader of this unique boys' band explained that there are now more than 40,000 young harmonica enthusiasts in Philadelphia. He said he believed that any boy could learn to make music and like music if given an opportunity to express himself musically. He said the interest taken by boys all over the country in the organization of harmonica bands proved that the youngsters could be made to appreciate music if properly trained. The idea is to train the boys first in mastery of simple music on the harmonica and then to lead them on to the more serious work gradually, he stated.

It is interesting to note in this connection that mouth organ bands in Canada are now beginning to take shape. Within the next year it is expected that nearly every public school in Toronto will have its mouth organ band and it is not beyond the realm of possibility that mouth organ bands will soon spread to church and industrial life as well as to educational institutions.

NEAR ACCIDENT WHEN FAMILY COMES HOME

Cars Crash on Highway—Rain Causes Serious Loss to Stoked Grain.

DOWNEYVILLE, - Sept. 21.—Mr. Jos. M. Lucas, with his family, while returning from town met with what might have been a serious accident. While nearing his own gate, his car was struck by a car of young men from Lindsay. One wheel and tire of Mr. Lucas' car was badly damaged, but the occupants escaped unhurt. There is considerable reckless driving on this road since it was improved.

Mr. Patrick Meehan, of Battle Creek, Mich., is at present on a visit with friends and relatives here also in the interest of his farm which he is anxious to idspose of but just at present there is not much demand for land as the boys feel inclined for town or city life.

Mr. Eugene Downey left on Monday for Detroit, Mich., where he intends to remain.

Miss Kathleen Lucas, R.N., of Rochester, N.Y., and sister, Genevieve, of Toronto, are at present the guests of their parents, Mr. and Mrs. Chas. H. Lucas, here.

The continued wet weather has delayed harvesting in this district. Many were waiting to thresh alsike before putting in their oats and now there are fields of stooks out. The bad weather is continuing so long the grain is growing out. There will be a big loss, as the grain will be soft and not so good.

Facts About Your Gas Meter

Any Gas Meter is much like a pint or quart measure for water or flour.

When the covers are off, you can see two leather pockets—or bellows. Those bellows draw in the gas from the street mains and discharge it into your house piping.

Attached to the bellows are some simple little cog wheels which move the hands on the clock-like face of the meter dial as the gas passes through. Your meter actually measures the gas by taking it in and pouring it out. It cannot register the same gas twice. And, when your burner cocks are all closed, it cannot move unless there is a leak in the piping inside your house.

Gas Meters are not made by the companies that supply gas to the homes. They are manufactured by well-known firms, of high reputation, who specialize on the building of mechanical devices that are as accurate as human skill can make them.

A Gas Meter may get out of order and need fixing—just like your watch. An old watch is more apt to run too slow than too fast. This is also true of a Gas Meter or of any other device made of iron or copper or leather that will wear out in time.

Close all your burners once in awhile and watch the small test dial at the top of the meter. If the hand moves, your pipes or appliances are leaking. Call the Gas Department at once. Gas leaks are dangerous. If there are no house leaks, but you still think the meter is not working right, report the trouble to our Service Department for prompt investigation.

A PEEK INTO THE CUP OF LIFE

By Juanita Hamel

On her tiptoes every second—breathless, expectant, thrilled with the glimpse she has had of Life. It's all so wonderful to her, and she's so eager to know what's before her. And so she peers into the cup of life, expecting to see what she will look like, she sees instead—LOVE! She's startled, of course, for while she has always known that Love would some day come to her, she really hadn't expected him so soon. But there he is—and there's no denying him. Take him, little lady, now that he's come to you, for if you send him away, you may lose him forever. And that would never, never do, for he's the most precious thing in life.

SECRETS OF CHARM

— By Lucrezia Bori —

FOR A GOOD COMPLEXION.

By Lucrezia Bori

A famous beauty specialist assures us that fifteen minutes a day spent in the beauty care of the face will insure us a pretty complexion.

Now you may be one of these pessimistic souls who has despaired of owning a really pretty complexion. If you are, take heart, for I know that you can make your complexion better looking than it is if you resolve to do so. And, after all, perseverance is a truly wonderful thing.

There are a few women who are blessed with such gifts as lovely complexions, apparently with no effort of their own. They have smooth skins and they have these priceless possessions without trying for them at all. You may not get yours so easily, but where there's a weill there's a way.

Perhaps you've always used soap and water and boasted that you did not believe in beauty creams. This may have worked well for years—but examine your face carefully in a good light. Do you find any fine wrinkles that might not be there if you used a good cream to smooth them away?

Beauty specialists differ in their opinions on the use of soap. Some of them warn us away from it as if it were the rankest poison. Others say that the face cannot be kept truly clean without both soap and cleansing creams.

Personally, I am a strong believer in the efficacy of cleansing cream. Perhaps you insist upon your soap and water face bath in the mornings. Even if you do, try my way, and spend part of your fifteen minutes at night in using a good cleansing cream on your face. It should be a light, smooth one that dissolves into your skin easily. You should leave it there long enough to feel that it has soaked in thoroughly and then wipe off with a soft bit of old linen.

Consult your druggist or make a cream from the many formulas I give you, but, above all be persistent in your use of it.

Another thing, try a skin food. After you have cleansed your face with the cream, apply your skin food lightly to the parts of your face that show the fine lines. You need not do this every night. About twice a week should be sufficient.

The use of ice, wrapped in a bit of fine cheesecloth, and rubbed over your face briskly for a few minutes is also an excellent way to tone sagging muscles.

Spend your allotted fifteen minutes a day and see what beauty results you can accomplish.

Amber makes a beautiful color for evening wear, especially when the order is interpreted in such a lovely fabric as velvet.

With this frock are worn amber velvet slippers, and a string of amber beads.

HEDDA HOYT TALKS ABOUT THINGS THAT INTEREST THE BUSY WOMAN OF 1925

Fur-Trimmed Coats

NEW YORK, Sept. 23.—(United Press).—The cloth coat that is fur-trimmed will be quite as popular this fall as the fur coat. Because of the cold northern climate the cloth coat has never been considered as highly as the fur wrap, but cloth luxuriously trimmed in fur or lined in fur will be very popular this year, due to the fact that women are demanding something other than the fur coat.

Many gorgeous new models combining cloth and fur are appearing at this early date. The fur is used on collar, cuffs, about the low-flared hemline and on Tuxedo lapels which extend to the hem. When fur is used as a border to the hem flare it is manipulated in various ways. For instance, the entire flare may be trimmed in a wide band of beaver or squirrel; mole or leopard may extend in points to the hipline, or narrow borders of long-haired fur such as fox may be used. On straight-lined coats of wrap-about variety, long Tuxedo lapels of fox are often used. In one case the lapels extend to the hem and there turn outwards where they end in heads of the animal. Here, red fox was used on tan Bolivia cloth.

Many of the smartest coats of the coming season are made of cloth lined in soft fur, such as chipmunk or baby leopard. Collar and cuffs carry out the fur idea.

Among the prominent furs that will be used to trim the cloth coat or ensemble are beaver, grey-dyed fitch, squirrel, seal, fox, mink, Persian lamb and the Parisian favorite—gazelle. Coat materials are usually smooth surfaced rather than ribbed. Kashmirella cloth, a material resembling velour, velvet, Bolivia, heavy broadcloth and smooth surfaced woollens are among the favorite materials. Colors run to Burgundies, soft greens, brown, tans, navy and black.

ADVICE TO GIRLS

By Annie Laurie

DEAR ANNIE LAURIE:

I am slightly acquainted with a nice young man. He lives on the same street and we speak when we meet. I don't know many boys. Would it be proper to ask this boy to call on me?

WOULD-BE HOSTESS.

WOULD-BE HOSTESS: I think it would be quite proper for you to do so, if he is a nice young man. If you find it a little difficult, why not ask a girl friend to come and see you some evening and bring an escort, and then invite the young man to make up the party. However, it would be quite all right to invite him alone. If you know of anything that he is interested in you might cultivate an interest in it, too, and then talk about your mutual hobby when he comes. Or you might say you want to ask his advice about something. I flatters a man to know that a lady thinks he is worth consulting. As to the nature of the advice, almost anything will do. The advisability of taking a winter course in shorthand, or the best type of perennial to sow in your flower-bed, or, if he is of a serious and religious turn of mind, ask him just what you will do to make some little boy you know stop telling lies. See the idea? Get him interested in something you are interested in, and there you are.

TEX. NOT SATISFIED WITH WELTER BOUT

Indecisiveness of Walker's Victory Over Slade Prompts Return Match.

NEW YORK, Sept. 22 (Canadian Press).—Negotiations for a return match between Mickey Walker, world's welterweight champion, and Dave Shade, of California, were opened yesterday by Tex Rickard, Madison Square Garden promoter. The indecisiveness of Walker's victory over Shade in a 15-round title clash at the Yankee Stadium last night, the promoter said, prompted him to start dickering for a return match.

Official figures of last night's show reveal that a crowd of 32,000 paid $185,156 to see the fight. With the state and federal taxes subtracted, Rickard emerged with a net gate of $159,906.80.

Of this, Walker is understood to have received a flat guarantee of $100,000, with Shade getting a 12 1-2 per cent cut.

AILEEN GUY WON FUTURITY EVENT

Four Hotly Contested Heats Before the Winner Showed.

3 YEAR OLD TROT.

COLUMBUS, Ohio, Sept. 23. — (Canadian Press).—The Horse Review, $6,000 Futurity, for 3-year-old trotters, the feature of yesterday's Grand Circuit, proved one of the best colt races of the year, and was won by Aileen Guy, driven by Ben White, only after four stubborn heats had been raced.

The favored Aileen Guy won the first heat handily. In the second she was outfooted home by Guy Ozark. The third heat went to Sam Williams, in the fastest time of the race, although the Cox entry got away a poor last. The third heat winners turned for the money in the fourth heat. The time was slow for more than half of the mile, but in winning, Aileen Guy was compelled to trot the final quarter in 28¼ seconds.

The favored Hollyrood Leonard won the first two heats of the Capital City 2.04 trotting stake.

Crawford won the M. and M. stake for 2.13 trotters in straight heats.

Tom Dennison, winner of seven straight races over Ohio half-mile tracks, won the 2.15 trot.

HAGEN IN RUNNING SURVIVING WATROUS

No Startling Upsets—Sarazen Picked to Beat Burke.

CHICAGO, Sept. 23.—(Canadian Press). — Walter Hagen, of Pasadena, Cal., managed to remain in the contest for his title of professional golf champion at Olympia Fields Country Club yesterday, but it took him 39 holes to overcome Al Watrous, of Grand Rapids, medalist of the tournament. The former British champion had to score par 70 on the fourth course in the afternoon, and lay his opponent a stymie on the third extra hole to survive.

There were no startling upsets in the matches yesterday, although many had picked Gene Sarazen, metropolitan champion, to defeat Jack Burke, after they had tied for third place at 146 in the qualifying round. The former open champion was off his game at the start, taking 41 for the first nine and 78 for the Number 3 course to Burke's 72. The Texan was only two above par on the first nine of No. 4, and with his morning lead of six up, soon eliminated Sarazen, 8 and 7.

Mike Brady, of New York, had the easiest match of the day, gaining a lead of 8 up in the forenoon when he scored par 70 on No. 3 links and soon disposed of Joe Collins, of Muncie, Ind., 10 and 9.

QUEEN'S CHAMPS MEET MONTREAL IN TEST BATTLE

Coach Bill Hughes to Find Opposition in Eastern Outfit.

SHAUGHNESSY SMILES.

All Collegiate Crews Strong in First String Substitutes.

MONTREAL, Sept. 23 (Canadian Press).—Joe O'Brien, Intercollegiate referee, and Tim Murray, big four official, will handle the exhibition Rugby game between the champion Queen's University squad and the Montreal Interprovincial team at the M.A.A.A. Ground, Saturday afternoon.

Montreal team officers are leaving no stone unturned to have the local squad whipped into shape for the contest with the squad Coach Bill Hughes will pit against them.

Coach Nicholson today drilled his players in defensive football, though he still devoted considerable time to his offensive system, the details of which the Wheelers are beginning to master so that they go through their plays with something like smooth order.

Queen's are conceded as strong as last year, but this season are expected to run into more severe opposition than they have met since the first year they won dominion honors. In the Intercollegiate, McGill is expected to give them two close battles, as the Red and White should be stronger than last season, when they fought Queen's to the last in two league fixtures, though beaten in both contests.

McGill's strength this year as compared with last Fall, lies in the greater number of first string substitutes.

Coach Frank Shaughnessy had a broad smile today as he surveyed his first and second squads in action.

Ralph St. Germain, of the Rideaus, Ottawa, after drawing equipment Monday, got his first real baptism of training this afternoon. He was set at punting for the early part of the training period and was sending 60 and 70 yard spirals with consistency.

While it is over three weeks before McGill will open her campaign here against Queen's, the first string squad is beginning to take definite shape with the following the likely order at this stage, though with others battling right along for the coveted berths: Flying wing, Gordon; Halves: Hanna, Cameron and St. Germain; Quarter: Mickles; Snap: Sullivan; Insides: Boucher and Woodruff; Middles, Walsh and Manson; Outsides: Philpott and Millen. Those ready at a moment to work into the squad include on the backfield, Murphy, Blair, Gorrie, Jerry Ahmas and Roberts, and on the line, Spears, Pugh, Vineberg, Gordie Hughes, and "Porky" Wright, all seasoned players, while there is half a dozen others, newcomers and men from last year's intermediate team, who have excellent chances of fitting into the first team picture.

BURNBRAE FLAYS ENGLISH LINEMEN IN FINALS GAME

Home Squad Bunched Hits in Four Frames to Score.

AT SCHOOL FAIR.

Both Pitchers Turned in Good Cards—Hitting Frequent.

BURNBRAE, Sept. 21.—On Friday afternoon at the Fair Grounds, English Line and Burnbrae met in the first game of the Seymour Baseball League finals. Burnbrae literally swamped the Line's usually snappy young team, winning by a score of 19 to 2. Both Ibey and Eagleson pitched good ball, the former having the edge in strike-outs, but the Burnbrae boys pounded him consistently, and when his infield would land the score mounted fast. The line team was unable to hit Eagleson often and he kept their hits well scattered. E. Godden and Tom Little each had triples but the bases were empty in both cases. Little lost a run when he tried to stretch his hit into a homer a fast relay, Rannie to Craighead to Hume, catching him ten feet from the plate. Such sure batters as Maybee and Daniel failed to reach first base Tom Little was the only man on the team who was able to hit Eagleson's offerings consistently. The Burnbrae boys bunched their hits in four frames to score all their runs. The first inning saw the Burnbrae leaders retire in order, while Eagleson made an auspicious start by striking out the first three batters. Burnbrae opened up in the second and with a few good hits added by Line errors and passed balls succeeded in scoring 6 counters. They added five in the fifth, Shillinglaw driving in two of these with a triple to centre. Three more counted in the sixth and three were added in the ninth for good measure. Hume and Craighead were the heavy hitters for Burnbrae, and each scored three runs.

Due to the holding of the rural school fair during the afternoon, a large crowd was on hand to witness the game. The crowd swarmed over the foul lines and encroached on the playing field to such an extent that the services of Chief Brown were required to keep order.

Line Up.

English Line—Maybee 1b., Ibey p., Daniel 3b., Earl Godden r.f., Craighead C. and ss., Tom Little c.f., De Carrol 3., Alex. Little 2b., Ken Godden ss. and l.f.

INSIDE GOLF.

Maker of 51 Golf Champions. "Golf's most successful teacher," says "Chick" Evans

By CHESTER HORTON

Here is a golfer who, using a square stance, sliced every ball he hit. He has a rapid back swing. He now places his left Mo places his left foot forward about five inches, using the closed stance, and he hits a straight tee shot of about 200 yards consistently, and is well satisfied. What is wrong with this player? Another case, plainly, of adopting a second error to cure a first one. His 200 yards tee shots are 25 to 50 yards short of what they should be if he would go back to his square stance and take up the fundamental of rhythm. This player's slices did not result from his square stance, which was correct. They came from that quick back swing, which lacked rhythm. Start the club slowly from the ball, then let it take its natural course in the back swing. Give it time to turn. Let it start forward naturally—give it time. Then snap it through the ball with the hands. Hit ownd

MUCH OF INTEREST TO WOMEN WAS SHOWN AT C. N. EXHIBITION

Speakers From Provinces Told Interesting Facts About Produce.

BIG PROGRAMME

Competitions in Cooking and Other Household Subjects.

TORONTO, Sept. 23 (Canadian Press).—Little Miss 1902 with her hair down to her shoulders in pigtail braids, ready to go to the Exhibition would prove an interesting exhibit if there were time to look at her, and time to stop to learn her wondering comments on 1925's magnificence. But the Bobette has so much else to see that Pig-tail herself might pass unnoticed. And for Bobette's mother, what a programme! She could watch, for instance, if she liked, the various branches of Ontario's Junior Institutes in a cooking competition. Dinner for four must be cooked in an hour, at a table cost of $1.50. She could marvel at a blind girl's nimble fingers trimming out aprons perfect in every detail.

Then babies! Dr. Helen MacMurchy on the subject would be worth hearing, about the quarter of a million babies that are born every year in Canada; or Mrs. Meek of Alton telling of what had been done in Peel County in the way of baby clinics and establishment of a Victorian Order Service in the community. "Do you know that the very best baby at Wembley was John Duncan MacDonald of Calgary, Alberta?" asked Nellie McClung when she gave her popular and racy talks. She said she never liked to have her theories disturbed and for that reason she never spoke on certain subjects. "How to bring up children" was one of them, and she said she had five good reasons for not speaking on such a subject—four boys and a girl.

Speaking of the many labor-saving devices, Mrs. McClung said the dream of her life was to send the dirty dishes all away and have them come back clean, and she had seen the realization of this in a big restaurant when she saw an electric dishwasher at work. "But if the women of today are not using their spare time for the good of humanity then it were better that they went back 25 years again to hard work," she said. Women had time now to read and become informed on the current events of the day, and Mrs. McClung urged the institute leaders to see that their branches had a current events section on their programmes. "Let us rejoice that the days have come when we are freed from this work in order that we can serve in a good cause. But do not let us make the chief end and aim of our existence golfing or bridging or tea-ing or make such amusements a career, she continued, although confessing to enjoying a good game of golf herself. She also hoped that no woman in her audience would become what she called "a lie-abed, kimona-and-boudoir-cap clad can-opener."

In the exhibits sent by the provinces, Mrs. McLaughlin of British Columbia held the interests of her hearers with the thrilling story of what the Pacific province is doing for tubercular children with a wonderful hospital at Malahat Beach. Here the sun treatment is being proved of inestimable value.

Mrs. Stewart from Peace River told a most convincing tale of the wealth of Alberta, proving that the Alberta pantry need never be empty as it can be filled from the products grown right there.

Quebec's booth was simply sweet. Its maple sugar and maple syrup stopped the passers-by, while Miss Jarvis' story of the methods so up-to-date used in producing that great asset of Quebec was a perfect word picture.

New Brunswick with it rag rugs and beautiful old furniture, was a picture that stopped all lovers of the beautiful. Textiles, the framing and hanging of pictures, and weaving were some of the interesting topics that Miss Wetmore, the Maritime representative, talked about to those who clustered around her booth.

For Manitoba two girls' teams from the Junior branches—the boys' and girls' clubs and these six clubs, each under their own leader, were making most interesting demonstrations, and giving snappy talks each day on the subjects of "tomatoes" and "eggs."

In the model kitchen (Ontario), Mrs. H. S. Aitken kept her audiences enthralled with a cooking demonstration of a bride's first tea, given for her mother-in-law, and other household talks.

One of the happiest events on the women's programme at the Exhibition was the delightful luncheon given by Mrs. Henry Aitken of Beeton, Ont., on the roof garden of the Women's Building to the Women's Institutes' representatives from all over Canada, with a few other guests. It was 'a veritable map of Canada," says a reporter.

"It was a merry sight to see. Manitoba cracked jokes at Alberta, and Ontario chatted with British Columbia, and all felt so much more kin when they rose from the table. It was one to make city folk green. For Mrs. Aitken had brought all the delicacies from her farm home, and they ranged from her canned chicken and bread to August strawberries from her garden."

The idea of having a speaker each afternoon has been a new departure in the Three Arts Room this year.

"The Call of the Hen and the Song of the Typewriter," was on the Exhibition programme. This was a talk by Mrs. J. Dowswell of Lynedoch, who runs a turkey farm in the morning and a business college for farmers' daughters in the afternoons. "Fat, fair and 40? Oh no, we diet" formed a topic in which the principles of correct eating were outlined by Miss E. Nichol, a well-known Toronto dietician.

Mrs. W. Wiley, Vineland, who has combined the occupations of raising Pomeranian dogs and taking in tourists, lectured on "Poms and Tourists," explaining why she finds boarding the dogs easier than running a hotel for travellers.

LESS MIGRATION FROM GT. BRITAIN

Younger Folks Going Out, Older Ones Returning to Home Land.

DETAILED REPORT.

LONDON, Eng., Sept. 23.—(Canadian Press Despatch).—According to official figures, there was a remarkable drop in the number of emigrants last year ,the total being 145,906 against 240,911 in the previous twelve months. The largest decrease occurred among male adults of eighteen years and upwards, the number of these emigrants being 68,981 against 130,188 in the previous year. By far the largest groups are those of the young men who left the country to take up agriculture and the young women who went into domestic service. Nearly 19,000 men emigrated for farm work, and about the same number of women entered service abroad in households, hotels, etc. Commerce and finance absorbed 9,438 men and 3,079 women; 7,742 men were workers in the engineering or metal industries, 3,761 professional men, and 2,774 miners and quarrymen.

The women described as "wives or housewives" numbered 29,537. The relative percentages of emigrants in relation to occupations show a steady increase in the proportion of agricultural workers among men and domestic servants among women.

As against this exodus there has to be set 53,000 persons who came into the country during the same period. These included 4,639 commercial workers, 4,118 engineers, etc., 4,649 farm workers, 3,590 women domestic, and 13,286 housewives.

These figures showed a considerable increase upon the two previous years, but on the balance there was a net loss of population last year by emigration of 41,509 males and 37,512 females of 18 years and over. It is the younger men and women who are going out and the older ones who are coming home. Whereas more than half the emigrants were under thirty years of age two-thirds of those returning exceeded that age.

Of the immigrants 13,000 came from British North America, 10,000 from the United States, 6,8000 from Australia, and over 5,000 from South Africa.

DOLE SYSTEM OFTEN ABUSED

Unemployed Cannot be Made Work While Abuses Are Tolerated.

AN EXAMPLE

MONTREAL, Que., Sept. 23.—(By Canadian Press).—Capt. Aitham naavl correspondent of The Morning Post, interviewed here as member of a party of Englishman enquiring into emigration problems, said of the Dole System in the Old Country, that there were many ways of abusing. While such abuses were tolerated, it was not possible to improve the state of affairs in the country and get the unemployed to endeavor to find work. One example of abuse which he gave was the case of women who married. When leaving their employment to get married they simply signed off as going out of employment and, of course drew the dole while keeping house.

VOICE OF THE PEOPLE.

THANKS METROPOLITAN.

Dear Sir,—

May I be permitted to show my appreciation to The Metropolitan Insurance Co. and Nurse Simons, for their services rendered my son Beverely at the Exhibition grounds during the Fair.

The placing of a tent with two cots for the use of any person taken sick on the grounds shows that a human interest and no little fore-thought was taken by this company, and in my opinion is something that should be encouraged at future Fairs in our city.

Yours truly,
W. H. HOWARD.

"Mr. Young with his characteristic ability played the double parts of Silas Willoby, an old secretary, and the determined Police Inspector Ryan, who is bent on solving the mystery.

"Mr. Redway, as Sam Morgan, was exceptionally good, and kept the audience in roars of laughter.

"Miss Young as 'Marion Blackwell' Mr. Ball as 'Douglas Blackwell,' Mr. Stauffer as 'Aunt Judy,' gave strong support. Mr. MacMillan as 'Officer Holden,' had little to do, but did it well.

"The specialties as usual were excellent, with some changes in the acts.

"As an extra specialty Mr. Wilmot Young recited 'Lasca' and as an encore 'The Charge of the Light Brigade.'

"There was also an uproarious one act farce to complete a memorable programme.

"The Wilmot-Young Company are becoming more popular the longer they stay."

"LOVE HOUR" CLOSES TO-NIGHT

One of the best comedy-dramas seen locally in some time closes its engagement at the Royal tonight. Patrons claim it has more laughs than "Charley's Aunt."

HOXIE'S PICTURE ROYAL'S NEXT

Clever fists, a quick familiarity with a six-gun and an ability to ride served a young man, Jack Hoxie, well in the dangers he was to encounter, and the result that he strove for was obtained in a dramatic manner in his latest Universal Western, "A Roaring Adventure," coming to the Royal Theatre Thursday.

Hoxie is supported by a cast that includes Mary McAllister, Marin Sais, J. Gordon Russell, Francis Ford, Jack Pratt and little Margaret Smith. The picture was directed by Clifford Smith, director of all the recent Hoxie pictures and the Hoxie unit of Universal Ranch Riders lend colorful action to the story.

Some beautiful natural background was obtained in the Sierra Nevada Mountains where the exteriors were filmed. This country was made famous by two of America's greatest literary artists, Mark Twain and Bret Harte.

FRANCOIS' WONDER SHOW AT ROYAL, THURSDAY, FRIDAY AND SATURDAY, BOTH MATINEES AND EVENINGS

Francois, the Mental Marvel, famous for his blindfold drives, brings his company of novelty artists to the Royal for Thursday, Friday and Saturday of this week.

The programme consists of Five Different Acts of Mind-Reading-Hypnotism, Singing, Scotch Comedy and Resista, the Girl no one can lift.

The entire performance will be given both matinee and evening.

AT THE CAPITOL

TEARLE STARS WITH BARBARA LA MARR

Supported by Notable Cast in "The Heart of a Siren."

Another musical comedy favorite has forsaken the footlights for the screen. He is Clifton Webb who, until recently, was one of Broadway's most popular comedians.

Webb has an important role in "The Heart of a Siren," in which Barbara La Marr and Conway Tearle are co-featured. First National will present the picture at the Capitol Theatre tomorrow.

Prior to his entry into motion pictures, Webb appeared in support of Ina Claire in "Polly With a Past," Francine Larrimore in "Parasites" and in other stage plays, both on Broadway and in London and Paris.

His initial picture experience was with Richard Barthelmess in "New Boys."

"The Heart of a Siren" is an adaptation from the stage success "Hail and Farewell," in which Florence Reed starred. It was produced by Sawyer-Lubin under direction of Phil Rosen.

Lambkin, eight years old adopted daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George Lambkin of Owen Sound, died in the General and Marine Hospital this morning from burns she received yesterday. The child attempted to light the kitchen fire and the flames caught her light nightgown and she was terribly burned about the face and head.

Shortly after noon to-day W. H. Merrill brought in to the Examiner office something new in the way of corn. This was a stalk of early Rochester corn, about seven feet high, and bearing nine well formed cobs—an extraordinary number, in view of the fact that three is the number of cobs on the average stalk of corn.

This specimen was grown in a field owned by Michael Butler, in North Monaghan, and was brought into Peterborough this morning.

Conflicting Price Movement On New York Stock Market

NEW YORK, Septemb 23. —Conflicting price movements marked trading in the stock market to-day, with only the railroad shades displaying a consistent upward trend.

Indications that August earnings would be uniformly favorable stimulated the buying of carrier stocks, many of which advanced 1 to 3 points and maintained most of their gains despite the intermittent profit taking. Selling pressure was frequently encountered elsewhere in list although selected buying took place in the tobacco, public utility and mercantile issues. Equipment, oil, independent steels and high priced motor issues and such representative industrials as American Can were freely pressed for sale, although the trading showed a tendency to turn dull as the prices were forced down. A slight easing of the call money rate failed to have much effect on the trading.

Wheat. Corn and Oats All Dropped In Price

CHICAGO, Ills., Sept. 23 (Canadian Press).—Active selling on the part of houses with north-western connections turned wheat values downward early today. There was also considerable selling ascribed to European sources. The aggregate wheat production of twenty European countries was reported as 1,282,000,000 bushels against 1,015,000,000 bushels last year, and 1,296,000,000, the pre-war average. Opening prices 1-4 to 3-4 cents lower. December 149 1-2 to 149 3-4 and May 152 3-4 to 153 were followed by a drop to 148 1-4 for December and 151 5-8 for May.

Corn and oats fell to new low price records for the season. Liquidating sales of September delivery of corn were largely responsible. Demand came only from previous sellers, who were in a position to collect profit. After opening at 1-4 to 1 1-2 cent down, December 80 3-8 to 80 1-2; the corn market descended to 79 3-4 December. Oats started unchanged to 1,8c off; December 40 34. Later all months showed material setback.

Toronto Market Opens Weak But Strengthens Later On

TORONTO, Sept. 23 (Canadian Press).—After a weak opening the price trend firmed slightly on the Toronto Stock Exchange this morning, and though the trading on the whole was lighter, a wide list was dealt in. The feature of the session was the reaction in Mackay issues, the preferred in heavy dealing dropping 2 1-8 to 74 1-2 and the common 2 points at 140. Barcelona and Brazilian were also weak, dropping respectively a quarter and a half and Canada Bread eased a quarter. Steamships Preferred advanced 1 1-4 at 53 1-2 and British Columbia Fishing, after selling up to 49 1-4 closed the morning at 48 5-8, a net advance of five-eights. C.P.R. also strengthened a further point, and Dominion Bank sold up three quarters.

Steady Trading In Mines With Some Big Changes

TORONTO, Sept. 23.—(Canadian Press).—Trading on the Standard Mining Exchange was steady this morning with transactions totalling 146,010. Columbus Kirk, under heavy sales, sold fractionally higher at 4½, while Argonaut declined fractionally to 25 1-4. Dome Mines dropped thirty cents to 15.00, and Lake Shore was 15 points higher at 6.99. Keeley was weak, dropping seven points to 158, with Teck Hughes and Castle Trethewey also declining one point each to 186 and 115 respectively. Mining Corporation advanced two points to 294 and Capitol 1½ points to 30.

SAFETY DEVICE FOR AIRPLANES

Prevents Tail Spin and Destruction When Plane Stalls.

DECREASED DEATHS.

GARDEN CITY, N.Y., Sept. —(United Press).—An airplane device which army officials believe will aid in decreasing accidental deaths among student flyers because of its prevention of stalling in a machine, was demonstrated here yesterday. Captain C. B. D. Collier, of the Sky-writing Corporation, which perfected the device, flew over the field several times, cutting off the motor and raising his hands above his head. The plane nosed down gracefully. Major John D. Brooks, executive officer of Mitchell Field, said the invention was a success.

Most of the deaths by accident among student flyers are caused by stalling, which invariably sends a plane into a tail spin and destruction.

HARVEST SERVICE IN ALL SAINTS' CHURCH

Rev. A. G. Emmett Will Be Special Preacher on Thursday—Former Rector on Sunday.

The annual Harvest Thanksgiving service of All Saints' Church will be held to-morrow night at 7.30. There will be a special preacher, Rev. A. G. Mr. Emmett has never before preached in Peterboro, but has obtained a reputation in other parts of the diocese as a good speaker. The music will be up to the usual high standard attained by All Saints' choir under the leadership of G. E. Chandler.

On Sunday the preacher at both services will be Rev. W. S. Major, of Montreal, a former rector of All Saints'. Mrs. Pearl MacKenzie Kennedy will sing at the services on Sunday, and also at the annual fowl supper on Monday night.

IN MEMORIAM.

In loving memory of Alfred Delong, who died Sept. 23rd, 1924:
Rapid and swift the moments glide,
One year to-day since dear father died,
He suffered here and now he is blest
With perfect peace and heavenly rest.

In thought we see his dear sweet face
And kiss his tender brow,
But in our aching heart we know
We have no father now.

We loved him yes no tongue can tell
How deep, how dearly and how well,
Christ loved him too and thought it best
To take him home with Him to rest.

E. A. Peck Given Nomination By the Conservative Party To Contest Peterboro' Seat

Won Convention Honors in Contest With Lt.-Col. C. H. Ackerman—525 Votes Polled in Enthusiastic Rally of Party Supporters Last Night.

NOMINEE MAKES GRACEFUL RE-ENTRY.

Victoria Hall Packed to See Return of ex-M.P.P. to Political Arena—Hon. Dr. Manion Advocates Higher Tariff to Improve Conditions.

Mobilizing their forces for the first Federal campaign in the new riding of Peterborough, the Conservatives last night entrusted their leadership to E. A. Peck, barrister, who won the nomination of the party's convention in Victoria Hall, from Lieutenant-Colonel Charles H. Ackerman.

Mr. Peck's majority of the 525 votes polled was not anounced. The aggregate number of ballots indicates the extent of the attendance, which was estimated at approximately 900.

Victoria Hall was packed to standing room and quite a number could not gain admittance. Veterans of the Conservative party described it as the biggest convention in their memory, and its spirit as marked by an optimism and enthusiasm that kept the crowd in their seats and along the walls until 11.05 p.m., when the Hon. Dr. R. J. Manion, of Port Arthur, form. Minister of Soldiers' Civil Re-establshment, concluded his address.

With announcement by the scrutineers of the result of the convention's choice, Col. Ackerman stepped to the front of the platform and called for cheers for Mr. Peck, in which the crowd joined with a stirring acclamation to the candidate.

V. J. McElderry, president of the local Liberal-Conservative Association, presided, with J. F. Strickland, secretary. Others around the chairman were W. H. Bradburn, M.P.P., Mrs. Howard Fallis, J. H. Burnham, Mr. Peck, Col. Ackerman, Roland Denne, Dr. J. R. Fraser of Lakefield, R. J. Soden and C. H. Williamson.

Mrs. Fallis and Mr. Denne were also proposed but both declined to present themselves for the nomination contest.

The ballots were distributed to all who wished to vote and for thirty minutes the 525 men and women filed past the ballot box.

A notable incident of the opening proceedings was J. H. Burnham's tribute to Mr. R. Denne, who was credited with the revival of the party at considerable cost in money and time and action in effecting an organization which had materially assisted in the election of W. H. Bradburn to the Legislature.

President's Address.

V. J. McElderry, President of the Liberal-Conservative Association, in throwing the meeting open for nominations, said that there were two principles before the people. One concerned itself with the debt of the country; the other with the tariff of the country. Other issues were extraneous and had nothing whatever to do with the fight. When Mr. Mackenzie King was elected Premier, the debt of the nation, largely because of the war, stood at 1 billion 500 million dollars, or $185 for every man, woman and child in the Dominion. Mr. King in 1921 was appalled at these figures. To-day, after four years of Mr. King's government, the debt stood at 2417 million—equal to $262 per head of the population.

While Great Britain and the United States had paid off millions of their war debts, and every English-speaking country had balanced budgets, Canada's debt was increasing. Mr. King had had his chance—it was now time for a change.

J. H. Burnham.

J. H. Burnham, who proposed Lt.-Col. C. H. Ackerman as candidate for the riding, said he himself had spent $20,000 in politics and would die in the poorhouse if he did not stop soon. He paid tributes to Roland Denne as the man chiefly responsible for the bringing of the Conservative Association to a high pitch of efficiency; to Mrs. Fallis, and to Col. Ackerman, who Sir Sam Hughes had declared to have killed 300 Germans from his own rifle. He twitted The Peterborough Examiner with having published an article which gave the impression that there was no likely candidate apart from Mr. Peck. As a further qualification of his nominee, Mr. Burnham declared Col. Ackerman had money to burn.

Col. Ackerman said the meeting made him feel very nervous—for Mr. Gordon, who would feel there was a conspiracy afoot to deprive him of his new honor.

They all felt this time that the King Government was about to be swept away, and the opportunity was at hand to defeat a Cabinet Minister. As for himself, he had only done what hundreds of thousands of Canadians had done, without feeling that the country should pat them on the back. If the Convention thought any one else could make a better scrap than he could, he was ready to throw every ounce of weight behind the chosen candidate.

Declined to Stand.

Roland Denne and Mrs. Fallis, who were both proposed, refused to allow their names to be put forward. Mrs. Fallis declaring that if she had any intention of contesting the constituency she would have given up on hearing what Mr. Burnham had said about the costs of elections.

Roland Denne, who said the assembled crowd made him think he was at the Peterborough Exhibition, nominated E. A. Peck.

Mr. Peck said he had but two statements to make. Mr. Burnham had alluded to the write-up in The Examiner. He had no idea when he made the statement that it would be published. The second thing he would say was that no matter who was the candidate selected by the Convention, that candidate would receive unquestioning support. Personally, he wanted to see the constituency redeemed. It did not matter much who redeemed it. The great thing was to return a man to support Mr. Arthur Meighen in the next Parliament.

Roland Denne, in declining nomination, gave a speech full of vigor and enthusiasm and called upon all the members to get behind the organization and secure the return of the chosen candidate.

Mr. Denne said he was ready at any time to organize the Conservative party. It was the only party with a policy. The Liberals were going to be licked, and licked to a frazzle. Every man and woman should come out on the polling day. He did not want to have to send a rig to get a man out to vote. Mr. Gordon had claimed that he had got the work started on the Dam. Mr. Gordon had been in 4 years and had done nothing. Mr. Denne appealed to the gathering to get behind the organization. At the conclusion of his speech someone called out "Three cheers for Rolly," which were immediately given with great goodwill.

Mrs. H. T. Fallis.

Mrs. Howard Fallis said last Fall the people and especially the unemployed waited very anxiously to hear Mr. King's declaration of policy and to learn what he intended to do in order to bring relief. What did Mr. King say were then the most important considerations? "Ocean rates and Senate Reform."

This year they had again waited to hear Mr. King's declaration of policy. In the Maritime Provinces he had said Senate Reform to be the most important issue. As to the freight rates, they were all familiar with the manner in which he solved that problem. He was going to break the Atlantic combine with 10 boats under the contract with Sir William Petersen. In case Petersen would suffer from carrying grain at a lower price, he was to be guaranteed $1,350,000 of the people's money.

Ironic Praise.

Some people had said that Mr. King had not solved any problem.

'Romance' Is Shattered Leading Lady Divorced

NEW YORK, Sept. 24.—(Canadian Press).—The romance of Doris Keane, who for eight years played the leading role in the play, "Romance," has been shattered.

Just back from abroad, she revealed to-day that she had obtained a divorce in Paris from Basil Sydney, the handsome English actor, who long made stage love to her. In 'Romance' Sydney was a young clergyman captivated by a prima donna who rejected him for the sake of his career.

In "The Czarina" Sydney was a young cossack with whom Katherine the Great, portrayed by Miss Keane, fell in love.

PRINCE HENRY IS OFFICIALLY DEAD IN MANOEUVRES

Led Army Troop of Hussars Until Judges Ruled Them All "Killed."

RUM WAS ISSUED.

Crucial Battle of Mock War Was Begun at Dawn To-day.

LONDON, Sept. 24 (United Press). Prince Henry of the Royal House and his entire troup of daring Hussars were "killed" in the mock war on Salisbury Plain early today, when in a burst of too much bravery they engaged tanks and artillery.

The umpires ruled that although they had lived up to the best traditions of British fighting men, they had erred on the side of being too intrepid. The Prince, in mud-stained uniform, had brilliantly led his forces until "death" overtook him.

The crucial "battle" to determine the worth of new war weapons and the defence of London from the onslaught of an invader began throughout the war area at dawn.

Frost had set in during the night, giving the forces a touch of near-winter campaigning. An issue of rum to ward off the cold was given to the valiant Tommies.

FORKE SPEAKING ON THE PRAIRIES

Progresisve Leader Asks For Information From Premier.

AT SHOAL LAKE.

SHOAL LAKE, Man., Sept. 24.—(Canadian Press).—"The Premier wants a mandate from the people. What for?" asked Robert Forke, Progressive leader, at Shoal Lake last night. "He should tell us in his speeches what he intended to do with such a mandate in respect to the major problems confronting the country," said Mr. Forke.

The Progressive leader "viewed with alarm" the taking of Herbert Marler of Montreal into the Cabinet. Mr. Marler was a "Montreal high protectionist," who had voted against the Government two years ago when the tariff on instruments of production was under discussion; the presence of Mr. Marley in the Cabinet might be taken as an indication of the Government's future attitude on tariff matters.

ROYAL WEDDING IS UNPOPULAR THROUGH ITALY

LONDON, Sept. 24 (United Press).—A Daily Express Rome despatch reports the wedding of Princess Mafalda to Prince Phillip of Hesse as, "Intensely unpopular" and designated as the "second disillusionment"—referring to the fact the Princess Yolanda married her riding master, Count Calvi-Bergolo. According to The Express, Italian pride has been injured by the alleged fact that the King has been granting Prince Philip—a former enemy of Italy—an allowance since the marriage was arranged.

Sam, then 17, was lost in the great crowds that turned out to honor Dewey. After a long search hope of finding him was abandoned.

Two days ago a stranger appeared at the home of George Howard, who has lived here all his life. The brothers recognized each other. Sam had wandered to Texas and become a cowboy.

DAMASCUS, Syria, Sept. 24.—(Canadian Press).—A French column has entered Suedia, relieving the garrison, besieged for nearly two months by revolting Druse tribesmen. After an eight-hour battle, ending last evening, the tribesmen fled before the troops of General Gamelin, who had been pressing to the aid of his countrymen for several weeks.

JOY IN PARIS.

HASTINGS-PETERBORO RIDING COMPRISES BIG BLEAK AREAS WHERE CAMPAIGNING IS HARD

CONSERVATIVE NOMINEE.

E. A. PECK, Named last night as Conservative standard-bearer in West Peterboro.

Twenty-nine Thousand People Scattered Over 6,500 Square Miles.

90 POLLING PLACES

Peterboro County Gives Seven Townships to New Federal Riding.

The new riding of Hastings-Peterboro is comprised of seven townships in the eastern part of Peterboro County and twenty townships in the northern half of Hastings County. Its population, according to the census of 1921, is given as 28,999, or roundly 29,000.

Some idea of the labor it presents to the campaigners who set out to woo its maiden favor may be gained from its measurements in crow flights. From Stirling on the south, where the southern boundary of the riding coincides with the main street of the town, so that one-half is in Peterboro-Hastings and the other in South Hastings, from that southerly limit to Bell's Rapids, the most northerly polling place, close to the Renfrew boundary, the distance is 110 miles, and from Hall's Glen up on the Dummer Township line in the Stoney Lake district easterly to the boundary between Hastings and Addington Counties is a distance of approximately 60 miles.

And there are ninety polling places to be scattered among the twenty-seven townships with their endless chain of lakes, their bleak stretches of rock and woods and their areas of arable land. Twenty-nine thousand people distributed over 6,500 square miles present a problem in transportation to the candidates and their most active supporters.

The townships which have been thrown together in this new constituency are; In Peterboro County: Anstruther, Chandos, Burleigh, Methuen, Dummer, Belmont and Asphodel; and in Hastings County: McLure, Wicklow, Bangor, Herschel, Monteagle, Carlow, Faraday, Dungannon, Mayo, Wollaston, Limerick, Cashel, Lake, Tudor, Grimsthorpe, Marmora, Madoc, Elzevir, Rawdon and Huntingdon.

Villages in the riding include Warsaw, Norwood, Havelock, Marmora, Madoc, Stirling, Bancroft, Maynooth, Deloro and other small settlements.

It's a vast arena for the Progressive and Conservative paladins, and North Hastings is spoken of as "Bob" Cooke's stamping ground where the natives regard him as one of the major prophets. Normally Conservative, according to opinions given the Examiner, it is regarded by Conservatives as fairly safe for Dr. Embury of Bancroft, while Progressives believe they can carry the field on election polls, with the aid of independents and other opponents of the Conservative policies, and also by the personal strength and leadership of their candidate, G. A. Brethen.

STRIKE HAS HIT RAILWAYS HARD

They Are Losing Three Million a Week in Revenue.

15,000 MEN LAID OFF.

NEW YORK, Sept. 24.—(Canadian Press).—Here is the effect of the anthracite coal strike upon the U.S. railways, according to the estimate by railroad officials published to-day:

Nine railroads serving the anthracite district are losing $3,560,000 a week in revenue.

Fifteen thousand railwaymen have been laid off. Car loadings have fallen off 40,000 cars a week.

GRAIN MOVING FROM MIDLAND

Traffic Began to Flow Through Peterboro Last Sunday and Should Be Heavy.

BIGGER ENGINES.

REABORO, Sept. 17. — The first trickle of the fall grain traffic from Midland to Belleville over the Lindsay-Peterboro division was recorded last Sunday and during the week has been gradually accelerating to almost full tide. The C. N. R. has greatly improved the transportation system over this division, having laid heavier rails, and are now putting on engines of the Mikado type. Manay of them are already in operation equipped with automatic stokers which permit a through trip from Midland to Belleville without stopping at Lindsay to change firemen. For the next two months it is expected that this traffic will be heavy as there is a big crop to be carried to the sea.

MORE GRAIN PASSES WINNIPEG THAN IN TWENTY-THREE YEARS

Grain Inspector Says Unprecedented Rush Will Continue Three Months.

REAL AVALANCHE.

Grain Samplers Work Three Shifts in Twenty-four Hours.

(Special to The Examiner.)

WINNIPEG, Sept. 24.—"In my twenty-three years as grain inspector I have never seen such a rush of grain as that which is passing through the hands of my crews this Fall," states H. J. McLean, Dominion Government grain inspector for the Canadian Pacific Railway haulings through Winnipeg. Mr. McLean expects this unprecedented rush to continue until the close of navigation at the lake head on December 15th.

The inspector describes the present avalanche of grain as the "biggest in the history of the nation." His crew of 83 grain samplers is working in three shifts throughout the twenty-four hours. This crew sampled 1,556 cars of grain in one day at the beginnin gof this week, a figure never approached before in the annals of grain inspection, he states.

HASTINGS COUNCIL ENTERTAINED CHAMPION TEAM WITH BANQUET

Enjoyable Function at Clarendon Hotel to Celebrate Victory.

MANY SPEAKERS.

All Ranks of Society Were on Hand to Show Honor to Team.

(By a Staff Reporter).

HASTINGS, Sept. 24—The young men who brought to this village the fame that goes with the winning of the Clarke Cup, the championship trophy of the Northumberland Baseball League, were tendered a banquet last night in the Claredon House, the hosts of the youthful champions being Reeve Hess and the members of the Village Council. And youthful those champions are, as only two members of the team that played so bravely throughout the season, and won so fairly in the end, Catcher Scriver and First Baseman Herrington, are over 20 years old.

Covers were laid for 40, and every place was taken. Landlord Fred. Jones, formerly of Detroit, who is engaged in his first venture as a hotelkeeper, and who last night served his first banquet, put up so good a dinner with such excellent service, that, on motion of Reeve Hess, he was tendered a vote of thanks, in which all the guests heartily joined.

The guests included all sorts and conditions of men, every class in the village being represented. There was a member of the Legislature, Sam. Clarke, the donor of the cup, and a potential member of the Dominion Parliament, Fred J. Slade, the Liberal candidate in Northumberland County. Mr. Clarke seems to have completely recovered from his recent illness, looking as well as ever, and as an after dinner speaker has lost none of his sparkling humor and bright epigrams.

No baseball gathering in Hastings would be complete without the three clergymen, who seldom miss a game: Rev. Father Bretherton, Rev. D. A. Thomson and Rev. M. L. Hinton, a trio of confirmed fans who know every point of the game rather better than some of the umpires who have officiated on the League diamonds. Father Bretherton assured Mr. Clarke that in Hastings, whatever their religion, the people are all one little family, sociable in their relations, just as he saw them at the banquet last night. Father Bretherton recalled an occasion on which the astute member of the Legislature had mistaken him and addressed him as a Methodist minister, a mistake which he assured Mr. Clarke had been forgiven.

Rev. D. A. Thomson went this incident one better, when he told of how, when Father Bretherton had been visiting Mr. Thomson's son in Shelbourne, he had not only been mistaken for a Methodist preacher, but had been actually invited by the officers of that Church to take the services on the following Sunday.

Knew the Great Mathieson.

Charles Jones, one of Hasting's leading business men, but who is on the point of leaving here for Kitchener, has probably been more closely associated with baseball celebrites than any one in the room. When he was a youth he was a promising player himself and was more than once has played against the Great Mathieson, whose name will be preserved as long as baseball history lasts. Mr. Jones did not attain the standing in the game that was attained by the New Yorker but he has always been interested in and a supporter of that form of sport. In his address last night, he said that training in the game was a good preparation for the greater game of life as it made a man alert and prompt in his acts.

As a special compliment to Mr. Jones, on the suggestion of Mr. Thomson the audience rose and drank his health.

Congratulated the Champions

Nearly every man at the table made an address and every speaker congratulated the modest young champions, praising them for their skill, their determination and their clean play throughout the season. They were rated as not only good winners but as game losers and some of the clerical speakers, assured the young fellows that if they played the game of life on the same sound and manly principles they would be certain to succeed.

An Optimist Forever.

Sam Clarke, M .L. A., is as much of an optimist as ever. The longer he lives, he says, the more he becomes convinced that there is good in all men and women although some occasionally go wrong. It was his faith that brought him through his recent illness. If he had not had more faith than his doctors he would probably never have risen from his sick bed. While he was in the hospital, people of all religions, politics, and stations in life called upon him.

The speaker recalled the occasion when he attended the banquet tendered Walter Fowlds in Hastings, when the latter was elected Warden of the United Counties. The speaker said he was struck at that time by the respectability and intelligence of the audience and was glad to be able to say the same of the present gathering. He had never seen the championship cup before to-night but he could say that the cost of it had given him more real pleasure than the expenditure of any similar amount had ever afforded him.

The Speakers.

Alex. Wilson, village clerk was chairman and introduced each speaker with a few appropriate remarks. Those on the list, in the order called upon, were Reeve Hess Rev. M. S. Hinton C. W. Varcoe, of Roseneath, president of the Northumberland League, Sam Clarke, Councillor Doxsee, Rev. Father Bretherton, M. Davey of Roseneath, League Secretary Sam Clarke, M. L. A., W. W. Wellman, president of the Hastings Athletic Association and assistant manager of the champion team, Rev. D. A. Thomson, C. P. Doughty, manager of the Hastings team who said his job had been an easy one as the boys had done it all, working to win in every game; Ed. Breithaupt who responded to the toast; "The Ladies" T. A. Coughlan, Dr. W. E. Wilson, one of HIastings most finished orators John Culling, W. Learmouth, secretary of the Athletic Association, Charles ones, F. J. Slade, Councillor Dodd and D. S. Scriver.

Mr. Slade told the boys that a true sport must not only possess bone and muscle but must be a gentleman.

Some Suggestions.

Some suggestions for the future were made by different speakers. Secretary Learmouth thought that Hastings was too small to maintain two forms of athletics and recommended that next season the village drop lacrosse and devote all its attention to baseball, as he believed that there is in Hastings the nucleus of one of the best amateur teams in Central Ontario.

Councillor Dodd, an old lacrosse player himself, took issue with this suggestion, holding that lacrosse should not be allowed to die out. Mr. Learmouth assured Mr. Dodd that he was not knocking the latter's game, but merely gave it as his opinion that the village should specialize in the sport that seemed most popular.

Reeve Hess agreed with the latter speaker. Lacrosse is no longer played as it used to be. Teams, instead of playing the game, are now playing the man.

New Baseball Park.

Manager Doughty suggested that the Council and Athletic Association should co-operate in improving the grounds where all athletic games are played, and that up to $100 be expended in fixing up the baseball diamond. The owner of the grounds has agreed to cease using it as a pasture if a nominal rental is allowed him.

Chairman Wilson looks even further into the future. He has in mind a desirable piece of property which could be purchased by the village and which could be used not only for a baseball diamond, but for the holding of our Agricultural Fair. Later it could be connected with a park. He believed the purchase would be a good investment even if the village had to go into debt for it.

The Champions.

C. P. Doughty was manager, Carl Runnels secretary, W. W. Wellman assistant manager, T. A. Couglan and D. E. Scriver were the finance committee.

The team not only won the championship, but finished the season with a surplus of $100.

The Trophy.

The championship cup the first two seasons it was up for competition was won by Colborne. From there it went to Warkworth, and last season Roseneath captured it, only to lose to Hastings. The cup will become the permanent property of the team winning it three seasons in succession.

Manager Doughty notified Mr. Clarke last night that he might as well prepare at once to provide another trophy, as the Hastings team mean to keep on winning the present one until it is theirs for keeps.

The speeches last night were agreeably varied by two Scotch solos by Councillor McDonald, who sang the one with spirit and the other with feeling, "A Wee Deoch and Doris" and "The Wee Hoose."

E. A. PECK GIVEN NOMINATION

She did not agree. Mr. King had solved the problem of ocean rates. A few years ago there was a shortage of houses. There were lots of vacant houses now. Other problems were solved. Unemployment was one of them; Mr. King had said: "Are you out of work here? Go to the United States." The new Minister of Immigration had said, in a manifesto that appeared in The Examiner a few days after his appointment, that one of the things he would do, would be to go after the Canadians who had gone to the States. Mr. Meighen had said there was a flow of Canadians to the United States; Mr. King said there was no exodus other than the normal ebb and flow between two countries close together, and if there had been a number who had gone they were all coming back. Was Mr. Meighen right? Was Mr. King right. Whom was Mr. Gordon following? Immigration was lessened, Mr. King said this was because great numbers of young men who might have emigrated had been killed in the war. But the emigrants were flocking to the United States in such numbers that barriers had to be raised to keep them out. Evidently those who meant to come to Canada were all killed in the war. She appealed to the women to get behind the candidate and help him to win. She felt confident that Mr. Meighen would be returned to power. The country would then have a Premier who had a policy for the development of Canada and a man who stayed by his country in the darkest hours of the Empire, a four square Canadian.

R. J. Soden.

R. J. Soden warmly eulogized the two nominees. He wanted to see at the head of affairs, a man who was at his post when the Empire was threatened, and a man to find whom they did not have to go to the States and the Rockefeller Foundation. Was the country as prosperous as it was four years ago? Were the industries of the city as well as they were four years ago? He wanted them to vote for themselves. He had not been in very good health, but he hoped to be with them on the 29th, for it was they who were going to do the yelling.

At this stage the President announced that Mr. Peck had been elected by a substantial majority. Col. Ackerman was the first to extend his congratulations, and to call for three cheers for the candidate.

Mr. Peck's Gratitude.

Mr. Peck thanked the Association for the honor. Three weeks ago he did not think he would have been addressing them as their candidate, but now that they had selected him it was their duty to see that he was returned for Parliament. It was from a sense of duty to the country that he had come forward. They had a country that they could all be proud of ,magnificent in its resources, inhabited by a virile people. Yet it was not succeeding because of the dilatory measures or rather lack of measures of Mr. King. Mr. King took office with the brightest of prospects. He had education, eloquence, and experience. But he had not been a success. He had let the country get worse and had not made a single move to check the depression in the country.

It was the duty of the Government to seek after the welfare of the laboring classes, and this could best be done by giving protection to the industries of the country.

Hon. Dr. Manion.

Hon. Dr. Manion prefaced his address with a tribute to the convention and to the two nominees who sought its endorsation.

"Never in my life," he said "have I seen a more magnificent gathering than this. At a recent Conservative convention in a big Toronto riding, they had a fine meeting, but it had only about half the number you have here tonight. It speaks well for the party in Peterboro and for the future of Mr. Peck in this election. I regard it as symptomatic not only of the feeling throughout this riding but of the feeling over all Canada at the present time. Mr. Peck has the confidence and the esteem of the citizens of the city and country. He is a man you should be proud to get behind and work for until the last vote is polled. I admired Col. Ackerman for the sportsmanlike, British way in which he took defeat."

With a compliment to Mrs. Fallis, Dr. Manion plunged into his address with a rapid-fire delivery designed to crowd the time at his disposal with a maximum of criticism and censure of the King Government.

Canada during the last four years had come through a "terrible" depression in business, in unemployment and in the exodus of our best young people who had been forced to seek their living in the United States.

"We have been accused of talking pessimism, and Mr. King has declared it unpatriotic to mention the condition of the country as it really exists. I don't like to say anything personal about Mr. King, but I think he should go lightly in the use of that word patriotism. Is it patriotism when one sees his country going into bankruptcy to throw his hat in the air and say everything is going well, or to look the problems in the face and try to find a solution of them?"

Dr. Manion took up Hon. Arthur Meighen's repeated declaration, that there had been 2,000 failures in Canadian industry during the last three years.

"Mr. King says Mr. Meighen told an untruth in that statement and that he knew it was untrue. I have the figures from The Toronto Globe of Sept. 15, and I dont think anyone will say The Globe is particularly friendly to Mr. Meighen; those figures taken from the report of R. G. Dunn show that in 1922, there were 857 industrial failures in Canada, 792 in 1923, and 625 in 1924, making a total of 2,274. In other words Mr. Meighen said there were 2,000 failures in those 3 years, and Dunn's report places the number at 2,274, while Mr. King claims that Mr. Meighen's statement was untrue. I have given you the figures and shall let you decide for yourselves who is telling the truth.

Exodus of Canadians.

Regarding the exodus of Canadians to the United States, Mr. King again says we are not telling the truth, and that people are crowding back so fast we can't get our doors shut. Well, in a published statement about September 11, the American immigration officer at Winnipeg said that more than 32,000 persons had entered the United States through the Winnipeg district alone. They paid the $8 head tax and $10 immigration fee. Senator Robertson says the King Government appealed to Washington in an effort to keep out Canadians and the immigration fee was put on to discourage them. In short, when unemployed Canadians were unable to obtain work here, this fee was charged to keep them here in idleness."

Dr. Manion.

Dr. Manion said Canada lost nearly 400,000 persons last year, the official number of 182,000 being increased by approximately 200,000 who had illegally entered the United States. Thirty guards have recently been added to the American immigration forces in the Winnipeg district to prevent people from slipping across the border to earn a living.

"As Mr. Peck said, we have a wonderful country, we are a virile people, we have a fine banking system, good railways and rich resources, but Canada with a low tariff is not prospering, factories are closed or working part time, while the United States with high protection is prosperous and working full time. In addition to this we have a heavy burden of taxes, due largely to the war, but also to the King Government's foolish, extravagant, and wasteful expenditure of the people's money."

Tens of millions were spent on harbors in attempted bribery of electors by the government, three millions for the Union Club in London, and $1,360,000 for the Prince Rupert elevator which, Dr. Manion said, "was no more needed there than where we are sitting to-night. The distance from Edmonton to Prince Rupert is 250 miles more than to Vancouver. I venture to say that grain will never pass through that elevator because of the increased distance of hauling and the added cost."

One department, Hon. Mr. Motherwell's Department of Agriculture, had spent $866,000 on travelling expenses, almost $1,000,000, and had been defended in the House by the Minister himself. The debt of the national railways had been increased by $118,000,000 in the last year. It was not until 1913 that Canada as a whole took in as income the sum of $118,000,000.

The C.N.R. office deal in Toronto next received Dr. Manion's attention. Two years ago the five-storey building at the corner of King and Yonge Streets was bought by the Government for $1,200,000, and in 1925 was sold for $1,250,000.

"Hon. G. P. Graham says we made $50,000 on the deal," Dr. Manion continued. "Was that good business? At 5 per cent. the interest charge on the $1,200,000 for two years would have been $120,000, and the taxes and insurance must be added to that. Yet Mr. Graham claims a profit of $50,000 in the sale of the building. I don't know where his reasoning comes in. Any way, in the transaction the Government agreed to lease the ground floor and three storeys in the new 26-storey building to be built at that corner, although there is all kinds of vacant office space in the city. And they agreed to pay $225,000 a year rental, which is 5 per cent. on about $4,000,000. Yet they could have kept the five-storey building they had bought for $1,200,000, on which the interest charge at 5 per cent. would be $60,000 a year. Add $50,000 for taxes and other charges, making a total annual cost of $110,000 and providing satisfactory quarters for the C.N.R. at half the price for the four floors Mr. Graham is taking over in the new building."

Challenge to Graham.

At this stage Dr. Manion proposed the following question to the Hon. Mr. Graham, and challenged him to answer them:

Admitting that the corner of King and Yonge Streets, Toronto, is one of the most valuable business corners in Canada, and that it is, therefore, advisable for the C. N. Railways to retain control of that corner, in order to continue their ticket offices there:

1—Why did Mr. Graham, as Minister of Railways, allow the control of the corner to be given up by the sale which has been made and to whom was the sale made?

2—How does Mr. Graham figure that this was a good business deal (as stated by him) when the corner was purchased in 1923 for $1,200,000 and was sold two years later for $1,250,000, when interest alone at 5 per cent. amounts to $120,000, in addition to which taxes and insurance must be added?

3—Why sell out to a new owner at a loss, and then guarantee to him $125,000 a year (5 per cent. on over $4,000,000) as a rental for four stories of the new building, when the Government could have kept the five stories of the excellent building now standing for an annual interest charge of $60,000, plus taxes and insurance, which would probably make a total of not much over $100,000 per annum; especially when there is very much vacant office space in Toronto now at comparatively low rentals?

4—Is this a good time to add to the capital charges of the National Railways when they are already losing heavily annually?

5—Who was the agent who handled these various deals and what amount of commissions was he paid on them?

No Useful Legislation.

Hon. Dr. Manion charged the government with failing to pass hardly any useful legislation of benefit to the country. Money was squandered on the Wheat Board and they could not get a chairman for it. The grain growers were forming independent wheat pools. The speaker condemned the Great Lakes freight rates, the trade treaty with France, and, finally the Petersen contract for Atlantic shipping which was thrown out by a committee of which the majority was from the government side of the House.

"But the real crime is the tariff legislation," Dr. Manion asserted

"Since the war 65 countries have raised their tariffs. These include Germany, France, the United States, and even England. Canada alone among the nations of the world has lowered hers. France raised her tariff from 200 per cent to 1200 per cent., and all her industries are active. Canada and Britain have suffered grievously because we permit other people to export to us. We are keeping industries going in other parts of the world at the expense of our own industrial life."

Dr. Manion referred to the glass and woollen industries, and also said the farmers were vitally interested. Last year we imported $150,000,000 worth of goods we could have produced on our own farms, he stated.

A comparison of the tariffs of the United States and Canada on farm produce was quoted as follows: On wheat 42c by the U.S., as against 12c by Canada; oats 15c as against 10c; hay $4 a ton against our $2; potatoes 50c and 35c; butter 8c and 4c; eggs 8c by the U.S., and 3c by Canada.

"Mr. King tells you not to put up the tariff because it is a tax. Sometimes it may be a tax, but it is one sure way of holding our own markets for our own people. Free trade England collects a heavy tax on tea, sugar and tobacco. The working man under free trade thereby pays a high tariff tax, amounting to 5-6 of $600,000,000 collected on sugar, tea and tobacco, whereas under our system the tariff would bear mostly on the luxuries of the rich and not on the necessities of the people."

Dr. Manion indicated how the United States had built up its tin plate industry, developing the manufacture for which it had previously depended on Wales.

"Do we want cheap imports or working wages? The cheapest countries are the poorest. Look at India and China. We want employment for our people. Of what use would $5 sults be if we have not the $5 to buy it? Does any person in the city object to paying a fair price for farm produce if he has the money to pay for it? The only time we object is when we haven't got the money. May I ask the working men how they expect to get decent wages and standards of living, the 8-hour day and so on, if we don't keep out goods from countries that don't have those standards?"

Dr. Manion said Canada needed to build up and protect her internal trade. If we haven't jobs we can't buy and sell among ourselves."

No Solution Offered.

The King Government offered no solution for these problems. Much was heard of a proposal to reform the Senate, but if the Senate were dropped into Lake Superior would any person thereby be given a job?

"It's just a battle cry of Mr. King's and would be forgotten as any of the other promises he has forgotten. A short time ago he said he could not get along with the Progressive assistance and unless given a clear majority would call another dissolution and election. Yet the Liberals are not putting candidates in the field against Progressives, although Mr. King said he could not possibly work with them.

Mr. Meighen offers Canada real economy because he realizes the need of it. No more pork-barrel politics, no more union clubs and Scribe hotels. He offers us a tariff wall as high as those that are raised against us. Canada needs stability in the tariff to give stability to industry, as was suuggested by the Hon. Mr. Fielding in 1923, when he said the tariff was low enough."

Hon. Dr. Manion predicted a sweeping victory for the Conservative party and its cause not only in Ontario but in the east and far west, with 15 or 20 seats in Quebec. One of the surest signs was the fact that so many of the Cabinet Ministers were running to cover. Messrs. Bureau, Beland and Murphy had gone to the Senate, Mr. Copp had quit, and Hon. Hal McGivern had stepped out.

His final appeal was to the Conservatives of Peterboro to elect Mr. Peck by unflagging support during his whole campaign.

THE CONSERVATIVE NOMINEE.

The nomination by the Liberal-Conservative convention last night of Mr. E. A. Peck, ex-M.L.A., as the candidate of the official opposition in West Peterboro, was foreshadowed by Mr. Peck's announcement the other day of his willingness to accept nomination if he were the choice of the convention.

It was felt by many citizens that, although opposition to his candidature was likely, the task of carrying the Conservative banner would be Mr. Peck's should he desire the responsibility.

For many years a resident of Peterboro, a former member of the Ontario Legislature as the representative of West Peterboro, an ex-Warden of the county, and still connected with county affairs as solicitor to the County Council, the Conservative nominee is widely known throughout the district and enjoys the regard and esteem of political foes as well as of political friends.

West Peterboro is fortunate in the calibre of the rival standard-bearers in the present campaign.

Hon. G. N. Gordon will undoubtedly be chosen by the Liberal convention tonight, and with he and Mr. Peck as the opposing candidates, a clean campaign, free from personalities, will be confidently expected by the electors generally.

The Examiner is sure that so far as these gentlemen are concerned the battle will be one of national issues, not petty personal matters.

DRUNKEN DRIVERS.

Chief of Police Owen D. Friend of Oshawa advances a suggestion as an additional public safeguard that will meet with general approval when he advocates that the driving license of a car be suspended for a long period on the first offence and permanently revoked if a second charge should be proven.

No greater menace to public safety than a motor car operated by a drunken driver can be imagined.

Handling an automobile under modern traffic conditions calls for a clear brain and unruffled nerve if accidents are to be avoided.

The danger presented by a driver whose judgment is beclouded by the alcohol he has consumed can, therefore, be readily realized.

It would be about as safe to allow a maniac with a loaded revolver to roam at large as it is to permit a drunken man to attempt to drive a car on a public street or highway.

Men who are found guilty more than once of being intoxicated while driving certainly should not be given a third chance.

Public approval would favour the taking away for all time from such men the privilege of handling an automobile in this country.

The Oshawa Police Chief's recommendation is along right lines and should be widely endorsed.

1,000 GOOD CITIZENS WANTED.

Now that the Peterboro Industrial Exhibition is over, it is to be hoped that the people of this district will not forget the appeal made by President Denne last week to become members of the Exhibition.

Such a hustling, wide-awake organization which has succeeded in building up the local Exhibition to a standard only surpassed by several of the larger fairs, should have a membership of at least one thousand, instead of less than half that number.

The Exhibition needs your moral and actual support, testified to by your becoming a member.

The financial obligation is not heavy, as the membership fee is but $2.00 and admits the holder and one friend into the grounds during the Exhibition.

The main thing is that the Directors would welcome the encouraging influence of having one thousand enthusiastic members booming the Exhibition in season and out.

No better time than the present to join, because a bigger membership means a bigger and better Exhibition.

Every citizen was proud of the Peterboro Industrial last week, proud of the attendance record reached, proud of the beautiful grounds, proud of the variety and extent of the exhibits.

Those who become members of the organization will have even more reason than ever to be proud next year.

We hit that 30,000 attendance mark; now let us reach the 1,000 membership goal.

MANY CANDIDATES.

One of the outstanding features of the present election campaign is the multiplicity of banners under which candidates are announcing themselves.

The cake so far is taken by the Quebec candidate who describes himself as an Independent-Farmer-Protectionist.

Then there is Hon. Mr. Patenaude of Montreal who declares that he is "as free from Meighen as he is from King."

Straight Liberals and straight Conservatives there are in plenty, and in some of the Toronto ridings there are unofficial as well as official candidates representing both the old parties.

Labour has its nominees in the ring, although not many of them.

Many Progressives, of course, are in the list, and to be accurate, should be divided into two camps —the Western wing, which refuses to have any dealings with either of the old parties and is running its own show regardless of what the other fellows do, and the Eastern wing, which in most ridings seems to be co-operating with the Government to an extent, at least, that will prevent many three-cornered fights materializing.

Our own district illustrates this latter condition of affairs very accurately, inasmuch as we find in Durham the Progressives remaining out of the fight and supporting the Liberal candidate, Hon. Vincent Massey, while in Victoria and in Hastings-Peterboro the Liberals return the compliment by throwing in their lot with the Progressives.

The present-day conditions are far removed from those prevailing in the campaigns of the past, and add to the usual uncertainty surrounding a general election.

RUSSIA'S FOREIGN TRADE "GRAFT."

Sooner or later it was certain that autocratic government in Russia would degenerate into plain graft says Barron's.

There has been a good deal of suspicious publicity in the columns of American newspapers which like to get their news cheaply, with no questions asked, about the development of Russian export trade.

Some clear light is thrown upon the profits in that trade and its success in competing in an international market by a special article in the London Times.

Russia produces a kind of coal, in the region known as the Donetz Basin, which is inferior to most English and Welsh varieties and not so good as any of the merchantable coal of the United States, bituminous or hard.

But Russia is selling this coal successfully at far below ruling export prices, through a private agency in Constantinople, to Italy, Greece, Asia Minor and Egypt.

Her other two exports are crude petroleum and cement.

Each of these represents, of course, the product of confiscated properties, and the same is true of part of the coal, although there was some imperial ownership under the Czar.

All these things are sold at from 30 per cent. to 50 per cent. below the labor cost of production in Russia.

How does the Societe-Russo-Turque in Constantinople, with its subsidiary, the "Kara Deniz," achieve this apparent impossibility?

The answer is that nobody will do business with Russia except on a basis of barter.

The same Turkish company, owned and controlled by individual Bolshevists, imports into Russia those things which that country cannot produce, as, for instance, tea or lemons, to name two out of many articles which find a ready sale.

The prices quoted for these in Russia vary from 300 per cent. to 500 per cent. of the cost of them to the registered Turkish company, after the goods are landed at Odessa or any Russian Black Sea port.

It is not always possible to undersell your neighbor, even by stealing the raw materials.

But that is a great help, and when a gigantic theft on the other side of the ledger can also be established the world receives a new lesson in international trade.

It would be humorous, if it were not so tragic, that the British labor unions, in face of the cut-throat competition in coal, are fighting for reciprocity with Russia, which buys no British manufactured products, except clothes for prosperous politicians, and has the impudence to sound the London money market for loans and credit.

THE MOSUL MUDDLE.

London papers take some hard slams at the League of Nations Council for its failure to settle the Mosul dispute between Great Britain and Turkey. The Council, instead, referred it to the World Court and favors a special session to speed up the decision.

This action contains the germs of war, the London press holds, and papers hostile to the Government accuse Col. L. C. M. Amery with heading toward conflict. The Daily Mail points out that Britain has no legal or moral right to Iraq and Mosul, that it is pledged to leave the whole region by August, 1928, and that the sooner British troops are taken out the better. If it comes to war, the Mail says, Britain can hardly count on Dominion help, but must risk facing the whole Mohammedan world.

"We ought not to be in Mesopotamia a day longer than we can help," the Daily Mail points out, "and we ought not to be in Mosul at all. For whatever the League may ordain, the Turks will not abandon their claim to that province. Our retention of Mosul will mean eventually war with Turkey." In this event, the Mail believes, the British people will find themselves involved in hostilities with a nation wth whom they have no sane reason for quarrelling, in a country where they have no real interests worth fighting for. Furthermore, the Mail points out, it would be a costly, trying and intolerably burdensome war, in a forbidden tract of mountain and desert 600 miles from the sea. "A terrible war," the London paper says, "with British soldiers dying like flies as they did in those former 'Mespot' campaigns, a war in which there is no glory to be won and which might, indeed, end ingloriously for us. It would be a war in which we could count on no sympathy and widespread hostility. . . . It is extremely doubtful if we could even rely on the aid of our self-governing dominions for another wild adventure against the Turks. Anzacs and Canadians have not forgotten Gallipoli."

In such a war, if it came, with the religious issue boiled down to a question of oil, the Dominions would hardly relish a share, nor would the Old Country be likely to ask it, save by the moral force of her defense policy example, which shields the Dominions without asking them to contribute to its cost. Therefore, it is not reasonable to suppos that the Baldwin Government has given Col. Amery full powers to embark on a war policy. More likely the whole thing, on both sides, is a program of gestures.

It is undeniable, however, that the British Ministers of recent years seem to have lost the knack of dealing with the Turks. The Lausanne conference was called a moral victory for Islam, the Coalition Government brought a storm about its head over the Dardanelles and now the Conservative Ministry starts a fresh alarm. Political opponents are swift to make capital out of that. Russia will take a hand if it should come to conflict, say reports. But Russia in return wants Turkish support against establishment of a British naval station in the Black Sea. This is so that Russia can have a fleet there and do some pilfering when the time comes. But there is no proof that Turkey would buy support at such a price. Russia, moreover, will do damage in a less expensive way. She will do it with red agents among the Mohammedans of the British Empire, and in England itself, if she ever gets such a golden opportunity as a war of aggression to work on.

Fortunately, she will not likely get that opportunity. Eventually the whole Mosul region will probably be handed over to the Turks. But enough will have gone before to convince the Turks they have won another great victory in diplomacy. Certainly, in view of their military and legal position, they cannot be accused of bluffing.—Border Cities Star.

A THOUGHT.

MY CHOICE.

Sapphire seas, acres of dancing poppies, bold and brilliant stars, beautiful rainbows, wild white birds rising suddenly against a gossamer sky, are all yours if you have eyes to see; but give me a good weekly pay check, every Saturday night, a big bin full of chestnut coal for the coming winter, and you may have the poetry.

I will admit that my heart is filled with the flowers of beautiful language, but I cannot express myself.

Give me a steady income and you can take the precious pearls of poetry, the shimmering loveliness of well-worded prose.

1. What I want is good corned beef and cabbage and you may have the opal ocean and the unnumbered sparks that shine in the night sky, for it's going to be cold from November to spring.

Give me my meal ticket all this coming winter and you are welcome to the spangled sentiments and an empty stomach.

Pillars of pearl that prop the end of a perfect day, throwing their trembling light on the glimmering grass at twilight, are a wonderful sight, and in words, it all sounds beautiful, but a warm winter overcoat, a good job and a chance to advance are my choice. —The Silent Partner.

TEMPLARS HELD ANNUAL MEETING

Society Has Been Force For Temperance For 39 Years.

CAMPBELLFORD, Sept. 24. — The annual rally of the Royal Templars of Temperance, the only active organization of the kind at present in existence in Campbellford, was held last evening in the school room of St. John's United Church, Rev. Wesley Elliott presiding. W. J. Armstrong is Select Councillor and Edward Skitch is Secretary of this society, which was organized 39 years ago and has survived many a spirited contest, first for local option and later for total prohibition. C. L. Richmond, now residing in the West, was the first Select Councillor elected when the charter was secured.

This was not the pioneer temperance society in Campbellford. For some years before it was formed there was a branch of the British Templars, a society that carried on under difficulties and in hostile environments. For the first society seven members were required in order to secure a charter, and only six total abstainers could be mustered within the limits of what at that time was a village. The organizers reached out into the surrounding district for a recruit and enlisted the late Edward Stephens of the English line, who became a charter member, and who died last winter with a record of never having tasted liquor or used tobacco in the 94 years of his life. The late Mr. Stephens remained an active member of the society until it secured rooms over a liquor store, when, convinced that the location was inconsistent with the object in view, he resigned and followed his arid path alone to the end of his days.

Many of the pioneer temperance people of the district lived to see their dreams realized, town and township voting themselves into the dry column line and again in the days of local option, and supporting Provincial prohibition every year that issue was submitted to them.

The Speaker of the Evening.

The speech of the evening was made by Rev. E. E. Forde of the Baptist Church, who said that while he had no fault to find with the signing to temperance pledges, he believed that the best way to make a man a total abstainer was to convert him to the Christian faith.

Selecting an example from the Old Testament to illustrate the benefits of a temperate life, Mr. Forde spoke of Caleb, one of the Children of Israel, who at the age of 85 found himself as strong and as ambitious as he had been when 40 years old.

Mr. Forde believes in the social features of these organizations, and says that such societies had always stood for the true principles of temperance and for righteousness.

Referring to the new 4.4 beer, Mr. Forde told a story of being recently stranded on the highway with a punctured tire when a man who had been indulging in that beverage came to his assistance, a veritable Samaritan, and fixed the tire so that it lasted for another 100 miles. Perhaps an enemy may have entered the field, the people may have taken a step backward, but they have not always been going forward, and there is no reason why they should feel discouraged now.

The Prohibition Federation.

Mr. Forde made a detailed statement of the aims of the Prohibition Federation, one of whose objects is to protect all dry Provinces in Canada, by having the Federal Government prohibit the importation into or the export of liquor from such territory. There should be closer co-operation with the United States authorities in stopping rum-running from Canada. There are on the American side, Mr. Forde believes, many Christians, formerly Canadians, who are humiliated by the existing conditions by which Canada is the chief source of supply for the illicit traffic on the other side of the border.

The Musical Programme.

The following musical programme was rendered: Opening hymn, "Onward Christian Soldiers," Mrs. C. W. Turner acting as pianist; musical selection by Ina and Jack Boyd; recitation, Gordon Frederick; guitar and cornet duet, Capt. and Mrs. Stephens of the Salvation Army; solo, Miss Nellie Hoover; duet, Miss Jordan and Miss Shapter; reading, Miss Lillian Hay; solo, Mrs. Stephens; duet, Mrs. A. L. Malcolm and Dr. Lillian Young; solo, Miss Hazel Atkinson; solo, Mrs. C. W. Turner.

A vote of thanks was tendered all those who assisted in the entertainment.

OTTAWA, Sept. 23. — (Canadian Press)—(Eggs).—A three cent advance in prices to producers in B. MONTREAL GRAIN.

MONTREAL, Que., Sept. 23. — (Canadian Press). — While there was a good enquiry from New York wheat on the Montreal market today. Supplies were scarce and as a result business was dull. There was some demand from local exporters for No. 2 Canadian western oats and sales were made at 14 cents per bushel over the Winnipeg October option, C. I. F., and No. 3 barley changed hands at 72 cents per bushel, C. I. F., while No. 2 rye sold at 90 cents per bushel, C. I. F.

The local market for Ontario and Quebec oats was weaker and prices were reduced 1-2 to one cent per bushel which was attributed to the weakness in Canadian western grades at Winnipeg. There continues to be a steady demand for odd cars and sales of No. 2 white were made at 50 cents, No. 3 white at 48 cents, No. 4 white at 81 cents per bushel, ex-track.

Owing to the further decline in future and cash wheat prices at Winnipeg millers of spring wheat grades of flour were in a position to accept all the orders that came forward from foreign buyers overnight with the result that a fair amount of business was done for October - November shipment and the market in this respect was rather more active. There was no change in prices.

Little business was transacted in winter wheat flour but the tone of the market was steady.

The feature of the millfeed market was the increased demand from and nearby shipment. This coupled with the steady demand from local and country buyers keeps the market well cleaned up. Standard grades of roller oats were steady.

Prices for all grades of eggs were well maintained under a steady demand from local and outside sources.

The potato situation was featured by the stronger feeling that developed and prices for New Brunswick cobblers advanced five cents per bag at $1.20. Quebec varieties were advanced 10 to 12 cents per bag. This was attributed to the wet weather and the smaller deliveries.

The strength which was characterized the butter market for the past few days continued today and prices were moved up another 1-4 to 1-2 cent per pound. The tone of the cheese market was steady under an improved demand.

Beans were selling at $2.40 per bushel.

LIGHTNING SHAKES NERVES AND HOUSES

Heavy Frost Following Storm Damages Late Crops.

DOURO, Sept. 24.—The Equinox brought a heavy frost which has blackened all tender flowers and vegetables and has undoubtedly injured the uncut corn and buckwheat. The latter crop is from poor to fair as the August drought injured it.

The storm of Thursday night kept most local people out of their beds for a few hours. Many declare they never saw more vivid lightning. Mr. Robt. Allen's house was struck, the roof taking fire but Mr. Allen managed to extinguish the blaze. The chimney was knocked down and the house generally was shaken and damaged.

Lightning also struck near the corner of the verandah of the house of Mr. Richard Sheehan (Sr.) The bolt went into the ground leaving a hole and no harm was done except the cracking of a couple of panes of glass in a nearby window, and giving the family a scare.

W. A. RE-OPENS AFTER HOLIDAY SEASON

Good Number of Members Present—Usual Bale to be Prepared.

MILLBROOK, Sept. 24.—The Woman's Missionary Auxiliary of St. Thomas 'church held its re-opening meeting after the holiday season on Monday evening at the home of Mrs. H. Attwood.

The president, Mrs. (Canon) Allen, occupied the chair and welcomed the members, of whom a goodly number was present, for another season's work together, expressing the hope that the results accomplished educationally, and financially, would exceed those of any previous year.

The new study book, "The Clash of Color", was taken up, Miss Annie Armstrong having charge of this period, and all were unanimous in their decision that the book will prove both interesting and instructive.

During the discussion of business items it was decided to prepare the usual bale, the sewing meetings being held through the winter months, and the bale sent in the early spring to some needy mission station. The custom, in former years, was to express the bale to an Indian Home at Sault Ste. Marie, but word is now received from headquarters in Toronto as to it ultimate destination each season. A complete outfit for a child, including sheets, blankets, as well as personal clothing, makes up the contents of the bale.

The Auxiliary is looking forward to having a lecture in October by the Rev. J. M. Crisall, rector of Perrytown and Gores' Landing, on his four years of labor as a missionary to an Eskimo tribe within the Arctic Circle.

Refreshments were served during the social hour enjoyed at the close.

Two of the boys from Millbrook, who are attending the Port Hope High School this season, were successful in carrying off prizes in several of the events in connection with the annual Field Day of that institution on Tuesday. In the 100 yard dash, the 220 yard dash, and the running broad jump, Ernest Burnham came first, and Jas. Larmer second. Jim won the half mile and mile races, while in the standing broad jump, for which three boys were tied, Ernest finally came first with a record of 9 feet, and Jim third. The tie gave each 8 feet, ten inches. In the running broad jump, Ernest Burnham had a record of 18 feet.

Jim Larmer went to Toronto on Saturday to take part in the races postponed from Exhibition time on account of rain, but unfortunately arrived late, having to start in the second lap, and winning seventh place. The race was for two and one-half miles. Jim challenged the winner to run here, and it is possible the event may come off yet in the fall.

English football records show that several prominent players have scored as many as six goals in one game, but no player has gone beyond this number in a championship match.

OPEN LETTER NO. 9

RT. HON. W. L. MACKENZIE KING,
Prime Minister and President of the Privy Council,
Ottawa.

Dear Sir:

Some people contend that if an industry is not indigenous to a country, it is not a proper subject for protection by that country. What is your view?

Would you go so far as to say, for example, that the industry of spinning and weaving cotton should have no protection in Canada just because there is no raw cotton produced in Canada?

Does it follow that the country producing the raw cotton has such superior advantages for its manufacture that Canada is taxing cotton imports to no purpose in trying to establish a cotton industry of her own?

In that case, how is it that the United States has managed to build up tremendous paper, nickel and asbestos industries on the basis of raw material largely supplied by Canada? Did it tax its people to no purpose when it protected the products of such industries by high duties?

Was it an economic blunder for the United States to place high duties on manufactures of silk and rubber, and on refined sugar, when it produced no raw silk, no raw rubber, and very little raw sugar of its own?

Is not the fact that to-day it possesses the world's greatest industries in those lines, proof positive of its wisdom of encouraging—nay ensuring —their establishment?

The remarkable progress made by non-indigenous industries in the United States has been a big factor in building up that country's population, and in adding to its prosperity.

If Canada were to pursue a similar policy, don't you think she could do proportionately as well?

Yours respectfully,

DANES PROPOSE NEW COMMISSION FOR INTERNATIONAL CONCILIATION

Swedes Advocate Supplement to Compulsory Arbitration Statute.

OBJECTIONS CONCEIVED

Committee Desires to Keep Intact Geneva Peace Protocol.

GENEVA, Sept. 24 — (Canadian Press).—In line with Viscount Ishii's recent plea before the Assembly of the League of Nations that more emphasis be laid upon the development of a system of conciliation for the settlement of international conflicts, the juridical committee of the Assembly yesterday adopted a resolution, in the framing of which the Japanese delegation took a leading role.

The resolution requests the League Council to examine carefully all proposals, declarations and suggestions relating to a system for the settlement of disputes, so that the next Assembly will have a complete report on which to take definite action.

This means that systems of conciliation and compulsory arbitration will be thoroughly studied to determine whether, as the Danes proposed, some international conciliation commission should be instituted, or, as the Swedes suggested, there should emerge a collection convention on compulsory arbitration which would supplement the compulsory arbitration statute of the world court of justice.

The committee balked at the Swedish idea mainly because it involved the splitting up of the Geneva peace protocol into parts and submitting them for a revision. Its action was another indication of the strong current of opinion here that the protocol must be kept intact, even if dormant, and that nothing must be done to wreck the interdependence of its three pillars, arbitration, security and disarmament.

Another outstanding development at Geneva yesterday was the enthusiastic and unanimous approval the political committee accorded the Chilean resolution which sets in motion the machinery for an international press conference.

SPANISH TROOPS APPROACH AYDIR

Four Miles From Quarters of Abd-el-Krim—Legion Leads.

OBJECTIVES GAINED

MADRID, Sept. 24. — (Canadian Press).—Spanish shock troops yesterday stormed the heights of Morro Vrejo, Cuervos de Xauen and Malmussi, all located on the Bay of Alhucemas. They are now about six kilometres (4 miles) from Ajdir, Abd-El-Krim's headquarters.

Pace by pace the Spanish forces, the foreign legion as vanguard, wrested Moorish territory to a depth of about two kilometres (a mile and a third) from the rebels, who defended their sacred soil with fanatical zeal against the Spaniards, who had come from Tetuan and Melilla and Spain to do their bit for their country.

"All objectives have been gained," declared Admiral Marquis de Magaz, acting president of the military directorate.

General Jordans, another member of that body, said: "The operations are by no means concluded, because after we have captured the mountains we must fortify them and attend to many other matters to insure the safety of our troops."

ROYAL WEDDING IS CULMINATED IN SCENE OF FEUDAL SPLENDOR; NINE REGAL HOUSES ATTENDED

Princess Mafalda United by Marriage to Prince Philip.

GERMAN HONEYMOON

Nobles Numbering 200 From All Nations in Europe There.

RACCONGINI, Italy, Sept. 24.—(Canadian Press). — In a setting of mediaeval splendor, a romance of love at first sight culminated yesterday when Princess Mafalda, 22 year old daughter of the King and Queen of Italy, was united in marriage to Prince Philip, 29 year old son of the German House of Hesse, nephew of the former Kaiser of Germany and second cousin of King George of England.

Last night, the young couple left for Germany on their honeymoon.

The wedding was remarkable for the representation of the community of European royalty that it brought together to Racconigi, for nine centuries a residence of Mafalda's ancestors, perched high in the Piedmontese Alps. Members of nine royal house, attended, from Italy, Germany, Denmark, Greece, Rumania, Jugoslavia, Belgium, Austria, and Montenegro, while the crowns of Britain and Spain sent representatives.

Nobles from practically all the nations of Europe were there, number ing about 200 and men and women prominent in all walks of Italian life. For the regal background there was the fine castle, with its beautiful Verne Villa and splendid park.

The castle was filled with the choic est works of beauty. The marble-paved billiard hall, in which the civil ceremony was held, was decorated with luxurient plants and flowers and its walls were covered with the finest tapestries, damasks and paintings borrowed from the Italian crowns rich heritage of mediaeval art.

The feudal aspect of the long series of ceremonies was heightened by the presence outside the castle walls of a great throng of Piedmontese countryfolk, forming impromptu parades, cheering and singing.

The marriage ceremonies began in the morning with a solemn mass in honor of St.Maurice and St. Nazarus, patron saints of the offical Savoy Order, celebrated by Monsignor Beccaria, the royal chaplain, assisted by two palatinate prelates and four court chaplains. During the mass, which was attended by most of the guests, the choir of Turin Cathedral sang the solemn religious music of Palestrina and other Italian masters of the Middle Ages.

The atmosphere of the mass was maintained as the royal guests filed into the central hall of the castle, forming into a bridal cortege in strict conformity with court precedence. King Victor Emmanuel, attired in the uniform of a Grand Marshall of Italy, headed the procession with Princess Mafalda on his arm. The bride was gowned in white satin, with a white veil of precious lace and a bridal train four yards long, borne by two pages. She wore a magnificent necklace, the gift of her brother, Crown Prince Tumbert. In her hand she carried a bouquet of orange blossoms.

The bridesmaids were her two younger sisters, Princess Giovanna, who wore a rose colored gown, and Princess Maria, dressed in white.

The Prince of Hesse was dressed in his uniform of a lieutenant of the Prussian Dragoons.

The women of the cortege were garbed in colorful evening gown, while the men wore severe formal dress ,those of military rank being in full dress uniforms, resplendent with medals and decorations.

The cortege walked with measured steps into the billiard hall, where the King and the two Queens stood on one side of a table covered with red velvet in the centre of the room, while the bride and bridegroom and Premier Mussolini and former Premier Tittoni took arm chairs on the opposite side of the table.

Signor Tittoni, acting as an official of "civil status" 'read the Italian marriage laws, and Mafalda and Philip gave their promises to live up to them. Then Premier Mussolini, in his capacity as crown notary, performed the civil ceremony, after which the marriage contract was signed by King Victor Emmanuel and Queen Helena, using a gold pen. The ceremony was officially witnessed by Crown Prince Humbert and Crown Prince Carol of Rumania.

The procession then proceeded through a courtyard lined with flowers and wreaths to the chapel. There the columns and the altar were covered with white tulle and garlanded with flowers, principally sprays of orange blossom. The halls were covered with red, gold and black damasks and tapestries. An atmosphere of mystic dimness was created by lights from Fourteenth Century candelbras suspended from the walls, and the whole scene was dominated by six candelabras and six Fourteenth Century engraved cruxcifixes set upon the altar.

Mafalda and Philip kneeled before the altar, the King and two Queens occupying stools at the left and the two witnesses, Count Calvi di Bergolo, husband of the eldest royal princess, Yolanda, and Prince Christopher of Greece, at the right. The ceremony was the Roman Catholic marriage service, except for the omission of the mass on account of the bridegroom's Protestantism.

After the religious ceremony the King followed by the guests returned to the great hall of the castle, where the King and Queen held a reception, abandoning formality and accepting congratulations as the fond and happy parents of the bride The morning ceremonies were concluded with a sumptuous luncheon of more than two hundred covers.

ATTACKING ARMY IS JOCKEYING FOR BETTER POSITION

Reds in Northwest Have Scored Tactical Success.

NO WAR, BUT REGATTA

Prince Henry Witnessed Two Enemy Planes Crash to Earth.

SOMEWHERE IN WILTSHIRE, England, Sept. 24. — (Canadian Press).—All day the attacking Red army, under Lieutenant-General Sir Alexander Godley, and the Blue defenders of London, under Lieutenant-General Sir Philip Chetwode, manoeuvred for position in the "mimic" war, in which nearly 50,000 British soldiers are engaged, The final clash is expected at dawn.

The attacking forces are reported to have scored a notable tactical success in the north-west of their territory, so much so that one observer remarked that it might shorten the war by ten or twelve days, which would be good news for the soaked Tommies, as the rain continued intermittently throughout the day, and one was heard to say: "This ain't war; it's a regatta."

There is, however, plenty of fight left in the Blues, who are developing a strong offensive movement to the east, and assert that they will be able to "keep their heads above water."

The King's third son, Prince Henry, with the Blues on patrol duty, witnessed two air crashes yesterday, when a couple of low-flying enemy planes struck the ground. They were wrecked, but no one was hurt.

CONCERT GIVEN IN CHURCH AT MADOC

Visitors From Tweed Put on an Enjoyable Entertainment.

MADOC, Sept. 24.—A very enpoyable concert was given in the United Church on Monday evening by a group of Tweed artists. A varying programme of solos, duets, quartettes and trios was presented by Mrs. F. Houston, Mrs. Fossett, Mrs. H. Connor, Mrs. Kindred, Mr. Elliott, Mr Bert Houston, Dr. Dale and Mr. H. Connor, with Miss Pratt as an able accompanist. Mrs. Hyde of Belleville delighted her audience with clever readings.

At the close of the evening the choir of the United Church entertained the visitors. Many comments were heard from those who were present, and the concensus of opinion is that the evening was indeed a musical treat.

The proceeds will be used toward meeting the debt incurred in rewiring the church.

On Tuesday evening, the Epworth League of the United Church entertained the High School pupils and teachers. A large number were present and enjoyed the delightful programme which had been prepared. Solos were sung by Mr. Harold Cross, Miss Lenore Vandervoort and Miss Grace Phillips, and an instrumental solo by Miss M. Rousehorne. Unique games and contests were played during the evening. One contest which caused great amusement was the editing of a paper by each of the four groups into which the contestants were divided, and the reading of the papers after a limit of time. Another successful event was a whistling contest. Much laughter and entertainment were produced by the presence of two masked fortune tellers, who maintained their mysterious secret throughout the evening, their identity being still undisclosed when they disappeared. ainty refreshments were served, and the students dispersed feeling they had bgun their new school year under very pleasant auspices.

FOUR ROBBERS SOON IN TOILS

Held Up Woman in Grocery Store With Violence—Arrested Soon After.

HAD TAKEN $15.

TORONTO, Sept. 24.—(Canadian Press).—Charged with holding up Mrs. Josephine Colombo in her grocery store last night, four men were arrested early this morning on a charge of robbery with violence. They are: Frank Dellow, 17; Donald McDonald, 18; Thos. Kirkpatrick, 21, and Elmer Carton, 18. The four men are alleged to have stolen $15 from Mrs. Colombo.

Dellow and McDonald entered the Colombo store under the pretext of getting a drink of water. The other two men stayed in an auto parked outside. As Mrs. Colombo started for the rear of the store to fetch water, McDonald caught her by the arms and held her in one corner of the store, it is alleged, while Dellow stole the money from a cigar box used as a till. This done, the two men fled, climbed aboard the motor car and got away with their confederates.

LARGE CROWD TO GREET PREMIER IN QUEBEC EAST

Despite Rain, Market Square Was Packed to Farthest Corners.

TWO SPEAKERS.

Messrs. Lapointe and King Discussed Policies of Two Party.

QUEBEC, Sept. 24 (Canadian Press).—In Quebec East, where Sir Wilfrid Laurier fought his battles, Premier King spoke last night. He faced the largest crowd of his campaign. In spite of rain, the market square was packed to the farthest corners.

Hon. Ernest Lapointe said Mr. Meighen's policy was to tax the rest of the country for the benefit of transportation from the Maritimes and Prairies, and the Liberals would never consent to such a policy.

Mr. King referred to the proposed tariff advisory board and its constitution. In the light of advice given by the tariff board, the Government would then decide on its policy. "We intend," he went on, "to consider needs not of one part of the country only, but of all parts, not of one class."

FINGER PRINT BABIES.

DUBLIN, Sept. 24 (Associated Press).—An increase in the number of deserted babies prompted the Union Commissioners to order that finger prints be taken of babies under three months of age who are discharges from the maternity hospital at Pelletstown. The action was inspired by a letter from Miss Duggan, a woman barrister, who pointed out that such a scheme would facilitate the police in discovering the mother or foster mother of a deserted child.

PUPILS GO FROM CAMPBELLFORD

Many High School Graduates Are Attending Higher Schools.

SOME AT COLLEGE

CAMPBELLFORD, Sept. 24.—The 30 students of the Campbellford High School who graduated at the midsummer examinations, apparently realize the benefits of higher education and the majority of them have left to pursue their studies in higher institutions of learning. The foundation has been well laid and the Campbellford graduates will be well equipped to hold their own in whatever walks of life they may elect to follow.

The school this year has excelled all previous records, high as the former established standards have been and it begins the Fall term with an increased attendance, the number coming in from the county being greater than ever. Of the 30 who were successful at the departmental examinations last summer, 15 were residents of the town and 15 were from the country districts.

The highest standing of the examinations was made by an outside student, Lyall Davey, whose home is in Bancroft in Hastings county. This youth, who is 18 years old, passed in 10 subjects, taking first class honors in six, second class honors in three and third in one, a record which probably stands without a superior in the province. The young man won the scholarship awarded by Miss Hay, a former graduate who is now teaching, and has left for Toronto where he will take a professional course in the Normal School.

Going Higher Up.

Twenty-one of the 30 graduates are pursuing their studies further, 11 are now attending the Normal School, four are at Queen's and two at Toronto University. Wilbert Kingston and Alice Guiry will take up the higher branches next year.

LIGHTNING STRUCK SAME HOUSE TWICE

Building Damaged Recently Had Been Struck Before.

ORLAND, Sept. 24.—During the heavy electrical storm which passed over this place Friday night much damage was reported. The most serious in the immediate neighborhood being the house of the late John Dusenbury which was struck at an early hour and very much damaged but did not take fire. This calls to mind that about 50 years ago the same house was struck and Mr. Dusenbury's sister was killed.

John Phillips, W. J. Wright, Percy Moran, Geo. Latimer, Clarence McMurter and Melville Wright were taken by W. J. Latimer to meet the C.P.R. west bound train for Dut top where they have been employed by Mr. Bert Clap of that place to pick and pack apples.

The hearing of the appeal of Edward Poole and James Tackaberry against the appeal of the Township of Brighton in regard to their property being within the three mile limit as required by law to permit their being assessed in the support of the separate school situated at Codrington was held in the Orange Hall at Codrington, before Judge Huycke of Peterborough.

The case for the township was argued by Mr. Payne of Colborne, while Mr. Lynch of Campbellford conducted the side of appeal.

His Honor reserved judgment pending the receipt of the arguments of the respective counsel.

A good many from the neighborhood attended the Brighton Fair.

Mr. Homer Grosjene passed through this village with a traction engine purchased by Mott Bros. of Frankford from M. Branscombe of Colborne. They are going to use it in cutting heading in their stave mill, located in Frankford.

Mr. and Mrs. Ezra McNally have gone to the United States, where Mr. McNally expects to secure employment for the winter or longer.

Sam Hazlewood is visiting his daughter, Mrs. James Wright, in Rochester.

Potatoes are being dug by some of the farmers and some who were on Trenton market on Saturday report $2.00 per bag. This is much better than last season, for some farmers had a hard time getting parties to remove them from their cellars at no other cost.

Wm. Ash of Port Hope is visiting at the home of Mrs. John Warner.

Mr. Alex Dewey expects to be employed in the Orland mill for the winter.

Walter Carr is busy custom cutting ensilage corn and reports some badly down.

Due to the absence of transportation facilities, thousands of tons of African produce are still carried on the backs of natives.

POSSIBLE DECLINE IN LINDSAY FAIR

Given Favorable Weather Directors Hope For Improvement.

LINDSAY, Sept. 24.—Lindsay Central Fair opening took place today. It was in the nature of a preparation day, with nobody on the grounds but officials and exhibitors. With favorable weather conditions, the director hope to have a fair that will measure up to past records.

There promises to be a decline in exhibits in some classes, which the directors claim is due to adverse weather conditions and also to the fact that the farmers are taking advantage of every hour to gather in the balance of their crops. A number of exhibitors who had entered exhiibts at Peterboro Fair last week are on the grounds, and some of the horses entered in the speeding events were also seen in action at Peterboro.

No forecasts are being made as to the attendance expected during the next three days.

ACTS BELIE WORDS.

Firm's Action in Beautifying Grounds Denotes Permanence.

CAMPBELLFORD, Sept. 24.—When a firm begins to improve the surroundings of its plant that fact is generally taken as a sign that the company has no intention of moving or given up business.

The Campbellford Cloth Company yesterday started a gang of men with a team and scraper leveling the vacant lot which lies at the northwest corner of their property. It was given out that is is to be fitted up and planted to flowers which will in time convert it into one of the beauty spots of the town.

At the recent Conservative picnic at Presqu'ile one of the orators declared that he had it on good authority that the Campbellford Cloth Company were on the point of closing down. Recent improvements in the plant and other signs are taken as an indication that the speaker in question was either lacking in reliable information or was merely talking for effect.

NO INTEREST IN FAIR.

Older Folk Ignore School Fair—Dynamic Mr. Towns Essential.

DOURO, Sept. 24.— Yesterday was the day of Douro's school fair. The children are quite interested but most of the adult population are not taking any interest. A year ago this week Douro's first big fair took place. Mr. P. G. Towns, the man who put the "Do" in "Douro" did all the preparation and organizing and made it a splendid success.

After all the work entailed in the preparation for the reunion last summer Mr. Towns did not feel that he could spare the time to stage a fair this fall and no one else could or would give the necessary time. However, it is a pity not to continue after last year's big success.

LABOR-SAVING GAINS.

Japan Turns Toward New Devices of the Western World.

TOKYO, Sept. 24. — (United Press).—Japan is turning toward the new labor-saving devices of the West.

A radio and electrical exhibition is planned to be held in Tokyo in October. At this exhibition all sorts of up-to-date equipment for the home is to be shown, including electrically operated washing machines and other appliances for domestic use. The day when the family washing was done in a nearby stream or the ocean is fast fading before the advance of western ideas.

"THE LIMITED MAIL" with Monte Blue, is a picturization of this story by Warner Bros. Pictures, Inc.

She refused to talk to him while setting out his breakfast—a service he felt was a sacrilege, but which he ungallently took every advantage of as one who got into heaven by the skin of his teeth might claim the most attentions from an angel. She teasingly waited until he had reached the very door on his way out before she deigned to pass close to him and whisper:

"It's a go!"

Bob claimed and got his leave from Morran, then worked on wings of air hrough the whole day's run. He goaded nd coaxed and wheedled his great ngine until its steaming bellow and redutted energy were in tune with his own blithe spirit; he raced around curves and down grades with an exalted abandon that made his train crew hang on and wonder if he had gone crazy. The throttle of his new life was wide open and running free now; a bridge down behind, but only a joyous and safe track stretching into the future.

Night came in the mountains while Bob was yet several hours out of Crater City on the homeward run. He was under telegraphic orders to lay over at Eagle Pass siding, at the bottom of the long down grade single-track section east of Granite Gorge, to give the westbound Limited Mail the right of way.

Bob never in all his time on the road drove past the Old Witch and over the narrow one-track trestle of the Granite Gorge without an involuntary shiver in his veins. The brooding malevolence of the place, its eternally sullen grumbling from the depths, its bad reputation among the trainmen of the division, based on the stealthy toll it had taken of human life, were outstanding features that always smote him; and tonight was no exception.

His day of light-hearted plans and hopes reached a climax of uneasy reactions upon sound and sight of the Gorge shimmering under a chaste yellow veil of early moonlight. This was the stage and this the scenery across and against which he had made his bow to a new life—a new outlook, in a new role. Would he always think of that when he passed the Gorge?

There was a stir at his elbow. His fireman had come up into the cab and, staring down with Bob into the tumultuous Gorge, had unconsciously absorbed some of Bob's mood.

"A hell hole," he said bitterly. "Believe me, an engineer needs Luck himself sitting on his shoulder when driving past here in bad weather; that's a job requiring personal attention that can't be delegated!"

Bob did not laugh at the figure of speech. He knew how it was meant—sincerely, reverently.

"Though there ain't been a thing happen here since—since—oh, since the night you flagged the Limited, Bob. The construction sissies with their baggy pants and puttees and horn spectacles combed the Old Witch pretty thoroughly after that, you know—and they've pronounced it safe for all time. But I, and every other guy on the road, have me doubts! It gives me the creeps!"

They were over and away from the Gorge now, and the fireman returned to his post; but a sinister breath seemed to come down the windy grade after Bob. He glanced up to where the moon, like a great golden porpoise was swimming through frosted cloud-breakers in the grapeblue sea of the midnight sky, and tried under its beneficent light to shake off the queer premonition of impending trouble that obsessed him. But the moon went under the clouds, and the mood gripped Bob the harder.

At Eagle Pass, Bob shunted his train off the main track, bringing the nose of his engine to a stop close behind the observation platform of a passenger special which had also been sidetracked in favor of the proud Limited Mail. Bob and his fireman, dropping to the ground for a stretch, looked with mild curiosity upon the observation platform of the passenger, where to the strains of radioed music emanating through an open door from the bright interior of the car, a half-drunken young couple were squirming sensuously through the close-contacted gyrations of an ultra-modern dance.

"Compared to her kind," Bob murmured, unintentionally aloud, "Caroline belongs to another world!"

The fireman's good-natured chuckle recalled Bob to a realization of indiscreet loud thinking. Bob had to laugh a little, too, then turned suddenly with the fireman when both heard a commotion far down the siding.

"The brakes have found a 'bo and are going to make him run the gauntlet. Let's see the fun!" exclaimed the fireman, suiting the action to the word and starting for the scene of action on a dog-trot, Bob in his wake.

Some luckless hobo tramp's hiding place on the rods beneath a box car had been revealed by his shredded pants ends and tattered shoes, which protruded from beneath the car—his feet, in turn, protruding from the shoes. Four husky brakemen, two to each leg, were trying in vain to tug him out, to a mournful accompaniment of frightened yelps and gasp in a muffled voice that sounded strangely familiar to Bob.

Weak from laughter, the brakemen could do little but add to the misery of the fast, stuck hobo; so Bob, seeking quick confirmation of his amused suspicions, took hold also and lead a count of "One-two-three" for a concerted final yank. It worked, so well that the helplessly laughing brakemen went down in a common heap with the fat, perspiring bulk of vagabondage thus suddenly released.

"Professor Potts!" yelled Bob, incredulous and delighted.

DOURO, September 24. — Douro congratulates Miss Annabel Carlow who won a free trip to the Royal Winter Fair at Toronto by taking second place in the judging competition at the Peterboro Industrial. Miss Carlow is a clever, industrious and progressive young lady and local people are proud of her success.

Messrs. Fred Crowe, Maitland Forsythe and David Forsythe were also winners in the stock judging competition and although they did not win a trip to the Winter Fair still it is very creditable to them that they were winners as there were thirty-three entries.

MEIGHEN ENDS MARITIME TOUR

Speakers on British Preference and Development of Canadian Ports.

AT ST. JOHN.

ST. JOHN, N. B., Sept. 24 — (Canadian Press). — That he would limit the application of the British preference to goods coming through Canadian ports was one of the outstanding declarations made here last night by Rt. Hon. Arthur Meighen, Conservative Leader, in the final speech of his Maritime Province campaign. Emphatically he asserted his belief that Canadian trade should move through Canadian ports and that the development of the port of St. John. The "Great Winter port of Canada," must be continued. Again he stated that the Conservative party stood pledged to a policy of assistance to the Maritime Provinces to the end that their basic products might move to the markets of Ontario and Quebec. Such assistance must also be given to those Western products which were separated by great distances from the central markets.

GOOD NIGHT STORIES

DOTTY MAKES A NEW FRIEND.

"Oh, you darling!" Dotty exclaimed as a wee bundle of beautiful feathers flew right by her nose and settled on a bush at her side. "Who in the world are you, anyway? I've never seen anything quite as lovely."

"I'm glad you like my dress," chirped the wee little bird. He couldn't have been more than three inches long. The crown of his head, his wings and his tail were a rich black, each feather tipped with a pure white spot. Over his eyes ran a white stripe. His cheeks were gray, also the feathers on his back were gray, shading into a brown. The uppermost tail covers were vermilion red, his throat and the lower tail covers were a bright yellow. His little stomach was a lovely orange color. His bill was a brownish black and his feet were brown.

"You are certainly beautiful," laughed Dotty softly. "I don't believe we have any birds like you in North America."

"No; I guess the Diamond Bird always lives in Australia," chirped the pretty bird. "I'm Daddy Diamond Bird. Come along and I'll show you our new home. I have just finished it. Mama Diamond Bird isn't at home. Sorry. I'd like to have you meet her, but come and see our house. Mama begins her setting to-morrow."

Dotty was all excited, but when Mr. Diamond Bird led her to a hole in the ground near an old tree, she thought he was fooling her.

"Indeed, I'm not joking," chuckled Daddy Diamond Bird. "This is my doorway. Come on down and see what a cozy house we have," and he caught two little lightning bugs that were snoozing on the underside of a leaf, and fastened them in Dotty's hair. "We don't mind the dark, but it will take you a little while to get used to it," and he led Dotty down the entrance, through a long hallway, the other end of which was raised quite a bit.

"Why did you raise this end of the hallway?' queried Dotty, shaking her head to make the fireflies give out more light.

"To keep out the rain," replied the happy little birdling, and he pointed to a small globe-like room formed of scraps of bark from gum trees which was woven together with the perfection of neatness.

"And you mean to say you made this nest under ground in the dark?" asked the astonished Dotty. "My, what a wonderful fellow you are! I'm mighty glad I met you. I have seen so many wonderful things since I landed in Australia that I'd like to live right here the rest of my life."

"I'm glad you like my nest and my suit," laughed Daddy Diamond Bird, as he led Dotty back into the sunshine once more. "I hope you'll come again when my wife is at home. You'll have to excuse me now, my dear. I must be on my way," and spreading his beautiful wings he soared away into the sunshine, his lovely suit sparkling like a great huge diamond.

"And to think such a beautiful fellow hides his loveliness under the dark ground," mused Dotty. Then, humming merrily, she ran down the path to the brook.

CHESTERTON AS "TONY WELLER"

Photo shows G. K. Chesterton, noted English writer, dressed as "Tony Weller," the famous character of Dickens' "Pickwick Papers." In a recent straw vote in England, Chesterton was chosen among the ten most popular of the day, he ranking about 7th, with Kipling leading the list, and Wells and others outranking him. Mr. Chesterton has just been honored with the historic post of Ale Taster to the Manor of Beaconsfield. In the olden days, his job would have been to go from brewery to brewery tasting the ale, for which he would have received payment.

FAMOUS FORTUNES

By Barbara Bayne

HOW CORNELIUS VANDERBILT I. MADE HIS FIRST STAKE.

Commodore Vanderbilt was the golden luminary of his time, the founder of a dynasty of wealth. His parents lived on Staten Island, where he was born in 1794.

At fourteen years of age, vigorous, thrifty and fearfully long-headed, he was ferrying passengers to and from New York in a leaky little boat and peddling garden-truck. Soon he built a small schooner, then larger ones, and went in for the coasting trade.

Before he had attained his majority he was married and conducting his own business affairs. Meanwhile, removing to Brunswick, N. J., his wife added to the family exchequer by running a tavern.

With the advent of the steamboat he disposed of his sailing vessels, engaged as captain of a steamboat for a while (from whence comes the "Commodore"), then he commenced building his ocean steamers. At the height of his career as a ship owner he had sixty-six vessels on the Atlantic and Pacific waters. During the rush of the Argonauts to the California gold fields, the Accessory Transit Company, which he controlled under charter from the Government of Nicaragua, transported about 2,000 every month across the Isthmus of Panama, employing his vessels on both sides.

He long had Government contracts for carrying mail, the ocean postage at that time being from twenty-four to twenty-nine cents a letter. Many newspaper editorials along about 1853 had a good deal to say about the mail subsidies and hint that they were the foundation of the Vanderbilt fortune.

After the Civil War he disposed of his mercantile fleet, and in the next few years used the fifteen millions he had acquired to sweep into his ownership great railroad systems. The greater part of his wealth was amassed in his last fifteen years.

In 1868 Vanderbilt was engaged in a desperately devious struggle with Jay Gould for possession of the Erie Railroad—and he had to admit that he had met his match.

His ambition to become the richest man in America was realized in 1872. At his death in 1877 his will disclosed that he had left $90,000,000 of his $105,000,000 to his eldest son, William H., who, with celerity, stepped into the Commodore's tracks and proved himself one of the real monarchs of his day.

At his death in 1885 the Vanderbilt wealth had soared to the $200,000,000 mark. To his sons, William K. and Cornelius II., descended the mantle of authority. They continued to pile up the millions, "W. K." adding about $50,000,000 at one superb swoop by manipulation of the Lake Shore Railroad stock.

Both brothers have died and the present Vanderbilt holdings are controlled by Cornelius III.

His son, Cornelius IV., as democratic as democracy itself, ignores his heirship to millions and publishes a penny newspaper at Los Angeles.

THE HOOPEL TWINS.

By Jeanette

Jacob Ullweiser knocked at the door of Heaven. It was not a timid knock. The good deeds of Jacob had "gone before him," as the old ladies put it. In his own estimation, at least, he was a good man. Perhaps a little unsparing of the sins of others, now and then, but a man of righteous worth. Was he not a constant church goer? Never a Sunday but his pew in the house of the Lord saw him devoutly reading his Bible. Rain or shine, he was there, and his brood with him and his wife, Katherina, the stout, red-faced one who spoke but little and was such an excellent cook—really an admirable wife for a man like Jacob, who thought much of his own words and was wont to be listened to with much respect when he uttered an opinion.

The door flew open. St. Peter looked at Jacob Ullweiser. It was not a stern look, rather a sort of mild interrogation. The big man shuffled nervously. He glanced with dismay at the finger of the custodian of the gates of bliss, inserted at a certain point at a long account.

"But what can you expect?" he said. "She was a very foolish woman and let that good-for-nothing husband of hers run away with all her money. Could I be expected to look after her and those children. She couldn't pay the rent and I had to hav emy money. You have no idea how much they charge you for taxes in those little towns. And my children had to be looked after. There was little Jacob the one who died a little while ago, to be sent to the grammar school and Epsie had a wish for a business training, and Elena wanted to know how to make woollen flowers on cushions and things. A man must remember his own——"

His voice faltered. St. Peter looked gravely at a long list of very black entries. To Jacob Ullweiser's dismay, the account, which he could in some peculiar way read quite easily although the book was turned away from him, contained some very damaging entries, and his church-going activities didn't seem to bulk as large as he had expected.

An attendant at the gate spoke to St. Peter. "Mary Wilkinson has just died," he said. "Ah," said the old gentleman, "let me see——Mary Wilkinson. She was the nurse in charge of the Hoopel Twins, wasn't she?" "Yes," replied the angel. "Her spirit is on the way up."

"You believe in transmigration, don't you?" said the venerable old gentleman, looking at Jacob over his spectacles.

"Well, I did—down there," said the other, "but it seems a long time ago now. I'm not sure——"

"You're a long way off from being good enough to come in here yet," said the other in a businesslike manner. "You'll have to go back again, I'm afraid."

"What—go back there?" shouted Jacob.

"Don't you like the idea?" replied St. Peter. "They told me you made an awful fuss over leaving the place."

Jacob's face turned red. He had created quite a scene at the last, he remembered. But it had been rather hard, that long night when he knew he was going to die, and he hadn't any idea then just how nice and peaceful it would seem later on, when he was through with it all.

"Well, well," said the old gentleman, "I'll do the best I can for you. Here are some of your favorite ideas. Transmigration of souls, eh? And return of the spirit to an earthly plane? How would you like to have a go at the job of being nurse for the Hoopel Twins? Their former guardian has just come up here. It's either that or a snake charmer from the Fiji Islands."

"I'll take the nursing job and be a woman," said Jacob ruefully. As he turned to go, a small voice hailed him. Turning, he saw little Jacob peeping out of the door. "Never mind, father, the lady says it isn't so bad, once you get used to it. You'll get here after a while." Jack shook his head mournfully as he went down the golden stairs.

Children swarmed over the Fair grounds. They were everywhere, every minute. It was Children's Day and a hot day into the bargain. The big Midway was a Paradise for the youngsters. The ballyhoo men called themselves hoarse to entertain the kiddies, entranced with the flow of eloquence coming from the lips of the tired men. The merry go round clattered about its noisy circle, with screaming youngsters aboard.

In one of the long enclosures a young man beckoned the crowd that surged after him, from one point to another. "See the fat lady, tatooed all over her body, just as you see there——" The lady obligingly afforded a view of her lumpy shoulders and took up another reef in the folds about her huge knees. The crowd peered at the purple symbols on her chest. "Here is the girl in the knife-filled box. Watch me put these knives right through her. Come along, ladies and gentlemen. Only a dime to see how it's done. Now move along and watch Tata eat fire." The little humpbacked dwarf with short-sighted glasses obligingly stuck out his tongue and licked up a mass of flame from an oil-soaked torch. "Here is Prince, the snake-charmer, all the way from the Fiji Islands. Watch him handle that poisonous viper." The big negro with the paint-smeared face rose lazily and took a long snake from a box. It coiled wearily about his body. The children shuddered.

"Now, ladies and gentlemen, we have an extra special attraction here in this little tent. You have often heard of the Hoopel Twins, the baby with two heads on one body. Come along in and see them for yourself. One of the most peculiar things in the world." The crowd looked up at the picture of two fat and healthy youngsters, having a wonderful time apparently, and laughing merrily. A number of them filed slowly into the small tent. A white-faced nurse held back the flap as they entered.

"Remove your hats, gentlemen," said the youth. The men took off their hats. The nurse came forward and stood beside a small tin basin. She took off the white cloth which covered it. Beneath was the body of what had once been a child, colored dark brown from some process that had allowed it to retain its shape. Two heads protruded from the torso. The little feet were drawn up. A girl in the crowd took one look at the ghastly object, then turned away. The rest of the crowd lingered, awe struck, then passed silently out.

The nurse sighed. She was more tired than usual today. She wished the band would stop playing "Katherina." She didn't know why it made her so restless. And her stomach was upset again. It seemed to be in a constant state of nauses, anyway, since she took on this job. A sudden desire for something tart—sauerkraut perhaps—assailed her. She went slowly out of the tent, casting an envious look at the Fiji snake-charmer as she went.

The Pittsburgh baseball park, where some of the world's series baseball games will be played, is capable of accommodating nearly 50,000 spectators.

Which Man do You Feel Like?

Do you reckon your age in years?

There's really not much sense in it when you come to figure it out. Take two men of sixty, for instance. One, because he is fit and healthy, is as young in body and mind as a fellow of thirty. The other, who is always telling you about his maladies, has probably been an old man for the past twenty years.

Then again, look at it from this point of view. The "young" sixty has always got much more out of life than the "old" sixty, and may therefore be said to have lived longer. So, if we rely on the calendar, this question of age lands us in a hopeless muddle.

Scrap the calendar. The only question that matters is, How old do you feel? And the answer to that is to be found in the condition of your inner "works."

Keep the machinery going smoothly and the blood pure and virile, and you'll always feel young. The way to do that is to tip a tiny pinch of Kruschen Salts into your breakfast cup of coffee or tea every morning.— It's the little daily dimeful that does it.

THE VITAL SALTS

Because Kruschen is an ideal combination of the salts — potassium, magnesium, and sodium — that Nature demands for the body's perfect health, it does what no other preparation can do. Epsom and Glauber are single salts only, and therefore perform but a single function: they are aperients, and nothing more. But Kruschen, the one and only Kruschen, not only clears the body of all clogging waste matter that has been sapping your strength; it also purifies and invigorates the blood, and has a most wonderful tonic effect on the whole system, making you cheery, self-reliant, energetic, and healthy, ready to enjoy life to the uttermost.

Why, then, grow old before your time—a prey to rheumatism, gout, indigestion, depression, and general debility — when you have in Kruschen so simple a recipe for youth? You can get a 75c bottle at any druggist's. Get one to-day and start growing younger to-morrow.

Good Health for Half a Cent a Day

A 75c bottle of Kruschen Salts contains 160 doses—nearly enough for six months—which means bounding health for less than half a cent a day. The dose prescribed for daily use for adults is "as much as will lie on a 10 cent piece," taken in your breakfast cup of coffee or tea. Every druggist sells Kruschen. Get a 75c bottle to-day.
